The Prince of Wales started another career in yachting last summer when he appeared on the waterfront at Cannes, France, with a pleated cord belt fastened with a five-inch anchor. Dealers swamped with orders, rushed demands to Paris wholesalers for thousands of the belts. The Duke to the British Throne were the belt with a white sport suit.

Maxi Congress

Chancellor Hitler Receives Ovation At Nuremberg

Nurnberg.—Clanging bells and the wild cheers of a tremendous crowd greeted Chancellor Hitler as he arrived here by airplane to open the third nation-wide Nazi congress since establishment of the third reich. He was accompanied by Rudolf Hess, his deputy in the Nazi party.

Received by the burgomaster of this picturesque old city, Chancellor Hitler accepted the gift of a reproduction of Charlemagne's sword, emblematic of the glories of the German empire which collapsed in 1796.

The reichsfuehrer voiced his satisfaction at the new heights reached by the wermacht, which he characterized as the symbol of Germany's regained strength and freedom.

Bernardo Attolico, new Italian ambassador at Berlin, was the only foreign diplomat to accept an invitation to attend the congress. All other diplomats stationed in Germany declined the invitation. Unofficial reports said they took the view that the party and the reich are separate entities, and that the congress was a purely domestic institution.

Would Restore Monarchy

Plan Is Made For A New Regime In Greece

Athens.—Premier Panayoti Tsaldaris, leader of the Liberal Reform government, issued a proclamation, urging the people to vote for the restoration of the monarchy.

The proclamation came after a night which saw tension between republicans and royalists develop into an open fight outside the doors of the cabinet chambers, with the boycotting royalist republican leaders by monarchist guards.

After deploring the night's events, Premier Tsaldaris' proclamation said:

"I consider democratic republic as the natural regime for Greece and with the people to vote for it in the impending plebiscite."

Probe Coal Industry

Investigation To Get Under Way In Alberta Soon

Edmonton.—Investigation into Alberta's coal industry will get under way almost immediately, with Sir Montague Allen sitting as a one-man commission, instead of a three-man commission proposed by the old U.F.A. government, acting Premier Manning announced following a conference between Sir Montague and Hon. C. C. Ross, minister of lands and mines. Dates and places of sitting will be announced shortly.

The investigation will proceed as otherwise scheduled and be carried on until completed. All phases of the coal industry will be considered in an effort to improve production, marketing and conditions.

Manitoba Air Mail

Huge Quantities Of Mail Carried In Winnipeg Postal District

Winnipeg.—Close to a quarter of a million pounds of mail were carried by aircraft in the Winnipeg postal district since Dec. 10, 1934, when air mail service to the mining districts of Manitoba and western Ontario was inaugurated, it was announced by W. F. Lough, director of postal services.

The heaviest route during the period ended Dec. 10 was the Winnipeg-Central Manitoba route, with 81,-329 pounds. Manitoba's three routes accounted for a total of 131,616 pounds, and Ontario's five for 109,-272 pounds. The contractors are Canadian Airways.

Mountain Climbers Have Narrow Escape

Hung Over Cliff Edge To Avoid Avalanche Of Rocks

Tiflis, Russia Three mountain climbers moved themselves from an avalanche of stones by hanging over the edge of a cliff for 11 hours

When the avalanche started, the three men tied themselves by ropes to a bit of solid rock and lowered themselves over the sides of the cliff. Eleven hours later, when the rocks had ceased popping out over them, the trio climbed back to safety. The injured climbers were ascending Mount Mahar, 12,800 feet high

Volumes Missing For 41 Years Returned To Prince Albert Hall

When the 3rd annual Athletics Ch. Hi. Hall of Prince Albert returned he had lost to Greenland 41 years ago when a member of Admiral Peary's 1865-94 North Pole expedition, turned up recently in the mail.

The ex-explorer enclosed a parcel of books awaited him at the customs office. On opening the parcel he discovered the two volumes of Stanley's "In Darkest Africa," which he had read during the long Arctic night while the Peary party waited to begin the futile dash for the North Pole.

They had been discovered among Peary's effects and forwarded by the admiral's daughter, Mrs. Edwin Stafford, of Washington, D.C.

Large Sum For Relic

Pussy Horn Belonging To King Canute Sold In London

Symbolizing the holding of land by the tenure of the horn, or cornage, the Pussy Horn, a remarkable relic of King Canute was sold recently in London for $8,500. It was a heirloom of the Pussy family. In 1865 there was a dispute in the courts for the possession of the Pussy Horn. It was produced and identified as the one by which Canute conveyed the manor of Pussey (Berkshire) 700 years before The horn was the alarm to be given on the arrival of the King's escort. It will go into a private collection of antiquets.

DECIDE AGAINST USE OF MILITARY OR NAVAL FORCE

Geneva.—Economic and financial sanctions will be voted against Italy by the council of the League of Nations, Hawas learned on the highest authority, should Mussolini reject a compromise now being worked out by the five-power committee and resort to war in defiance of the covenant.

France has definitely decided to support the application of article 16 of the covenant, authorizing sanctions, if it is involved in case of aggression, as it will be. Enough small powers are behind France and Great Britain, which has consistently advocated such action in the last resort, to assure its victory.

It will take an unanimous vote of the league council to invoke sanctions, apart from the disputants themselves.

Delegates from the Netherlands, Belgium and Sweden, which at Geneva is considered to be speaking for the whole Scandinavian bloc, before the assembly all declared themselves firmly in favor of the British stand that the covenant must be upheld and all members share the responsibility of maintaining peace

England has been won over to French opposition to the use of naval and naval sanctions, which might easily provoke a European war. She has definitely decided not to use her navy to close the Suez canal against Italian military traffic.

Unanimous support of the compromise to be proposed by the conciliation committee may not be necessary, it was learned. If it is approved by a majority of the council delegates it will be presented to Italy and Ethiopia. Acceptance by the latter country is taken for granted. If Italy refuses, and begins aggressive action in East Africa, the council w ll be called into special session to vote sanctions.

It is understood the agreement on economic and financial sanctions and abandonment of military and naval sanctions was reached in conversations between Pierre Laval, French premier and foreign minister, and Sir Samuel Hoare, British foreign secretary.

Winter Feeding Of Cattle

Abundance Of Feed In Most Parts Of Saskatchewan

Saskatoon, Sask.—"Renewed interest in the winter feeding of cattle is inevitable," J. D. Dodd, agricultural agent of the Canadian National Railways for Saskatchewan, says. Excellent returns secured by the few venturesome feeders last year and an abundance of feed in most parts of the province, make such interest certain.

Feeder cattle are likely to be considerably higher in price this fall as some stock recently has been contracted to the United States at prices from $3.50 to $3.75, Mr. Dodd observed. The spread between buying and selling price was not likely to be as wide as last year, but in previous years returns have had mental profits to efficient feeders.

German Loan Fails

Negotiations For Loan From British Interests Have Collapsed

London.—German attempts to obtain a large loan from British interests have failed, it was authoritatively learned here

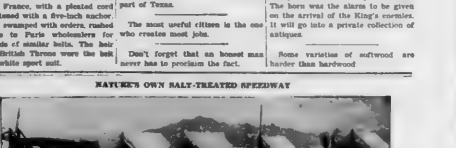
The credit sought between (£12,000,000 and £15,000,000 (approximately $58,500,000 and $73,000,000), it was said in reliable financial circles A bank known in the city for its German connections tried to obtain the loan for the German government, but negotiations collapsed.

Starts On Return Trip

Ottawa.—Canada's Arctic outposts may now settle down to another year's isolation from the world except for the wireless messages that trickle through over the ice-bound spaces. The Arctic supply ship Nascopie having completed its annual visit to the northern posts to now southward bound on the return trip.

May Have Private Army

Vienna.—The constitutent congress of the new Zionist organization has voted to establish an armed "Jewish legion"—an international army—to combat oppression of Jewish people throughout the world. Several delegates insisted "private armies" to serve special needs are the fashion in Europe, and "the Jews need a defence also."



While Canadian engineers and research scientists have been working out methods of creating a highway surface used by tractors with caterpillar mail, the world's most famous race-drivers have turned to natural all-tracks and speedways for their world record attempts. INTERIM CREDIT FOR ALBERTA UNTIL END OF OCT.

Ottawa.—A loan of $2,250,000 was negotiated between Premier Aberhart of Alberta and the federal government. It will carry the western province until the end of October, when negotiations toward a total advance of $12,280,000 will be opened with the next government.

Premier Aberhart said he was satisfied with the interim credit after a final conference with Premier Bennett, Finance Minister Rhodes and treasury officials. He asked for $12,280,000, which he believed was necessary to carry Alberta safely through its present fiscal year, which ends March 31, 1936. Premier Bennett took the attitude he should not bind the next government and agreed to advance enough money to carry the province until the end of October. A further application for financial assistance will be made then.

The Alberta premier expected to leave for Toronto where he will seek co-operation of bankers in establishing the Social Credit financial system.

Following the conference, the two premiers issued the following statement:

Premier Aberhart and Attorney-General Hoglll of Alberta met a committee of the federal cabinet. Mr. Aberhart made it clear that he was not seeking assistance for any plans of a political or social nature. Before or for the purpose of carrying into effect any of his policies. He merely desired to deal with financial matters between Alberta and the Dominion beyond the end of October for them to meet the normal requirements of the province.

Each relief applicant in the province, when he applies for his allowance next month, will have to answer 40 questions He will have to describe what work he is fitted for, what he has done and would be able to do and whether he is physically fit to handle a job

Wheat Crop Estimate

Yield For Three Prairie Provinces Placed At 272,000 000 Bushels

Ottawa.—Canada's wheat production for this year is estimated at 290,-841,000 bushels, comprising 277,374,-000 bushels of spring wheat and 13,-361 000 of fall wheat. The estimate was announced by the Dominion Bureau of statistics. The crop for the three prairie provinces is estimated at 272,000.000.

The prairie crop includes 16,000,-000 bushels of Durum wheat and about 60,000,000 bushels of common wheat, so shrunken by rust or frost as to be unfit for milling.

The total wheat crop for the prairies in 1934 was 283,800,000 bushels. This year's crop is therefore 6,300,000 above that of last year.

The total wheat crop for all Canada for this year was 290,841,000 bushels, 14,682,000 less than this year's crop

For the three prairie provinces the preliminary estimates of total production in 1935, compared with 1934 in brackets are, in bushels: Wheat, 272,000 000 (263,800 000); oats, 296,-000 (414,000,000); barley, 73,036 000 (44,742,000); rye, 12,048,000 (4,381,-000); flaxseed, 1,530,000 (827,000).

Relief Census In B.C.

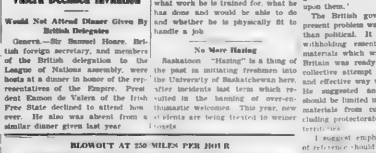
Victoria.—British Columbia government's new relief census will be taken in October, planned to give authorities a complete check on the capabilities of every unemployed person in the province

Each relief applicant in the province, when he applies for his allowance next month, will have to answer 40 questions He will have to describe what work he is fitted for, what he has done and would be able to do and whether he is physically fit to handle a job

Valera Declined Invitation

Would Not Attend Dinner Given By League Of Nations

Geneva.—Sir Samuel Hoare, British foreign secretary, and members of the British delegation to the League of Nations assembly, were hosts at a dinner in honor of the representatives of the Dominions Present Eamon de Valera of the Irish Free State declined to attend however, it was learned. He was absent from a similar dinner given last year



Death almost stopped Sir Malcolm Campbell, British speed ace, from making his new world automobile speed record of 301 miles per hour, when his left front tire of the Bluebird blew out while the racer was travelling 250 miles an hour. Ethiopian Women May Fight

Emperor Accepts Offer Of Legion To Go To Front

Addis Ababa.—Emperor Haile Selassie has accepted the offer of a women's legion to go to the front and fight for Ethiopia in the event of hostilities with Italy.

The women, part of an organization called "For Love of Country," with a membership of several thousands and branches throughout the country, were dressed in natty uniforms—red capes, khaki breeches leather puttees. They were armed with automatic pistols and mediaeval rabres.

The head of the African amazons' organization is Madame Wayzaro Abebeth Charkore, a wealthy home owner, who abandoned her home land and riches to defend Ethiopia She is 24 years old.

BRITAIN STANDS BEHIND LEAGUE ITALY IS TOLD

Geneva.—Great Britain stands unreservedly by the covenant of the League of Nations, the league assembly was told. Sir Samuel Hoare, foreign secretary, was cheered as he addressed the league assembly. "The attitude of His Majesty's government," he declared, "has always been one of unswerving fidelity to the league and all it stands for."

The present dispute between Italy and Ethiopia was no exception. "The recent response of public opinion shows how completely the nation supports the government in full acceptance of the obligations of league membership," said Sir Samuel.

Great Britain supported the league from no selfish nor imperialist motive. The British government and the British people maintained support of the league as the most effective means of securing peace.

But collective security meant more than what are commonly called sanctions. "It means also and above article 16 but the whole covenant. It assumes scrupulous respect for all treaty obligations Its foundation is a series of fundamental obligations freely accepted by members of the league to submit any dispute which to lead to war to peaceful means of settlement."

One thing was certain, he added pointedly: If the burden of obligations under the covenant had to be borne it must be borne collectively "If risks for peace are to be run, they must be run by all.

"On behalf of His Majesty's government in the United Kingdom I can say they will be second to none in their intention to fulfill within the measure of their capacity the obligations which the covenant lays upon them."

The British government felt the present problem was economic rather than political. It was the fear of withholding essential economic raw materials which was causing alarm Britain was ready to share in any collective attempt to deal in a fair and effective way with the difficulty He suggested an inquiry "which should be limited in the case to the Powers" materials from colonial areas, including protectorates and mandated territories.

I suggest emphasis in the terms of reference should fall upon the free distribution of such raw materials among the industrial nations which require them on all fear of exclusion or monopoly may be removed once for all

In his conclusion Sir Samuel said The league stands and my country stands with it for collective maintenance of the covenant in its entirety, particularly for steady collective resistance to all acts of unprovoked aggression. The attitude of the British nation in the last few weeks has been entirely satisfactory It is no variable and unreasonable sentiment but a principle of international conduct to which they and their government hold with firm enduring universal determination."

The league secretariat said If evil there was at first could be dispelled with a much greater effort now that the economic questions that often matter as much more in the modern world that political problems

The league secretary asserted the spirit of war even perhaps of war fear, it was said has raised its head in many places than ever asking that from the growing fear of huge armaments are increasing even in Britain therefore a vicious circle of insecurity has been set up

Prolonged applause welcomed Sir Isaac's firm declaration as he finished packed up his manuscript and descended to the floor

Deadly Mine Blast

Sixteen Miners Meet Death In Yorkshire Colliery

Barnsley, Yorkshire, England.—Trapped behind a wall of flame, 16 miners met an agonizing death and nine others were burned seriously after an explosion rocked the North Gawber colliery here.

The deadly blast roared through a 200-yard gallery in the mine, cutting off the men working at the far end.

One of the survivors, Donald Brook, who escaped with his clothing burned away, described it graphically.

"I was working just below the place where the explosion occurred," he said. "Suddenly there was a boom My electric torch was blown out of my hand and I was flung down in the darkness.

"A cloud of choking coal dust blew down the workings and everything was shaken out I never thought I'd get out alive

"Our lamps were useless." said Brook. "In the thick dust we groped around We found a crawling man and assisted him to the bottom of the pit. There we returned to the danger area. Although gas made breathing difficult we reached a number of others and dragged one who was severely injured, to safety on a piece of matting."

Later 15 of the bodies were brought to the surface The rescue party after a long struggle went home to rest.

ALBERTA GOVERNMENT TO GIVE ASSISTANCE TO EXHIBITORS AT "ROYAL"

Alberta government will once again assist seed grain exhibitors at the Toronto Royal Fair and Chicago International this fall. For the Toronto fair, entry fee and shipping route to Toronto will be paid on approved exhibits in classes for registered or certified seed, also on boys' and girl's club exhibits. Return shipping costs will not be paid. Entry fees must be paid first by the exhibitors and will be refunded on presentation of receipts. No assistance will be given in the regular open classes.

At Chicago International hay and grain show, where sheaves and such an outstanding record in awards for the past 15 years the government will pay the shipping costs on approved exhibits. Prize money in the regular grain sections at that show won by Alberta exhibitors will be duplicated by the provincial government in the case of one or more silver prizes or championships being taken, a special bonus of $50 will be granted, which will be increased to $100 in the case of championships in wheat oats or barley. The provincial field crops branch will as far as possible supervise the arrangements for the exhibits. The exhibits in seed grain are to be prepared in time to be forwarded to Chicago by freight.

On those going by express, half the cost only will be borne by the government.

BOARD OF TRADE NOTES

Constable Broadway, who is relieving Corporal Olsen at this point was present and introduced to the gathering by Mr Kaiser.

There was considerable discussion regarding the parking recommendations to the town council. The committee in charge of these proposals undertook to note and consider the additions.

Jo Bell advocated that the council lees in charge should be asked to see that a brush snow fence is erected along the new south road in two places where the snow will drift badly.

The secretary was instructed to write to the department relative to steps that were being taken for the relief of those farmers in this and adjacent districts who were hailed out during the summer, and thus lost all their means of livelihood. The Board has been very active in this connection but as there has been a change in government the members wanted to make sure that the matter is not being overlooked by the new administration.

The attendance showed an increase over the two previous luncheons, 21 being present. J. F McBride was named to act as chairman for the next meeting

Flour Mill Celebrates Its Silver Jubilee

It was in January 1910 that the present owner, W. R. Wiebe, interviewed the Town Council at a special meeting held on behalf of Wiebe and Son, located at Langham Sask., with a proposition to establish a Flour Mill in this town.

The proposition was promptly accepted, and building operations were started in the early summer. On the 15th of October of that year, the mill started operating, the first load of wheat being supplied by Arthur Paape.

At that time P. Wiebe, father of the present owner, managed the business here, while W. R. was in charge of their Lanaram plant. During the fall of 1912 the partnership of Wiebe and Son was dissolved and W. R. moved his family here and has operated here ever since.

In 1922 Mr. Wiebe had his mill completely remodelled in keeping with modern milling methods known at that time. But as new discoveries are being made in all lines of endeavor, Mr. Wiebe very appropriately chose his 25th year in business here, to again remodel his plant. The work being in charge of John Wiebe, Miller and Millwright of international fame, who has been in charge of the firms' Myrnam Mill for the past five years, and now will be in charge here

One of the features very noticeable to the layman is that he has moved his flour and feed packers up to the second floor, which enables him to take in grain and make deliveries at the same time, one not interfering with the other. This will be a great convenience to customers, as formerly in lifting the full packages going down a chute directly in to the truck or wagon

Mr. Wiebe now has associated with him, his two sons, Art and Orlando and in future the firm will go under the name of W. R. Wiebe & Son

As already mentioned this firm also own and operate a modern 125 bbl flour mill at Myrnam Alta. built in 1929.

Farmers! Interesting Hammermill Demon'n

The local Case implement dealers the C. & R. Service garage have arranged for two interesting demonstrations of the new Case Hammermill. These demonstrations will be held on Wednesday the 2nd at C. & R. Service garage Wilson block at 2 p.m. and at Lamont on the same day, the possibilities of the new hammermill will be shown on Sichewch's farm, north of town. The feature will be overlooked in the demonstrations and all spectators are invited.

Ask the local dealers for the complete details, as he will explain these necessary machines they will be glad to supply all information possible and to no obligation on you.

The New Hammermill is now on display in the C. & R. garage window

ELEVEN DEGREES FROST THURSDAY MORNING

Rain and Snow Hold Up Threshing in District

The heaviest frost of the season was registered here on Thursday morning when 21 above or 11 degrees of frost was recorded on the standard thermometer as it was present at the time. Much damage was taken off a cash crop as the potatoes suffered.

Monday morning of this week 7 inches was registered.

Considerable weather [illegible] from Friday to Monday night. Rain then commenced in a steady drizzle. This continued all day and on Wednesday morning snow flurries set in during the day. The weather early in the evening and the hours from the night might tend to produce settled weather, again.

Threshing made fine headway over the week end but has been held up all week.

The World In Danger

As week succeeds week the possibilities of war between Italy and Eth.opia grow nearer to certitude and the situation becomes fraught with alarming menace, not merely to the two countries involved but to other countries and possibly the whole civilized world.

With the Italian representatives rejecting, one after another, proposals which are being made almost daily by committees of the League of Nations and interested powers in the hope of averting an outbreak of hostilities, and Emperor Haile Sellassie refusing to accept any compromise which would result in the surrender of the independence of his kingdom, the situation becomes more and more gloomy, and the gloom deepens with the active preparations which are being prosecuted by Mussolini and the belligerence with which he is whipping his countrymen into a warlike attitude.

Statement of the leading nations of the world and international authority appear to be in complete accord with the general consensus of world opinion that such a conflict would not be confined to Italy and Ethiopia, but that other nations would be dragged into the fray and that it is even likely to lead to a general conflagration which would result in misery and suffering to mill.ons and loss of life and property on an even greater scale than the Great War of 1914-18.

Indeed, there are authorities who see in the present situation a potential destruction of civilization itself This view is supported by the Committee on International Law of the Canadian Bar Association, which in a report to the Canadian Bar Association convention in Winnipeg recently spoke of "the consequences to the world and Canada of an actual resort to arms" as probably "catastrophic in the sense that it may include the destruction or profound modification of many of the institutions upon which civil.sation is based"

Again in the same report, the committee dealt with the conduct of Italy as indicating that government a unwillingness to accept decisions of the Council of the League of Nations, of which she is a member, in the following words

"If that attitude persists the world may be faced with a complete breakdown of the system of public law and order which was supposed to have been permanently established by the sacrifices of the years 1914 to 1918.

"The question as whether or not the peoples of the world will permit their governments to agree on some joint action or whether by united action, they will, as they undoubtedly can, insist upon the observance of the public law upon which the continuance of our present civilization may depend

"It is our conviction that the peoples of the world can avoid the catastrophe by united action refers to the powers which the member countries of the League vested in themselves when they approved Article 16 of the covenants, to which all members have solemnly agreed, agreeing to impose financial and economic sanctions as a punitive measure against any member who breaks the covenants and commits an act of aggression against any other country

In view of the menace of the situation the importances of these powers become paramount. They are contained in the first and third paragraphs of Article 16 and read as follows

"(1) Should any Member of the League resort to war in disregard of its covenants under Articles 12, 13 and 15, it shall, ipso facto, be deemed to have committed an act of war against all other members of the League which hereby undertake immediately to subject it to the severance of all trade relations, the prohibition of all intercourse between their nationals and nationals of the covenant-breaking State, and the prevention of all financial, commercial or personal intercourse between the nationals of the covenant-breaking State and the nationals of any other State, whether a Member of the League or not."

"3. The Members of the League agree, further, that they will mutually support one another in the financial and economic measures which are taken under this Article, in order to minimize the loss and inconvenience resulting from the above measures, and that they will mutually support one another in resisting any special measures aimed at one of their number by the covenant-breaking State, and that they will take the necessary steps to afford passage through territory to the forces of any Members of the League which are co-operating to protect the covenants of the League"

It is not perhaps generally known that the onus of deciding whether an act of aggression or incident is to be construed as "an act of war" within the meaning of the covenants is left with each individual member to decide. A clause was drafted some years ago vesting the decision with the Council but this has never been ratified by the League

However, once a member has decided that some act or incident is an "act of war" it has no alternative, under the covenants, but to proceed with the measures outlined in Article 16. Otherwise, that country has itself violated the covenants

With the onus of interpretation of an "act of war" left upon each individual member, the importance of the general public being fully posted on events as they transpire, can readily be understood, and in the final analysis, it is the people of each country involved who are in the position to direct matters, to decide what part their country shall play in the efforts to avert a major catastrophe.

800 Tons Of Rock Breaks Loose At Niagara Falls

With an thundering roar, 800 tons of rock broke loose from the cliff on the American side below the lower bridge at Niagara Falls, at a point where 200 tons fell last April

Huge boulders and shale were piled high on the tracks of the International Railway gorge line, and traffic was suspended The railway tracks were lifted from the roadbed and pushed to the brink of the gorge One pole carrying power lines was moved by the avalanche of rock and mud

Officials stated it would take considerable time to clear the railway track of the present fall.

A Great Astronomer

Dr. Anna Cannon Has Classified Over 400 000 Stars

That astronomy is not so much a science that the average man would not be interested were information readily available, is the opinion of Dr Anne J. Cannon, of Harvard, who was in Toronto as a delegate to the American Astronomical Society's convention.

For 50 years Dr. Cannon has been gazing through telescopes and the mystery of the heavens has no great a thrill for her as ever. Dr. Cannon is the most famous woman astronomer in the world, and she has shared with Madame Curie of France and others equally famous the honor of receiving the Ellen Richards' prize for outstanding work by women in research.

She was the last recipient of the prize, which was founded to encourage women in study science. But because it was felt women no longer needed encouragement to enter, it was discontinued. Dr. Cannon has continued it, however, for women in astronomy. It is called after her now and it goes to women astronomers.

The prize was given Dr. Cannon for classification of stars exceeding that by any other person in the world, over 400,000 Harvard is now a mecca for astronomers all over the world for the best astronomical observations of spectra.

An Intricate Problem

Joining Of Steel Plates On Liner Queen Mary Requires Study

Completion of the Cunard White Star liner Queen Mary has been complicated by reason of the fact that the ends of her steel plates are exactly the same, according to reports from the shipyard at Clydebank, Scotland. They are not curved, and many of them are more than 35 feet long, 6 feet wide and more than an inch thick. Few are really flat.

The joining of the plate so that each river bank will be perfectly matched at the corresponding hole is an intricate problem, and more than 10,000,000 such pairs of holes must be matched and joined accurately, at least six others adjoining it, creating a problem of arrangement that has required the study of a large engineering staff.

A large half-model of the ship has been built out on a loft floor at the shipyard, furnishing an accurate picture of the successive rows of plates and showing how they are to be joined to the details of construction which are carried out on a larger scale on the ship itself—New York Times.

Greatest Russian Scientist

Has Done Much To Extend Study Of Nervous System

Both Tsarist and Bolshevist Governments have delighted to honor the great Russian scientist, Prof. Ivan Pavlov, says the News of the World. He now living has done more to extend the study of the nervous system of men and animals, and particularly knowledge of the connection between brain and digestion He was awarded the Nobel Prize for this work as long ago as 1904. Last year, when he was 85, the Soviet Government spent £10,000 on equipping a laboratory for him. It now pays the old man, who was the son of a poor village priest, £2,000 a year, and, according to H. G Wells, he is the only man who dare answer Stalin back.

Gas Test Well

Great Activity Shown In Hudson Bay Junction Territory

Amalgamated Oils Ltd. brought in the fourth gas test well on the Kakwa structure recently. The flow was encountered at 275 feet, the same level at which gas was found in other oil and gas wells a report from Hudson Bay Junction.

The four holes have been drilled largely with a view to securing geological data on the structure, which is very large. A test for oil somewhere in the Peace hills is now considered justified.

It was stated unofficially that Elk Resources Development Development Company, Ottawa, intended shipping a rig to Hudson Bay Junction and drilling for oil on the structure where the Trail Blazer Company put down a hole last year. This structure is near Hudson Bay Junction and quite distinct from the Kakwa structure, 25 miles distant.

Sounds Like Good Scheme

Husbands Left Alone During Holiday Will Be Looked After

A scheme is being mooted in Old London to meet the needs of that unfortunate section of humanity—the husbands whose better halves have gone on ahead on their holidays, or who are staying another fortnight longer. Most husbands have this experience now and again. They fix up meals somehow, make the bed just before friend wife comes back, and use up all the socks in the drawer pending her return to darn them.

The idea is that a catering firm will provide breakfast and evening dinner, put it in the refrigerator overnight, charging so much a week for the service. Hubby just leaves a note suggesting what he would like and the thing is done. Thermos containers will keep the food warm. And what's more the company will do the dish washing.

Another branch of the service is waiting. Socks are to be left in a bag, collected, and returned next day, washed and mended.

Perhaps wifey may not like this notion. One of the greatest satisfactions she gets out of her holiday is the thought that hubby is putting up with so much discomfort that he will realize how much he depends upon her and will appreciate her all the more when she comes back.—St. Thomas Times-Journal.

Land Was Disappeared

No Trace Can Be Found Of Property

H. Sailer of San Francisco was surprised recently to find a lot on which he had been paying taxes for over 30 years had disappeared.

Seller went to Victoria, B.C., to secure a title of a piece of property in Esquimalt, left to him by his father. He visited the land registry office and real estate operators both there and in Esquimalt, but could find no trace of the property.

His father came to the coast about 50 years ago, and, becoming interested in Victoria real estate, purchased the land which he left to his son on his death. The son, who advised to hold the property as a drydock was to be built at Esquimalt which would increase its value. He let the land go at a tax sale and bought it back again.

The only explanation he can give now is that the property must be under water. It is said the matter had settled by the payment by the municipality of the amount paid for the land by Sellers at the tax sale.

Huge Cliff Demolished

Blasting In Scotland Dislodges 250,000 Tons Of Granite

One of the greatest blasting operations in Scotland was successful recently when a cliff over 1,000 feet high and stretching 400 feet across the face of Ben Dhurruich, near Dunoon, was "demolished" by gunpowder. A signal was flagged from a tiny island in Loch Etive. At this a man standing on a hill immediately under a protective rock ledge in a forest 500 yards away, pushed down the lever of a dynamo, and the cliff tumbled into a myriad fragments. Powder fumes and granite dust rose in a cloud 2,000 feet high. In this second there was crowning triumph for men who had planned for the last four years to destroy the cliff and by the bursts of a few charges had been gained for industry 1,000,000 tons of granite. The success of the blasting, which cost £30,000 to carry out, means that 400 quarrymen will be given work for six years.

Plenty Left

The play had reached its climax. There were tears in the eyes of the audience, for the villain had just kidnapped the heroine. The hero then came on the stage to find his sweetheart gone. Clutching hold of the table with trembling hands he cried out loudly: "She is gone! She is gone! What is left for me?"

Somewhere in "the gods" the shrill voice of the new mine boy cried:

"Plenty, chewing-gum, chocolate and ice-cream!"

Massed Landing Of Troops Practiced In Military Manoeuvres

Soviet military strategists dropped an army from the sky recently as they practiced their latest war manoeuvres mass landing of fully-equipped troops with parachutes. Bearing tanks and machine guns, the jumpers landed behind "enemy" lines, formed ranks quickly and bore down on an opposing airforce.

Whole regiments, landing from the skies, succeeded in capturing the airdrome, but later came to theevrial grief. When they used the airdrome as a base from which to attack enemies overland to attack the main "enemy" forces from the rear, they were met by a quickly mobilized defence force which, with the aid of tanks and armored trains, "annihilated" them.

Advice For Everyone

Doctor Says People With Colds Should Be Isolated

Isolate yourself. This is the advice of Dr. Gordon P. Jackson, M.O.H., of Toronto, who remarks that people do not consider colds with sufficient seriousness. The common cold, he points out, is responsible for greater financial loss to business than any other single disease

"The common cold is highly communicable," he says. "And the change from the nice weather to the cold nights we now have, lowers the average individual's resistance"

Battered By Storm

Nova Scotia Schooner Weathers Fierce Gale, English Coast

Plymouth, England.—Further details of the violent storm which battered the Nova Scotia schooner Bluenose were told here.

She had 10 passengers aboard at the time, but there were no injuries. Two of the women were injured. Miss M. A. Aubrey of Cowes was knocked unconscious for several hours when the heavy cabin skylight swung over a sudden lurch. Mrs. Hamilton Cox, wife of an Indian army officer, received an injury to one eye.

Two of the crew, Henry Burke and Alfred Conlon, were washed overboard in the height of the storm. They owed their lives to His Hose with which they were hauled back on deck.

Largest Voting List

Ottawa Ottawa West has the largest number of voters on the list of any single federal constituency in Canada. The total is 26,177. St. James, Montreal, comes second with 24,769 and Spad na, Toronto, third with 23,189 Halifax has 20,348 on the lists but that is a two-member constituency.

ACUTE SITUATION IS SEEN IN NAVY MOBILIZATION

London.—A "powder keg" situation in the Mediterranean, becoming rapidly more dangerous because of Italian and British naval developments, was reported by foreign military observers.

There is purpose, they declared, behind the mobilization of the battleships, aeroplanes and troops of both countries within the Mediterranean and its environs.

Reuters News Agency reported an official defence proclamation at Gibraltar advised the public to lay in a supply of candles because, "in the event of certain emergencies it may prove necessary to extinguish all lights throughout Gibraltar."

The basis was being laid in the Mediterranean for the outbreak of a tribe naval warfare in world history.

From the coast of southern England to the Straits of Gibraltar, a distance of 1,500 miles, steamed to the accompaniment of a British war drum, the theatre of naval warfare since the Achaens besieged Troy.

The Italian navy is massed on either side of the long peninsula that lies between the Tyrrhenean and Adriatic seas and stretches down toward Africa.

On the African and European coasts, cannon, howitzers, heavy artillery are taking their position.

Because the Mediterranean is narrow and because of the constrictions, any big scale warfare would involve engines of destruction which never have been unleashed. Which fleet of aeroplanes, big guns of coastal artillery, cruisers that can move at more than 40 miles an hour, anti-aircraft guns whose projectiles explode when touched, all would be used.

The British fleet, latest reports placed at 140 vessels, large, two battle cruisers, three aircraft carriers, nine cruisers, six submarines, nearly 60 destroyers, is the largest armada un to already in position at Alexandria, near the entrance to the Suez canal, or the Port Said—the entrance —Malta and Gibraltar.

Women Entering Contest

Twelve Have Already Been Nominated For Federal Campaign

Toronto.—With choice of candidates in the Dufferin-Simcoe federal general election still not completed, there are nearly as many women in the field as there were in the 1930 and 1935 elections. Twelve women had been nominated to Sept. 15. The number is one less than total in the three elections of 1931, 1935, 1926 and 1930. It is more than double the 1930 list of women.

Women have been chosen so far in the Yukon and the provinces of British Columbia, Alberta, Saskatchewan, Ontario and New Brunswick. Ontario leads with six. Alberta, British Columbia and New Brunswick have one apiece. There are two candidates in Saskatchewan and Mrs. George Black, wife of the former speaker of the House of Commons, is Conservative candidate in the Yukon, a single-member constituency.

Except for Black all are Liberal or Liberal-Progressive candidates. Mrs. Black is the only Conservative candidate. Mrs. Agnes Macphail the women nominees represent either the C.C.F., which has named six or the Reconstruction party, whose nominations already include four women candidates.

Ethiopia Takes Precautions

Emperor Orders Storing Of Food Supplies For Ten Of Troops

Addis Ababa.—Emperor Haile Selassie ordered precautions taken to prevent Ethiopia from starving in the event of war.

For the first time in the history of the ancient empire the government made preparations to feed troops and civilians under a systematic organization of food supplies. These supplies are claimed already sufficient to maintain the army and the population for a year's campaign.

Hitherto armies in the field lived on towns and villages, devastating crops and levying upon householders, causing famine. Foreseeing the possibility a conflict might last longer than one year, authorities purchased large supplies of corn, barley and oat, a native grain.

These supplies are being stored in subterranean depots in all provincial centres. Here they are easily accessible to the army and the populace.

The public was ordered to grind cereals and bread most of it for its own use, selling the residue to the government for a fixed rate.

The Ethiopian soldier is said to be the easiest in the world to feed. He can live and fight on a handful of grain every 24 hours when on the theatre of naval warfare since the Achaens besieged Troy.

The Italian army is massed on either side of the long peninsula that lies between the Tyrrhenean and Adriatic seas and stretches down toward Africa.

Prince Under Treatment

Recurrence Of Old Ear Trouble Not Considered Serious

Vienna.—Prince of Wales is receiving treatment here for an old ear trouble, with which he was afflicted 20 years ago.

When the trouble recurred, the prince consulted a famous specialist, Professor Heinrich Neumann, who diagnosed it as an inflammation of the middle ear. It is neither dangerous nor painful, but the prince cancelled visits to Prague and Neumann and it is hoped the ailment will respond to treatment.

His Royal Highness is holidaying on the continent. He arrived here from Cannes.

Chinese Gang Arrested

Leaders Confess Victims Killed Because Ransom Was Demanded

Tientsin, China.—The arrest of a gang of 30 Chinese on kidnapping charges led to disclosures of cruelty authorities said had seldom been equalled in the annals of crime. Bodies of 10 supposed victims were found beneath floors of houses in various parts of the city.

Leaders of the gang confessed, police said, that they had immediately strangled the victims after they had been shipped. Ransoms were then demanded but the bodies were never returned

New Mercantile Flag

All German Merchant Vessels Ordered To Fly Swastika

Berlin.—The order has gone out to fly the swastika from all German merchant ships, beginning at once. The flag, the emblem and crew of the flagship "Hamburg" of the Hamburg-American line, ceremoniously raised the new flag on their vessel, solemnly swearing "loyalty until death" to the Nazi emblem.

Churchill Port Busy

Loaded With Wheat Leopold Starts On Second Trip

Churchill, Man.—A full cargo of the West's best wheat, 320,000 bushels, was poured down the chutes into the spacious holds of the ocean steamer Leopold for her second sailing for the 1935 season from Manitoba's northern seaport.

Twenty-four days after leaving from Churchill on her first trip, loaded with wheat for Antwerp, the Leopold docked here Sept. 17th and sailed on the 19th. Antwerp again her destination.

Heavy wheat movements from Churchill are expected shortly as vessels raced towards port to load the grain. The Pengreep, Westworth, Charles and Alma Dawson were due to arrive before the end of the month. It will be the Westworth's second trip this year.

The first new-crop grain was delivered in the elevator here Sept. 16th and graded No. 1 Northern.

Refugees Are Destitute

Nearly Million In World Have Fled In Tragic

Geneva.—Nearly one still nearly 1,000,000 refugees in the world—not counting thousands in North and South American and certain European countries, concerning whom no definite statistics are available.

Their fate, the political committee of the Council of the League assembly was told by Chairman Rudolph Kunstljuanski of Czechoslovakia, is tragic. Among them thousand in the neighborhood of Harbin in Manchuria alone are said to be in a state of almost complete destitution.

BRITISH ELECTIONS MAY BE DEFERRED UNTIL NEXT YEAR

London.—The Ethiopian crisis, it was reliably learned, has caused the National government to drop any idea of a general election before next spring, when it was generally expected to be held in any event.

Previously it had been considered that Prime Minister Baldwin would refer to the electorate when he addresses the annual convention of the Conservative party opening Oct. 4. Now it is believed he will defer action until even more momentous matters to discuss in his first statement of policy since the situation abroad became critical.

The convention, too, contrary to usual policy, is expected to divorce itself largely from internal politics and concern itself mainly with the country's position in regard to defence, which has long been agitati- Conservatives.

The Labor party, however, professes itself to be taking no chances over a sudden election. They have already endorsed 610 candidates, leaving only 105 seats uncovered of which even Labor regards 50 as hopeless from their viewpoint.

Dropped From The Sky

Massed Landing Of Troops Practiced In Military Manoeuvres

Soviet military strategists dropped an army from the sky recently as they practiced their latest war manoeuvres mass landing of fully-equipped troops with parachutes. Bearing tanks and machine guns, the jumpers landed behind "enemy" lines, formed ranks quickly and bore down on an opposing airforce.

Whole regiments, landing from the skies, succeeded in capturing the airdrome, but later came to theevrial grief. When they used the airdrome as a base from which to attack enemies overland to attack the main "enemy" forces from the rear, they were met by a quickly mobilized defence force which, with the aid of tanks and armored trains, "annihilated" them.

VERMILION — ALBERTA

ESTABLISHED 1909

Published every Thursday Afternoon at the Office, Main St.

E. R. P. COOPER — EDITOR.

Vermilion, Alta., Sept. 26, 1935.

The Board of Trade has started a commendable movement in making recommendations to the town council for the orderly parking and regulation of traffic in the town. There is a crying demand for this, especially on Saturday nights, but regulations are something which the general public have to be educated to, and the push of the traffic year, now with us, is hardly the time to introduce new road laws within the town. The various motors intended should be well studied and then instituted in the spring, just as the motor vehicles begin to appear in town again in any numbers. Some of the minor recommendations might well be tried out, namely, the providing of a handy corner for trucks to park, other than on the streets. There is little to hinder making public parking spaces on the two properties mentioned, between Stephens store and the Lee garage. These would be a start but the main changes would, in the opinion of the Standard, well left until spring. This paper strongly recommended in its editorial columns, last May, that some steps be taken immediately to regulate the motor traffic, especially that of trucks around the business blocks of the town, where traffic was congested

Placing of the forts as they owe them to the electorate of Canada, by aspiring politicians and others, appears to be the favorite calling at the present time. Certain facts should be brought to the light and power users of the town. There were 302 meters read with an output of $1,047.32, and when added to the balance outstanding as at August, of $3,106.38, thereby making a total of $4,063.70 due and payable. Of this total amount the sum of $1,274.04 had been paid at Sept. 24th, thus leaving $2,689.66 to be collected before the end of the month. Although this last amount is large, the average is not so great as would appear and should all be paid. It is in the interest of every user to pay up at once, as when the larger accounts accumulate during the long winter evenings difficulty will not be experienced in meeting those accounts. If, at the end of the month a very material reduction has not been made in unpaid accounts, the council would be well advised to discontinue service to unsatisfactory users.

DANGER—A Standard representative was surprised to see four boys all in their early 'teens, armed with three rifles and one shotgun, on their way down to the river in search of geese. Parties should realize that large groups, each with a gun, going out together in this fashion is an extremely dangerous practice and might easily result in a fatality. These boy groups are composed of young and naturally excitable boys. Two boys can just as soon get out of way when posted with rifles, but a party of four, all with firearms, seems like inviting disaster

THE JASPER HIGHWAY—Edmonton and Jasper have real reason to be pleased that the New Federal Cabinet government is in the chair at Ed monton. This government with the assistance of Premier Mr. Bennett has taken swift and definite action to complete the Jasper Highway This is something which both Edmonton and Jasper have been demanding for years—countless delegations have waited on the Minister of Public Works in connection with it and now the work has really started in a real effort to complete an all weather route to this scenic playground. The joke of the matter was an Ed monton Board of Trade delegation waited on the Minister of Public Works recently and spent considerable time and talk pressing for the completion of the work, not knowing that the case was gone into in detail when asked if he thought anything could be done on the road, the Minister of Public Works calmly informed the delegation that negotiations were completed and that gangs would be at work on the road at 8 a.m. the following Monday

The Standard acknowledges with thanks the gift of a wooden mallet from Mr. Jake Wagner. Jake passed this on to the Standard's mallet which in turn was a gift from the late Andrew Law and has been in use for many years. Way will all of this go? Will the present editor and other staff members of a past one. A wooden mallet is a very essential tool around a printing establishment.

NEW FILMS ON ALBERTA

New national park films for public showing have been added this week to the film library of the provincial publicity bureau, under the co-operative arrangement with the national parks department at Ottawa. Among those now included a number of films taken in Alberta last fall by the national parks department movie camera men. One of the films is entitled "Stalking Big Game", showing movies of the wild animal life in Jasper Park. Another film is "The Trail to Jasper", showing views of Edmonton and the trip to Jasper Park, and a fourth is a Skiing film taken at Lake Louis. The provincial bureau now has a library of some 22 films.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmore Stewart and Mr and Mrs. Melvin Hill were among those who attended the Lawson-Herrington nuptials at Amherstdale on Tuesday.

ISLAND HILL

It was a long and tedious session lasting from 2 p.m till 1 a.m. with a short interval for supper, at the S. C. Convention held at Wainwright on the 16th.

A pleasant surprise awaited us at the Convention, for we met there, for the first time that very capable reporter of the Standard's "Neighborhood Narratives". We want to say this, that the community in forwarding to have in their midst a representative of such ability, integrity and distinctiveness that your qualities possessed in a marked degree by our fellow scribe.

Eighteen candidates submitted themselves for the honor of representing Battle River riding at Ottawa. As a result of the first ballot, two were eliminated—Mr. Tytig and Mr. Lyrich —We returned an atrocious pun by asking the chairman did that mean the little tyke was cut out. Some delegate whom we overheard later in the evening relating the incident to a number of friends described us as a Scotchman. If that delegate happen to read these notes we want to say that we are not so far-gone as to be a Scotchman. Another incident. The secretary to the meeting was writing Vermilion on the candidates slate with two L's when a delegate told him that Vermilion was but enough with one L.

We renewed acquaintance with a number of old friends—Ollies from Morrison, Wade from St. Pats, Gildon from Islay, Pipe-Major Marshall from St. Andrews (who by the way did not forget to give us a pluck of his famous snuff) and last but not least McDonald who told us he was better known as the "Wild Irish man".

We should add that Rev. Mr. Mutchinson, who was elected President of the Battle River executive made a very capable chairman.

Mr. N. R. Snider represented Campbell Lake district at the Convention while Bill's Payne represented Poplar Heights.

ISLAY NEWS

Threshing is in full blast in this district and will be cleaned up very quickly, yielding good results. The yield is generally fair and grades are from No. 3 down. Yields report-ed to the paper so far vary up to 18 bushel per acre. Unfortunately the wood weather was of short duration.

Misses Muriel and Gladys Stone Mrs. H. McZitcherson, Catherine and Mary, motored to Viking on Saturday and spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Gurth.

Rally Service will be held in Kent United church next, Sept. 29. Special Rally services will be held at 11 a. m. and 7.30 p.m.

School re-opened on Monday of this week, after being closed as a measure of precaution against the spread of Infantile Paralysis.

Miss Rubina Brewster is home from the Camrose Normal school until the Institution re-opens on Sept. 30. This is also closed on account of the wave of Paralysis that is sweeping the province.

The first meeting of the W. A. of the United church for the fall months was held on Wednesday this week.

The Rhythm band will be held on Saturday afternoon at 2.30 in the Sr. school.

Sixteen Years Ago To-day

Interesting items gleaned from the Files of the Vermilion Standard
THIS DATE 19 YEARS AGO — 1919

H. Gidley, sales manager for the Nellis Hardware Co., has severed his connection with the firm, his position being filled by A. M. Dyke of Wetaskiwin.

The train bearing His Excellency, the Duke of Devonshire, the Duchess and Lady Dorothy Cavendish arrived at Vermilion Thursday afternoon last and was met by Mayor Morrison, members of the council and other officials. Over 300 school children were formed in front of the dias, where His Excellency was officially received. Several hundred people thronged the platform and other spaces. The children sang "O Canada". His Excellency expressed his pleasure at being able to make a brief visit to Vermilion and thanked them for the very warm reception accorded them. A pleasing feature of the visit was the presentation of beautiful bouquets to the Duchess and Lady Dorothy Cavendish by three little girls, Jean Craig, Nora Parker and Sonia Wesner, each of whom received gracious smiles from the recipients.

A Reasonable Request
Is gratitude numbered among the human virtues?
If so there should be some appreciation for the Wheat Pools in Western Canada today.
No organization has fought harder against the strongest kind of opposition
And all for the benefit of the grain growers of the west.
No organization has so courageously faced danger and even the threat of extinction
In order that the grain growers might not be sacrificed to greed and the arrogance of wealth and power.
Continuous criticism has been the lot of this farmer organization through the bitter years
In which it fought for the grain farmers.
Surely it is not asking too much to suggest that the grain farmers
Should give their patronage to Alberta Pool Elevators?
It is through deliveries of grain that this organization is kept strong and virile.
Won't you do your part? Every wagon load counts.

OBITUARY

LUCINDA WILLISTON ATKINSON

Lucinda Williston Atkinson, beloved wife of Norman William Atkinson of Vermilion, passed away in the Vermilion municipal hospital on Friday, September 20th, aged 71 years, 1 month and 1 day. She is survived by her husband; three sons, Charles Norman and Frank, and one daughter Pearle; three brothers, William, Vancouver, B.C.; Albert, Hayden, Colorado; Ernest, Portland, Maine; one sister Jennie, Manchester, N.H.; and eight grandchildren. Deceased had been in poor health for the past year and quite recently entered the hospital for treatment. She had resided in Vermilion and the district for the past twenty-nine years and was held in the highest esteem and affection by a very wide circle of old-time friends, who deeply regret her demise. The sorrowing husband and family have the deepest sympathy of the entire community in their bereavement.

The late Mrs. Atkinson was born in Shipton, Quebec on August 19th, 1864. She was married to Norman William Atkinson on September 25th, 1889. Their four children were all born in the city of Montreal where Mr. Atkinson held a position with the Grand Trunk railway. The family moved West in 1906 coming direct to Vermilion where a home was built. Mr. Atkinson has since been employed with the Canadian Northern for many years. A few years ago Mr. and Mrs. Atkinson and their youngest son, Frank, moved on to a farm north of town, but for the past year or so, owing to the declining health of Mrs. Atkinson, Mr. Atkinson and his wife again took up residence in their former home in the town.

The funeral was held on Monday last, September 23rd, services being held in the United church, the Rev. H. A. Boyd, pastor, assisted by Mr. Bowen student in charge of North Vermilion church, officiating. Interment was in the cemetery here. Among the hymns rendered at the funeral were the favorite hymns of the deceased. Nearer my God to Thee was sung. Interment took place in the Vermilion cemetery, the following acting as pallbearers: F. C. Long, W. P. Pilkie Q. C., Birmingombe, J. J. Peckenpaugh, Ed Wilson and James Hunt. Funeral arrangements were in charge of Mr. J. Waring.

Beautiful floral offerings were received from The Family, Female (Gran Francisco); Eunice, Vernon and Melvin. The Mead Family, Campbell Moore, Mr. and Mrs. W. Gordon and Family, Mrs. Geo. Mauga, Sr., Family, Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Long and Family, Mr. and Mrs. Hopkins and Family, Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Embleton, Howie and Gale, Mr. and Mrs. Irwin Enfield, Harry Martin and Family, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Dupre and Family and Mrs. Wilson and Jean.

CARD OF THANKS

Mr. Atkinson and Family wish to express to all the friends and neighbors their heartfelt thanks for the kindly help and sympathy extended to them in their recent bereavement, their appreciation to the Matron and Staff of the hospital and Dr. Ritchie and friends for the beautiful flowers received.

LEE HENRY CROSBY

The district of Brushfield is mourning the passing by another old-time Lee Henry Crosby, who passed away quickly at his home near Brushfield on Saturday afternoon September 21 at the advanced age of 80 years. His wife and sister of the deceased with him at the end.

An English descent Mr. Crosby was one of the early settlers in the district and by his passing with many in the community that can never be filled.

The funeral was held from the Holden Baptist church on Monday morning, the building being filled to capacity with neighbors and friends many of whom came from points a considerable distance to show their esteem for the family and respect to one who had lived among them so long a service was taken by the Rev. V. Brown who has been pastor of the district during the past two years and his thoughtful address will long be remembered by those present. Many beautiful floral tributes covered the casket as it was borne to its last resting place in the adjoining cemetery.

Mr. J. Waring of Vermilion was in charge of funeral arrangements.

CARD OF THANKS

Mrs. L. H. Crosby desires to express to thank all her friends and neighbors for the kindness shown and extended to her during the recent sickness and death of her husband.

Commemorate 60th Anniversary

Rev. W. Leversedge was in Edmonton on Monday and Tuesday where he attended the exercises in connection with the 60th anniversary of the establishment of the Anglican church in Alberta and of the 15th anniversary of the work in western Canada. Rev. Leversedge gave an address to a congregation gathered in the Poplar Lake church, 9 miles north of Edmonton, a little church built sixty years, one of the first in the district. In the congregation present in the historic church were, Most Rev. M. M. Harding, metropolitan of Rupert's Land, Bishop Keeney of Qu'Appelle Rev. Canon E. Pierce Goodhue Rev. G. Gower, Rev. Canon C. F. A. Cleugh and Ven. Archdeacon F. C. Cornish, who had just had an honorary doctorate of divinity conferred upon him in a ceremony in All saints' parish hall.

Rev. Mr. Leversedge was accompanied to Edmonton by his wife and daughter.

MINBURN

Threshing operations began here last Saturday. Jack Murphy, south of the town, was among the first to haul grain into town. His wheat was graded No 6 for which he was paid 75c. Some other farmers got No 5 wheat, feed. The oats were testing feasture about the grain this year the price is compared to other years. The price is good. Even feed is bringing 31½ cents per bushel.

Crops on the whole are good, and some farmers will be able to get away the seeds from the low-lying part of the fields and start their fall work first and leave the grain in the bins. grounds only to be threshed.

Football seems meeting at the Methodist Presbytery will convene in Minburn on October 2nd.

Mrs. Neil McEachern and family are leaving and the Misses Muriel and Gladys Stone called on friends in Minburn on their passed through town Tuesday on their way to their new residence the Burrish family in Viking.

ARCHIBALD STANISLAUS COUTT

Vanscoy was a sad community on Monday when word was received in Asbie Outt, of Lloydminster, that was at 1 minute general Wood Coutts had passed away at the home of some time it was said that he anything of a serious nature, and was looking to being nearly 70 years of family and friends and neighbors.

The deceased was born in 1872 in Scotland and came to Canada and practiced carpentry for many years and was a member of the Masonic order to Alberta and settled on a farm in the Vanscoy district where he resided for many years. He was also a member of the Vanscoy Masonic lodge and was held in high esteem by all who knew him.

The body was brought to Saskatoon on Monday and the funeral service was held in the Vanscoy church on Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock, Rev. Mr. Wood of the Vanscoy United church officiating. Interment was made in the Saskatoon cemetery.

The deceased is survived by his wife and two children, Mrs. Ernest Hall of Lloydminster and Archibald Coutt of Saskatoon, also by one brother, Alexander Coutt of Vanscoy, and one sister, Mrs. Wm. Hall of Saskatoon.

WORLD HAPPENINGS BRIEFLY TOLD

For the first time in the history of the Bombay high court, a microphone and amplifier has been put in use in one of the chambers.

Field Marshal Lord Allenby, who celebrated his 74th birthday on St George's Day, April 23, has an aviary stocked with many varieties of foreign finches.

A woman who cashed a cheque in an Edmonton bank wasn't taking any chances. The cheque read: "Pay to Mrs. ....., 13 Canadian dollars." She got them.

Father John Louis Stacey, 38, died at the wheel of his car in Edmonton as he drove to a city hospital to get treatment for a heart ailment. The car crashed into another parked machine.

Indicative of the rapid mechanization of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police not one saddle horse is stabled in the force's barracks at MacLeod, Alta. All animals formerly kept at southern Alberta detachments have been disposed of.

A few weeks ago Joseph Eckert, 15 collided with a buggy while riding his bicycle in Stratford, Ont. The shaft of the buggy went clear through the boy's body, an inch below the heart. Now he is up and around again almost as well as ever.

Two men were sentenced to five years' imprisonment for firing shots at processions of Orangemen on the streets of Belfast, July 12 They were Thomas Connolly and Joseph McDonald. Several persons were killed and wounded in the July riots

Vancouver is returning to a normal financial position better than any other city in Canada," Ald. C. E. Tisdal, chairman of the civic finance committee told the Retail Credit Grantors' Association in session in that city

Will Not Accept Legacy

English Woman Breaks Curse Laid On Ancestor

Because she dreads an Indian curse laid on one of her ancestors who, she believes, disrupted a banquet in Mr. J. Schofield, of Heswall, near Liverpool, England, refuses to touch a legacy left by her mother

Instead she will devote all the money to a religious cause, hoping that in this way the power of the curse will be broken.

Said Mrs. Schofield:

"We need the money badly, my husband and I, but I am afraid to touch it. It comes indirectly from my ancestor's estate My great-uncle was a low actor, engaged in Indian maharajah on December 13, 1864. It grew him jurisdiction over certain land on which was a temple dedicated to a vestal goddess.

"Two days later he was found in the temple stabbed to the heart with a jewelled dagger A piece of parchment with the curse written on it lay on the body

"Note the two dates—Dec. 13 and Dec. 15. My father died on the 13th of a month; my mother on the 15th. All atmosphere lying was a "practical impossibility."

Then they got up in the thin air, have to supercharge your motors and make the cabins air-tight, the cost seemed prohibitive," Turner said.

"The world will never see commercial flying in the stratosphere A medium will be established half way between the stratosphere and the present air lanes where commercial planes can operate most economically."

Cane Sugar Growers Worried

Afraid Best Cultivation In United Kingdom Will Ruin Industry

With the United Kingdom Government subsidizing beet sugar at home, the British West Indies and British Guiana are wondering what is to become of their cane sugar industries already depressed by low prices.

Barbados whose only possible crop for commercial purposes is cane, is particularly anxious to ascertain how far the Imperial Government intends to go with the cultivation of beets for sugar.

This island of 166 270 acres has 100 000 acres under cultivation, and of a population of 190 000 about 120,-000 colored people look to the sugar cane plantations for employment

Nearly all the planters are now in debt to the banks and are growing cane only in the hope of better times and in order to support the enormous working population.

Should they be obliged to abandon sugar the island would be penniless, it is said There would be no question of dole because all the colony's taxes come from the planters, and with their ruin the chief source of revenue would be shut off.

Some of the other islands with different vegetation have a better chance. Dominica, for example, is making up for sugar losses by devoting much land to cultivation of other crops, and has been successful this year with bananas grown under a supply contract for a Canadian company

Coached Popular Actor

Edmonton Man Taught Chevalier To Speak English

The man who taught Maurice Chevalier to speak English in a German prison camp at Allen Grahow, Germany, during the war lives in Edmonton to-day William King, who enlisted from Edmonton at the first of the war and spent his 17th birthday in the front line at Ypres when he became a pal of the French movie picture singer behind the electricity charged barbed wire of the prison camp

Captured during the first gas attack, he remained some time in a German hospital and then was placed in Allen Grahow camp. There he met Chevalier, the handsome young Frenchman

The bandsman and for nearly a year was his constant companion.

Unable to speak a word of English, Chevalier was coached by King to speak and sing in English. They even put on a musical show in the camp, the highest the local prison knew "Before Chevalier was repatriated he had mastered the language fairly well and was extremely grateful to us," King said.

Stratosphere Flight

Famous Flyer Says This Method Is Most Practicable

Col. Roscoe Turner, America's dashing exponent of the air who has formed the habit of rearing across the continent in a few minutes over the week-end, is very sold on mid-stratosphere flying was a "practical impossibility."

"Then you get up in the thin air, have to supercharge your motors and make the cabins air-tight, the cost seemed prohibitive," Turner said.

"The world will never see commercial flying in the stratosphere A medium will be established half way between the stratosphere and the present air lanes where commercial planes can operate most economically."

One Of Queerest Jobs

Man In Wasp-Catcher To Plem Of Insectivorous Plants

The News of the World, London, England's largest Sunday paper, has the world is that of a man who is wasp-catcher to Frys, the chocolate manufacturers, whose employees were being pestered by the insects.

During May and June he destroys the queen wasps as possible to prevent their breeding From July onward he scours the adjacent fields and disposes nests. Expert as he is, he sometimes makes a slip, and recently he was compelled to divest himself of his shirt, into which over 60 infuriated insects had penetrated

Loses Its Identity

Like the little girl who was wont to lose her whereabouts, Canadian flour occasionally loses its identity Practically all of the flour imported into Haiti is of Canadian origin, but the grocer bulk of it is being shipped to Haiti through United States ports and is billed as a U.S product.

The possession of France consist mainly of small islands in the Atlantic, Pacific and Indian oceans with continental territories in Africa, South America and Asia.

Controlling The Rust Menace

Very little reflection is required to demonstrate that an expenditure of ten years' intensive work by trained scientists and $600,000 of coin of the realm is a low price to pay for insurance of Western Canada's future wheat crops against the appalling loss which a few days of rust infestation can levy against the farmers of the West.

The $600,000 referred to and the ten years spent in work in the laboratory and the field it was recently announced, is the cost to the nation to date of producing an un-named wheat which, according to authorities, is able to withstand a rust epidemic unscathed and at the same time produce a kernel with all the desirable attributes of the best commercial varieties of bread wheat.

Coupled with this announcement was the further statement that this new wheat can be multiplied to a sufficient extent at Dominion government experimental farms and on private lands under government supervise as to enable a general distribution of seed to be made to the farmers of the west in 1937.

These announcements were accompanied by a further declaration of considerable importance namely that the government intends to retain control of the source of supply of this valuable seed and to see to it that the farmers are not exploited by private concerns in connection with its distribution.

The statement means that the farmers of Western Canada will be able to devote in two years time a substantial supply of seed wheat that is guaranteed to enable them to grow a crop completely immune from ravages by rust, and at a reasonable price, probably at cost.

It is perhaps a coincidence that these announcements were made at a time when Western Canadian wheat crops were hit by the worst infection of rust that the west has known in history but the information should put new heart into the many thousands of farmers who this summer saw their hopes for recovery blighted when millions of rust pimples appeared on the most promising crop in years and slaughtered yield and grade which meant reducing price to the vanishing point.

The new figure given in these general announcements may well mean that 1935 will be the last time that Western Canadian farmers have to suffer tremendous loss from rust infestation. The statement is made with caution, however, for although it is not usual for one rust infestation to follow in successive years, it cannot be stated affirmatively that it will not occur again before sufficient of the new wheat is grown to make a repetition of the 1935 calamity an impossibility.

Results of the work that has been done during the ten years' quest for a rust resistant wheat and laboratory and field trials of the strains which have been produced however, appear to indicate that the battle against rust has been won by the scientist and agronomist.

There is additional comfort for the farmer, however, in another coincident announcement and that is that some of the five strains of rust resistant wheat which are being increased this year also show a tendency to resist other diseases, those mentioned specifically being stinking smut, leaf rust and one of the varieties is reported as "moderately resistant" to loose smut.

So that it is possible that while the experts have won their fight against rust they have at the same time scored at least partial victory in the battle against some of the other diseases to which wheat is heir. To what extent these other disease pests have been overcome while the major conflict was being waged time and experiment alone will prove. It is safe to say, however, that these apparent advantages will be improved up with the advantage that these scientists have shown in their now successful efforts to overcome the rust menace.

Definite proof that the new wheat is all that is claimed for it exists as a result of field trials and laboratory tests which have been made during the ten years the work has been in progress and particularly this season.

In field plots the new wheat showed up clean and bright while alongside it the other standard varieties of commercial wheat were sick with the disease. Laboratory and commercial tests have proven conclusively that the new wheat has milling and baking qualities equal to that of Marquis and Reward.

The tests have demonstrated equally conclusively that the new wheat has the requisite length and strength of straw, yield, earliness, appearance of kernel and weight per bushel possessed by the best of the present day commercial varieties.

In other words the new wheat fills all the requirements of the type of hard spring wheat which has made Western Canada famous in the world's bread markets and has the additional ability to withstand rust, and perhaps to withstand some of the other diseases which periodically take toll of the Western grain farmer.

Empress Of Ethiopia

Claims She Is Descendant Of Queen Of Sheba

Through all the worries and anxieties brought upon him by Italy's thunderous conquest of Ethiopia, Emperor Ha le Selassie's most devoted companion and counsellor has been his wife, Empress Waizero Menen. Gifted with uncommon intelligence astuteness and foresight, the 41-year-old Empress urged the Emperor not to yield to Mussolini's threats but to defend the kingdom to the last.

Empress Haile Selassie is Waizero's fourth husband. Maybe that is why she is called the "Queen of Kings." They have three sons and two three daughters. They have been married 22 years, and it is said they have never had a quarrel. The Empress like most of the higher-caste Ethiopians, is monogamous. Waizero is the only wife.

"Waizero" means literally "Lady of Quality." She is the daughter of a famous conquest prince, and has a very dignified and aristocratic bearing. She was educated by private tutors. They gave her a name at her first, not fair, and 40, claims to come from the same Hamitic stock as the famous Queen of Sheba who visited the Ethiopia 3 000 years ago. She also claims descent from the glamorous Empress Taitu Bithane, who led ten million native subjects as "Your Serene and All-Just Majesty". She signed herself "the Conquering Lion of Judah hath conquered."

The Empress speaks no language except the ancient Amharic, which is the Ethiopian. She is a woman who approach her shield their mouths with their white shamma (shawl).

Dionne Quintuplets Bowl

Smartly Designed Bowl Is Milestone As A Gift

A surprise gift offer which will interest every parent, every child and in fact everyone who has ever heard of the world-famous Dionne Quintuplets, has been announced. The article offered is a Dionne bowl created in honour of the five little sisters and called the Dionne Quintuplets Birthday Bowl. Made of shining lifetime chromium, it is a milestone in diameter, smartly designed in modern lines, and embossed inside with a charming picture of the "Quints". On the rim are engraved the names of the sisters Elzire, Annette, Marie, Yvonne, and Cecile. Besides being an ideal cereal bowl for a child, it makes a distinctive olive and cherry dish on hand-lab.

Readers can obtain this delightful gift by sending two Quaker Oats coupons and the gift offer terms to help cover postage and handling charges to Quaker Oats Company, Saskatoon, Sask.

Heaviest Air Passenger

United Air Lines Carried Judge Who Weighs 400 Pounds

When County Judge A. W. Dutweiler applied for a ticket at the United Air Lines office here for a booking clerk was in a quandary. The judge weighs four hundred pounds and is probably the heaviest man in the world. The clerk did not wish to offend him, but at the same time wondered if he could take so large aboard an aeroplane on only one ticket. The company were pleased to take him without extra charge, however, as the judge was undoubtedly the biggest passenger they had ever carried, and they wished to mark the occasion.

A Strange City

Queer Place In Derbyshire, England Has Only Eight Houses

Eyam, in Derbyshire, England, is a village of 1,000 inhabitants, and within two miles of Chesterfield's famous crooked spire. It is in the Derbyshire curiosity. Down a winding bridle-path in Tapton Grove—the queerest and smallest city in the world. It has only eight houses and 25 inhabitants. It is the city of nothings, for there is no church, no chapel, no public-house, no shop, no post office. No electricity or gas is found there they use oil lamps How or why it became a city nobody knows, but it is believed to have been founded on the ashes of a Roman camp

New Type Flying Boat

Soviet Aviation Authorities Try Out Parachute Idea

A passenger and freight-carrying flying boat, the first launched by Soviet aviation authorities said they believed would be able to ascend into the stratosphere, has its first successful trial lifting four tons of cargo.

An ordinary freight parachute, with a dome 30 feet in diameter, was used The load was attached with short ropes leading from one side of the parachute. The other side bulged upward, giving the lifting power. Longer ropes, running from the bulging side, also were attached to a load which, for passenger-carrying purposes, would consist of a gondola, By manoeuvring the longer rope, the crew, experts said, could steer the parachute and control its ascent and descent.

The whole combination load was called a "parachute train" in the official description by Prof. I. Groikhovsky, chief of the experimental institute of the Commissariat of Heavy Industry which is sponsoring the trials. Groikhovsky said he believed the parachute could carry explorers into the stratosphere and described how a ring in a parachute was the safest mode of air travel since the parachute is always opened, assuring a safe descent.

The Machine Age

Opinion Seems To Be That There Will Always Be Unemployment

Evidently the machine age has arrived at a stabilization, wherein a definite percentage of the population is unemployable and allocating to the state the duty of providing for these out of taxation. It is suggested that such a condition is bequeathed on all countries alike. The machine age can continue, until a few years ago, escaped that penalty because it was new and had not yet developed such natural resources to exploit. With ago the handicap of unemployment was not so apparent as under the orthodox methods of industry. While every effort ought to be made to protect the rights of the human being who desires it, there is a growing conviction that the problem is likely to become more acute and that the most satisfactory measure for governments is to make provision in their budgets for the support of a percentage of the population classed as definitely outside the realm of self-support. — Brockville Recorder and Times.

Exporters Must Be Careful

Warned Against Sending Goods To Italy Without Guaranteed Payment

The Department of Trade and Commerce said it had received a note from the Canadian Trade Commissioner at Milan warning Canadians against exporting goods to Italy without first taking careful steps to ensure payment.

The cable, sent by A. B. Modditman, emphasized the dealings with Italian importers because of exchange restrictions by the Italian government. Canadian exporters should be made from Canada to Italy unless the Italian importer has given assurance he has obtained an import permit from the Italian authorities allowing the importation," it said.

Liner Gangway Blocked

Passengers At Southampton Held Up By Thousands Of Bees

Thousands of bees held up passengers about to embark on the liner Moldavia at Southampton, England. The bees settled down comfortably at the foot of the passenger gangway and defied attempts to move them. A beam was tried, but this merely incited the bees, and caused them to hum in clouds, scattering everybody. Eventually order was restored, and embarkation proceeded.

LEAGUE AGAIN WARNS ITALY IN AGGRESSION PLAN

Geneva.—The council of the League of Nations solemnly warned Italy and Ethiopia against war.

At the same time it constituted itself into a committee to draft a report with recommendations for settlement of the East African conflict and to consider if "anything further can be done to safeguard peace."

Should either country start hostilities before December 4, the league indirectly warned, it will be considered to have committed an act of war against all members of the covenant. It ruled this article was in operation as from September 4.

London.—The Anglo-French moves Premier Mussolini and the League of Nations must come within the next 30 days, it was predicted in well-informed official quarters, the break coming with Italy's resignation from the league and instantaneous push of its armies into Ethiopia.

Despite the League of Nations' actions in placing the Italo-Ethiopian difficulty before Article XV. of the league covenant, official Britain saw no hope that Il Duce would hold his East African leg'ons in check until December.

Article XV. calls for council recommendations. Article XVI. sets forth its accompanying recommendations be discarded by a member nation—such as the Italy's first step—is before Dec. 4—Article XVI.—describing such disregard as an act of war —is actionable forthwith.

Other foreign office officials clung to the hope that Mussolini will finally be overawed by the solidarity of East Africa adventure and make some olive-branch gesture to the league at the last minute.

Ruthless Wheat

Manitoba Sold To Be Purchasing Seed From Minnesota

Minneapolis.—Ruthless wheat grown from seed developed at the University of Minnesota on the Canadian farm of Hans Lillejord has found a ready market this fall in the government of Manitoba itself.

Lillejord, who operates a 320-acre farm near Hallock, admitted this acreage to Thatcher wheat—developed after years of research by Dr. H. K. Hayes, University of Minnesota agronomist.

In this initial test of Ruthless of wheat shrivelled by the black stem rust, Lillejord's wheat escaped the disease almost completely and yielded more than 30 bushels the acre.

The government of the province authorized purchase of 5,000 bushels to be used as seed.

Sentry Killed By Lions

Five Belonging To Baboon Sekonie Blake Dash For Freedom

Addis Ababa.—Five of Emperor Haile Selassie's big lions escaped, killed one sentry, and injured five more.

In this rush for freedom they devoured several of the Emperor's pedigreed Australian sheep and killed two horses.

Colonel Melesworin, the commander of the bodyguard, ordered a machine gun, and shot all five lions, dead in succession.

A Quiet Session

Prince Edward Islander Tires Out Assembly Hosts

Charlottetown. — Another chapter was written into the history of British parliamentary procedure when Prince Edward Island's House of Assembly, filled with 30 Liberal members, met and carried on the affairs of state without an official opposition.

It was not a house of "yes-men," however. At least two government supporters moved notice on Premier Walter Lea that they were not going to be a rubber-stamp for cabinet-directed policies.

When the money bill, the most important legislation of the special session, was being studied in committee under the guidance of the premier, W. H. Dennis, P.-lace, and H. R. Cox, King's, raised objection to Canada's smallest province providing for $3,000,000 expenditure to refund loans and carry on public works. To the cabinet this authority two months after taking office would be going directly against the policy of the government which placed them in power, the critics contended.

Absence of an official opposition party leader caused the work of the session and at an early hour the governor, accompanied by his secretary and aide-de-camp, returned to give His Majesty's assent to the bills passed.

The session is expected to meet ordinarily in March, 1936.

New Gold Strike

Made On North Arm Of Great Slave Lake

Edmonton.—A new gold strike on the north arm of Yellowknife bay on the north arm of Great Slave lake was revealed to the world when Dr. Fred Jolliffe, chief mining engineer of the province, flew out of the north after a summer spent in the northwest territories.

"The strike was made September 15 several miles from the Burwash discovery," said Dr. Jolliffe.

He refused to divulge the name of the prospector who made the strike pending the filing of his official report when he returns to department of mines headquarters at Ottawa.

Dr. Jolliffe and his party of 10 conducted similar trips from the University of Alberta, explored an area of roughly 10,000 square miles on the north shore of Great Slave lake and found that 2,800 square miles of the district was undervisted by pre-Cambrian rocks and volcanics, relatively favorable for the occurrence of gold and silver deposits.

Delivery Boy Returns Valuable Bonds And Gets Good Job

New York.—From the lowly plane of delivery boy of "coffee and—" at $8.15 a week, young Albert Correri is exalted to a remunerative position in Wall street.

Correri's role in "the street's" newest success story was cast when he picked from the gutter a packet of bonds valued at $150,000 and returned them to the owners. C. F. Crumwald, vice-president of C. F. Childs and Co., Wall street brokers, owners of the bonds, announced Correri would start work in the cashier's department of the brokerage firm.

Correri, who is 23, may also get a reward.

Hours Of Labor Set

Legislation Will Be Brought Into Effect October 5

Ottawa Legislation for limitation of the hours of labor in certain industrial undertakings or occupations will be brought into effect on Oct. 5 by proclamation, Hon. Norman Rogers, labor minister, has announced.

Based on a 1919 convention of the International Labor organization in the League of Nations, the legislation establishes the principle of the eight hour day and a forty-eight hour week in certain industries, subject to certain exceptions. It will be applied at the first session of parliament next year.

Abolish Ration System

New Decree Is Effective In Soviet Russia

Moscow. — A government decree abolished the ration system of selling some prime food products, cutting prices in open commercial shops.

The decree constitutes an important step toward liquidation of the present double sales system whereby workers make purchases in "closed" ration shops and the general public buys in open shops.

Prices of the two have differed widely, workers getting the benefit of extremely low rates

The decree abolished ration shop sale of meat, sugar, fish butter and potatoes and threw all buying of these products into open shops, substituting one fixed price for the previous double price system

The new price scale reduced beef more than 50 per cent. It now will sell from five rubles up per kilogram Sugar will be four rubles and 83 kopecks per kilogram as compared with 6.80, and butter was reduced from 24 rubles per kilogram to 15

To prevent speculation, it announced, no purchaser will be permitted to buy at one time more than two kilograms of meat or of sugar or half kilogram of butter or three kilograms of fish

TO STRENGTHEN NAVY AND AIR FORCE IN BRITAIN

London Prime Minister Baldwin intends to outline measures to strengthen both the navy and the air force when he addresses the Conservative party at its annual conference at Bournemouth

George Lansbury Labor leader in the House of Commons in an address declared Britain and other nations were on the brink of a war in which it would be Christian against Christian Mohammedan against Mohammedan Jew against Jew all praying to the same God for Victory

"I cannot bow to that sort of thing," the leader said "The way out is for some nation, and it has it to be Britain, to blaze a new trail."

Athens The semi-official Athens news agency announced information from a German source indicated arrangements had been completed at Istanbul for Greek and Turkish warships and planes to start manoeuvres in the Dardanelles and that a Rumanian torpedo boats would also participate.

It has been reported there is prepared a supply of fuel in Italian Mediterranean accounts which might be used in the event of outbreak of Italo-Ethiopian warfare

Greek newspapers hailed the arrival of British ships on Greek ports saying that the people of Greece had come to regard the would British naval manoeuvres in Mediterranean waters as a welcome tradition

The Federal Vote

Results Should Be Quickly Available After Closing Of Polls

Ottawa Although various adaptations of proportional representation and the single transferable vote are used in some provincial elections the Dominion general election Oct. 14 will be conducted on the traditional single-vote system

Pending will have only one choice between the contending candidates. They will mark an "X" opposite the name of the candidate they favor and the candidate with the largest number of "Xs" will be elected There are no second or third choices

With the single-vote system in operation throughout the Dominion on election day results will be available probably for all constituencies in this a few hours of the closing of the polls

Abolish Ration System

New Decree Is Effective In Soviet Russia

Moscow. — A government decree abolished the ration system of selling some prime food products, cutting prices in open commercial shops.

The decree constitutes an important step toward liquidation of the present double sales system whereby workers make purchases in "closed" ration shops and the general public buys in open shops.

Prices of the two have differed widely, workers getting the benefit of extremely low rates

The decree abolished ration shop sale of meat, sugar, fish butter and potatoes and threw all buying of these products into open shops, substituting one fixed price for the previous double price system

The new price scale reduced beef more than 50 per cent. It now will sell from five rubles up per kilogram Sugar will be four rubles and 83 kopecks per kilogram as compared with 6.80, and butter was reduced from 24 rubles per kilogram to 15

To prevent speculation, it announced, no purchaser will be permitted to buy at one time more than two kilograms of meat or of sugar or half kilogram of butter or three kilograms of fish

Veregin Resigns

No Longer Head Of Brotherhood Of Doukhobors

Saskatoon Peter Veregin, for 10 years president of the Christian community of the Universal Brotherhood of Doukhobors in Canada stated here that he had severed all connection with the community He declared that he stood now as a private Canadian citizen He had no intention of leaving the country, he said

Mr. Veregin, who has been virtual ruler of the sect in Canada since the death of his father in a British Columbia railway accident, said he had resigned his executive post a few months ago He would not disclose any reason for his action He is now on his way to Montreal

OTTAWA SAYS FAREWELL TO BESSBOROUGHS

Ottawa.—To the strains of "Auld Lang Syne" and the last goodbyes of thousands of Ottawa's citizens gathering in their cars, the Governor-General and Lady Bessborough departed for England

Stand-ing on the rear platform of their railway car as it drew out at funeral pace from the Union station. Their Excellencies and their Canadian-born son, the Hon George Bi Lawrence Neuilan Pennyhe waved to the assembled multitude The governor-general was obviously stirred by a deep emotion His eyes glistened with tears

In the early afternoon a large crowd began to assemble in the vicinity of the station. It was a dull grey day, with overcast skies, wintry and humid This contrasted with the brilliant sunshine which had greeted Lord and Lady Bessborough when they arrived in Ottawa to take up their duties four and a half years ago But all the glitter and pomp which such an official occasion evokes on the capital were present on a occasion as they were then

Within, red carpets stretched from the stairway to the waiting special train, the pathway ending in a platform up to which was backed the car which was to take Their Excellencies to Quebec Gathered along each side were figures in Ottawa's social life, diplomats, soldiers naval men and air force officers

Market Zones For Coal

Says Plan Would Result In Increased Output

Drumheller, Alta. — The Villieres national coal policy, which would divide Canada into three market zones, was defended here by Hon. George, pioneer Drumheller valley coal operator, at a hearing of the Alberta coal commission

Mr Gouge told Bir Montague Barlow, English business expert heading the commission, that under the policy importers of coal would be licensed by the Dominion government and that no more licenses would be permitted into the central zone, Ontario, but would limit eastern and western zones

Adoption of the Villiers scheme would do away with the present subventions on domestic and steam coals, Mr Gouge contended The advantage to the mines from this policy would be 10 times greater than that which would accrue from the subvention on coal to Ontario he continued. Subventions are paid by the Dominion government

At present 30 000 tons are shipped annually to Ontario, the Drumheller operator said, while the market zoning plan would mean from 250 000 to 500 000 additional output each year from the domestic mines and more than that from the steam mines of Alberta.

Would Ban Canadian Hay

English Farmers Contend They Produce Enough To Meet Demand

Alton, Hampshire, Eng. A resolution calling for the prohibition of hay imports from the Dominions and foreign countries was passed at a grievance meeting of farmers here They contended sufficient hay was produced in Great Britain to meet home demands

Speakers emphasized the calling effect on farmers when their own hay land being used for army manoeuvres and army horses being fed Canadian hay It was declared five vamps were being bought from Canada hay, amounting to 1 700 tons while only one camp sought tonnes from local farmers

Canadian average hay exports to England over a period of years run from 1 600 t- 20 000 tons annually

Favorable To Canada

Winnipeg In a result of the 1931 trade agreements, the trade balance between Canada and Australia, now three times favorable here I. R. Macgregor Australian trade commissioner to Canada stated here Australia is Canada's third best world market he said.

THE STANDARD
VERMILION ALBERTA
ESTABLISHED 1909
Published every Thursday Afternoon at the Office, Main St.
S. R. P. COOPER — EDITOR.

Vermilion Alta. Oct. 3 1935.

Attention is directed to the advertisement of the town of Vermilion, relative to placing your name on the voters list. This may be done during the months of September and October by making application to the town secretary. Just whether you are entitled to vote or not will be made upon reading the advertisement. If you are entitled to have your name on the list, make application now. Just because you were on last year's voters list is not your name is on the voters' list this year, unless of course you are a direct ratepayer.

VOTE! VOTE!! VOTE!!!

Election day is just around the corner. It is a duty of the first importance to record your vote. In Great Britain a millionaire agitated for years against bitter odds, to secure the franchise because they recognized that it was only through parliamentary action that they could make social [illegible]

Canadians have not had that painful experience, and it may be that to the reason why so many voters refuse to take the trouble of going to the polls. It is, however, their duty and privilege to direct the destinies of the Dominion. Upon them rests the responsibility of the legislation that will influence economic and social conditions, trade and commerce, and the part Canada will take in international affairs.

It is essential that Canada should have a strong and resolute leader if Canada is to make her voice heard not only in Empire questions, but in those where her interests are concerned in such questions as trade treaties and reciprocity with the United States a firm hand and wise counsel are absolutely required. The solution of existing domestic problems and those which will inevitably arise will be no easy task, and a weak leader, lacking the essential qualities and with a limited experience or quixotic ideas, spells danger to the general community.

Those voters who have not yet decided on the candidates for whom they will vote and especially those who will exercise the franchise for the first time, should carefully examine the programme of the four parties, analyze as far as possible proposals contained in them, and consider the logical results of the legislative measures advocated. The future of the younger generation may be greatly influenced by the acts passed. It is therefore important that the candidate voted for should assure ease and sensible legislation, as reckless with will at the stop policies or those which will retard rather than expand domestic and international trade. There is this further responsibility. Canadians desire to maintain their standard of living, and are opposed to whittle down that standard should find no response from the wage-earners, who form the backbone of the population. Electors have the final say, and it matters not who are not prepared to guard Canada against the dumping of goods made by underpaid labour.

MOTOR ASSOCIATION WARNS DRIVERS OF CARBON MONOXIDE

At this season of the year and later motorists are urged by the Alberta Motor Association to give great attention to car driving precautions. Not only should the driver be careful to avoid serious fires from skidding or other causes but he also should be mindful of the deadly carbon monoxide fumes that lurk in motor cars.

Each year, often beginning with the fall, several hundred people in Canada and the United States lose their lives from carbon monoxide in their cars. Alberta is on the list which adds to the heavy toll all over this country annually.

Deaths usually occur as the result of a man going to sleep within a garage with closed doors, often unintentionally.

When a test was held recently it was found that approximately one-half of the vehicles contained quantities of carbon monoxide. This should be a warning to all as the presence of any carbon monoxide in the car is cause proof that a defective condition exists.

The Alberta Motor Association urges that our conditions should be checked in order to eliminate such hazards as carbon monoxide. There should be a periodical examination of the entire exhaust system, with immediate replacement of leaky gaskets or connections, together with a cleaning or inspection of floor boards and bulkhead.

ISLAY NEWS

Miss Lila Doyle of Edmonton spent a week in town with her sister Mrs. W. Forsyth.

Miss Alison Beverell has returned to Edmonton where she will commence her grade XII work. Other high school students to return to school this week in Vermilion were Miss Kathleen Gordon and Billie Bothwell, both grade XII students.

Miss Lila Bowser is spending a few days in Minburn, the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Potter.

The Rally Day services held in the United church last Sunday morning and evening were well attended.

At time of writing fine threshing weather was again the order of the day. A week of good weather would make a tremendous hole in the grain to be threshed.

AUBURNDALE

The sympathy of the entire neighborhood is extended to Mr. and Mrs. Prince and family in the death, from infantile paralysis, of Rita, aged fifteen years, their only daughter and sister, who passed away on Wednesday morning December 25th after an illness of about a week.

Owing to the nature of the disease from which the girl died the funeral took place privately on Thursday, September 26th at Auburndale church.

The Autumn Leaf school has just been added to the lists of schools closed on account of infantile paralysis.

THE BENNETT GOVERNMENT

Elsewhere in this issue appears an advertisement with respect to the policies and performances of the Bennett Government. While this paper maintains an independent attitude on political issues, it is generally admitted Prime Minister Bennett has done the very best he could under the trying circumstances of the past five years. The government must be given a fair deal and at a time when its record is criticised it is only to be expected those criticisms should be challenged by its supporters. It is pointed out by supporters of the government that the Ottawa agreements and his whole policy aimed to protect him. Wider markets for hogs and wheat are of vital importance to us in this section. Bennett secured a 250,000,000 lb. bacon quota in the British markets and of his Grain marketing Board the Ottawa Independent Liberal Citizen of June 17th says:

"It is a crime against Canada that speculators in wheat should be allowed to enrich themselves while producers of the wheat are starved—At this moment he (Mr. Bennett) is engaged in a courageous battle to rid this country of a corroding influence in the nation's business. The game of speculating in wheat has done this country much harm—Premier Bennett's challenge to wheat market gambling should be supported".

The turning of an adverse balance of trade of $142,000,000 in 1930 to a favourable balance of $168,000,000 in an increase of Canadian exports alone to all Empire countries in 1932 of 270 million dollars to 312 millions in 1935 are pointed out as a refutation of the charge that the Bennett Government has strangled trade.

Mr. J. W. G. Morrison, K. C. Vermilion, is the Government candidate in the Battle River riding and the Association in question is appealing for support on his behalf.

British Educationists Tour Canada

In Canada for a seven weeks tour of the Empire at the invitation of the Council of Education, twelve British educationists and librarians are at present touring the Dominion. The visit has been arranged to celebrate the 50th anniversary of the Overseas Education League, which organizes annual visits of Canadian students and teachers to Great Britain. It is a return of the hospitality extended by British educators to the Canadian visitors.

The British group arrived at Quebec in the Canadian Pacific liner "Empress of Australia," September 7, and their spokesman stated they hoped to "learn quite a bit while in Canada". Fine hospitality shown commencement of the educational progress with

RITA LOUISA SYMES

The whole of the Auburndale district was shocked to learn of the sudden death of Miss Rita Louise Symes, at the tender age of 14 years, 8 months and 22 days, following an illness of only one short week during which the deceased was attacked by the dread infantile paralysis. Despite everything that could be done by the family physicians, Dr. J. J. Knoll of Vermilion, she passed away on Wednesday morning, Sept. 25th.

The deceased who was beloved by all who knew her, was born at the Vermilion hospital on April 3rd, 1921, and was the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest C. Symes, who are rural old-timers of the district, they lived all her short life at Auburndale, and also obtained her schooling in the same settlement.

THE FUNERAL

Owing to the nature of the illness, the funeral was held privately on Thursday, September 26th, the Rev. Mr. Boyd, of Vermilion, being in charge of the service at two p.m. Interment was made in the Auburndale cemetery.

The sympathies and condolences of a very large circle of friends and acquaintances of the family, in which The Standard sadly joins, is extended to the mourners in their bereavement.

The funeral arrangements were in the hands of the McLeod undertaking parlors, the pallbearers being Messrs. W. J. Seale, Walter Alexander, E. Squires and J. Clough.

Among the many floral offerings which completely banked the coffin were tributes from: Mother, Daddy and Harry, George, Gladys and Audrey; Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Seale and Donald Maynard; Battle View U. F. W. A.; Mr. and Mrs. P. Jensen, Mr. and Mrs. F. Stranahan; Mr. and Mrs. John Winter; Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Seale; Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Green, Vancouver; Mrs. Church, Sr., Fred and Rita; Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton; Mally and Ken; Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Green; Vermilion Hospital Board; Matron and Nurses, Vermilion hospital.

OLAF ARNTSON

The funeral of the late Olaf Arntson, who died at his home north west of town on Friday last, was held from the Anglican church on Sunday afternoon, Sept. 29. The Rev. Mr. Levermedge conducted the service and gave an inspiring address on the human side of life and the real need of christian fellowship.

The church was filled with neighbors and friends of deceased, many of whom had already viewed the body at the funeral parlors, feel an very keenly the passing of an old time acquaintance, who had gained the respect and good wishes of the community.

Mr. Arntson had lived in the district nearly 29 years, coming direct here from Norway in 1906. He was 63 years of age. His wife predeceased him 3 years ago and they are now buried side by side in the Vermilion cemetery. The army of beautiful flowers bore testimony to the high esteem in which he was held in the community. Those sons were present at the funeral, the one daughter was unable to reach here in time. Mr. J. Harding had charge of all arrangements.

NEIGHBORHOOD NARRATIVES

From the Neighborhood of the South-East

The weatherman played a nasty trick and sent everyone shivering home from threshing. Messrs. Clarence Potter and Bill Doyle decided to take a trip to Wainwright Tuesday for gas and oil for the farmer's filling station. All went well until the slippery road up the Battle River hill was encountered on the way home. Then trouble began—long hours of it—bad roads and a balky machine. After procuring help from several sources, among them Mr. and Mrs. Elsie Arthur, and Jimmy Wallington (does time at the Symes at the Wash.), they arrived home in the wee sma' hours of Thursday morning chilled to the bone and tired out—"without the trark". That was still to come. Oh, the joys of motoring!

The editor sat up and took notice at four going hunting in our party! what would he have said at a truck load of 12 to 15 hunters, all ages, who are out one day last week to secure all the deer they can in the vicinity. If anyone could do it? Well, we'll let him try it.

The Neighborhood and its representative thank you from the bottom of their collective heart, Island Hill Wee Wee take special pleasure in pointing out that the little speech, bursting with wit and inspiration, given by our fellow correspondent, in the heat of what promised to be a hilarious controversy was the means of bringing sorrow and laughter to our lips and sanity to our heads. Misunderstandings. Serial Credit may well be proud of such an able supporter.

The sad news of the passing of Rena Symes of Battleview came back to us with the Wainwright travellers. Friends of the family in the Neighborhood express their regrets and deepest sympathies.

Was again? With peace and radio blatter once more with the glories of strife and struggle. In spite of the disastrous lessons of the last conflict? With the assertion of profit-seeking so-called rulers (financially) of the world? As the only means of eliminate the ranks of the unemployed? With Canada prospering through wheat and nickel wealth? With the mothers of the world once more thinking of the futility of their efforts to raise a child? As a final sardonic reply to all the efforts of Christianity and progress? Let whoever can read the answer. MUST we have war sense?

Mr. Jim Ross, having had some real rapid transit recently, lets one grade on the wheat. No. 2 Garnet. Mr. Harpsteel says he says he is a fine fortune enough to buy a tractor. Other wheat ranges all from No. 3 to not worth thirteen bits.

* * *

First let us state that we had a very interesting and unpredictable time at the exhibition. We were fortunate enough to be an attractive unit with one of industry but to the various agricultural enterprises in the district, and such a good time was had by all. Credence is coming that Mr. Ross, Kane and Mr. Bole. We are sure that all candidates would not be so partial, and better to be a non-partisan and Advisory Board—but, in fact, just and commendable. In the final count [illegible] Mr. Wolfe Fall [illegible] Mr. Ross [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

Fire Prevention Week - Oct. 5 to 12

Prevent Fires

These simple suggestions, if followed by everyone in the family, will make your home safe from fire.

Put lighted matches and smokes out before you throw them away. Keep matches where small children cannot reach them. Never smoke in the garage, barn, or attic, nor in bed.

Remove rubbish, waste papers and all unnecessary combustible materials. Provide metal ash and trash cans. Burn rubbish only in a safely covered brick or metal incinerator. Watch the fire.

Examine all stoves, furnaces, and smoke pipes to make sure they are safe and well away from woodwork or other burnable materials. Have needed repairs made at once.

Value the advice of your fire chief who says that many fires are caused by dirty or defective chimneys. Have the chimney cleaned regularly, and have all fires repaired promptly.

Escape the danger of flammable liquid fires and explosions by keeping no gasoline in the house. Do dry cleaning in safe liquids or arrange the work to the cleaner. Never start fires with kerosene.

Notify the electric company of electrical trouble. Replace blown fuses with new ones—not pennies. Avoid homemade wiring jobs.

Teach everyone in the family to be careful of fire, to watch stoves, fireplaces, electric irons and all other possible fire causes, and every day to remove old rags, papers and other [illegible]

Fireproof your house as far as possible by fire-safe roofing, fire stopping in hollow walls and partitions to stop the spread of flame, and a non-combustible lath-and-plaster ceiling.

Inquire of your fire chief, when buying a fire extinguisher, to be sure of getting the right kind. Don't hesitate to ask your firemen whenever you have questions on fire prevention.

Remember always where the nearest fire alarm box is and how to send an alarm. If telephoning, be sure the address is clearly understood. Use a neighbor's phone rather than one in the burning building.

Explain in everyone in the house what to do in case of fire, how to put out fire in clothing by wrapping in a rug or blanket, what to do when flames catches fire in the kitchen.

Save life and property from needless destruction by keeping the principles of fire prevention always in mind and never taking a chance with fire.

Bennett Going Back!

DO YOU KNOW THAT THE BENNETT GOVERNMENT has enacted a programme of social reform measures this year, that brings new hope and real prospect of greater happiness to every home in Canada? For instance:

THE BENNETT GOVERNMENT HAS

CREATED JOBS for half a million Canadian men and women in the past two years.

EFFECTED the Ottawa Imperial Trade Agreements, by which wider channels of marketing opportunities were opened to Canadian products and produce.

MANAGED the finances of Canada during the depression without a single bank, trust company, or insurance company failure.

RESTORED to Canadian industry first place in the Canadian market, by tariff protection against the foreign goods that previously flooded this country.

PROVIDED nearly $600,000,000 for relief in Canada in four years.

MET the forces of unrest and confusion and all attempts at the disruption of our national and social structure have been defeated.

PILOTED Canada successfully through the greatest economic storm that ever launched its fury on the world at large.

GIVEN GRAIN GROWERS Western Canada Wheat Board and a pegged price of $7.4c.

ATTEMPTED a Farmers Creditor Arrangement Act whereby farmers burdened with debt can have them compromised.

SECURED a $20,000,000-lb. quota for Canadian bacon in British markets.

STARTED a fifty million dollar housing scheme with federal assistance of ten million dollars.

SECURED PREFERENCE for our wheat in British markets of ten cents per bushel.

These and other measures constitute a greater programme of reform, industrial and agricultural development than has been passed by any government in Canada since Confederation. Don't you think it in your own personal interest to support a government that has done so much for you? Think it over.

A Vote for Morrison Is a Vote for Bennett

We noticed George Sinclair Campbell Lake motoring past our store during the week. We were looking intently towards him as our friend McCusker would say "with one mouth wide shut" for a friendly and but George knows a careful driver always looks ahead! As a matter of fact we hold up our hand Hitler fashion, but see no response. Next time he sails past we will blow our fog-horn.

Threshing is proceeding here between showers. Bert Scurfe is busy these days bringing broken bags into the hospital. Don't be alarmed folks, bags belong to the school dosbe and the hospital in the machine shop.

Although a number of schools north of here are closed, Island Hill boasts a healthy spot, the school remains open.

When the girl pupils here were handed a new nut ball and bat by Bert Scurfe, Secy-Treas. they appreciated the gift, now the boys want to know when they are getting the long expected football.

Inspector Parker paid the school a visit Thursday.

Noticed during the week: Hugh Ardenon hanging on to a load of hay. D. Stephens dancing a highland fling. H. B. Evans hurrying to town with a broken binder part.

WEDDING BELLS

One of the loveliest and most interesting weddings of the district took place in the Auburndale church on Tuesday evening September 24th at 8 o'clock, when Miss Dorothy Hetherington, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Hetherington of Auburndale, was united in marriage to Mr. Lynden C. Lawson, only son of Rev. Ernest and Mrs. Lawson of Kingston, Ontario.

The church, which was full to capacity, was decorated with flowers, the guest pews being marked with bunches of pansies and sweetpeas. The ceremony was performed by Rev. H. A. Boyd of Vermilion before an altar banked with flowers.

The bride, given away by her father, looked lovely in an exquisite gown of wine chiffon velvet, fashioned on long fitted lines and trimmed with cut-work of the same material She wore a moulish close fitting turban to match and carried a bouquet of mauve chrysanthemums. Her bridesmaid, Miss Edith Hutchison of Chauvroue, wore a dainty floor length frock of mauve point d'esprit net, with picture hat to match and carried a sheaf of yellow snapdragons. The bridegroom was attended by Mr. J. Brown of North Vermilion. Mrs. A. Green played the wedding marches, and during the signing of the register Mrs. Hill of Vermilion sang very sweetly "Because".

Later a reception was held for fifty-five guests at the home of the bride's parents, where a most delightful buffet supper was served, the reception rooms being decorated with masses of hanging flowers. The three-tier wedding cake was cut by the bride, and Rev. H. A. Boyd proposed the toasts to the newly married couple. The bride's mother, Mrs. Hetherington, looked charming in a gown of black and silver velvet over crepe, fashioned on slender lines. Mrs. A. Green and Mrs. A. Stone poured the tea. Assisting in serving were the Misses Kathleen Kinghorn, Evelyn and Muriel Hetherington and Hilda Kennedy.

Present among the guests from Vermilion were Mr. and Mrs. Elliott and Miss Storey of the College, Mr. and Mrs. Hill and Mr. and Mrs. E. Shepard, and from Wainwright, Mr. and Mrs. Dunsmore, Mr and Mrs. Perkins and Miss Muriel Wiltsman.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawson left the same night by train for the east where they will make their home. The bride received in an ensemble of brown trimmed with orange with scarf and hat to match and a tuscan tweed ulster. They were accompanied by Mrs. Kennedy, a relative of the bride's who had been the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Hetherington for the last five months and whose home is also in the east

MAGISTRAD—NELSON

A wedding of wide interest in Clandonald and Bonnyville districts was solemnized on Sunday afternoon Sept. 29, at 5 o'clock, when Miss Violet Josephine daughter of Mr. and E. Nelson of Clandonald was united in marriage to Mr. George Edgar Magistrad, of Bonnyville Alberta The ceremony took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Nelson and was performed by Rev. H. A Boyd of Vermilion officiated. The bride wore a lovely dress of white silk crepe and lace, with wreath and veil and carried a bouquet of white chrysanthemums and maidenhair fern She was attended by [illegible] sister, Miss Daisy Nelson who wore a silk crepe floral ensemble and carried a bouquet of white and yellow chrysanthemums and maiden hair fern. Mr Orley Gunness attended the groom

The ceremony was performed in a lovely fall setting near a grove of trees, in the presence of immediate relatives and nearly one hundred friends Following the ceremony a wedding supper was served the table being centred with a five-tier wedding cake made and artistically decorated by Mrs Orley Gunness Mr Boyd proposed the toast to the newly wedded couple

On their departure Mr and Mrs Magistrad were showered with rice and given a real send off

The best wishes of the community are extended to them for a long and happily married life

To Shorten Ocean Trip

Irish Free State Plans Ship-to-Shore Phone

London will be brought within three days of New York when civil aviation plans which are being devised by the government of the Irish Free State come into operation—possibly next year.

The scheme aims at a service of high-speed aircraft of the Douglas type, to intercept the big Atlantic liners off the west coast of Ireland and to speed the passengers to London, with the saving of a full day of transit time.

With ships of the type of the Queen Mary and Normandie the Anglo-Irish air ferry will make London and New York a matter of a mere week-end trip.

From Galway on the west coast of Ireland to Southampton by liner is at present a full days journey, with an additional two hours to London. The new air link would bring Galway within three hours of London.

It is proposed to use amphibian machines.

From Dublin the idea is to form a new air link not only with London but also with Paris, Brussels and Berlin.

Ships Attract People

Many Feel Personal Loss When Vessel Makes Last Trip

It is odd how inanimate things sometimes attract. They seem almost to have character and personality. A case in point is the famous old Mauretania. "The Old Lady of the Sea," as the vessel was called, has a marvellous record and those engaged in shipping felt a peculiar attraction to her When she last sailed from New York on her farewell voyage the dean of the New York pilots gave up a holiday in order to escort her out of the harbor. Just 26 years ago the same pilot guided the vessel into New York Harbor on her maiden trip, and when she steamed up the Narrows of the Hudson on her last trip he brushed tears from his eyes -A good ship does things the like to men.—Boston Post.

Hunting King's Future

Group Of English Chemists Searching For Gold And Jewels

Search for a legendary fortune or gold and jewels believed to be hidden in a secret passage beneath the ruins of Beeston Castle, Cheshire, England, is being carried on by a group of young Northwich chemists and engineers. King Edward II is said to have hidden part of his personal fortune and jewels in the 300-foot well of the castle before a voyage to Ireland. Some historians say, however, that a great deal of it was seized and used to put Henry IV. on the throne.

England To Receive Relic

Armada Jewel Has Been Given To Its Collection Trust

The Armada jewel, one of the most beautiful relics of Queen Elizabeth's time is to return to Britain. It was bought at a salesroom in London for $700 guineas and it was announced that it had been given by Lord Wakefield to the National Art Collection Fund. The jewel formed part of the Pierpont Morgan collection of miniatures It will go to the Victoria and Albert Museum Kensington, South London.

HARVESTING IN SASKATCHEWAN AT 20 BELOW!

Just about the middle of December, one of the most unique and Centennial annual harvests to be garnered on the North American Continent will be in full swing. No! Not wheat — but Mineral Salts. The scene will be Little Manitou Lake, Watrous, Saskatchewan. The harvesters will be the employees of the Department of Natural Resources of Saskatchewan; and the harvest itself will consist of the tiny crystals of mineral salt which form in Little Manitou Lake each year at "freeze-up." It is one of the several conditions that the harvest be completed within a period of ten days. When the Prairie winter comes in real earnest, and the thermometer shivers down to 20 below zero, the Departmental men, warmly attired, and wearing waist-high rubber boots, gather up these crystals with specially constructed shovels, and store them in the Government warehouse at Watrous, from where they are later distributed. The medicinal qualities of this saline lake, known for many years, are becoming more and more widely recognized, and as a consequence these harvesting operations are assuming ever increasing proportions, and the Lake is proving to be one of the Province's most important natural resources.

Munitions Control

United States To Supervise War Implement Industry

The U.S. national munitions control board was set to formulate rules for the United States government's first attempt to supervise the war implement industry.

The call of Secretary of State Hull, the board's statutory members —the secretaries of the treasury, war, navy and commerce—left organization to:

1. Register before Nov. 30 all manufacturers and exporters of ammunitions and implements of war in the country, with their firm name, place of call and products produced.

2. Require licenses before any future consignment of munitions can be shipped to foreign nations in peace time.

3. Define what products should be placed in the category of "munitions, munitions, and implements of war."

4. Make available to President Roosevelt all arms data which may be of use to him in proclaiming an embargo on munitions shipments in the event of hostilities between any nations.

Comes From Many Sources

Canada Supplies Only Part Of Binder Twine Used

The binder twine being used to harvest Canada's grain crop comes from a number of sources. Canada produces large surplus a large part of the domestic demand and considerable quantities made in the Dominion are exported to other countries but binder twine from several other countries has come to share the Canadian market. Importations are from Great Britain, Ireland, Holland and recently from Belgium and Germany.

England's Wheat Acreage

A considerable increase in wheat acreage has resulted largely from the Act in England and Wales, from 1,- 362,000 acres in 1932 to 1,860,000 in 1933 and 1,777,000 in 1934 planted year. Meanwhile the oat crop has been reduced by 200,000 acres.

PATTERN 5439

Even though you have nothing on hand but tiny scraps of wool, you can fashion this lovely afghan. And the wool can be of different weights. Each block 4½ inches square can be done in different colors. And what a jumbled effect you have when done! It does indeed look like a colorful oriental tapestry. Doing each block in different colors, too, makes the work more fascinating for each is an adventure. Besides an afghan you can make lovely pillow tops or chair sets. Can't you see what a lovely and inexpensive Xmas gift these would be?

In pattern 5439 you will find complete instructions for making the afghan shown as well as pillow tops and chair sets; an illustration of the block and of the stitches needed; material requirements.

To obtain this pattern send 20 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred) to Household Arts Dept., Winnipeg Newspaper Union, 175 McDermot Ave., Winnipeg.

Courageous Parson

Keeping Up The Morale, And Looking Ahead With Optimism

We have been hearing so much about "sharing the wealth" in the last few months that most of us probably have lost sight of those unrugged persons who have been helping to share hard times. Many clergymen, for instance, besides drawing small stipends, have kept up the morale of their parishioners and congregations by looking ahead with optimism.

A Presbyterian minister who defied the prohibition at the moment has accepted a call in the province of Quebec in the belief that he can help to restore faith in your fellowmen and in the ultimate triumph of right. The following is from a sermon preached by this minister:

"The Courageous Speaker Threatened, Jeremiah 26:8-11. During the 40 years of Jeremiah's ministry, his was the task of setting himself in opposition to all the currents of his time, for Judah believed that she would escape the impending doom. But Jeremiah was invincible because he trusted in the temple, that the nation could not perish. Jeremiah had to warn her that her only possible course was to surrender to Babylon. At some great feast, doubtless when the people were gathered at Jerusalem, Jeremiah uttered the warning recorded in the first seven verses of chapter 26.

"The Courage of Convictions, 26: 12-15. Jeremiah's defense was that his message had come to him from God, and he urged them to amend their ways and obey God and to obey the voice of Jehovah. If they would do this, Jehovah would repent of the evil which he had pronounced upon them. Prophecy then was regarded as conditional; a change of conduct could prevent the threatened punishment.

Buoy Year For Sun

More Eclipses In 1935 Than For Past 100 Years

The sun this year presents its greatest show of eclipses for the past 130 years. The moon will have passed between the sun and the earth no fewer than five times, and the moon will be in the earth's shadow twice. This according to Professor Alfred H. Joy, secretary of the Royal Astronomical Observatory, is the greatest number of eclipses possible in one year. Not since 1805 have the total buoys been obscured on often, states Reuter's correspondent in Pasadena. It will be only 135 more years before again that there have been five solar eclipses in one year, and there will not be another such number until the year 2485.

Out Of Politics

Henry Ford said in an interview published in the Detroit News that he is not interested in any "Ford for president" boom, or in politics generally. Discussing the political outlook, the motor magnate said: "I am not a prophet but I have the feeling that the supposed super-trends will be up, and I do not believe the political campaign of next year will have any particularly notable effect on business, one way or the other."

THE STORY OF JEREMIAH

Golden text: To whomsoever I shall send thee thou shalt go, and whatsoever I shall command thee thou shalt speak. Jeremiah 1:7.

Lesson: Jeremiah 1:1-10; 6:10, 11; 8:18; 36:1-24; Chapters 26, 37, 38. Devotional Reading: Psalm 36:1-7.

Explanations And Comments

Courageous Speaking Enjoined, Jeremiah 1:6-10. In the thirteenth year of Josiah's reign (about 626 B.C.), Jeremiah, the son of a priest, became conscious of a stress call in the prophetic office. It is natural to understand that he had long meditated upon his country's state and had felt impelled to denounce them, but was most reluctant to undertake the task. The inward struggle which took place in his sensitive and shrinking heart when something different from his ordinary consciousness made him certain that he was destined to be the prophet of woe, he tells in the form of a dialogue between God and himself.

"Ah, Lord Jehovah! behold I know not how to speak; for I am a child." He was not a child in years but he lacked experience, he feared he had not the ability to speak, he distrusted himself. In the jargon of to-day, he had an inferiority complex. "Say not, I am a child" was the answer to his troubled thoughts that came to him; "for to whomsoever I shall send thee thou shalt go, and whatsoever I shall command thee thou shalt speak. Be not afraid because of them; for I am with thee to deliver thee."

The commission which Jeremiah received was to be "over the nations and over the kingdoms, to pluck up and to break down, and to destroy and to overthrow, to build and to plant." His task was to be destructive and constructive. He must strive to make the people give up their vices and weaknesses which were making for internal corruption and political and moral decay, and in this plant in their hearts new ideals of righteousness.

The Courageous Speaker Threatened, Jeremiah 26:8-11. During the 40 years of Jeremiah's ministry, his was the task of setting himself in opposition to all the currents of his time, for Judah believed that she would escape the impending doom. But Jeremiah was invincible because he trusted in the temple, that the nation could not perish. Jeremiah had to warn her that her only possible course was to surrender to Babylon. At some great feast, doubtless when the people were gathered at Jerusalem, Jeremiah uttered the warning recorded in the first seven verses of chapter 26.

The Courage of Convictions, 26: 12-15. Jeremiah's defense was that his message had come to him from God, and he urged them to amend their ways and obey God and to obey the voice of Jehovah. If they would do this, Jehovah would repent of the evil which he had pronounced upon them. Prophecy then was regarded as conditional; a change of conduct could prevent the threatened punishment.

SYNOPSIS

Nancy Nelson is a sub-deb, a gay, irresponsible girl of nineteen, who secure beyond the choice of her confines for her coming-out party. Suddenly, in the market crash, her indulgent father loses all he had, and his family is faced with the necessity of a simpler method of living. At this juncture a letter is received from an eccentric relative in Colorado, who offers the girl the home she wants to be impossible conditions.

After much consideration Cousin Columbine's offer is accepted, and Nancy and Jack arrive at Pine Ridge.

Nancy set out one afternoon to climb to the top of the hill to obtain a view of the surrounding landscape and missed the path Ahmed Tubbs had told her to follow. A truck comes along the road, driven by Matthew Adams, and she asks him which way to go. They exceed the limit, look around, and then go on to Cousin Columbine's home. Mrs Adam tells Nancy that his brother Luke has broken his leg, and that Jack Nelson is living in the barn without while Luke's leg gets better. With Jack away, Nancy finds that she is lonesome, and having no books to read, the idea of borrowing Luke's library at Pine Ridge seems a good one, and Matthew promises to bring her parents to send all the books they could spare and they could indeed others to let them have.

Nance and Matthew Adam go Christmas shopping in the nearest town. On their return to Pine Ridge, Nance is amazed to see the Columbine residence all lit up, and asks Matthew if he knows why. He said: Let's go in and see. Then Nancy learns that she is having her coming-out party, but in a different setting than had been planned for her in Boston.

Nancy's parents and friends gave their liberal support to her request table books, and a sizeable box arrived in due course. Father Adam painted a sign for the library, and the Adam boys worked on the shelves for the books and decorated the room with pine from back pressetable.

Jack Nelson, Matthew Adam, and Nance go to the prairie home of Matthew's uncle for the ride, and after the noon meal start out. Then a blizzard comes on, and they are caught in a blizzard.

The Story Thus Far

Where that empty milk can came from they never knew; but for a while it rested only three dreams, but a feeble warmth that was dearly welcome. With the aid of a pocket knife Jack ripped the lining of the seat, and used excelsior stuffing for a fire School books came next, but it was Nancy who told the sister grimly, "but even if the rond weren't drifted, I'd never make it with night coming on. We've been here about four hours, haven't we? It seems a lifetime already, and these youngsters have been given a new lease of life. If things aren't better in the morning I'll have to go, Nance Have you noticed" (the lowered his voice), "those twins are getting drowsy, both of 'em; and so's Paul Revna. I can't tell whether they're just sleepy or what. Come here, sis! It's up to us to keep them moving!"

Darkness came fast; and swiftly, terribly slowly, it seemed to Nance, hour after hopeless hour dragged on. Wild wind still raged about them, and at the back of the bus a snowdrift had collected, sifting in through the broken window and making their cramped space smaller still. Though all worked desperately to keep the fire burning, a sudden supposed wrench fierce gust had blown it out; and there were no more matches. Jack had long since relinquished his sheepskin jacket; and Nancy's knitted skirt was pinned securely about a shivering boy.

Pretense at games—penning up and down the aisle—anything to keep blood circulating in those small, cold hidden, was kept up valiantly; as night descended the children who were not crying had dropped asleep, huddled together in a corner, and tears of fright and pity dimmed Nancy's eyes as she looked down at them.

Through that interminable night a grim and silent Jack kept moving constantly, stopping at every turn to rub li- legs or arms of some small sleeper. Nancy, exhausted, sat for a time, holding within her cost a boy of seven who whimpered with the cold. Later, when a semblance of warmth returned to him and he dropped asleep, she too came to sleep about the crowded quarters, and like her brother, chafe numb hands and feet.

Dawn came at last, and the storm had not abated.

"But we're alive," said Nance, when chattering she ate bite to speak. "We're all alive."

Jack faced her suddenly. Almost for the first time he was angry.

"And how long will we last" How long. I ask you?" He raised a foot and shook his leg above the shoe. "I put my socks on Joey Miller three hours ago when you were sleeping. That boy's all in Nancy; and some of these little girls won't live the day through unless help reaches us. If we had food it might put new life into them; but every lunch pail's empty and—"

He stopped, silenced by a moan from one in the huddled mass, and lifting a child, worked at her stiff legs in desperation. It was, Nance saw, the twin who wore her sweater; and suddenly the girl was pulling off her woollen stockings while Jack protested: "You keep those on, sis! Say, are you going crazy? Do you want to freeze to death? You're in your thin silk one dies now I know it. I saw you ment out of that knitted thing a while ago. Dame you, Nance Ireland, you keep those stockings on!"

Nancy said nothing. Jack was underwear, half crazed with anxiety for all those helpless children and for herself as well. Slipping bare feet into her shoes again, she knelt to pull her dress over the icy legs of the small sufferer; while one of the girls, watching in silence, struggled out of her coat and buttoned it about her little sister

Nance threw her a smile, a drawn, set smile that Connie Columbine wouldn't have recognized.

"Come hop me, Evelyn," she said gaily. "Why don't you make some of the little ones and keep them moving."

One after another they got them to their feet, those weary youngsters from Rome, unable to understand, protested, weeping. Others did their brave best to help. It was nearly noon when, as the wind subsided, Jack said the words that struck terror to his sister's heart:

"I'm going now, Nancy." His voice trembled a little. "As I see it, there's no other way. Keep up your courage; and for God's sake, Nance, keep fighting. Unless the wind starts up again I'll reach that ranch in a few hours."

"And—if you don't?"

Their eyes met, and Nance knew her brother realized how slim a chance he had. Her lips trembled; but he made a gesture toward the children.

"I know but I can't let them die, Nancy, while there's a chance to save them. Still," (turning to the boy who wore his jacket), "I'm going for help and it looks as if I'd have to take that coat. No, I won't need the socks" (as the little boy stooped bravely to remove them). "Tom Osgood, you keep the kiddies moving. I'm counting on you older ones to help."

"Look here," spoke up the boy suddenly, "you find a fence, Jack, and follow it if you can. Dad told me once that if ever I got caught out in a blizzard to find a fence and just hang onto it. And if you run into a mail box you'll know a gate is somewhere near. Gosh! Jack, I—I sorter wish you wouldn't go."

Jack forced a smile.

"Now don't you worry, tsid. I'll get there and so long as the wind stays quiet. You just help Nancy every way you can; and whatever happens, don't go to sleep. Keep thinking that by night we'll be safe home. Good- good-bye—every one."

He did not look at Nancy as he strode away. The girl knew that he did not dare to; and in another moment that last tall form was blotted out. What fate would meet Jan, alone on these terrifying plains, she hardly dared to contemplate. Suppose (And with a clutch of fear), was the wind rising?

Time passed, interminable hours that seemed unending. The dreaded wind died down, returned, and died again, not to return. No one could rub li- legs or arms of some small sleeper. Nancy, exhausted, sat for a time, holding within her cost a boy of seven who whimpered with the cold. Later, when a semblance of warmth returned to him and he dropped asleep, she too came to sleep about the crowded quarters, and like her brother, chafe numb hands and feet.

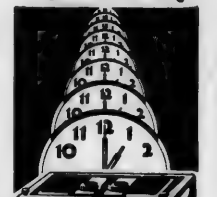
AIR CELL battery lives on air for 1000 hours..



Here is the "A" battery which has revolutionized the radio industry. It is making the battery set as efficient and as simple to operate as an electric receiver.

Eveready Air Cell needs no recharging. It energizes itself by "breathing" oxygen—it literally "lives on air" for 1000 playing hours.

●

With the Air Cell there is no gradual slackening of power which so often spoils radio reception. It maintains itself at full strength to the end.

●

Don't envy your city friends who have electrically operated radio sets. Now you can have the same clear reception with no trouble or bother. That is, if you buy a new Air Cell Radio.

These new sets, now made by all Canadian radio manufacturers, use the Eveready Air Cell "A" battery which does away with storage batteries and needs no recharging.

The amazingly long life of the Air Cell—with no upkeep costs—gives you true economy.

Will Not Face Storm

Experiment Was Conducted In France With Carrier Pigeons

Carrier pigeons won't carry secrets across thus shattering another cherished illusion of devotees to daily habit. An experiment was carried out by French military experts and pigeon fanciers on the Basse Lande road, Calais, here where atmospheric disturbances similar to an electrical storm were produced. This was done by generating powerful "charged" Hertzian waves of 200 amperes. At the same time several hundred military pigeons were released from their cotes Nearing an electrical storm, the pigeons hovered about the aerial a few minutes, then flew right back to their cotes. They refused to budge until the "storm" was over.

Little Helps For This Week

Even as Father, for so it seemed good to thy sight. Matthew 11 26.

Let nothing make thee sad or fretful,
Or too regretful:
What God hath ordered must be right.
Then find in it thine own delight

If we listen to our self-love we shall estimate our lot less by what it is than by what it is not shall cease to be indifferent to and blind to its possibilities, and comparing it only with imaginery lives shall indulge in fattering dreams of what we would do if we had the power, give it we had wealth, and be if we had the opportunities. If we yield ourselves unto God and sincerely accept our lot as assigned by Him we shall count up its contents and interpret its omissons, and be it as feeble as a cripple's or as narrow as a child's, we shall find in it resources of good surpassing our greatest aims and sacred claims that will keep awake our highest will.

HARD FROSTS TUESDAY AND WEDNESDAY NIGHTS

Snow on Tuesday

Following a beautiful warm Sunday, the weather clouded over on Monday afternoon and rain threatened that evening. Tuesday saw the thermometer huddle around just below the freezing point, and the sleet soon gave way to a snowfall of one inch. Tuesday night the thermometer sank to a low point of 11 above, registering 16 degrees of frost. This cleared the atmosphere. A cold wind held away Wednesday and the mercury went lower to 13 above. Thursday is much warmer and again promises settled weather.

Badminton Season Opens Sunday

The Arena Badminton club will be opened for play on Sunday next Oct. 13. All intending members and members are invited to attend and enjoy a few games during the day. The official opening will probably take place a little later in the season.

Any people who are uncertain whether to play, are urged to try a few games and also to drop into the club at any time and watch the games in progress in order to gain an idea of it. Don't wait to be urged to play, take the initiative yourself. Badminton can be picked up easily and is a source of real enjoyment and exercise.

World Wheat Situation Improves

World's burdensome wheat surplus has practically disappeared. World's available supplies will come closer to world's requirements than in any year since 1928

Rust in Canada and the U.S.A., drought in Argentina and Australia have brought about this situation, and as a rise in price. Fear of war also is tending to increase price. Other price-making factors are the amounts Russia and European countries will offer for sale. The purchasing power of the wheat importing countries as well will have an influence. In any case the situation from the viewpoint of the producer has greatly improved.

SEARLE GRAIN COMPANY, LIMITED, WINNIPEG

Opening Of V.S.A. Postponed One Week

Due to the fact that the cutting of many of the oat fields has been delayed this fall, and also due to the fact that harvest and threshing has been later than usual in parts of Northern Alberta, the Minister of Agriculture, the Hon. Wm. N. Chase, has decided to set the opening date of the Vermilion School of Agriculture one week ahead of the date first announced. The opening date had been set for October 22nd, but has now been changed to October 29th.

The Agricultural work so given at the school is for farm boys and the opening and closing of the school is designed, as far as possible, so that the boys may see the fall work well out of the way before they leave the farm, and on the other hand that they may be home again in time for the spring work. The Home Economics work is for all girls as it is largely a winter course.

Both courses are free in that there are no tuition fees or any kind and only the board and room for the five months at $24.00 per month. There are three small student fees—$8.00 Tuition Fee; $2.00 Medical Fee and $2.00 Athletic Fee. The Caution Fee, less cost of any damage done, is to be refunded at the end of the term.

As might be expected Vermilion and district has always supplied a liberal attendance for the school and this year is no exception. Those registered from within approximately 50 miles of Vermilion are: Helen Hart, Ruby Cunningham, Ray Shaw, Arthur Furness, Leslie Olma, Harvey Rankin, John and James Cameron, Raymond Taylor, all of Vermilion. Clarice Johnson, Andrew Machin, Kenneth Blackburn, Joe Stewart and Douglas Clark, Hannah Mae Morgenroth, Edna Peden, Wm. Anderson, and Ronald Peden, Minburn; Lena Oldenberg, Tulliard; Jean McGillivray, Lester Hillaby, Marwayne; Betty Harrington, Streamsview; R. Gray, Greenlawn; Irene Patnoe, Elaine Lindell and Norman Welchman, Mirenej; Raymond Trotter, Rmalyda, Paul Thornton, St. Paul; Vernon and Leonard Kosar, Herbert Whiddale, Dewberry; Lawrence Schmalshmer, Spodden; Edna and Joe Burlingueite, Owlspye Rose Christiansen, Marwayne; Agnes Vasland, Auburndale, Bernice Brule and Lillian Ridasig, Lea Park. A number of other boys and girls are to be heard from yet.

Do not forget that the date of opening has been postponed from October 22nd to October 29th.

CO-OPERATIVE STORE ENLARGING PREMISES

The Co-op store is again enlarging its premises, taking in additional space to the south of the Drinnan-Mahon block. This has been necessitated by the increasing volume of business and a growing list of shareholders.

Alterations at present under way will make a much more attractive store and enable the manager to display added lines at less merchandising cost.

PLACING PURE BRED STOCK IN DISTRICT

R. F. Matheson of Burns & Co.'s Canadian Department is spending a week or ten days in the Vermilion district placing pure bred dairy cattle where the producers are trying to get the producers to breed and have better dairy cows.

Burns and Co. maintain an Extension Department where they loan and finance this work, chiefly in districts where the producers are trying to dairy with inferior grade cows. It has been decidedly proven that pure bred dairy cattle are far more profitable for the producer to handle than any other kind. The chief obstacle so far has been in financing a pure bred cows to start a proper pure bred. This difficulty is now done away with, as P. Burns & Co. are offering a very attractive deal to anyone interested in obtaining a few head of any good breed of dairy cows.

It would probably take too much space here to give the details of this plan, but having loaned it matter this paper is of the opinion that a farmer having a leaning towards dairying should get into touch with Mr. Matheson's manager Jos. Hebert once. The company have only a limited number of these pure bred stock to dispose of at present they are being sold on a $50.00 per head with an easy terms plan, quick action is necessary.

Tenders Called For Post Office Alterations

Work To Local Men - Materials To Be Bought Here

In response to an enquiry made at the Weekly luncheon of the Board of Trade on Monday, J. W. G. Morrison, M. C. announced that the department of public works had called for tenders from local contractors for the renovation and enlargement of the former Royal Bank building for post office purposes. There will be an addition made to the rear of the premises of a brick structure which will be used to receive and deliver mails. A door will connect with the main office. The stairway at the rear of building will be removed from its present location and placed lengthways on the other side of the addition. The outside of the present building is to be revamped all woodwork painted and the interior cleaned and redecorated. All varnished interiors are to be refinished and the inside of the vault kalsomined. All previously varnished surfaces on the upper floor are also to be re-varnished and the plaster walls to be cased and painted. The boxes will be placed about where the Grim relics of the unsuccessful Polish revolt against Russian rule in 1863 have been found in a monastery at Vilna. Legend has always related that Vilna was honeycombed with underground passages, and recently researchers were undertaken to find them. After several days' work lapping the floor of the 16th century Dominican convent the excavators found an underground passage beginning near the altar steps Below was the old Dominican cemetery Bones and rotten of defunct monks lay in open coffins on shelves In an adjoining chamber a ghastly sight greeted the explorers Piled on one side in heaps were bodies of men, women and children not decomposed owing to lack of air They were just as the manne of rebels who had hidden in the catacombs, been found and massacred by the Russians, and left where they had fallen

China's Women Pirates

Terror Stricken Travellers Flee When They Were A Bounty

China's women pirate seldom seen but famous in song and story along the South China coast, were a grim reality in 1931 terror stricken Chinese travellers who arrived at Hongkong aboard the coastal steamer Lokfung Wharf and the ship were in the hands of two female buccaneers and their female subordinates for four days The passengers and ship were robbed of $250,000 in cash and silver bars and the pirates, after killing one passenger and wounding three, escaped in a small boat to a junk moored in the offing. The victims said the female chieftains were a strange mixture of merciless cruelty and womanly tenderness Before escaping to shore they gave a brother of the slain passenger $10 "to provide a funeral" and $2.50 to each passenger "For transportation"

Prairie Men In March

Well Worth Watching For Stakes Making Of The Arctic

Arctic citizens, white and native, of Canada are decent, law-abiding people, well worth working for, Right Rev. A. L. Fleming, Bishop of the Arctic, a former rector of Saint John, N B., said on his arrival in Winnipeg from the East over Canadian National Railways.

"I have a great admiration for the white man of the North," Bishop Fleming said, "not because he is a religious man. Some of them are Many are not. But because he is a real man, facing hardships with courage"

The health of the Eskimo, due to a combination of causes, is better than it was In the first place, missionaries, the Hudson's Bay Company, or the R C M P. were all able to give out dentitute rations in time of epidemic or shortage of food, and the Dominion Government would refund the expenditure. In the old days the natives simply died without care. Increase of hospitalization and better medical superintendence gave the natives a better chance at healthy survival. Trading and police post establishes had some knowledge of medicine which was available to the sufferers. Before there was no hospital

In Bishop Fleming's diocese, which includes all of Canada within the Arctic circle, and dips down to the 54th parallel at Fort George, two hospitals are operated under his jurisdiction, one at Pangnirtung, Baffin Land, and the other at Aklavik, at the mouth of the Mackenzie River. Skilled youth graduating from mission schools were being absorbed into the growing life of the North "They must be trained in the North," said Dr. Fleming He told of boys from the Anglican residential school at Shingle Point, Mackenzie River, being taken on as apprentices in herding the reindeer recently brought in to that part of the country He saw a future for Eskimos in this work

Iron Jewelry Once Prized

Other Metals Replaced By New Discovery In 500 B.C.

Iron jewelry—not gold gems or diamonds—was most prized by the ancient Greeks between the Peloponnesian period and 500 years before Christ, Professor T Leslie Shear, archaeologist of Princeton University, has discovered. In his excavations in the Athenian Agora or market place, Dr. Shear has unearthed many bodies of women bearing ornaments of iron, including necklaces rings and bracelets. Dr. Shear's explanation is that iron had just been discovered about that time and replaced in vogue among the ornamenta of gold, bronze, copper and other metals.

Speed Still To Blame

Bad driving carrlessness, bad manners and many other things contribute to the toll of traffic accidents which causes so much concern today But the mean contributor is still Speed excessive Speed. Italian Soldiers Deserting

Hundreds Have Fled Desire To Fight In Africa

Ludwig Loring, in the New York Post says Italian soldiers are deserting to Switzerland, France and Yugoslavia by the hundreds. They have no desire to give their lives for their Fascist fatherland, preferring the uncertainties of a refugee's existence to the certainty of disease and death which many those who go to Africa at the Duce's command

Nuovo Avanti (Paris) publishes interviews with a number of these deserters. "The troops leaving for Africa," says one, "have no faith in the Government's optimistic reports A Fascist Government may deny that disease is ravaging the expeditionary forces. The soldiers know better They will find a strong anti-war agitation even among the Fascist fanatics" Ill in Milan I was given a leaflet urging young men of Italy to flee, to refuse to go to war. In one district, (Rovereto) every soldier with whom I spoke was either a deserter or positively opposed to war. If running away were not a matter of money, hundreds of thousands would have made their way across the borders to evade conscription . . ."

India Becoming Richer

Research Shows Standard Of Living Is Also Higher

India is growing richer rapidly, according to researches made by B. R. Sen, I.C.S., of Bombay, who has been Press Officer to the Government of Bengal The Government has just published his brochure in which he argues that the higher standard of living can be seen from the increase in the consumption of a large amount of articles imported from foreign countries as well as those of local production. The per capita consumption of cotton cloth in the beginning of the twentieth century was only 3.39 yards; it has now risen to 12.11 yards, an increase of over 50 per cent. He also points out that, while the average income has risen from 30 rupees in 1871 to 107 rupees in 1921, the rise in prices during this period has roughly been two and a half times. This shows, he says, that the real income of the mass of the people has been doubled.

Up to 1930 Canada was a net importer of canned vegetables but since that year has become a net exporter to an increasing extent, the exports in 1934 being higher than in any year since 1926 when shipments of tomato products to the United States (where the pack was short) were exceptionally heavy.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

ISAIAH PORTRAYS THE SUFFERING SERVANT

Golden text: With his stripes we are healed. Isaiah 53:5.

Lesson: Isaiah 52:13 to 53:12; John 19:17-37.

Devotional Reading: Revelation 5:9-14.

Explanations And Comments

The Servant of Jehovah a Man of Sorrows, verses 1-5. "Servant" is a great by the term the servant of Jehovah's Individual allusions to the Servant of Jehovah are scattered throughout the second part of the Book of Isaiah, but the main passages are these: 41: 8-20; 42:1-7, 18-25; 43:5-10; 49:1-9; 50:4-10; 52:13 to 54:12. What was the conception in the mind of the prophet? Was the Servant a personification, or a person? If a personification, was he the Israelitish nation as a whole, or the best portion of that nation the righteous nucleus? The exiles in Babylon, or that part who remained loyal to Jehovah throughout all the trials of the Exile and thus kept alive the true religion? If a person, was he ideal, or real? A prophet, or Hezekiah, or Jehoiachin? Or was he one still to come, the promised Messiah?

The Vicarious Suffering of the Servant of Jehovah, verses 4-6. It has been the burdens of others, not his own, that the Servant has borne, or that we thought that he was stricken, smitten and afflicted by God because of his own sins, whereas his sufferings were caused by the sins of others. "All we like sheep have gone—our transgressions, our iniquities." In the ancient world a great sufferer was thought to be a great sinner. Hence Eliphaz to Job and Job repeatedly declared or hinted that his grievous sufferings were sent because of some hidden sin of his in the past; and how Jesus protested against the assertion hegore, that on whom a tower fell were sinners more than most men, Luke 13:1-5.

One Of Italy's Problems

Cannot Get Essential War Materials Or Foreign Loans

A Rome despatch told of Mussolini imposing heavy taxes to finance preparations for war, war, war! Such a step might solve his problem in honor; it is the best way to get it will be known as soon as Italy has materials abroad.

Italy is heavily dependent upon foreign sources for many of the raw materials essential to a military effort. She must import cotton, wool, coal, iron, petroleum, and many chemicals This she can only do by resort to gold, to foreign exchange, or to foreign loans.

Italy can't get the loans in London, and, after the experience of the United States with war debts, it is not likely she can get them in New York. Therefore, and apart altogether from the fact that sanctions might subject her to economic isolation, Italy's position seems impossible. She might be able to finance a short war, but a long war would be against difficulty in a long one. All the gold she possesses couldn't begin to buy what she must have by way of cash—even though the buying were possible Ottawa Journal.

Arabs Form First Parliament

Nomads Of Near East Select Sheik As President

That the Bedouins, the Arab nomads of the Near East, have formed their first "Parliament" has been reported from Cairo, Egypt. Delegates from 78 Bedouin tribes, representing 1,000,000 nomads, met in a tent under the presidency of Sheik El Arab S. E. Hamied El Basel Pasha. They formed a constitution to deal with such questions as the development of compulsory education among Egyptian Bedouins, protection of the rights held by Bedouins, the preservation and maintenance of Bedouin customs, and conditions which the development of intellectual intercourse between the Bedouins of Egypt and those of Arab countries.

Wheat For Churchill

Gun And A Shirt Million Bushels To Be Stored At Bay Port

One and a half million bushels of wheat are being loaded at points on the Canadian National Railways in Saskatchewan for shipment to winter storage at Churchill on the Hudson Bay for the Saskatchewan Wheat Pool, it was learned

Most of the wheat will be loaded for Churchill in the Prince Albert division.

Two hundred and fifty cars have been shipped to the port to date, which amounts to approximately 875,000 bushels of wheat.

A Colony Of Forgotten People

Families From Southern States Live In Amazon Jungle

The discovery in the Amazon jungle of a colony of "forgotten" people, descendants of aristocratic Southern families who migrated, by Dr. W. H. Haas, lecturer and Professor of Geology at Brackenridge University, Chicago. Dr. Haas came upon the colony during one of his exploration trips up the Amazon. The colony is named Santerin, and is situated on the banks of the Tapa Joe River, a tributary of the Amazon. The settlement, Dr. Haas said, is 600 miles inland from the ocean. In the tiny village of about 800 people, Dr. Haas met a woman who had moved to the trop're immediately after the war between the States "She was living in the past," he declared. "As I talked with her she seemed to forget her bedraggled clothes, her bare feet and her primitive surroundings. She recalled her father's extensive plantation back in Alabama, with its slaves singing and working in the cotton fields." She told Dr. Haas that a number of Southern families, who were dissatisfied when their slaves were freed as a result of the war, moved to the Amazon basin, where slavery was permitted and where they hoped to begin life anew. But the hopes of these plantation owners were soon blasted. The moist climate was not fit for growing cotton and there was no market for other products. In the midst of dense forests and located so far from civilization, they could not make contact with against the sanction lagers. Many of the younger Southerners, dissatisfied with the poverty and ignorance of the village, have returned to the United States. The others remained to eke out an existence by growing pumpkins, cocoa and beans.

New Optical Apparatus

Enables Use Of Ultra-Violet Rays In Foundries To Save Sight

For a long time the electrical industry has been troubled on account of the danger caused to the electric light bulb tending to rot the flex which suspends it. In consequence, the British Electrical and Allied Industry Research Association asked three young London scientists to find a remedy.

Those scientists have been at work for nearly three years and have produced an optical apparatus which makes it possible to see best. Looking at a suspended electric-light bulb through the instrument, one can see just the smoke licking about the flex, just above the bulb

The apparatus can also be put to other valuable uses, for instance, finding the best methods of heating and ventilating rooms, theatres or factories. With a spectroscope of a room one can see the draughts and paths of heat

A test made with a heated rod makes it look like a flaming brand Even an outwardly cold hand placed against the instrument proves to be on fire, and one's breath, even in a well-warmed room, looks like a jet of tobacco smoke

The Safety in Mines Research Board are already using the device for discovering the force and effects of explosives.

ASK YOUR DOCTOR FIRST, MOTHER

Before You Give Your Child In Unknown Remedy to Take

Every day, unthinking, mothers take the advice of unqualified persons — instead of their doctors' — on remedies for their children.

If they knew what the scientists know, they would never take this chance.

Doctors Say "PHILLIPS' For Your Child

When it comes to the frequently-used "milk of magnesia" laxatives, for over 50 years, have said "PHILLIPS' Milk of Magnesia — the safe remedy for your child."

Remember this — And Always Say "Phillips'" When You Buy. Your child deserves it! Keep this in front of mind, see that you get it — Genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia.

SYNOPSIS

Nancy Nelson is a sub-deb, a gay, irresponsible girl at nineteen, with no care beyond the choice of her costume for her coming-out party. Suddenly in the market crash, her indulgent father loses all he had, and his family is faced with the necessity of a simpler method of living At this juncture a letter is received from an eccentric relative in Colorado, who offers the girl a home if what seems to be impossible conditions.

Nancy set out one afternoon to climb to the top of a hill as he to obtain a view of the surrounding landscape and misses the path Aaron Tubbs had told her to follow. A truck comes along the road, driven by Mark thew Adams, and she asks him which way to go. They exchange the hills look around, and then go on to Cousin Calpurnia's. There Mark Adam tells Nancy that he is going to Lake has broken his leg, and that Jack Nelson has been hurt in a fall out while Luke's leg gets better. While Jack away, Nancy finds that she is lonesome, and having no books to read, the idea of starting a public library at Pine Ridge seems a good one, and Nancy writes home to get her parents to send all the books they could spare and all they could indoce others to help them.

Nancy and Mark Adams become very good friends and neighbors. Mark's mother responded enthusiastically to Nancy's schoolmates called up from town, as well as some of the Pine Ridge, Colorado, girls, and after calls from Exeter asking if Jack was as badly off as the papers intimated and if anyone sub-deb, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James C. Nelson of Boston and cousin of Miss Calpurnia Nelson, pioneer resident of Pine Ridge, Colorado, stopped to her invitation to spend with her children who were freezing to death before her open stove, while brother Jack, seventeen, facing the storm in hope of bringing help, succeeded in reaching a distant ranch and was collapsed after giving word of the whereabouts of the missing bus. Without the knowledge of the other two young people, sixteen children would undoubtedly have perished. Frantic parents—"

Margaret read no further because her hands were shaking so that she could not see the type; but she managed to call, a call that somehow startled her husband; and at the very moment the front door bell rang.

John sat the coffee pot on the stove, and said: "You answer that bell, son. I'll see what Mother wants."

Margaret was lying back against the pillows, her face colorless. One hand still clutched the paper, and a tragic gesture told her husband that

"It's a telegram!" cried Phil, bursting into the room in great excitement. "Maybe it's from Cousin Columbine asking me to visit her. Jack's cool. Without Tom's help, Nance told herself, she could not endure much longer. That boy was a hero! How many times had she seen him, when on the brink of running full himself together valiantly to help the younger ones. Why, he was drowsy now, poor darling! His task accomplished, he had slumped into that huddled mass upon the floor. Oh, he mustn't go under! Not brave little Tom Osgood! Nancy shook herself up, shaking the boy with all her failing strength.

"Wake up, Tommy! I need you! We must help these children. Don't go to sleep, Tom. . . . Keep fighting! . . . fighting! . . ."

An hour later when the bus door snapped opened and Matthew Adam, his uncle, and two grim-faced fathers stepped forcefully inside, Nancy's fur coat was covering a mound of children, while the girl herself, almost too spent to realize that help had come, sat on the floor amid a drift of snow with only a child's thin sweater covering her thin silk underwear, nodding, nodding, as she rubbed mechanically at a small boy's frozen feet.

Hence it devolved on Dad to get the family breakfast, but before beginning that unaccustomed duty he stopped to take in his morning paper.

"Take that up to your mother, Phil. She may like to glance at the news before I go. But come right back, sonny, I want a confab with you!"

Margaret looked up happily as the boy entered her room.

"It's good to hear Dad's whistle, isn't it?" she said, recalling for long months when that cheerful sound was silenced. "I feel like a stacker lying here while the turns over in the doctor says I'm not to stir for another week. Thank goodness Aunt Louise will be out to-night. Don't forget to send the paper, Phil; and don't your father a heaping tablespoon—"

"Look here!" The small boy's eyes were fixed on the paper. "Mother, I've been a swarthy blizzard in Colorado! I wonder if it was near Cousin Columbine's!"

Margaret reached for the paper, continuing almost automatically: "A telegram responsible to every one Phil." Then as he ran to join his father, her eyes fell on these arresting headlines:

As he sped away, his father stared down at the yellow envelope. For a moment it seemed as if he could not face its contents. Then, bracing himself inwardly, he tore it open, eyes seeking the signature before he read:

DON'T BE UNDULY ALARMED BY REPORTS IN PAPERS. MOTH WILL HAVE BEST OF CARE AT HOSPITAL. JACK MAKING GOOD FIGHT AGAINST PNEUMONIA AND ALL POSSIBLE BRING DONE STOP TELEGRAPH IF COMING STOP WILL WIRE AGAIN AT NOON AFTER TALKING WITH DOCTOR STOP AM PROUD OF OUR CHILDREN COLUMBINE NELSON.

Margaret, watching his tense face, cried out: "Oh—is it—"

"Not that!" James broke in quickly. "Not that, dear!" and read the message, his voice trembling. Then the small boy was back, calling as he ran up the stairs: "It's Aunt Lou on the telephone. She wants you, Dad. Where's that telegram? Is it for me, Mother?"

James Nelson stammered for a moment before there was a bit more color in Margaret's face. Then, avidly perusing the story, lifted his head from the newspaper to exclaim. "Gee, Daddy! Just think! Nance rescued any socks! He'd put 'em on a little fuller that was freezing. And Nance had taken off her sweater and underclothes, and her dress'n her fur coat and everything. She had one of the kid's sweaters covering her little silk underwear, nodding, nodding, as she rubbed mechanically at a small boy's frozen feet.

Odd Jobs In Hollywood

One Man Makes All The Cobwebs For Spooky Films

In the Hollywood studio is a man who has worked 10 years—and he has yet to see a film star. His works at night, every night he rises and sharpens the teeth of 300 saws for the army of carpenters using them the next day. His is only one of the many odd jobs that go to the making of a picture. There is the "cobweb spinner," for example. He makes cobwebs for all Hollywood "spooky" films they turn out in Hollywood every now and then. He spins them out of cotton waste which he first softens into gossamer strands by a strange electrical machine. When a glass is to be shot from one hand of a man to rope to be snipped by a bullet they call in Tex Driscoll, who has been doing this sort of thing for more than 16 years, and who has never missed yet. Perhaps the strangest job is that of Herman Fronzoni. He has to listen to music. Being the copyright expert, he can tell who wrote any few bars and where it comes from. That prevents the studio lifting music for which they might be asked to pay an exorbitant sum later.

Sapphire Is Favorite

Selected As Betrothal Stone By Brides Of King's Sons

The betrothal stones of King and Queen have been at one in their choice of betrothal stones, says the London Evening Herald. Elizabeth Bowes-Lyon set the example, which was followed a year ago by Princess Marina of Greece, and has been copied now by Lady Alice Scott. No stone is as beautiful as the true blue sapphire, especially when its lights are enhanced by diamond setting. The Princess Royal selected an emerald engagement ring, probably because so many sapphire stones were included in the Clanricarde jewels, which were a wedding present from her bridegroom.

Should Apply To Motorist

Refraining From Conversation With Driver Might Prevent Accidents

Don't talk to the driver!

Why should the familiar order apply only to the motorman? He at least has rails to hold him in the line of duty. The motorist has only a steering wheel.

Who can hold the car strictly to the straight and narrow with nonsensical jabbering into his ear? How can he concentrate with a shrill voice yelling at every curve, "Look!" The front seat driver is accused of many crimes and misdemeanors, of some of which he is not guilty. The back seat one is perhaps criminal. But the man at the wheel gets the devastating headline and the plaintiff attorney's snabbing remarks to the jury.

"Don't talk to the driver!" ought to be hung over every motorist's head. And to it should be added: "Don't let the driver talk to you!"

The place for a driver's tongue is in his cheek. The place for his hand is on the wheel, and not pointing out the pictures. And the place for his mind and eye is on the ribbon of concrete unrolling ahead.—Los Angeles Times.

Homage To Canada's Dead

Earl Of Bessborough Places Wreath In Peace Tower

Homage to Canada's dead in the Great War was paid by the Earl of Bessborough as one of his last official acts before he left this country. Accompanied by his staff, His Excellency proceeded to the memorial chamber in the Peace Tower at Ottawa, and there deposited a wreath of maple leaves and poppies on the Altar of Remembrance. Following the ceremony the Governor-General was presented with a document which voiced the Legion's appreciation of the interest manifested by His Excellency in ex-service men's problems throughout his regime in Canada.

Little Helps For This Week

Let not him that girdeth on his harness boast himself as he that putteth it off 1 Kings. 20 2.

Was I not girded for the battle-field?
Here I not balm of pride and glittering sword?
Behold the fragments of my broken shield,
And hear me Thy heavenly armor, Lord

Oh, be at least able to say in that day—Lord I am on here. I have been careless, cowardly, sometimes all but mutinous. Punishment I have deserved, I deny it not. But a traitor I have never been. I have tried to fight on Thy side in Thy battle against evil. I have tried to do the duty that lay nearest me, and to leave whatever Thou didst commit to my charge a little better than when I found it. I have not been good, but I have at least tried to be good. Make the will for the deed dear Lord. Strike not my unworthy name off the roll-roll of the noble and victorious army which is the blessed company of all faithful people, and let me too found written in the Book of Life, even though I stand the lowest and last on the list.

A Robot Lighthouse

Automatic Lamp And Fog Siren Protect Perilous Spot

A remarkable robot lighthouse which has almost human reactions was recently put into service on the dangerous Nivelik Rock, near Jamaland It is electrically operated and the Breton peasants have nicknamed it "Monsieur Nivelik," so impressed are they by its power. The giant lamp of the lighthouse is of 2,000,000 candle-power, the power being laid on from the mainland. It automatically goes into action when darkness falls. Even if the power cable is broken, an acetylene lamp will automatically take over. A huge siren switches itself on in bad weather The Nivelik Rock is situated in such a perilous spot that an ordinary lighthouse with a keeper is impracticable. Boats can only reach it once or twice a year

THE PLOUGHSHARE OF PEACE

Prolific trail of Canadian made farm implements and machinery is expected from the Dominion exhibit at a forthcoming international display. At the present moment, the one geographical spot to which all eyes are turned is Ethiopia and although little thought is being given to Lambda's vision of the time when there shall beat their swords into "pruning hooks," that is exactly what Canada is doing. A study of the map will show that Ethiopia is surrounded by Canada's harrows, seeders, and ploughs, even as far as the confines on the vast continent of Africa, from Morocco in the extreme north-west to the Italian Somali in the north-east, down to the farthest south in Cape Town. While munitions of war are being piled up around Ethiopia, the latest consignments of Canadian-made agricultural implements are making their peaceful and beneficient entrance into contiguous countries. Fr. Africa Egypt, and the Anglo Egyptian Sudan on the north and north west; into British Somaliland on the east, while in the south virtually a solid phalanx of Canadian plough shares stands the continent through our Kenya Colony, now called British East Africa, into Belgian Congo, Rhodesia Portuguese South Africa and British South Africa. Not only in the countries of Africa, but in those of Europe, Asia, North and South America and in the outlying out posts of the world whose shores are laid by the waves of the seven seas can action farm implements and machinery find their way.

UNDER-CONSUMPTION

Reference was made in a recent issue of The Standard quoted by the Alberta Wheat Pool, to a report presented by the health organization of the League of Nations to the effect that much of the world's population now estimated at a billion nine hundred million is chronically under nourished. Poverty and ignorance are to blame the report states, but mainly poverty. Even in the face of world wheat surplus accumulations during the past few years which threatened economic stabilization perhaps and belief hesitated to take thousands of litres years year. These diseased can be eliminated by the consumption of wheat proven by the recent experiences of Newfoundland.

The report recognizes one of the greatest needs of modern citizenship is that governments seeking to dispose of food accumulations and governments needing such food, for the health of their own citizens should find and find quickly some be the two agencies.

Ill all reasonableness might be added the professors of the surplus food should not be raised to create a loss on the products thereof.

The town treasury is quite depleted at the present time and it is to the interest of everyone to see that it goes back into a more healthy state as soon as possible by coming in to the town office and securing up what little amounts that you may owe. OBITUARY

MARY ADALINE GANTON

Quite a gloom was cast over the town and district last week when it became known that Mary Adaline, beloved wife of Harvey Ganton, had passed away in the Vermilion hospital on the morning of Oct. 2nd. She was only 32 years and 5 months of age.

The deceased was born in the province of Quebec but came to Vermilion with the family at the age of 3 years. Her parents, the late Mr. and Mrs Herbert Crosby, homesteaded in the Wolfsdale district. Here Mary lived and went to school until the spring of 1917 when they moved into Vermilion. Here again she attended public and high school. On January 4th, 1932 she was married to Harvey Ganton, who survives her and leaves also a little son, Alan, and infant daughter Alice. Other members of the family are two sisters, Mrs. Leo Jones and Mrs Lester Miller, two brothers, Raymond and Edwin, all of Vermilion.

The funeral was held from the United church on Friday October 4th, by service being conducted by the Rev. H. A. Boyd. A large congregation gathered, including relatives and friends from the Wolfsdale district, many of whom paid their last respects to the departed at J. Waring's Funeral Home. The Pallbearers were F. C. Long, E. Corley, L. Shrigley, J. Baker, W. McLennan and G. Webb. Beautiful floral tributes were received from the following: Daddy, Alan, Alice and Raymond, Carol and Leo, Janet, Lester and Edwin, Mr and Mrs E. Corley, Aunt Annie, Ruth and Ted, George and Evelyn, Grades 7 and 8, Vermilion Public school Mr. and Mrs. Carl Dean, and Norman, of Edmonton, Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Moore and Mrs. Eva Beavers, Edmonton, Lily and Alf, Kathleen and Wilfred, Mr. and Mrs Charlie Wilson, The Hoback Family, Miss Keith, Woo, Imbutte and Family.

The first official estimate of Canadian wheat production in 1935 anticipates a crop of 290,541,000 bushels comprising 16,000,000 of Durum wheat, 241,272,000 bushels of other spring wheat and 32,787,000 bushels of autumn wheat. Included in the 241,272,000 bushels of common spring wheat are 50,000,000 bushels of wheat adjudged to be unfit for milling.

ELECTRICITY

Electricity as a fire hazard is listed among the first four causes. During the last three years the number of losses in Canada from this cause totalled 9,746.

Safety from this hazard means adequate wiring and installations, and the proper use of appliances. The best guide in electrical work is the Canadian Electrical Code, and only persons familiar with its requirements are competent.

Do not attempt to alter or extend wiring unless you thoroughly understand it. Do not bridge fuse plugs or use coins back of them. Do not overload your circuits by attaching several devices at the same time. A melting fuse plug is a danger signal. Find the cause. Do not overfuse. If the normal fuse will not stand, reduce the load. Do not hang drop cords on nails. Do not put paper shades on light bulbs. Do not permit switches, fixtures or appliances to be out of order.

The thanks of the community are due to Mr. J. W. G. Morrison, K.C. for the fine premises which will be occupied within a few weeks as the future post office for Vermilion. The Standard has reason to believe that this new building is but the first in what the town did not get a new building but while the latter might be more ornamental it is necessary to be a little distance from the real business centre of the town and thus prove not quite as convenient. The Standard also believes that the renovations and extension provided for will put more actual money in circulation in town than the erection of a new building which undoubtedly would be contracted for by some outside contractor who would bring in his own employees to do the work. As at present the work will be done by a local man and local men only will be employed. Mr Morrison has a good many enduring things to his credit in Vermilion and not the least of these will be our new post office building.

A Date To Remember, Oct. 17

It is several years since Vermilion music lovers were afforded the opportunity of hearing the artistic piano playing of Madaleine Moore, the gifted mician who is to appear at the United Church on Thursday evening, October 17th.

During those years, Miss Moore, like all true artists, has never ceased to study, and her outstanding performances from various radio stations throughout this country and the United States, as well as her numerous engagements as a personal Concert Recitalist, have added lustre to a name which has deservedly been in the front rank of the stars of the musical firmament.

Possessing a technique that is dazzling in its accuracy and dynamic power, Magdalene Moore adds those supreme attributes of the born artist —a vital sense of interpretation and a poetic gift of striking the atmosphere of her chosen selections. And in choosing her selections she is among the most versatile of public performers, her programme for this Vermilion visit containing numbers from composers both old and modern.

To the earnest music student her playing will prove an inspiration; to one who are not especially interested in the finer points of pianistic ability, her rendering of some of the compositions of the world's greatest composers cannot fail to appeal to that "finer" sense which we all possess to some degree.

Educationally, the visit of Miss Moore is of paramount importance. Music is, and ever will be, the most important of the academic arts. It knows no nationality—it is universal in its appeal to the highest intellect of mankind—and such artists of the calibre of Magdalene Moore are ideal vehicles for the transmission of these ideals.

Nor is Miss Moore the medium of presenting the evening's programme in its entirety.

Accompanying her and lending diversity, comes another artist of note. The name of Grace Leeman Siegert is known from coast to coast in the Dominion. Her impersonations and her dramatic readings have placed her services in high demand. To a brief period of study under artists of every or dramatic aspirations, she has what one might term a "gift" in humor.

Versatile to an amazing degree Grace Leeman Siegert holds her own in any type of rendition. To say that she is equally at home in her superb artistry.

Vermilion is exceptionally fortunate in being able to secure these two artists and it is confidently expected that a large audience will greet them on their visit to Vermilion. Reserved seats are on sale at Lamb's Drug Store at the door. Admission 75c, students and children 25 cents.

TRUCK BREAKS THROUGH BRIDGE

While taking a truck load of wheat to the elevator, Herb Elliott had the misfortune to fall through a platform bridge on Deer Creek. The truck did not fall to the bottom, as the platform was partly resting on the remaining timbers. After unloading the grain, a crew of neighbors men raised the truck to level ground. By very careful driving at time of accident, the truck was saved from having a badly wrecked frame. No damage at all was done.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

(This paper does not hold itself responsible for opinions expressed by correspondents.)

To the Editor —

An "AS" appeared in some of our local papers last week, a horse one "H. F. Spencer for Member" and if then went on to quote from the Ottawa Citizen, this, "Alberta cannot do better than to return some of the United Farmers Members, like H. F. Spencer, etc." Below this it states that the Ottawa Citizen is the leading Daily that has consistently supported Social Credit and with "Immediate effect" (of the Radio Plays) F. P. Conservatism, I assume it means one wonder how and where all this support was given, especially in a place like Ottawa.

But look! The Edmonton Journal of Sept. 25th, publishes a photo of Mr. Chas A. Dawson Editor of the Ottawa Citizen, who is accompanying Mr. W. L. Mackenzie King on his Western tour. Now wonder that some one wants to think favourably some Editor supporting Social Credit; asking that F. C. F. members be returned and even to assume he (about 1/4 of a Cent) Newspaper is his own investment that the Editor being doubtless a very level headed man knows that the U. F. policies are beneficial to humanity in this generation, and having learned that Social Credit has real merit would encourage all U. F. candidates should be returned rather than Social Credit Candidates or the latter would undoubtedly incur considerable embarrassment to Lib. & Cons. Administration should such a one as he happen be returned to power. Social Credit voters would do well to ponder upon these things for not be misled into voting for anyone but a candidate who is in the accompaniment of the Social Credit Party for as you did in the Provincial election which is your guide and you will win. Vote for Robert Fair.

With your permission I would like to make a few comments on the letter in your last issue over the name of Social Credit.

The Aberhart brand of Social Credit, dished up at the last Provincial election, in the minds of the supporters of the same, is the only policy that can save the people. However some of us think differently. Your correspondent says Mr. Spencer has represented this constituency for the past fourteen years, has given honest and sincere service, and we are proud of him and then to prove how proud he is of him he is prepared to turn him out, for an untried man, who may be all he thinks he is, or may not be but mainly because this good man Mr. Fair has 100 per cent Social Credit tucked away him. Quoting your correspondent further, he says, in a country like this, where the people are abundantly, everyone should have a high standard of living. (Mr. Spencer would I think endorse that) and that Social Credit proposes to do this by distributing Credit (in the other hand, Mr. Aberhart's Man not I suppose to do it by various taxes or levies which he (the unversed in economic affairs) will take away from the people to give back to them later. Your correspondent says the C. C. F. is naught, the individual for the State and that Social Credit is the State for the individual. What Parliament is it he wants to assure that the Editor being doubtless a very level headed man knows that the U. Tale of Heroic Achievement Marks C. P. R.'s 50th Anniversary

Canadian Pacific Day, November 7, next marks the fiftieth anniversary of the driving of the last spike, final completion of the Canadian Pacific line from Montreal to Vancouver and the final consummation of Canadian Confederation. Arrangements are now being made for its fitting celebration as that Canadian Pacific people and the country in general may be reminded of the part this Company has played in national development.

It is particularly fitting that the Company's jubilee year should be marked by the appearance of an important book bearing on its history and the new volume by J. Murray Gibbon, whose pictures he shows above, will be his seventeenth on that account. It is entitled "Road of Empire" and apart from its special interest to Canadians, the fine people as a most complete and interesting history of their own Commerce. It is in every respect and fascinating a tale of the discovery and development of Canada that it will merit a wide appeal to all who are interested in this country. It is published by the Bobbs Merrill Company in the United States and by Macmillan's in Canada and appears as an extremely handsome volume. Sixteen full colour illustrations and over two hundred in black and white help many the interest throughout, aided by a series of explanatory maps. It sells at $3.50 a copy. Despite its wide range of information and the vast amount of research and study that many have gone into the making, it is full of human interest and is an absorbing book in the story of its search for and the romance behind the creation of Canadian nationality.

History of the Canadian Pacific as it may be, it is a fascinating and important book long before the author set to record the first instalment. The early history of it's portion by rail and canoe is told with a wealth of hitherto unknown and the light reflected upon that one world famed town will become of the author.

Mr. Gibbon very largely ignores the common-place history book stand of early settlement and lays before us new incidents and hitherto neglected movements that led to the exploration and final conquering of the Canadian wilderness. Then, he recalls that in the time of Queen Anne the new demand for tea and the tremendous route for Chinese products and for Chinese house decorations turned merchant eyes towards the Orient and shortened the desire to find the North West passage. In a large part of his book is the story of this search for and the ultimate belief that a new road to the Pacific. The fur trade, dear to Governor and ultimately the opening up of the country on a land grant basis, more each played their big part in the development of C. P. R. but it was the search for the sea in the "East" that drew explorers, pioneer souls farmed it until Canada had become a Dominion and the Canadian Pacific Railway had been built.

BOARD OF TRADE NOTES

Several important matters were discussed at the regular Board of Trade luncheon on Monday. Namely the securing for the local creamery enough poundage of cream to insure the continued operation of the plant here. At present the Creamery at this point is being operated at a loss, its turnover is about 125,000 pounds per year, correspondent and the 200,000 pound mark the plant would be on a paying basis. Mr. Mallman of the P. Burns Co outlined plans they had for helping the dairy producers of this district. This plan is outlined in detail elsewhere in this paper. A committee of Jas. W. F. Pilde, D. A. Andrew, Geo. Webb and H. Taylor were named to forward the project as much as possible. Letter of co-operation of the Board of Trade was promised as each member feels that the Creamery is an institution that should be supported to the limit and that it is of inestimable value to both the town and country.

Progress was reported on the plans for the reception to Mr. and Mrs. Fair here. This is covered fully in another column of the paper.

The matter of the post office was brought up and a full and satisfactory report given by Mr. Mallman. This also appears in detail on the front page.

Mr. Tom Watts brought up the topic of a hockey team and this was not over until next luncheon on Monday, when the matter will be dealt with in minute detail

This was a very interesting meeting, the matters dealt with being of utmost importance and give the El Capehorn prospect a feeling that the Vermilion Board of Trade was indeed accomplishing many of its projects.

Mr T Watts was chairman of the meeting and appointed as his successor Donald Taylor

Mr Kaiser mentioned that it would probably be possible to obtain a highly qualified handmaster from the Keller camps and suggested that the Board of Trade take steps to secure such a person. It has since been recalled that a very competent musician and also a band master has recently taken up residence in the town and that it is now probable that arrangements for handling this important phase of musical work will be taken up with them.

What the Bennett Government Has Done . . . .

Changed an adverse trade balance of $103,000,000 to a favourable trade balance of $152,000,000.

Raised employment 36 p.c. since 1933. Slashed cost of Government.

Increased exports and internal trade while other nations lost.

Controllable expenditure reduced 29 p.c. Capital expenditure (railways, canals, public works) cut 77 p.c.

Maturing debt was refunded at a saving of $16,-500,000 annually.

Exports to Empire increased by more than 100 p.c. Exports to non-empire markets increased 20 p.c. The Bennett Government reversed the tide of depression and set Canada on the road to recovery.

Published by the Battle River Conservative Association.

TO THE ELECTORS

BATTLE RIVER CONSTITUENCY

Having been nominated as the Social Credit candidate for the Battle River Constituency in the forthcoming election, I take this opportunity of soliciting your support.

It must be clear to everyone that the policies of both the Conservative and the Liberal Parties responsible in a large measure for the difficulties in which we find ourselves, and consequently that they are not offer any adequate solution. It would be therefore useless to look to them for aiding in relieving our present circumstances. The Co-operation Party does not hold out much help, either, for Western Canada. So their platforms do not need very serious consideration.

We have left the U.F.A.-C.C.F. Party and Social Credit. Social Credit binding the one I represent may I ask you to compare very closely what is offered to you in these two platforms? The C.C.F. stands for the nationalization of all means of production and exchange, and of all land. In the final analysis its goal is similar to that of the Communist, viz: everything for the State.

On the other hand Social Credit places human needs first. We know that we have in this country the ability to produce an abundance of food, clothing and shelter, as well as services not deemed to give every person an adequate and high standard of living. We have that production today, although many thousands of us are living in penury and want. Social Credit proposes to see that everyone is assured of a decent and happy living, by a more even distribution of the goods and services produced. It proposes to do so by socialization of the country's credit, and to do it without disturbing the personal property, liability and enterprise of the individual. This can be done under Social Credit, but it can be done under no other policy.

The C.C.F.-U.F.A. candidate is making an appeal on his past services as your representative. I have a very high regard for him as a man and for the service he has given, but that does not appear to me to be sufficient to continue him in that capacity. He is the nominee of an affiliated party, both branches of which were the bitterest opponents of Social Credit in the late Provincial election. Moreover the policies of that party are so radical and so advanced that they are impossible of achievement in this generation.

Social Credit is something which may be put into force very soon. We have made an excellent start by electing a Social Credit Provincial Government. May I appeal to you to insure its safety by seeing that it has adequate support at Ottawa, and I pledge you that support if I am elected as your representative

Sincerely,

ROBERT FAIR, Paradise Valley, Alberta.

Spencer Pledges His Support

WILL FIGHT THE EVILS OF CAPITALISM

In order not to split the Workers' and Farmers' votes in the coming Federal Elections and in view of the necessity of electing a strong block of the C.C.F. and Communist to the next parliament to fight there in the interests of the common people, the local Federal Councils of Constituencies has forwarded to the local C. C. F. candidate, Mr. H. F. Spencer, a statement of the minimum programme which, in the light of the United Front against hunger war and fascism, and has appealed to him to state his position thereto.

Mr. H. F. Spencer has sent a reply over his own signature in which he pledges himself to work to better the daily conditions of the people, to fight against the evils of capitalism, and to lend every effort to work against the inroads of fascism, which is the deadliest to mankind itself.

In view of Mr. Spencer's pledge quoted above, we the Communist Election Committee of this constituency call upon all our supporters to give all the possible aid and support to H. F. Spencer, the C.C.F. candidate for Battle River and to make a mighty effort to elect him on October 14th next.

Yours for Unity of Common People Against Capitalism

RETURNING OFFICER
BATTLE RIVER

S. C. Heckbert, Returning Officer for the Federal Constituency of Battle River, has been a resident of Vermilion for the past ten years, coming originally from New Brunswick he served on the staff of the Vermilion School of Agriculture from 1925 to 1933 when he purchased the business of the late Mr. W. E. Sutton in Vermilion.

In addition to his regular business, he has, for several years, been Secretary of the Vermilion Agricultural Society and is at present Secretary of the Alberta Pairs Association and a Vice President of the Western Canada Pairs Association.

Mr. Heckbert served overseas from 1915 to 1918 and represents the Vegreville Zone on the Provincial Council of the Canadian Legion. He was one of the recipients of His Majesty's Jubilee Medals this year.

The preparatory work in connection with the Dominion Election has been completed and the Returning Officer has appointed two hundred Deputy Returning Officers to take charge of the polls in the Battle River Riding. Some 26,000 electors have been notified by postal cards of the time and place of the vote and ballot boxes have been distributed to the more remote parts of the constituency, the distribution of the remaining boxes is in progress.

In many cases schools are being used as polling stations, while private homes and halls have been called into service where schools are not conveniently situated.

The Battle River Constituency extends from the Saskatchewan Bound ary seventy-five miles west to Innisfree and from the Saskatchewan River more than 100 miles south to Provost, some 7,000 square miles of country being included in the riding.

Immediately, the vote is concluded on Monday next, Deputy Returning Officers will telephone their results to Vermilion and it is expected that the result of the vote will be available to the public in the late evening; the official result, however, will not be declared until October 21st., which has been set by Mr Heckbert as Declaration Day for Battle River.

NEIGHBORHOOD NARRATIVES

From the Neighborhood of the Mushrats

The Neighborhood is pulsing with activity these days. Threshing is being hurried to finish up, and we are reminded with the thousand last of those autumn duties propping up just now. Kiddies received a hurry-call to put final touches on school fair work, and Miss Arthur raised the dust getting it rattled around in. (She deserves the Pie Plate, but it has been bestowed; we are sure she agrees with us.) Then there are the hundreds of feathered temptations these days, and we have heard of some shooting and have a few guesses. Mrs. Connaughton, who loaned her bright presence to the Neighborhood last week, was called home while there, by sudden severe illness in the family. This time the city's bright lights beckon and Marjorie is to make her home in Edmonton for awhile.

The nicest thing we heard last week was the remark from the Big Chief of the threshing gang one evening as we were contemplating having to prepare breakfast for 5 30 next morning "And we'll be up early in the morning, boys, get some repair work to do on the engine" You ought to have seen the grins. Just as though many Lady Luck always be so kind. Eddie, and watch the corners next time.

The Neighborhood received a severe shock with the news of the death of Mrs. Harvey Canton. The lady was very popular among friends and relatives in the community, and deepest sympathy is extended to her bereaved husband and little ones.

Our callers "Bud" Funnell has decided to explore greener fields to the west, so he and "Farmer" Matheis have journeyed to the Lacombe district to seek their luck. Hope they get back before softball time again.

The Pie Plate is awarded Mr. Logan Glow who helped out a forgetful party by picking up some stray luggage on a grain-hauling trip and taking same within the owner's convenient reach. What would we do without these knights of the road?

Johnny Wilhite seems to bade fair to follow in the footsteps of his well known pie-eating father, but we'll bet he can show the Wilhite pew a trick or two in regard to making displeks disappear.

The stock, as smart in so many ways, have found out that the firm hand of the Boss is missing from home, and they can think up a new one every hour to keep an awkward feminine "hand" bewildered and busy.

The President of the Glee Club announces that if all goes well this month, the regular Glee Club dance will be held at Wood's school on the 3rd Friday of the month—Oct. 18. Shake the moth balls out of your best suit and your evening dress and brush the cobwebs off the dancing shoes. Mummy, we overheard several people longing for a dance and wouldn't mind motoring seven miles or any old crowd gathered together for the usual good time. Well then, how dead is the Glee Club?

Change And Rest

During the past two or three weeks radio fans, no doubt, have become rather tired of listening to the pleas and pleints of the politicians who have been making the welkins ring with appeals for support for the candidates of their choice, with fulsome praise for the policies of their own party and thunderous denunciations of the fulminations, fallacies and falsehoods of their opponents.

It was not very long ago that the opportunity afforded the farmer in the country and the citizen of the small town or village to absorb political knowledge and information—and sometimes misinformation—was restricted to one or two meetings during the campaign in the little school house on the other side of the pasture field or in the hall over the hardware store.

It often meant that the country resident had an opportunity of hearing only one side of the political story. A heavy fall of snow, a deluge of rain, the necessity of remaining home to act as nurse to a sick cow or to entertain unexpected visitors—all these and many other things—intervened to make it impossible to attend a second meeting and hear what the opposition had to say.

All that has been changed now The politician has d scovered the radio and the ability it gives him to reach into the homes of the land and pour forth his message, with, in by into the case of willing and unwilling listeners-in alike. And he took advantage of this facility to the nth degree during the Federal election campaign. Never in the h story of Western Canada has the radio been brought into requisition ro extensively to preach the gospels of tariff, internal reform, social credit, currency changes and what not as the solution to the ills to which the country has been, is and will be, a prey.

If the country and small town voter in the past has had to make up his mind how to cast his ballot on a meagre diet of data and information and, as was and just now sometimes misinformation, to-day this condition is entirely reversed, thanks to the radio. Now the man on the farm, the voter, who has not deliberately "tuned out" too often, certainly cannot claim that he had no opportu ity of studying the issues which have been presented "over the air" in great abundance and with much frequency.

It is quite possible, on the other hand, that he may have rome ground for complaint that the diet has been too heavy, decidedly mixed, in fact, that he has been surfeited with so much information, partial information and misinformation that the issues, instead of being clarified became more and more confusing with succeeding broadcasts.

While the radio can be thanked for having done much to make available to the electors a great deal of knowledge, on the other hand as a digested summator of political platforms and policies and party propaganda it has some disadvantages.

One of the disadvantages is the tendency on the part of a considerable percentage of political radio lecturers to gabble their speeches at a speed comparable to the recent automobile record established by Sir Malcolm Campbell. To the listener at the receiving end it appears as though the speaker had back of his mind something like the following:

"I am paying, or the party is paying (as the case may be) a dollar a minute for this. I am only allotted ten minutes and for the lyr of mike (short for microphone) I've got to jam as much across the air in that time as my breathing apparatus will permit and get the greatest possible value for the money."

As a result the gentleman on the receiving end is lucky if he is able to catch more than one sentence out of every three and to absorb more than one of every six.

The political marathoner appears to forget, too often, that what counts is what he is able to plant in a receptive mind at the other end and not the number of words that he can shout into the mike—poor Mike—in a given number of minutes.

The political expounder also seem ingly too often forgets that he starts on his race with a serious handicap when he mounts the platform ornter at a public gathering The latter is able to point his remarks or to emphasize his periods with a flirng of the shoulder, a lift of the hands or a flash of the eye and those devices, used with discretion, help the speaker to impress his views on the hatener.

To the radio speaker all these and other devices of gesture, and personality of appearance and speech, are denied he must rely solely on inflection of voice, distinct articulation and pause, for effect, and if he does not make full use of these his message may be nearly a total loss

After a few weeks of repetition of political dietary the average radio fan may well be pardoned if he heaves a sigh of relief as he twiddles the dials and finds seeping into his ears comes the pleasing strains of a first-class orchestra, the well modulated tones of the players in a radio drama or even the thump of the drums and shirt of the bagpipes

Discover Evidences Of Early Migration Of Eskimo Tribes

Long sought for information about the early migrations of Eskimo tribes may be disclosed by material gathered by Principal Lauchlan Mclean of the National Museum of Canada during the 16th annual Arctic cruise of the Canadian Scourge which returned here recently from the north Mr Loschman said he had encountered a ruined Eskimo village on Burton island, north of Port Burwell His work brought to light ruined huts weapons, tools and utensils that may be linked with diverse ones made in other sections of the great northland.

Commission Of Agriculture

International Organization Holds General Assembly in Belgium

The International Commission of Agriculture which embraces the International Union of Agricultural Associations representing agriculture in all parts of the world held its general assembly at Brussels and Gembloux, Belgium, recently The League of Nations, the International Labor Office, the International Institute of Agriculture, and the International Co-operative Alliance were represented, together with 110 delegates from various agricultural organizations in different parts of the world. The three principal questions before the Commission were the organization of agricultural production under planned economy, the edible fats problem, and the limitation of pig breeding and fattening, with reference to the special pig breeding attempts being made in Denmark and Holland.

The assembly devoted special attention to the present world condition of agriculture, arriving at the conclusion that in spite of the fact that useful measures had been taken in several countries since 1932, the conditions of agriculture had not improved. Therefore, the Commission adopted a declaration insisting upon the different requests of its last session, namely tion and setting up new proposals in effect, this means that the two main problems to be solved are: how to overcome the agricultural crisis are those of wheat and edible fats On the one hand, the Committee is convinced that the London Wheat Agreement (1933) ought to be prolonged and its clauses revised. On other hand, as regards edible fats, the old civi sed countries ought to limit their consumption of fats and widen the consumption of butter and lard. The Commission's declaration also lays stress upon the necessity of improving the methods of agricultural production and of reducing the cost of production as well as increasing consumption by a reasonable lowering of the commission will take part in the Ottawa conference in 1936.

Wheat Shortage

United States Will Have To Buy Considerable Quantity From Canada

The world wheat surplus this year will be the smallest in 13 years, the United States department of agriculture estimated recently. The wheat supply will total about 230,000,000 bushels less than in 1934-35, due to short crops in Argentina, Australia and the United States.

Department officials agreed considerable amounts of high grade wheat will be needed in the United States supply would have to be imported during the coming year from Canada, they said. Canada will compete with the world carryover in the Dominion, its wheat hold ags will "dominate world markets," the department said.

The world wheat production was estimated at about 3,430,000,000 bushels and the world carryover, outside of Russia and China, would be about a total of about 4 230 000,000 bushels. Production last year was 3,750,000,000 bushels and the carryover 1,100 000,000 bushels, or a total of about 4,850,000,000 bushels

The short crop this year will reduce world carryover by the end of this season to between 600 000 000 and 500,000,000 bushels, or not much more than normal world carryover prior to 1928.

Epidemic Of Measles

Disease Spreads Among Indians From Yukon To Hudson Bay

Starting in the Yukon last spring, a severe epidemic of measles has swept through the Mackenzie river basin and now has reached as far south as Fort Chipewyan, causing hardship and suffering among the Indian tribes scattered through that area, according to R. H. G. Bonnycastle, manager of the western Arctic district for Fairbanks Bay Company, who arrived after a summer in the far north.

A New Experiment

Dr S. S. Brukhonenko, who has been experimenting in the revivification of animals announced that a new state scientific institute is being organized at Moscow for experimental work looking toward the revival of human beings after incomplete death" His equipped "incomplete death" to death such as from accidents where the vital organs remain intact.

The Bow Canadian manufacturing company specializing in town mowers produced 34 609 machines in 1934.

Striving To Reach Coal

Scientists Hope To Bombard Stratosphere With Speedy Rockets

Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, who has interested himself in rocketry, and Harry F. Guggenheim, the financier, gave the outside world a hint of the importance of ethereal experimenting which may send rockets streaking into the stratosphere at super-speeds. Tests at the desert laboratory of Dr Robert H. Goddard brought Guggenheim's announcement that the Guggenheim Family Foundation would supply funds into the enterprise.

The "important" problem of automatic stabilization of rockets in vertical flight already has been solved, it was reported authoritively and controlling laity and refined in preliminary work at speeds approximately 700 miles an hour.

Dr. Goddard explained the success of numerous tests in which vertical flight of the rocket had been maintained by a gyroscope.

Renewed aid of the Foundation assured Dr. Goddard that now he may set out upon his project to send the rockets, propelled by liquid oxygen and gasoline into the outer space with record-breaking instruments for stratospheric data of importance to aviation and meteorology.

From a sixty-foot tower Dr. Goddard hopes shortly to send twelve-foot rockets to altitudes greatly exceeding those which balloons are able to reach.

With his rockets he hopes to pierce the atmosphere in regions more than 10 miles above the earth, in which science, where electrical phenomena including ionization and the reflection of radio waves occur.

Astronomical photography without the interference of the earth's atmosphere would be another prized objective.

Sikorsky Flying Boat

British Firm Secure Manufacturing Rights For Aircraft

British Aircraft Ltd., has acquired manufacturing license rights to the Sikorsky clipper flying boat and rights of the United Aircraft Corporation report

Beyond affirming that the deal had been made with De Manchester, Eng., firm, it has declined to disclosed to give information about the negotiation between British Aircraft and the Sikorsky subsidiary Stratford, Connecticut, Conn., which is a United member.

United official did not comment upon a report that the four-motored craft are desired for use in Australia-New Zealand mail, express and passenger service. Sir Charles Kingsford-Smith, trans-oceanic flyer, was in Bridgeport recently inspecting one of the latest clipper ship His presence there lent strength to the report of the Australian-New Zealand venture.

Contribute Food For Troops

Women Of Ethiopia Give According To Their Means

Patriotic women of Ethiopia, rich and poor alike, are prepared to contribute to the defences of their country by supplying provisions to the troops.

The women's patriot c society has adopted a resolution declaring, "with the enemy forming to invade us and take our wealth, let us prepare for the soldiers eager to defend our freedom what they need, for each soldier three kunnas (about half a bushel) of powdered bread; three of barley flour, one of cooked and fried in oil and one kubbaya (one and half pints) of pepper, one of salt, one of bean flour, one of butter and one of coffee beans. Each must give according to the limit of her means."

A Real Air Hero

Navigator Of Jubilee Mail "Runs" Out Of Gas

In recognition of his gallantry while flying with Sir Charles Kingsford-Smith recently P. G. Taylor has been awarded the George Medal. Taylor was navigator of the plane which Sir Charles was piloting between Australia and New Zealand with a load of Jubilee mails when engine trouble developed over the Tasman Sea. For a time it seemed as if the mail must crash, but Taylor volunteered to go out along the wing and transfer oil from an engine with a broken oil cooler to another engine which was showing signs of trouble Time after time he crawled along an unsheared strut to the engines and transferred oil in a flask, enabling the engine to hold out and the plane to land at Sydney.

Taxes Time For The

John Bull may complain that he is one of the most heavily taxed men in the world to-day, but certainly he is not one of the hardest worked.

An expert construction foreman, who recently returned to England after spending a number of years in Canada, writes:

"This is a terrible country to work in. We stop work at 10 a.m. and again at 3 p.m. and get a cup of tea. They certainly don't know what hard work is."

A century ago, before the automobile was even thought of, the State of Michigan multiplied its population seven times in the decade from 1830 to 1840.

ITALIAN FLYERS START WAR WITH BOMBARDMENT

Addis Ababa.—The Ethiopian government announced yesterday Italian flyers bombed historic Aduwa killing women and children, signalizing the start of a long-awaited war.

A general mobilization order called Ethiopia's warriors to the colors. Although it was reported in official circles the Italians minister had been given h's passports, they were withheld pending the arrival of Italian consuls from the provinces.

A special train to carry the diplomat from the capital was countercelled but officials said: "We may give the passports at any time." The emperor's imperial guard was thrown about the Italian legation to safeguard it.

Emperor Haile Selassie telegraphed a full report of the attack to the League of Nations. He asserted a Red Cross hospital was the target of Italian bombers and appealed to world opinion to condemn such tactics.

A government announcement said 100 bombs were dropped on Aduwa, where Ethiopia crushed the Italians 40 years ago, were destroyed. Civilians were killed. The announcement said, but it was believed the Italians occupied the entire town of Adowa.

(A semi-official source in Rome confirmed that air-line flyers in Aduwa had been bombed It was said the attack was in retaliation for Ethiopian fire upon an Italian aerial squadron patrolling the border).

The Ethiopian news agency in London reported 1,700 persons had been killed and wounded in the bombardment of Aduwa.

Ethiopians said they believed that inhabitants were not warned of the attack and that it was designed to invite reprisals on Italians in th's country, in an attempt to justify an Italian invasion.

The vote, taken by a card ballot at the party's annual conference, showed 2,116,000 for sanctions to 1,02,000 against.

Anti-aircraft guns around the capital in target practice used real bullets for the first time. Troops patrolled the city, while many foreigners sought refuge in the various legations.

Natives maintained their traditional Oriental calm. Addis Ababa was bathed in sunshine with the rainy season at an end.

Haile Selassie was undervoted to have despatched four regiments of 40,000 soldiers to Aduwa to meet a possible Italian attack near Musan All, where Ethiopia claims Italian troops have already penetrated.

The mobilization proclamation of the King of Kings was read from the palace balcony by the chancellor, Haile Wolderouf, after a session of the crown council. Drums and town criers carried news of the mobilization.

Salute From Crown Prince

Son Denial Of Rupture With Fascist Movement

Naples Crown Prince Umberto emerged at the Italian mobilization as a staunch Fascist.

After listening to Il Duce's stirring speech, thousands of Neapolitans assembled at the royal palace and called for the crown prince. Umberto stepped to a balcony and saluted in the throng cheered wildly gave the Fascist salute three times.

The Neapolitans saw in this gesture a final denial of recent reports of a rupture between the crown prince and Il Duce

Co-Operation Is Asked

Election Officers Requested To Send In Results Promptly

Ottawa.—Election officers should do whatever they can to aid the Canadian Press by promptly collecting accurate returns of the Dominion elections on October 14, said John Castonguay, chief electoral officer.

"Every election officer and particularly every deputy returning officer and poll clerk should do whatever he can to furnish to the Canadian Press, newspapers and their accredited correspondents, as early in the evening as possible, accurate statements of the results of the vote at every polling station," he said.

Mr. Castonguay pointed out that when deputies complete their statements of the result at each polling station the information they contain is public property.

The chief electoral officer continued: "Every deputy and poll clerk as well as every candidate's agent should do what lies in his power to notify the figures to the press and to the candidate's organization with the least possible delay."

The chief electoral officer included in ballot boxes instructions to deputy returning officers to co-operate with the Canadian Press and its accredited correspondents and repeated those instructions to returning officers.

Winnipeg May Decide To Electrify The Local Street Railway

Winnipeg.—Having taken a deep breath and blinked its collective eyes, Winnipeg's public utilities committee received a proposal for rehabilitation of city street identification at a cost of $1,500,000. Although the public committee agaye, it did not definitely reject the proposal. The matter was referred to the city engineer for a report.

In brief, it was proposed Winnipeg erect illuminated signs, two to three feet in diameter, at all intersections. Street would be designated by blue lights; avenues by red, the names by white light easily visible to pedestrians and motorists.

It was estimated 15,000 to 20,000 intersection standards would need to be erected, at a cost of $100 per installation. An assessment of five cents per foot on every home would take care of the expenditure, the scheme's sponsors claimed, and the annual operating system would gain $150,000 annual revenue.

Trouble In India

British Concentrate Forces In The Province Of Peshawar

Bombay.—Arrangements for some 20,000 additional troops are being made by the British government for India as a result of trouble in the northern province of Peshawar.

Several army units have been ordered to stand by for orders. Their leaves cancelled, 500 officers have been ordered to return to active duty. The Somerset light infantry regiment was embarked for an unannounced destination.

The government, it was said planned to introduce legislation making a declaration of emergency unnecessary when several months ago

BRITISH LABOR PARTY IN FAVOR OF SANCTIONS

Brighton, England. — The British Labor party lined up in favor of the use of full League of Nations sanctions, even of a military nature, in the event of Italian aggression in Africa. By a margin of 20 to one the party supported the recent action of the International Trade Union Federation.

The decision of Great Britain's strongest opposition party was taken as prem headlines told of the first alleged violation of Ethiopia's frontiers.

The vote, taken by a card ballot at the party's annual conference, showed 2,116,000 for sanctions to 1,02,000 against.

The vote was greeted with resounding cheers from the convention floor, which had been for a day the scene of a bitter contest by a relay of speakers.

Herbert Morrison, winding up the debate for adherence for the use of sanctions, asserted:

"Military sanctions cannot be ruled out. If they are ruled out you may weaken the power for peace of the league."

HARRY GROSCOP TO LEAVE DISTRICT

Auction Sale on Oct. 29

Harry Groscop and family spent some six weeks this summer in his old home surroundings at Auburn Indiana, some 150 miles the other side of Chicago. The visit proved a delightful one, as Harry says they had got quite a thrill out of seeing other members of his family whom he had not seen for some 25 years.

The visit has influenced the, as Harry decided to move back to his old home, consequently he is holding a clearing off auction sale on his farm five miles south of Barrhead on Oct 29. He has sold the farm and following the sale will leave for Auburn Indiana where he intends to reside in future.

HARNESS NOT YET FOUND

The nine sets of work harness which were stolen from the Demonstration farm last week are still missing. The harness had been prepared for the beginning of the threshing season on the morning, but sometime during the night, thieves made off with it. The R. C. M. P. traced the tracks towards the south east corner of the school grounds. The first part of the trip had been made on foot, then evidently a wagon had gathered up the racks and made away with it. No further tracks were visible on the hard main road.

Engineer Surveys Level Crossing Site

J. H. Parks of the federal department of public works, Calgary, accompanied by Mr. Davidson, commissioner of highways, Alberta, and Mr. Rose of the engineering department of the Canadian National Railways visited Vermilion on Wednesday in connection with the proposed elimination of the railway crossing near Wiebe's mill. They conferred with Mayor Robinson, members of the town council and of the board of trade, going over the location and discussing the many phases of the proposed work. Difficulties were seen with respect to the matter of drainage and particularly with regard to the sharp turn into Railway street. Where the turn would take place the depth of the subway would be, it was estimated 7 or 8 feet. These difficulties, Mr. Parks stated would have to be ironed out by the municipality as the commission would not be responsible for property damages. A portion of the cost, which he estimated would be around $20,000, has to be borne by the town as well as a certain percentage by the province, the rest coming out of the $3,000,000 grant made by the federal government at the last session of parliament for the elimination of level crossings across Canada. Mr. Parks said there were a large number of applications and he doubted if the funds made available would be sufficient to meet the requirements. The party was here merely to make a survey of the situation. The drainage would have to be carried about 1200 feet to below the hill near the milk station. Mayor Robinson pointed out that there would be some difficulty in the town making up whatever portion it would be asked to contribute in the meantime the matter will be further investigated by the town authorities to see what can be done to offset the difficulty with respect to the turn into Railway street. If the matter is proceeded with it is not expected the work would be undertaken until next spring at any rate.

Agricultural School Opens October 29

Vermilion and Olds School Will Operate This Winter

Schools of Agriculture at Olds and Vermilion will operate again this winter for the usual five months' course of instruction in agriculture and home economics, according to an announcement made by Hon. W. N. Chant, Minister of Agriculture.

Opening date for the Olds school will be October 22nd, and for Vermilion school a week later, October 29.

Applications for registration for the new term have been more numerous than was at first anticipated, states the minister, and the expectation now is that the opening dates will see a very satisfactory attendance at both schools. Last term the enrolment at Olds school was 145 and that at Vermilion 163. Territory allotted to the Vermilion school is that portion of the province north of, and including, the Wetaskiwin-Camrose line of the C. P. R., while the portion of the province south of that line is allotted to the Olds school.

ELECTION RESULTS ON INSIDE PAGE

Election results will be found on an inside page of the Standard.

Contract Let Work On Public Building

The department of public works at Ottawa has awarded the contract for the alterations and extensions to the public building formerly the Royal Bank premises at Vermilion to R. D. Fraser for being the lowest tenderer. The building will be used for the purposes of a post office. It is expected that work on the alterations will be commenced immediately. Local labor will be employed and all materials purchased in town. The alterations include extensions to the present building to the rear, and the interior of the building to be remodelled. New vaults, heating plant, etc., will be installed. The building will be completed by the end of March next.

Track Meet Slated For Thursday, Oct. 24

The inter high school track meet held off until later this fall owing to schools being closed by the prevalence of infantile paralysis, will take place on the Vermilion Fall grounds next Thursday the 24. As this is Thanksgiving Day as a Dominion Holiday and everything in the town will be closed an all round good record at the meet is anticipated. Former meets have been participated in by athletes from Lloydminster, Provost, Wainwright, Irma, Mannville, Killarney and Vermilion. Lloydminster has swept the board for the past three years.

Full line of events is held including divisions of athletics suitable for girls and boys and Junior girls and boys. Points are promised to the individual champions in each of the four classes.

The V. S. T. A. cup is held by the school amassing the highest number of points in the meet while the J. S. H. S. Trail cup is presented to the Junior or small high school collecting the highest number of points.

Doing Important Work

Observe Sesquicrem Weaving Silk Strands On Liner's Compass Card

Important contribution to the safety of the new giant liner, Queen Mary, is being made by a little sesquicrem living in obscurity at Glasgow, Scotland.

He is Miss Edith Rankin of Ben View street, to whom has been allotted the task of weaving gossamer strands of silk on the magnetic compass card, made of flexible material.

Lightness with strength are necessary with the compass card and these strands, which must be perfectly even, achieve the purpose. This accomplished, Miss Rankin's delicate fingers then sew on the magnetic needles

"They have to be adjusted to a thousandth part of an inch," Miss Rankin said. "A fractional error in fixing the needles can put a ship far off her course"

Miss Rankin works to this astonishing accuracy with the aid only of a magnifying lens.

After years at the job she can tell almost instinctively by her fingers whether any magnetic needles are exactly in place.

Ships all over the world use compasses which have passed through her hands. "Does it thrill you?" she [illegible]

I suppose it ought to," was the reply.

Claims X-Ray Eyes

Heavily Bandaged Kashmiri Indian Head Took His Final Visit Here

With his head swathed in bandages save for an aperture for the nose, Kuda Bux, a Kashmiri Indian, read rapidly from a book he had never seen before several eminent doctors in London recently. They included Professor Edward Andrade Quain, Professor of Physics at London University, Dr. J. G. Porter-Phillips, superintendent of the Bethlehem Royal Hospital, and Dr. C. Jennings Marshall, the surgeon. Dr Marshall bandaged the Indian placing two lumps of sticky dough over the eyes. On these was laid a large pad of cotton round which a broad bandage was tied over the face, on either side of the nose, and another passed over the mouth Kuda Bux is known as "the man with the X-ray eyes."

"Last Sabbath," said an elder with glee, "as the sun was coming out, a drover chist from Dumfries came along the road whistling as happy as if it was the middle o' the week Wee ours is a God-fearing set o' lads and they nearly killed him."

Minister Offers A Toast At Editorial Convention

Here is at least one minister who appreciates the editor. At a recent editorial convention, a Kansas minister is reported to have offered the following toast

"To save an editor from starvation, take his paper and pay for it promptly.

"To save him from bankruptcy, advertise in his paper liberally.

"To save him from despair, send him every item of news you can get hold of.

"To save him from profanity, write your correspondence plainly on one side of the sheet and send it in as early as possible.

"To save him from mistakes, bury him. Dead people are the only ones who never make mistakes."—Wisconsin Press.

The Ultimate In Quietness

Taking Off Hat Makes Noise In Soundproof Room

The new Hayden Planetarium in New York is so quiet that you can hear a man take off his hat in the place, and when he takes off his coat he makes a distinct racket.

The planetarium, sound-proofed by acoustical devices, was opened Oct. 3 and the tests of its quietness announced.

In terms of decibels, it is 15 times less noisy than the volume of sound which a normal ear can barely hear. Sounding recording instruments showed a jump of five decibels when a man took off his hat in the place.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Golden text: Hearken unto my voice, and I will be your God, and ye shall be my people. Jeremiah 7:12.

Lesson: Jeremiah 7:1-26.

Devotional reading: Psalm 96:7-13.

Explanations And Comments

False and True Security, verses 1-7. Jeremiah stood in the gateway of the temple at Jerusalem and warned the people that true religion is not in amending their ways and not in mere ritual. The temple could not save them. The threefold repetition of the words "the temple of Jehovah" suggests the energy of iteration that besongs only to Eastern fanatics. Dean Stanley observes. Recall the repeated cries of the fanatics in the theater of Ephesus, "Great is Diana of the Ephesians,' Acts 19.

Rampant Evils, verses 8-11. Jeremiah did not hesitate to accuse the people of flagrant sins, whatever the consequences to himself might be of mean boldness. He accused them of breaking the commandments against theft, adultery, false witnessing, and idolatry, and keeping up a pretense of worshiping God, coming to the temple and saying they are delivered," by the discharge of this formality to sin are not free for the return to wickedness.

"Is this house, which is called by my name, become a den of robbers in yours you? Behold, even I, have seen it, saith Jehovah. Recall Christ's words in Mark 11:15-17.

To Obey Better Than Sacrifice, verses 21-23. "Add your burnt-offerings unto your sacrifices, and eat your flesh: multiplying your victims ad libitum; it will avail your naught" (Hitchmother). The next verse must not be more than "a forcible oriental expression, not meaning that no ceremonial laws were given to Israel when brought out of Egypt, but that in the promulgation of the Ten Commandments at Sinai there was no direction concerning sacrifices (Ammonson).

"Hearken unto my voice, and I will be your God, and ye shall be my people, and walk ye in all the ways that I command you, that it may be well with you.

The Champion Tea Drinker

Bristol Woman Never Takes Less Than Thirty Cups A Day

The average tea consumption of the people of Great Britain is about five cups each every day of their lives. As this figure includes babes and those few who never drink it at all, it is obvious that the consumption must be higher than that. Enquiries recently made in London and elsewhere have disclosed that a daily consumption of ten and twelve cups is by no means uncommon, and that there are many people who habitually drink even more than that. So far the champion tea drinker appears to be a woman living in Bristol who claims that she never drinks less than thirty cups a day, and that she has never been ill in her life. Even Dr. Johnson drank only twenty cups a day.

A Sky-Scraper Man

Measures Seven Feet Six Inches And Is Still Growing

The world's tallest man must surely be Hans Shalbter, who, not long ago at the age of twenty measured 7 feet 6 inches in height. He was examined by doctors who believe that he has set up a record, he will be seven nine feet before he stops growing. It takes six and a half yards of material to make him a suit. All his relatives are normal in height. Hans' ambition is to become a film star. A club was founded recently in Berlin for men who were over 72 inches in height They clubbed together to protect against small chairs, limousine leg-room in cinemas, and dwarfed head-room in trams and buses.

Carrier Of Disease Germs

Carelessness In Home Is Blamed By Toronto Doctor

Dust on the street may be a nuisance but as a carrier of disease germs, it is practically negligible according to Dr. Gordon P. Jackson, M.O.H. Neither are disease-causing germs transmitted by air to any extent, he told the York County Home and School Council at a meeting in Toronto. In a comprehensive address on communicable diseases, he declared there was too much carelessness in handling of food in the home. The "thumb-in-the-soup" was much too prevalent and frequently responsible for such diseases as dysentery, typhoid and diphtheria. Because of germs often carried through soil fertilization, it was essential that all greens be thoroughly washed. Cups, glasses, bedding and papers were often responsible for spreading disease and they had been contaminated by some person.

Encouraging Hog Raising

In order to utilize larger quantities of skim milk and buttermilk within the province the Livestock Branch of the British Columbia Department of Agriculture is initiating a campaign, particularly in the Fraser River Valley, to encourage hog raising. Tutor To Royal Brothers Died Recently In London

The death of Henry Peter Hansell, tutor to the Prince of Wales and his three brothers, was reported recently in a special dispatch to the New York Times from London. Hansell died at Hetchingley, Surrey, aged 71, the dispatch said. He went with the Prince of Wales to Oxford where he acted as his academic mentor, guide and friend. Hansell joined the Prince's household in 1901 as tutor to the Prince of Wales. He remained in the royal household as gentleman usher to the King.

Interesting Announcement Made At Bd. of T. Luncheon

An announcement of moment was made by Mr. J. W. G Morrison at the Board of Trade luncheon to the effect that officials would be at Vermilion on Wednesday Oct. 16 to inspect the main railway crossing at the mill, with a view to building a subway. This work comes under the Railway Crossing Elimination Branch of the Federal Government. A further report regarding the visit of these men will be found elsewhere in the paper.

Donald Taylor acted as chairman at the meeting and called upon Mr. Kaiser to introduce our new station agent, Mr. Easton. Mr. Easton passed a few remarks and from their general regard the Board of Trade feels that it is going to have a valuable addition to their membership in the person of Mr. Easton.

Mr. Pitts reported the progress made in connection with securing additional poundage of cream for the local creamery. This committee is doing fine line and the quality and fine results are forthcoming already A further report will be made at the next luncheon on Sunday. A dairy farmer who would like to express his views regarding the local plant, is invited to attend the meeting.

Arrangements for the reception to Mr. and Mrs. Fallow on Tuesday night were reported complete.

Considerable discussion regarding a hockey team took place and it was decided to call a general meeting of everyone interested in hockey, for the purpose of securing first flight hockey for Vermilion district. This meeting will be called soon and a date set for same.

The members of the town council are being invited to attend the meeting on Monday next with a view to discussing traffic conditions in the town. This needs immediate action, especially the provision of a special parking place and Traffic Cop. It was reported held up on Dulyea avenue several times on Saturday evening, and a serious accident narrowly averted. A parking place for trucks would probably be appreciated by merchants and could easily be provided in the vacant lot on [illegible]

Mr. D. A. Andrew was appointed chairman of the Luncheon next Monday.

AUBURNDALE

Everybody in the Auburndale district is sorry to hear that Miss Lillian Harris, teacher of Heatherbell school and Mr T. smith of Gateaux are suffering from injuries received in a motor accident which occurred near Manville, All wish them a speedy recovery.

Mr. Wm. Cleland had his foot injured by a horse falling on it. The horse slipped in the mud while Mr. Cleland was riding. There will be some days before Mr. Cleland is able to walk again

The infantile paralysis quarantine has been lifted from the Ernest Symes home.

Billy Symes is back home again on the farm and has quite recovered from his recent sick spell He was in Vermilion hospital three days. George Symes returned to a most impressing after his operation for appendicitis

Mr Alfred Green formerly of Auburndale now of Vancouver, is a visitor in this district at present. Fellow's are always glad to see old timers in their midst again

Three of the boys working on J J Eyben's threshing outfit became ill with stomach flu but they have all quite recovered now. Threshing now is practically over in this district

LOCAL TELEPHONE EXCH. GIVES FAST SERVICE

Second Constituency in Province To Turn in Election Returns

The local telephone exchange is to be congratulated on the manner in which the election returns were handled on Monday evening. The results, poll by poll, were phoned into the local telephone exchange, where they were immediately tabulated and reported to headquarters in Edmonton. The Battle River constituency results were reported from the Vermilion exchange and according to the superintendent at Edmonton, their returns were completed second, the constituency of Camrose heading them only by a scant six polls. The Battle River riding or course covers a lot of sparsely settled country to the north, where means of communication are difficult, on top of that a two days rain in the north-west section made travelling to the nearest telephone a hard job. Camrose, situated as it is right into the city is widely settled district would not have these difficulties to contend with.

Mr. Weber, local exchange superintendent, had a busy evening, booked up in the exchange office with a man on each. They are to be congratulated on the manner of their efforts. Newspapers, who used to depend on telegraph for this news, now make arrangements with the Canada for telephone connection to give them fast and accurate returns

Departing Citizens Honored By Town And District

Over 300 people attended the public reception tendered the Hon W. A. and Mrs. Fallow at the Elks Hall on Tuesday evening last. It was a brilliant function. The hall was tastefully decorated, the reception, refreshments and entertainments being arranged for the honored guests among whom were the town's oldest and most respected citizens Mr. and Mrs. P. G. Pilon, A. E. Kaiser as chairman of the committee presided. The musical numbers were provided by Mrs. Lawrence McLean, Jack Newall and a comedian. Members of the R. C. M. P. all of whom were personally escorted by Sergt. William Rabbitt as president extended the greetings to the old Timers present, expressing the pleasure of the organization in having Mr. Fallow as member of the government and in the work of the brigade which was done while serving on the Department of mankind. J. W. G. Morrison, K. C. endorsed the good wishes of the previous speaker. Hon. W. A. Fallow was welcomed and Mrs. M. Fallow was presented with a beautiful bouquet of roses after which refreshments consisting of which was engraved the wording "Presented to Hon. W. A. and Mrs. Fallow from the citizens of the town and district of Vermilion 19th 1935." The service was in charge of Mrs. Mary Fallow replied on behalf of herself and Mr. Fallow thanking for the many kind attentions to them and expressing regret at their leaving Vermilion. She referred to the appropriateness of such an address coming from the town and district in which they had resided for so many years and which they had watched grow from its infancy to its present proportions. VILLAGE WIRES

How we are once more, after coming for eight days for the threshers, and after getting in the vegetables, thinking and man power was scarce.

First of all we wish to extend our and the community's deepest sympathy to Mr. and Mrs. Simons and family on the loss of a loving daughter and sister, may God comfort them all.

There are still a few people to get threshed. Weather is some too pressing but hopes a couple a few more nice days will come and let everyone get what little there is gathered in.

J. Burke, Basswood, while on a Carlson's threshing outfit, received a phone call on Friday, Oct. 4 that his father was very ill. J. Wilson kindly offered to take him by car, on the left the same evening for Bonnyville. On Friday the 11th Mrs. Burke and children went up with Ken Isley. At the time of writing no further word had been received.

Alex Smith who has been sick with tonsilitis for the past month is, we are pleased to say, slowly improving. We are very sorry the doctors could not attend University as we had an hearth planned. But we think ahead to our visit.

Miss Lumber of Wildwerine visited at the "Moose" Phillips' one last Friday. They reported a big harvest and really good prices.

Edith Gibson visited on Sunday at the Scouffer home in Wildmere.

Miss M. Gibson visited the beauty parlor on Saturday, coming out with permanent, so did Mrs. T. Wilson of Triangle.

Mrs. Wilson Miss Wilson and George Wilson of Wildmere visited at the McNair home in Tolland on Sunday.

We were sorry to see by our Neighborhood Scribe that Mr. Foster and Mr. Leach did not get the track home that time. It's a good thing we had the "inner man" or they would have been famished. They were a tired work-worn pair when we saw them.

Glad to see Auburndale is sending in news now also. What has become of Tolland Times?

J. Walker, J. Hawkins and Ian Murphy left last Wednesday for the Peace to work for the winter. They are going by car.

Miss Thelma Lippart returned to her home in Bonnyville last Friday after working the past two months for Mrs. Carlson, Wildmere.

J. Sutherland of Wainwright visited Sunday afternoon with T. Cairns. they are old railroad pals.

The writer and hubby spent a jolly evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Cairns on Sunday.

The big election is history once again with the Liberals leading. The poll in our district gave Pair 30 For now 7, Morrison 13 and Spencer 15 Marion Gibson was poll clerk and Fred Wright returning officer.

Basswood Social Club is holding a dance in his sock feet at 12 o'clock social meeting. What lurks and dance midnight at Wallington gate—Mr and Mrs. D. BADMINTON CLUB COMMENCES PLAY

New Members Are Invited To Join

The Arena badminton club has been opened for play for the fall and winter months. Any person desiring to play should drop into the club any evening. The spacious gym of the rink makes a splendid court, with plenty of height; a cosy waiting room with lockers has been provided by the club and the flood lighting system is excellent. The playing surface of the floor has been sanded and varnished. Steam radiators have been provided and the place is warm and comfortable at all times. The club executive have in mind further improvements this year.

Prospective members are invited to try a few games as there is room for a number of additional players in the club.

Any member of the executive, which includes Mrs. Clarke, Mrs. Richard son, Mrs. Edgar, Mrs. Bell, Mrs. J. Wesser, Mr. S Millward, F. J. Richardson, Ashley Cooper, Dr. Bell, H. S. Parrish, will be pleased to give any one all information possible. Don't hesitate, join the club now and get a full season benefit from your membership.

ISLAND HILL

Campbell Lake school ball team disappointed the large crowd present on Friday night by not turning out for the return match. A practice game was arranged which was highly enjoyed. Miss Beatrice Moir the principal, made a light lunch in the rooms which was highly appreciated by her pupils. We wonder the opinion was that Miss Moir is the best pupil to teacher that the school here has had for years.

In the quantity of agent for Mr. Fair we were present at the Poplar Heights polling station. Monday, Nov. 4th. Mr. Fair was presiding officer and Mr. Geo Richardson and the Conservatives. Mr. Mellish was the Liberal agent. C. C. P was represented by Mr. Geo. Richardson and the Conservatives from Mr. Mellish's polls. Mr. Fair was 22 for Social Credit, 15 for Conservatives, 3 for C.C.F. and 3 for Liberal Thirty-three votes were cast that did not vote while two turned up to vote whose names were not on the list. The surprise was the fine showing for the Conservative candidate and the poor support given to Mr. Spence. There were no spoiled ballots.

As we write (Monday night) the radio tells us the Social Credit candidate for Edmonton is leading for the city. We heartily congratulate Mr. Robert Fair on his great victory.

Our friend Taf was deputy return ing officer for Ottawa district and no better man could get the appointment as he knows all the boys around. they will get back to normal again which is a good job.

Our friend Ernest who resides south of Vermilion and who honors us by reading our columns every week will be glad when we tell him, now that the shooting season politics will be the very seldom mentioned in future—he thought that lately we brought politics in rather too often than our notes. And perhaps he is right.

We are sorry to hear that Evelyn Tulloch and little Norman Elliott have been in Islay hospital the last few days, Evelyn having poison in the arm, and Norman having an abscessed tooth.

The Irwinville W. A. met at the home of Mrs. W. H. Anderson, Oct. 12. A very busy afternoon was spent making a quilt and preparing to part a hole or clothing.

The harvest dance held in the hall last Friday was very well attended. The table also attracted a large crowd.

Many friends of Miss Lily Isert will be pleased to learn that she will be returning home at the end of the month, after receiving medical attention in St. Paul, Minn.

HONORED BY ASSOCIATES

WINNIPEG, Man., Oct. 16—Prior to his departure for Edmonton, where he has been appointed Bridge and Building Master for the Canadian National Railways from Edmonton west to the boundary of the B. C. district, S. P. Johnson was honored by his associates and presented with a club bag and brief case. The presentation was made by Walter Donally, Terminal Administrator.

Mr. Johnson has had long experience in bridge and building work and has been a member of the Edmonton Bridge Committee, attached to the Egyptian Expedition and spent many months in the Palestine and Syria areas. He assisted in construction of railway bridges over the Jordan river and built a light bench in all using teakwood and mahogany for house interiors.

Canada provides the bulk of the cheese, oats, motor tires, tubes, nails, and lumber, and has imported into Trinidad British West Indies.

SYNOPSIS

Nancy Nelson is a sub-deb, a gay, irresponsible girl of nineteen, with no care beyond the choice of her next costume for her coming-out party. Suddenly, in the briefest crash, her delightful father loses all he had, and his family is left with the bare necessity of a simpler method of living At this juncture a letter is received from an uncle, then stationed in Calgary, who offers the girl a home on condition that she be unspoiled by wealth.

After much consideration Cousin Columbine's offer is accepted, and Nancy and Jack arrive at Pine Ridge

Nancy ret out one afternoon to climb to the top of a hill so as to obtain a view of the surrounding landscape and misses the path Aurora Tubbs had told her to follow. A turn comes along the road, driven by Matthew Adams, the hired man with whom way to go. They ascend the hill, look around and then go down to Cousin Columbine's. There Mark Adam tells Nancy that his brother Luke has broken his leg, and that Jack Nelson has been hired to help out while Luke is getting well. With Jack away, Nancy finds that she is lonesome, and having no books to read, the idea of starting a public library at Pine Ridge seems a good one, and Nance writes home to get her parents to send all the books they could spare and all they could induce others to let them have.

Nancy's parents and friends gave their liberal support to her request for books, and a carload was received in due course. Father Adam painted a sign for the library, and the Adams boys worked on the shelves for the books and decorations to make the room look presentable.

Jack Nelson, Matthew Adam, and Nancy are the prime movers of the library circle for the ride, and after Nance and Jack leave for home, they are caught in a blizzard. Blinded by the swirling snow they collide with a bus full of school children, which was stalled across the road with its back wheels sticking in a snow-filled gully. Their car being wrecked Jack and Nancy help the children and do all they can to help. The next morning Jack is sent for by Cousin Columbine. He succeeds in finding help and the party of children and Nancy are rescued As a result of the exposure Nancy's feet are frost bitten and Jack is seriously ill with pneumonia, but both of them recover

CHAPTER XX.

Long as he lived Matthew Adam was never to forget the terror that possessed him when, after hours of tramping snowdrifts, he stepped into that shaded cottage room. And, perhaps strangely, his first distance fell, not on Nancy, but on the mound of apparently lifeless children beyond her. Then, all in a breath, they focussed on the girl herself—a girl only half clad, her hands moving mechanically in an effort to bring circulation into a boy's small feet which were, it transpired later, not frozen so badly as her own. Her head, drooping forward on her breast, lifted with difficulty as the door opened, then dropped again, but not too soon for Matthew to have seen the glassy look that clouded her blue eyes.

"Nancy!" he cried. Just that. He was on his knees had snatched at the fur on her feet, and wrapped it 'round her. It seemed to him that the girl fought back the overpowering unconsciousness by a supreme effort. One icy hand groped for his cheek, as if to make sure that he was flesh and blood, and then she struggled so valiantly that Matthew's keen eyes misted with pity when, after a moment, the words came.

"You . . . Jack . . . You must find, Jack, Matt . . . And . . . and then take . . . the children . . . all . . . all right . . . all right . . ."

After that Nancy knew nothing at all for a long time. She retained only a confused memory of rousing for a moment to find herself in a room that seemed very full of people; wondering why Matthew Adam and a strange woman were packing snow about her legs; and hearing a child cry out as if in pain.

She recalled that later (how much later it was impossible to say), she had cried herself out with such pain as she had not imagined could have things blurred again Even the long ride to the hospital was but a dim remembrance of being wrapped in blankets and held tenderly in strong arms Once, they told her, she opened her eyes and asked for Jack, but drowsed again before the answer came

Her first clear memory was waking to a sense of intense suffering, and seeing bright sunlight dancing across her bed It was a white bed in a small, white room and a white-clad woman was speaking to a doctor in the door Nancy's eyes travelled upward and saw a cap So the woman was a nurse And this must be a hospital "But why am I here?" she asked herself confusedly "And what has happened to my legs?" Then she remembered. Those dreadful hours of cold and hunger—those helpless children—Jack facing the blizzard all alone. And suddenly Nance Nelson was just a little girl again, a frightened little girl who yearned for the comfort that had never failed her when life seemed cruel—and life had never been so cruel before. She said, her voice breaking a little: "I want—I—I want my mother."

"Thank God!" said the nurse; and the tall shadow in the doorway turned into Matthew Adam—a gaunt and haggard Matthew to be sure, but comfortably familiar amid the strangeness. Two quick strides brought him to Nancy's bed, and bending down he lifted one of her hands gently.

"Thank God!" he said, just like the white nurse; and then anticipating the question she was too weak to ask: "Jack got there, Nancy. He reached Bartell's before we did; but the wires were down so Mrs. Bartlett couldn't call for help, and her husband was hunting for cattle in the drifts. But if Jack hadn't gone there's no knowing when we'd have found you, Nancy He was all in, of course, but—but he will be all right."

This was Matt's verdict, not the doctor's; nor did he add that Jack was only a room away, fighting pneumonia. Time enough for that knowledge when she was stronger. Then the nurse was speaking: "That's all for now, Mr. Adam," and Nancy opened her eyes, which had grown sleepy, and echoed: "The children . . ."

"All safe," Matt answered; then, as a cry of pain escaped her, "Oh, Nancy, it is bad as bad!"

It was very bad indeed, but with returning strength came self-reproach and thought there were times in the hours to come when her face twitched with anguish, no whimper passed the girl's thin lips again.

Later she woke to find Cousin Columbine beside her bed

"How do you feel, child?" The ring of the voice was strong with emotion. Nance scarcely recognized it.

"How's Jack?" she asked. "I'm stronger than I look, I think."

The weak words lagged, and Cousin Columbine said quickly: "Your nurse's making a brave fight, child. I always said he had the courage of a pioneer. And you have too, Nancy I—I am so proud of you."

Nance said nothing for a little while. Scenes from those tragic hours were crowding back.

"You were right—about the—the weather, Cousin Columbine," she admitted in a curious, small voice And then, her clouding frown beneath her lashes "I wish . . ."

"What do you wish, dear?" asked the old lady, bending closer.

Nance tried to smile, but found herself too spent to manage it. "I'm only a little homesick," she acknowledged

A nurse came in just then with a tray of broth and Cousin Columbine went out. They looked at her legs, and brought another doctor to look at them. Nance wondered what they were thinking but was too tired to ask and dropped asleep before they left the room

It was night when she opened her eyes again. A dim light burned and a different nurse sat there and Nancy new doctor. No, it wasn't a doctor Nance saw after a moment. It was just Matt Adam She heard the nurse say to tell Miss Nelson that her niece was sleeping and that after a consultation the doctors felt that after all she wouldn't lose her feet

Now how in the world, mused Nancy, only half awake, could you lose your feet even if you wanted to? That nurse was crazy She spoke of your feet could it mistake like that?

pair of gloves or a pocketbook or something. The idea made her almost laugh. Then, realizing that dullness was about to leave, a wave of homesickness swept over her again, and she cried out:

"Don't go, Matt!"

Again the unexpected voice startled her nurse, but Matthew came closer and stood there looking down at her. Then some one turned up a light, and Nance saw how unbelievably tired he was.

"Better?" His voice was heavy with relief and long anxiety

Nance nodded.

"Where's —Cousin Columbine?"

"In bed. It's pretty late. She's staying there to keep an eye on you."

"And Jack?"

Matthew took a noticeable pause before Matt answered steadily; "Don't worry about Jack, Nancy. That child's the dandiest fighter you ever saw."

The nurse turned at this, and going to a basket, did something unnecessary to the curtain, while Matthew bending down, said quietly: "Is there anything I can do before I go Nance?"

"You were so tired, Matt," she answered with irrelevance

He smiled at that and didn't look so tired after all, but the girl said: "You won't drive through the pass to-night will you? Promise you won't or I'll worry."

"I promise I'll stay down here with John. Mother thought Miss Columbine might need me in the morning for for errands or some thing." he add hastily (he'd be a girl Nancy) and go to sleep."

Couldn't you stay till I drop off?" she pleaded 'I'm kind of homesick."

Matt glanced at the nurse not seeming what rules there are in hospitals; and at a nod sat down by Nancy's bed

"We can't let you be homesick now told her gratefully but you couldn't talk

As the nurse rambling in a manner that would have brought a flush to the young man's cheek if he were awake, but which he heard with amused and momentarily turned from the bed left them for a little while, and returned to Matt that the nurse was gone. Nancy left the room

Give Away Money

Directors and high officials of various United States corporations have given away about $1 billion worth of securities in the past six months About three-quarters of the dividends were given away in the form of stock rights, which are considered more desirable gifts than cash.

Lady You would actually take money for getting a man? I'm ashamed of you and make yourself cheap.

Tramp Yes ma'am I am ashamed of myself at times.

Have you any green edged note paper?

No, madam, we have only the usual black mourning edge

I'm afraid that won't do for me. I'm a golf widow

Reeds were commonly used for pens in ancient times and as late as the Middle Ages.

From Your Doctor if the "Pain" Remedy You Take Is Safe.

Don't Entrust Your Own or Your Family's Well - Being to Unknown Preparations

BEFORE you take any preparation you don't know all about, for the relief of headaches; or the pains of rheumatism, neuritis or neuralgia, ask your doctor what he thinks about it — in comparison with "ASPIRIN".

We say this because, before the discovery of "Aspirin," most so-called "pain" remedies were advised against by physicians as being bad for the stomach, or, often, for the heart And the discovery of "Aspirin" largely changed medical practice

Countless thousands of people who have taken "Aspirin" have in and out without ill effect have proved that the Medical Profession's safety were correct

Remember, however, "Aspirin" is safe among the many products discovered in the relief of headaches and other pains . . . and says for the average person to take any pain.

The Relief Expenditure Burden

With the Federal elections over and the political complexion of the next Parliament of Canada defined, the government of the country will be faced with a number of important problems to decide, and not the least of these is the question of the steps which must be taken to ease the debt burden of governmental units in Western Canada.

By governmental units is meant the governments of the provinces and of the municipalities urban and rural.

During the past five years the public finances of the Western Canadian provinces and of the municipalities, which are their creatures, have been strained to the breaking point to meet the problems which drought and general unemployment have brought in their train.

Not only has the public purse of the Western provinces and of the municipalities been depleted in the struggle to ensure that their citizens should not starve from or go shelterless in their grim fight against great odds, but they have been obliged to pledge their future resources, to an alarming extent to enable the citizens of the present generation to keep the wolf from the door.

In the three prairie provinces millions of dollars have been spent to furnish a substantial percentage of the population with food, fuel and clothing and in the urban centres with shelter as well; and this, despite the fact that the Federal government has also contributed large sums to bolster up the provinces and the municipalities in their fight to ensure the necessities of life for their people.

It is seldom, however, to the money which has been expended out of current revenues the provincial and municipal governments have pledged much more many millions of dollars against the credit of the future earning power of the people, a debt which will have to be liquidated in the future either by the taxpayers of to-day or by the rising generation, or a combination of both.

Without going into statistics which at the best, make dry reading, it is safe to say that the indebtedness which has been piled up on this basis, directly and indirectly, reaches a staggering total and has passed the figure which is in that the competence of these governmental units to meet from existing resources

One of the conditions contributing to the existing condition of the finances of the Western provinces and municipalities is the inequitability of the distribution of the tax burden as between individual taxpayers and the inequitability of the distribution of the basis of taxation as between the federal, provincial and municipal governments.

The financial situation which has developed as a result of these inequalities is one which will have to be faced and remedied by the newly-elected Parliament of Canada if the Western provinces and municipalities are to remain solvent and are to be enabled to extricate themselves from a position which has become intolerable

So far as the municipal governments are concerned, their financial plight has been accentuated by practical limitation to realty as at least, the principal tax base, and this applies to both rurale and urbans, only in different degree Land has more than passed the limit of its endurance as a source of revenue for governmental purposes. Other sources of taxation are denied to the municipalities, and this is one discriminatory feature which will have to be remedied.

In seeking additional sources of revenue municipalities are cramped by legislative action of their superior provinces and the provinces in turn are hampered by Federal authority.

What is needed is a dominion-wide conference in which the municipalities can get together with the provinces and the Dominion and, in a spirit of tolerance and recognition of the difficulties of one another, come to an agreement which will provide for a specific delimitation of spheres of taxation and a definite understanding that the several governmental units will not in future encroach upon one another's taxation preserves.

Pending understanding should be reached legislative enactment and if it involves amendments to the British North America Act, as undoubtedly it would, efforts should be made to secure the necessary sanction.

The problem of relief, it has been reiterated by competent authorities time and again, is a national one. The provinces have said so. The urban municipalities have said so and the rural municipalities hold the same view, even if they have not adopted resolutions to conversion to that effect.

If the Federal government is not prepared to recognize the situation in the west as a national problem the only alternative is for the Federal government to make it possible for the provinces and municipalities to liquidate past, present and future expenditures by providing them with the machinery to levy the money where the money is available.

Norway Has Queer Tax

Sparrow tax" is a levy most unpopular to the farmers of Hedmark, Norway and some of the most unusual in Europe. For prayers offered up by the pastor of the Fjeldbyen Church at Bergen against crop ruination by the birds, each farmer must pay 30 kroner annually, or about $7.50. The tillers of the soil say that they receive little for their money, since the sparrows continue to attack the harvests.

Added To Honor Roll

Another Set Of Men Prove Heroes in Heroville Tests

Another donations set of men have been added to the honor roll of heroes who have risked their lives in scientific tests for the sake of humanity. The latest heroes are Dr. J. F. Cervantes, of Tanganyika, Africa, he assisted H. C. Smith and an African native. The problem was whether the bite of disease of sleeping sickness, when it had developed in a human being and had afterward been transferred from him to another human would retain sufficient virulence to cause that second to infect man again. In the course of several experiments all three allowed themselves to be infected with the germs of sleeping sickness. Their chances of recovery depended on a drug and happily it proved effective

Beauty In Old London

Pictures Of Infinite Variety Can Be Seen From Great Heights

Old St. Paul's, perched high on Ludgate Hill, once a commanding position, is being gradually crowded out by other buildings. The most impressive sight of St Wren's venerable cathedral is that looking from Fleet-street up Ludgate Hill. I have heard indeed Stanley Baldwin, familiar with Fleet-street at all hours of the day and night, grow lyrical about the loveliness of that glimpse of St. Paul's at dawn.

A great white London seems to have sprung up by the magic. But it has not obliterated the past, and one of the charms of a walk through the city is the unexpected glimpses one gets through its narrow courts and alleys of old taverns, little shops, and tried churches that have stood unchanging through the centuries.

It has been said that one cannot walk a hundred yards in London without seeing a bunch of trees. That is almost completely true. In fact, there are enough trees in London streets and squares to make up, if placed together, a very respectable forest. Who has ever noted that there are over seventy trees in Hyde Park?

But nothing excels the river views. Wherever you look, on either side, over angle of the seven great bridges from the Tower to Lambeth, there is picture after picture of infinite variety and beauty. At night, when the Embankment sparkles with its myriad lights, the view from the bridges of London's curving waterfront has the quality of pure magic. It is a thing of beauty and will do it justice.—Overseas Daily Mail.

Making An Empire

British Did Not Accomplish It By Force Of Arms

Signor Mussolini evidently sought to weaken the influence of British efforts to avert war with these words: "It is only since the war that any country as did the great Englishmen who built up the British Empire." Had the great Empire-building aeroplanes and poison gas, went into the unknown lands, not in vast numbers, but in small parties of a few at them came to Australia with a man named James Cook. They did not blow their way into new spaces with cannon, but found it sufficient to be exposed to a few pellets into the legs of a hostile native. That was the invasion of Australia. It can hardly be described as a conquest by force of arms. True, here and there in the Empire's story there was fighting, and in the dark past deeds have been done which people of British blood would not dream of doing today; but it is to the military explorer and to little bands of navigators that the making of the Empire must be credited.—Melbourne Australasian.

Space For Royal Yacht

Two huge spars of Douglas fir, one 103 feet and the other 90 feet, destined for the Royal yacht Britannia, arrived from Cowichan Lake to Great Britain, where they are destined for His Majesty's yacht Britannia.

The aeronautics industry in the United States produced 444 planes worth of aircraft and parts in 1936.

Serum For Paralysis

Demonstration Is Made Of New Treatment For Head Disease

A serum he said was as positive and effective in the treatment of infantile paralysis as the serum widely used in treating diphtheria was announced by Dr. E. C. Rosenow of the Mayo Foundation, University of Minnesota, before members of the Kentucky State Medical Association.

The serum, Dr. Rosenow told the assembled physicians and surgeons, the result 13 years of experimentation and while it does not completely solve the problem it is effective when used within 48 hours after the disease is contracted. Within that period it is as effective and positive as the serum used for diphtheria, Dr. Rosenow said.

Dr. A. T. McCormack, secretary of the Kentucky state board of health, said the demonstration made by Dr. Rosenow was "pretty conclusive."

Arabs Find New Work

Motor Car Has Changed History Of The Bedouins

The London Sunday Express says the Bedouins in Arabia have, from time immemorial, lived by transporting goods across the desert on their camels. To-day the motor car is displacing the camel as the ship of the desert, and the Bedouins are seeking a new livelihood. In the Arab kingdoms they have begun to grow corn where it never grew before. They are settling down and building cities for the first time. The motor car is changing the map of the world. It is changing the history of the people.

Tokio Subway Ultra-Modern

Goes One Better Than Those Of Other World Cities

According to passengers recently returned to Seattle, Wash., on the President Jefferson, Tokio's subway combines the best features of the New York sub., the Paris metro, and the London tube with a few added innovations of its own. Coins in the slot machines are magnified, so that guards need not squint when on duty. White enamel straps snap back into place when not in use. Automatic doors have stops which prevent a bump but not rear the slightly tardy passenger. Cars carrying 200 passengers leave a station every three minutes.

Leads Canadian Flyers

Rear Admiral Byrd Says Dominion Pilots Best For Arctic Exploration

A tribute to Canada's north country flyers was paid at Toronto by Rear-Admiral Byrd, famous United States Antarctic explorer. Replying to Mayor Simpson's welcome at a civic reception outside of city hall, Admiral Byrd said Canadians knew more of polar flying than any other of pilots. Long experiences flying over snow and ice in both arctic and antarctic made them excellent pilots for arctic or Antarctic expeditions, he said.

SMART DRESS FOR LARGER FIGURES

By Ellen Worth

The jabot collar particularly suggests youthful line.

What a lovely feeling getting into a new woolen dress on crisp fall days. Sometimes they seem to be smarter than ever

To-day's model is a charming style for women of taller figure. It has slenderizing qualities with its V-neck, jabot collar and bias bias seaming across the hips

The clever maid was in dark plum lightweight woolen with matching bias binding and buttons.

The two surfaces of black satin back crepe would work out beautifully in this easily made model.

Black wool-like silk crepe with white satin would be very smart scheme for it.

Style No. 448 is designed for sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48-inches bust. Size 38 requires 4 yards of 39-inch material with ¾ yard of 35-inch contrasting for three quarter length sleeves.

Strange City In Africa

Streets Of Lions Lined With Ruins Of Many Palaces

Lamu, an ancient Arabian city of mystery, is built on a little island off the coast of Kenya, Kenya Colony. The streets of this strange municipality, which are so narrow that the sun scarcely penetrates in them, are lined with the ruins of many palaces. The inhabitants of Lamu are descendants of the old Persians who founded a colony on the island about A.D. 700, and are very proud of their aristocratic origin and traditions, for more than a thousand years ago their ancestors had produced great poets, architects and jewelers. The people make a living by cultivating coco-palms, by fishing and collecting ambergris.

A Rainbow Snow Storm

Beautiful Layers Of Varied Colors Fell On Australian Alps

Colored snow fell on the Australian Alps for the second time this winter. It is changed the landscape around Hotham Heights from white to chocolate within a few hours, while at Mt. Buffalo the inhabitants woke to see a bright red layer on the snow, half an inch deep. By noon heavy snow had blotted out the red layer. The most remarkable fall was at St. Bernard's Hospice, where pink snow fell in two layers, an inch and a half thick, with a 6-inch strip glittering white snow sandwiched in between.

ITALIANS WILL TAKE STEPS TO FIGHT BLOCKADE

Geneva.—After the League of Nations had taken its historic step toward the enforcement of sanctions against Italy, an Italian spokesman told the Associated Press that if a naval blockade were employed to back up sanctions "it would mean war."

Italy, he disclosed, plans upon getting necessaries from Germany through Austria and does not fear economic sanctions. Oil, he added, can be obtained "from some other nation" which could send it to Italy through the ro'ch.

The informant said Italians are enraged and depressed over the assembly's stand against their nation.

"Why the world will not recognize Italy is stifling unto death and needs an outlet," he asked. "Why doesn't it realize it must remove the causes of war and give Italy some great open space where Italians may breathe?"

Almost solidly the members of the League of Nations arraigned Italy as an aggressor in her conflict with Ethiopia.

Forty-nine countries gave their full consent to sanctions against Italy. Of the remain'ng 10 countries in the assembly, five were absent (including Germany), two opposed the idea of sanctions and one—Switzerland—made reservations. The other two were the disputants themselves.

The attitude of Austria and Hungary in opposing the action of the league caused grave concern in league circles.

Despite their non-acceptance of the council's report, they were invited to sit on the sanctions committee of 18 and thereby all league states except the belligerents.

Official said pressure would probably be brought to bear upon Hungary and Austria to prevent transit across their soil from neutral countries, like Germany, of war and other material destined for Italy.

Impressive was the note in speeches that there was no idea behind sanctions of punishing people. The dominating note was that Italy should be "brought to her senses" and shown that in these days "war is out of fashion", as one delegate said

Experiment With Crows

University Of Alberta Refuses Birds With Leg Bands

Edmonton.—Hunters of the prairie need not be surprised this week if their kill includes a very black crow with the stern feathers painted a brilliant yellow.

Prof. William Rowan of the University of Alberta, is carrying on a new experiment with crows.

A shipment of 75 crows will be sent to Winnipeg, and somewhere west of Manitoba's capital, far from familiar landmarks, the birds will be released.

Before leaving here, the birds will be given to the administrations of a body-finishing expert in a local automobile plant. Each crow will get the stern feather dipped in yellow. Also, each bird will be banded. Hunters are asked to shoot on sight and return the leg bands here. Cash prizes will be awarded for the return of the bands.

Plot Of Gangsters

Alleged Plan To Liberate Prisoners In United States

San Francisco.—Police Chief William Quinn announced that his men had been on guard for a year against a plot of gangsters to attack the United States government's Alcatraz island prison and liberate their pals.

Quinn said the police head, D. A. White, still was being guarded.

Well Known Engineer Dead

E. N. Spicer Made Trip Across Australia In 1896

New York.—Harold Norman Spicer, 70, director of the Dorr Company, Inc., engineers, and widely known in mining circles, is dead. Mr. Spicer was a member of the first group of white men to cross Australia from east to west, making the trip in 1896 while engaged in metallurgy and general mining in the Australian gold fields. He had engaged in metallurgy and mining in virtually every country of the word with the exception of South America. Mr. Spicer was born at Brudehott Hall, Hants, England.

Spending Millions On Arms

France Announces Program For Armament Production In 1936

Paris—Marcel Regnier, minister of defense, announced that France would spending, 5,420,000,000 francs ($364,850,000) on armaments in 1936

"When Europe and the whole world is in the throes of a crisis of arms," he told the chamber of deputies finance committee, "it is no time to hesitate in the face of sacrifices."

Emergency arms appropriations are added to the regular army, navy and aviation budgets

With these additions, the national defence expenditures will be 12,152,000,000 francs ($801,372,000).

Appeal Was Rejected

New Jersey Court Decides Hauptmann's Sentence Must Stand

Trenton, N.J.—The highest court in New Jersey—the court of errors and appeals—upheld the death sentence conviction of Bruno Richard Hauptmann for the kidnapping-murder of young Charles Augustus Lindbergh, Jr.

Appeals to this court are usually denied unless there are extenuating circumstances.

He may also appeal for a new trial on the basis that new evidence has been discovered. And he may also appeal to the supreme court of the United States. His attorneys have said they will carry the case to this last and highest tribunal.

FIERCE FIGHTING REPORTED FROM THE WAR FRONT

Paris.—Despatches to the Paris Soir from the Eritrean front stated that fighting is general throughout the northern Ethiopian sector with 300,000 troops engaged in a quadrangle formed by Adi Ugri and Adi Kaia, in Eritrea, and Adigrat and Aksum, in Ethiopia.

The Secret Sighting, said the despatches, was on the outskirts of Aksum, the ancient and sacred city of Italian columns but not yet captured due to the heavy fire of Ethiopian machine guns hidden in the hills commanding the city.

The despatches also said an Ethiopian plan to cut the Eritrean railroad at Massaua collapsed when attacks at Adi Ugri and Adi Kaia were repulsed. What was described as a third attack on Adigrat, which is a Italian bends, was said to have failed.

The Soir's report said, Ethiopians attempted to reorganize Adowa and were thrown back after three attacks, the battle lasting until dawn with heavy Ethiopian losses.

Despatches from Italians surrounding, the despatches said, were being moved to the rear.

Rome picked troops of the Ethiopian chief were flung at dawn in a spectacular cavalry, machine gun, and howling spear-bearer attack, the newspaper said, inflicting heavy losses on the Italians and forcing them to retreat.

Ethiopian defence council prepared for a new Italian offensive in the Walwal sector as stringent military censorship governed the battle. Each news correspondent was restricted to cabling or telegraphing not more than 100 words daily.

Authorities declared that the vast wordage sent out by newspapermen during recent months had so overburdened communications that the exchange messages necessary for the conduct of government business had been handicapped seriously

Officials also expressed their displeasure at the flood of false reports emanating from the three fronts, and appointed a group of Belgian officers to issue authoritative bulletins on new war developments

Able To Repay Kindness

Farmers Send Vegetables To Dried-Out Area In North

Amulet (Man.)—Forgetting the people who so generously supplied vegetables in this district for so many years, the farmers were able to repay their kindness to some extent this fall

There brought in several dozen bags of carrots which were taken to Ogema by truck From there they will be shipped to dried-out areas in the north

Italian Suspects Arrested

Bank Director Among Others Held In Malta Police

Valetta, Malta.—British authorities arrested a number of suspects on ep'onage charges, among them Signor Parodi, director of the Italian Banca di Roma branch in Malta. These suspects were rounded up after three Italians and a British subject were arrested. The British subject was the son of an Italian and worked on Italian Steamship Company

Police raided the offices of several Ital ian shipping companies, but except for the arrests would give no information on their activity. Three Italians were expelled from Malta after having been arrested several days before for anti-British activity and suspicion of esp'onage.

Signor Parodi, one Italian subjects by authorities of Malta. British base of Sicily in the Mediterranean, for reasons not made public, was refused his exequatur confirming his formed Italian quarters. The report aroused irritation, but officials declined comment.

Bravery Of Constable

Shot Out Lights Of Bandits' Car After Being Fatally Wounded

Calgary Bravery of Royal Canadian Mounted Police [illegible] George C. Harrison after being fatally wounded by three young gunmen near Canmore, Alta., probably saved the lives of two of his companions, Constables G. E. Coombe and Grey Campbell, it was stated in a report submitted to detachment headquarters by Sergeant J. W Cuthbert.

Shot in the neck as he approached the bandit car with Sergeant T S Wallace, who also suffered fatal wounds from a volley of revolver and rifle fire, Harrison toppled into the ditch and from there calmly shot out both headlights of the gunmen's car

This action plunged the scene into darkness and the fug itive were unable to see the other officers Harrison emptied his gun, reloaded and emptied it again before being overwhelmed

AN AMAZING DEMONSTRATION BY FIRE WALKER

An unusual demonstration took place in London recently when under the direction of the University of London Council for Psychical Investigation an Indian named Kuda Dux walked across a pit containing red hot wood and charcoal The pit contained some tons of oak logs and half a ton of charcoal, and when the temperature was 800 degrees Fahrenheit Kuda Dux walked barefoot across the pit and back again without suffering any burns or burns Here we see him performing the feat which amazed the spectators

Project Again Inaugurated

Saskatchewan Lambs May Be Shipped To East For Finishing

Regina.—The Dominion lamb feeding project which has been operated in Saskatchewan for the past two years has again been inaugurated for 1935.

Under this policy Saskatchewan lambs may be shipped to eastern Canada to be fed and fattened and finished for market

The sheep ranchers of the Maple Creek area who are members of Southern Saskatchewan Wool Growers' Association, are co-operating with the Dominion government and are consigning lambs for eastern feeding under the rancher-feeder agreement.

Farmers who are approved under the plan will not be required to lay out any cash. Freight charges to the eastern feed lots will be prepaid by the Domin on department of agriculture, reimbursement being made from the proceeds of sale when the lambs are marketed

Under the rancher-feeder agreement for 1935, the feeder receives the value of all the gain in weight plus 60 per cent. of the spread after freight and marketing charges have been deducted.

The rancher receives $3.75 per hundredweight (Moose Jaw weights) plus 40 per cent. of the spread

Reclaiming Dry Area

Large Area In Alberta Districts Will Be Re-Grassed

Calgary. — Conversion of drouth-stricken farm areas of Alberta into good range country is included in plans being completed by the combined operat ng under the Dominion Farm Rehabilitation Act, it was announced here.

A large acreage will be re-grassed in several districts and community water conservation projects are going ahead rapidly, it was stated. It was expected tenders would be submitted shortly for drilling of gas wells on the Red Deer river and the Bjork flat near Buffalo was surveyed. The site of the proposed well was located.

AUSTRIA AND HUNGARY DISSENT FROM SANCTIONS

Geneva — Austria and Hungary have notified the secretariat of negotiations against Italy They led the way in opposition when discussions opened on the assembly

Experts pointed out that the opposition by Austria and Hungary meant merely in the event of a vote favoring the anct oning of Italy, that those two nations would be exempt from participating in whatever sanctions were decided upon.

The assembly meeting opened immediately after the week-end by the steering committee, which rec mmended that a commission on arms and armaments be the work of the council and assembly be created at once

Count Pfluegr said Austria was loyal to the league but that it was linked Italy with ties of the warm est friendship

At a fatal moment in Austria's history it lated the Austrian harm it was which contributed to the safeguarding of the integrity of Austria in favor of the league

POOL MEMBERS TO GET PAYMENTS ON 1930 CROP

Winnipeg — Negotiations have been completed with the Canadian wheat board for the taking over of sold wheat and contracts from the Canadian Co-operative Wheat Producers, Limited, L. C. Brouillette, president of the central board, stated here.

The transaction makes possible adjustment of payments to members of the 1930 pools who received an initial payment of less than 60 cents a bushel for their wheat basis No. 1 Northern, Fort William and to members of the coarse grain pools who received less than the initial prices

"If the 1930 pool carryover had been thrown on the market it would have been impossible to have carried on stabilization operations undertaken by the government agency under the direction of John I McFarland," Mr. Brouillette said.

For more than two years of these operations the 1930 carryover composed nearly 100 per cent. of the holdings used in the stabilization operations . . . The increased price received by wheat producers, as a result of these operations, brought total benefits to growers estimated between $150,000,000 and $200,000,000."

Calgary Distribution of between $1,500 000 and $2 000 000 to Alberta farmers will result from completion of negotiations for the Canadian wheat board to take over all wheat and contracts from the Canadian Co-operative Wheat Producers, Limited, it was estimated by Calgary grain co-

Greece Restores Monarchy

Not A Shot Fired When Controversy Ended With Dramatic Suddenness

Athens Greece rejected her 11-year experiment in republicanism yesterday at 6 p.m. and by a rousing vote in favor of the national assembly restoring the monarchy

A mild scenes of wild rejoicing in the national assembly building—once the royal palace—the nation's law makers received the return of King George II, from exile in England.

Then, despite their approval of the restoration, the assemblymen decided to go on with the nation-wide plebiscite on the question November 3 in order to give the people a chance to express their opinion.

General George Kondylis, who seized the reins of government in a swift and bloodless stroke, was named regent until the king comes back.

In London the king, who abandoned the throne December 18, 1923, died calmly at his hotel with his sister, Queen Sophie, and Premier Tsaldaris, proclaimed martial law and threw troops about public buildings, but not a shot was fired

Although everything was quiet, the curfew rang over Greece at 10 p.m. and army patrols were seen in the streets of Athens and Salonika. Authorities said fears of actions by extremists especially communists made martial law necessary

Meteorite Fires Straw Stack

Threshing Machine Saved By Quick Action Of Men

Vegreville, Alta Rain and snow halted threshing operations on many farms but the peak in autumnal attack operations was reached on the farms of C W Campbell near here where a meteorite crashed into the straw pile set it afire, sent fragments whizzing gaily through the air and threw a meteorite crashed into the straw pile set it afire, sent fragments galloping to distant fields. Separator owner R. Binfield, engaged his bewildered men and the threshing machine was pulled away from the burning straw. A fragment was hurriedly pawed to protect the stacked crop and buildings

The Red Shadow—Feared as a Cardinal, hated as a man, he flung his cloak over blood stained Europe amid dorting under Royal passions. As greedy hands reached for his throne he conquered it with spies and cunning with cleverness. See "Cardinal Richelieu" at the Columbia on Monday Tuesday Wednesday Oct. 21, 22, 23 George Arliss in his most magnificent performance in this his initial picture.

The United church in Vermilion lost a loyal and faithful member recently in the removal of Mr. John Sharp to Calgary. For many years he was connected with the Presbyterian church serving in the capacity of Elder and in the United church from the time of union. At a meeting of the session held on Sunday evening last, the matter of appreciation was tendered him by his loyal and faithful years of service and the hope expressed that he would find in his new location a congenial sphere of labour and many new friends

Town May Not Enter Hockey League This Season

The Annual meeting of the Senior hockey club was held in the town hall on Monday evening with an attendance of some 24. Conspicuous by their absence were a large number of the business men who had signified their intention of being there when the matter was discussed at a recent Board of Trade luncheon

The election of officers resulted as follows:

Hon. President His Worship Mayor C. W. Robinson.
President—J. A. McBride
Vice Pres—T. Watts.
Sec Treas Russell Carroll
Executive—Manson Barr Jimmy Elder, Peter Weber

Practically the whole evening was spent discussing hockey prospects No definite conclusions were arrived at, as it is not certain that last year's league will function this year A rule has to also being made among the business men to ascertain the amount to support their hockey team is likely to obtain in case a few outside players were brought in to strengthen our team It was pointed out that our of last year's team were not available and also that both Lloydminster and Vegreville had applied for admittance to the league this season altho' they were the two poorest clubs last year

The tournament or opinion was Vermilion drop out of the league and merely iced with a home and home and exhibition games until the return to camouflage amateur hockey wears itself out or our neighboring towns Another meeting is called for Wednesday 8 p.m. in the town Hall

Luxurious Rooms For Passengers On Canadian C' Ships Now Freighting

The motorship Canada, newest and finest ship of the Danish East Asiatic Line's fleet, arrived recently on her maiden voyage from Europe to Port of Vancouver.

Captain C Knudsen, well-known in the past, formerly master of the company's Amerika, commands the new Canada.

Canada showed the port of the latest in modern ship architecture, with refinements that have been inspired by travel competition.

She is an up-to-the-minute freighter, with refrigerator space, in addition to regular cargo space, for 75,000 boxes of fresh fruits.

But it is her luxurious passenger accommodations for 12 passengers which will attract the attention of landsmen. Beauty and convenience are allies aboard Canada.

Appointments include a large dining room which seats all passengers, luxurious comfortable lounge including a smoking room, ladies lounge and dance foyer cocktail bar, children's dining room and a built-in swimming pool—the first on any ship plying between the Pacific coast and Europe direct

In the smoking saloon are paintings by Rhenfeld of Denmark's most-famed scenic attraction in the dining room is a painting of Fredensborg Castle by Aage Lundsteen.

All rooms on the new ship are air-conditioned, all are outside and equipped with standard beds. Bronze taps of the 25 double staterooms have private baths. There are five single rooms.

Using Different Principle

Energy Of Sea Will Propel New German Liner

Resembling a ferocious monster of the deep, an ocean liner is being designed in Germany to make use of the sea's unlimited energy as a propelling medium.

The ship will have an opening in its bow that will give it the appearance of a giant whale swimming over the water with its jaws ready to devour anything in its path This opening will gather up the ocean waves and pass them through the ship. The water will be ejected by means of spouts along the sides of the liner. The water, forced out under pressure, is expected to drive the ship forward at great speed. As a result the expense of operating a liner is expected to be reduced, says "Modern Mechanix."

Within the mouth of the ship will be an observation platform and a row of windows, through which passengers may watch the waves surging into the hold. The unusual liner will be streamlined to increase its speed.

R. J. May, an engineer of Firma, Germany, conceived the idea for the ship. He plans to install a large suction pump at the rear of the liner's mouth. This will draw up the water and force it under great pressure to the engine use to the spouts along the sides The electric motor driving the fan will be powered by Diesel engines.

May plans to build a model which will be tested on the Elbe river near Hamburg, capital of Saxony If tests prove successful, the engineer will seek to interest steamship companies in the project.

Unlike the ordinary liner which has propellers at the stern only, May's ship will have nine points of propulsion. These are the nine spouts located at the sides and stern.

Board Paid By Criminals

Michigan Will Collect From Convicts Able To Pay

Honest taxpayers of Michigan no longer are required to pay all the upkeep of convicted criminals. At its session, the State Legislature enacted a law providing that, if they are financially able, convicts must pay to the State the cost of keeping them under lock and key

The law is modeled on the statutes in effect in several States, including Michigan and New York, under which inmates of asylums for the insane are required when able, to pay for their maintenance.

Under Michigan's new law, the State will seek to reimburse itself for the cost of either old or new inmates. It is provided that prosecuting attorneys begin at once to make "an admittance" to penal institutions, and collectors may be made over the entire period of confinement.—Literary Digest.

Record in Freak Writing

Man Pens 1,741 Words On Twenty-Five-Cent Piece

A new record in freak writing has been set up by a 70-year-old meddler, William Albery of Horsham, England. Within a circle covered by a quarter-inch 25-cent piece he has written with pen and ink a rhyme history of Horsham consisting of 7,776 letters in 1,741 words.

He has put eight pages of poetry outlining the town's history in Saxon and Norman times into that circle By putting Horsham's history under the microscope he has proved himself a genius in penmanship

This example of concentrated history, viewed by the naked eye, looks like nothing like a greasy thumb-print but with a powerful lens one can read it.

Organist Wins Prize

Model Prisoner Who Defended Warder Given Longer Penalties

T .. a model prisoner who had defended a warder in Kobe prison has been given longer sentence as a result, has just been reported from Kobe, Japan. The report says that two months ago a warder who reproved a prisoner for talking, was attacked, but the action was averted by Tsuzuki Jorye, who intervened in the warder's behalf. Later three other prisoners attacked Jorye in one of the prison corridors for his championship of the warder. Jorye defended himself against the three with a pair of scissors he had been using for sandal making. He stabbed one in the stomach and the two others in the arm. For this he was given an extra sentence of six months

BELSHAZZAR'S FEAST

Golden text: Wine is a mocker, strong drink a brawler: And whosoever erreth thereby is not wise. Proverbs 20:1.

Lesson: Daniel 5:1-31.

Devotional reading: Psalm 1.

Explanations And Comments

The Fate of Nebuchadnezzar, verses 17-21. Belshazzar the king had promised Daniel a purple robe, a chain of gold, and the position of third ruler in the kingdom, if he would interpret the handwriting that appeared on the wall. "Let thy gifts be to thyself, and give thy rewards to another," returned Daniel, and then assured the king that he would interpret the writing. But first he reminded Belshazzar of Nebuchadnezzar's fate.

Nebuchadnezzar became like the beasts and dwelt among them, the six grass like oxen, and lived out in the open sky; this was his life until he recognized the supreme sovereignty of the Most High God. This illness is well known to science as that form of hypochondriasis (melancholy) in which a man takes himself for a wolf, or a dog, or some other animal. Probably the 40th century monks, who were known as the "Lycanthropi" (wolf men) from that, have been in many cases, half crazy men who in time took themselves for oxen." (F. W. Farrar).

Belshazzar's Warning, verses 22-24. Belshazzar knew how great had been Nebuchadnezzar was humbled, though "last not humbled thy heart," Daniel then solemnly said.

Daniel charged the king with having drunk wine, he and his court, out of the sacred vessels purloined from the temple at Jerusalem, and he charged him also with having prided himself against the God of heaven, and having neglected the true God who had all his breath in his hand, and all his ways and his whole destiny, Moffatt's translation). Daniel continues:

"The part of the hand was sent before"—the fingers of a man's hand, verse 5—and "this writing was written."

The Writing and Its Interpretation, verses 25-29. And this is the writing that was inscribed: Mene, mene, tekel, upharsin, that is, Numbered, numbered, weighed and divisions (or the words are translated literally in the margin of the Bible. The words are Aramaic, and in the Hebrew Bible the whole story is told in Aramaic, not Hebrew. "The feast" took place in the palace; and it is evident that the king and his wives and visiors he was under the influence of wine.

The interpretation follows in Daniel's words, verses 26-28. That night Belshazzar was slain, and Darius the Mede received the kingdom.

Runs For Fifty Minutes

German Inventors Have Patented New Gramophone Record

The gramophone record that will run on for nearly an hour on end is to be precise, just fifty minutes without stopping, has been patented by two German inventors, Herr Bauer and Professor Vorwerck, after long experiments by many other technicians working in the same field. Experts, enlisted at last with the new device, nevertheless come to the conclusion that the rendering of music and song is not the perfect that it should be in the schools of the future long passages from the classics spoken by the best actors and political propaganda purposes. Speeches will suffer less from interruption at a crucial moment, and there will be a political peg to hang home the beauty of language to literature classes.

Gave Inventor Idea

While hopping a woman hit a heavy vessel from a well, William Wooldridge noticed a piece of broken crock floating on the water. Toying with the crock, he was surprised to see it right itself, time after time, and this gave him the idea for a self-righting lifeboat.

Four Shortage Of Ships For Vimy Pilgrimage

Railways Grant One Cent Per Mile Basis—Applications Pouring In At Rate Of One Hundred Per Week

Canadian Great War Veterans and their next-of-kin are taking no chances on being left behind when the special Pilgrimage Liners leave Montreal for overseas in July next. Mr. Ben Allen, Dominion organizer for the Vimy and Battlefields Pilgrimage, who has just returned from England, France and Belgium, announced that reservations to date number 2,000 and expresses fear that thousands of Canadian war veterans and their next-of-kin may be disappointed in failure to obtain passages unless applications are filed immediately.

"We have just returned from meeting the steamship people, stated Mr. Allen, "and they have warned us that boats may not be available unless reservations are in early. It will be the rush of a last few months when develops. Unless we can definitely state within the next few months what the number will be, there will be many returned men disappointed.

"Applications are coming in now at the rate of one hundred per week, but with the authorization given us by the Canadian National Railways and the Canadian Pacific Railway Company to announce a flat rate of one-cent-per-mile fare from Montreal for every Pilgrim from his or her home address, we will be prepared with reservations that may be put through."

Employers everywhere are extending the greatest co-operation to their returned men that women employees, Canadian Line Materials Limited, Scarboro Junction, Toronto, have arranged for all of their ex-service employes to deposit with the company as much as they wish from their regular pay cheques—and the company guarantees to double the amount to the employees' credit on April first of next year. "The plan has gone over big," states W. Atkinson, Assistant plant superintendent.

Interest in the Vimy Pilgrimage is being shown at every gathering of returned men. With the usual Battalion Re-union D'asers commencing in October—the Canadian Imperial Day parades in November, and Christmas activities, it is anticipated that Canada's Peace Army will be a significant wording in Europe's re-armament in the Dominion against participation in future wars.

The Man Who Knows

Whether the Remedy You are taking for Headaches, Neuralgia or Rheumatism Pains is SAFE is Your Doctor. Ask Him

Don't Entrust Your Own or Your Family's Well-Being to Unknown Preparations

BEFORE you take any preparation you don't know all about, for the relief of headaches; or the pains of rheumatism, neuritis or neuralgia, ask your doctor what he thinks about it. He is a specialist in such matters.

We say this because, before the discovery of "Aspirin," most medicines called "headache cures" advised against by physicians as being bad for the stomach; or, like the rich coal tar products, dangerous for the heart. And the discovery of "Aspirin" largely changed medical practice.

Countless thousands of people who have taken "Aspirin" year in and out without ill effect, have proved that the medical findings about its safety were correct.

Remember this: "Aspirin" is rated among the most powerful antidotes ever discovered for the relief of headaches and all common pains . . . and safe for the average person when taken regularly.

"Aspirin" Tablets are made in Canada. "Aspirin" is the registered trade-mark of the Bayer Company, Limited, and is the name Bayer has given to the form of a cross on every tablet.

SYNOPSIS

Nancy Nelson is a sub-deb, a gay, irresponsible girl of nineteen, with no care beyond the choice of her costume for her coming-out party. Suddenly, in the space of one hour, indulgent father loses all he had, and he family is faced with the necessity of a complete change of living. At this juncture a letter is received from an eccentric relative in Colorado, who has lived for years in the West, seems to be impossible conditions.

After much consideration Cousin Columbine's offer is accepted, and Nancy and Jack arrive at Pine Ridge.

Nancy set out one afternoon to climb to the top of a hill so as to obtain a view of the surrounding landscape and to choose a picnic spot. Tubbs had told her to follow A track comes along the east side of the hill, then the Adamt, and she asks him which way to go. They approach the brook ground, and then go on to Cousin Columbine's house. Here Nancy Adam tells Nancy that his brother Luke has broken his leg, and that Jack Nelson has been hired to help out while Luke's leg gets well. Nancy and Jack Nelson have been introduced by the Nelson cousins. It's Tubbs's duty to be puffed up, Mathew. Think of the courage it must have taken for a boy to start out in the teeth of such a storm, especially when the driver had disappeared. And then to have got brought up as she's been—everything not easy on the eye—to do what she did—Well, all I can say is that my pioneer mother would have been proud of her!"

Matt noted with pleasure that Miss Columbine spoke with her accustomed ease.

"You must go home to-day, Matthew," she said later. "It's been a delight knowing you were here; but your father needs you, and I'll not be behind any longer."

The young man smiled.

"I've had orders per telephone, to stay on duty a day longer. Mark's on his way in from Prairie Ranch right now. Mother's coming down in the truck to take him home and incidentally, pick out a new car and take it home to get used to it and even Dad can't rake up an excuse to put us off. The Adam clan is thrilled at the prospect. We'll have a family reunion at the Ford agency this afternoon."

Miss Columbine laughed and said: "Your mother deserves a modern car if anybody does. Is Mark an right again?"

"He'd come whether he was or not. They've had to take turns sitting on him to prevent his getting out of bed! All that kept Mark from joining that rescue party, Miss Columbine, was the fact that Aunt Em hid his clothes and locked the closet where Uncle Tom keeps his. I must run now and get a bite before I meet the family."

After this things went more smoothly, and the messages to Edgemere contained only the best of news

CHAPTER XXI.

The days that followed ordered new lives in Columbine Nelson's face, for only a few hours after her second telegram to Massachusetts Jack took an unexpected turn for the worse.

"Shall I send for his people?" she questioned, when after a time that seemed endless a grey-eyed doctor emerged from the boy's room.

"I should wait," he answered. "If Jack were my own son, Miss Nelson, and I so far away, I should say the same. You see, if the end comes, it will be soon; and since his parents could not reach here in time to see him, isn't it kinder, and wiser too, not to harrow them with the knowledge of how dark the prospects look just now! If he lives through the night the boy will probably recover. He's putting up a magnificent fight; and every nurse and doctor in the place is fighting with him—in spirit, anyway. I don't say that his condition isn't desperate; but somehow I've the conviction that he'll make the grade."

Miss Columbine did not leave the hospital that night; nor did she go to her spare till early morning when a nurse appeared to say that Jack seemed to have turned the corner and his physician felt the worst was over. Not until then did she allow Judy cry a little, and the doctor ordered a powder that brought sleep. It was almost noon when she received a rap upon her door, and Matthew Adam entered the room.

"Did I wake you, Miss Columbine?"

"No; I was only snoozing. How's everything on the ranch?"

The young man sat down on the bed and grinned at her.

"Jack's getting along splendidly. Nancy isn't suffering this morning; and it looks as if the kids were coming through without a single sunburnation. That Osgood boy's been telling me what happened. I tell you, Miss Columbine, I take off my hat to Jack and Nancy—and to some of those brave youngsters too."

"I guess the papers didn't exaggerate, Matthew," she observed.

"You're right. But just the same, I miss my guess if it's not some shock to those young relatives of yours when they read the story! How do you suppose it feels, Miss Columbine, to have the country regard you as heroes?"

"Well, it won't hurt either of 'em," responded the old lady. "They've got to learn to take success same as they will adversity to be puffed up, Matthew. Think of the courage it must have taken for a boy to start out in the teeth of such a storm, especially when the driver had disappeared. And then to have got brought up as she's been—everything not easy on the eye—to do what she did—Well, all I can say is that my pioneer mother would have been proud of her!"

Thus there came a day some two weeks later when Nance found herself in the old Ford sedan headed again, with General Grant looking down disapprovingly, she thought, on her Chinese coat, and Mark Adam looking quite the opposite, as he stood in the doorway.

"Pursuing your fan mail?" he questioned sedately.

Nancy laughed. Her bed was strewn with newspapers and letters. Her writing pad bristled with telegrams from her admirers. She laid down a cable from Aunt Judy and the Spear twins as she replied:

"Come on in and be seated. No, not on the bed, Mark! My feet don't belong to me yet, and I've got the feeling that if anybody sits on 'em they'll break off! Where's Matthew? I should have come at once if these foolish letters. Can—can you beat that?"

She turned him a mischievous, but beseeching face, and Mark found himself obliged to look at it. Aurora Tubbs puffed up the stairs.

"What'll you have for dinner, Mark? Nancy, I'll bet you're hungry! Potatoes, and some hothouse tomatoes that come by express this morning, and Matthew's admirin' to Fort Collins, whoever he is. Would you like apple pie, or a good boiled custard? Miss Columbine says to order anything you want. My stars! Your bed's a perfect sight. I hope this means you're gettin' wore't turn your head"

Nancy smiled and replied: "I'll choose the pie, Aurora. And could you open a can of your wonderful string beans?"

"Sure we could. Why don't you ask right out to stay for supper, Mark? Adam? You might as well as to set there lookin' hungry."

Mark shook his head, endeavoring to appear grieved

"You wrong me, Aurora. I'm headed for Prairie Ranch as soon as my elder brother arrives from home in the new car. We're to swap vehicles and I'm going to show appreciate that grudging invitation though if you ask me, he's already enjoyed more than his share of our cuisine in the past week."

"I think he's gettin' awful sweet on her," observed the woman, as nobody that Nance suppressed a smile.

"So'm I," said Mark, and grinned at Nancy.

Aurora moved forward, her brow furrowed with worry.

"I'm sure sorry because it won't make no trouble in the family, Mark Adam 'Would break your mother's heart if anything was to come between you two girls. What are you headed for now, Nancy Nelson? It's no laughin matter for two brothers to get smeet with the same girl. There was the Elton brothers up to Cripple Creek They both fell in love with Sarah Peters and—Oh, I'm comin'—you Columbine has a warning sounded from below. I know you told me not to talk Nancy to death. I'm comin' now."

"And she leaves us," Mark said tragically as Aurora fled, "in dismal ignorance as to the fate of those unfortunate Eltons' I'll look in on Jack this afternoon, Nancy Want me to take him some of this accumulation?"

"I do if you won't forget to bring them back. I'm saving every one of these letters to show my grandchildren. Jack's seen the papers I suppose"

Mark nodded

"He says he feels like Lindbergh The last of those kids gets home today, Nance It's wonderful how well they all came through"

"Isn't it" I was so awfully afraid for some of them It makes me shudder just to remember how they suffered. Is that Matt honking so sheerly below the window " Hand me that compact on the bureau, Mark. I expect I look a sight."

The young man threw her a reproachful glance as he obeyed.

"I note the fact that you used no powder or lipstick on my account, Miss Aladdin. Say! Aunt Em sent in a big donation for the library. I left the books with Mary Taylor, but she suggested you might like to look 'em over here."

"I would. I can hardly wait to get back to the library. Juanita says—"

"All ready, feller," called Matthew from below.

Mark went to the stairway and looked down.

"Why don't you join us, brother? Nancy's been beautifying herself just for your benefit. She looks like the Queen of Sheba or Greta Garbo, or some one."

Matthew obeyed, saying as he paused on the threshold: "I was only thinking that two callers might upset the invalid. How you feeling Nance?"

"Great! And don't call me an invalid. There's nothing the matter except that my feet feel sort of—well, sort of heavy."

"Mark Adam," called Miss Columbine, "you come right down. You've been there half an hour. It's Matt's turn now."

"Coming," called Mark; and then to Nancy: "I'll drop in later and let Matt explain why I'm not still on the grass. I don't say that his condition isn't desperate; but somehow I've the conviction that he'll make the grade."

Miss Columbine did not leave the hospital that night; nor did she go to her spare till early morning when a nurse appeared to say that Jack seemed to have turned the corner and his physician felt the worst was over. "Well, it won't hurt either of 'em," responded the old lady. "They've got to learn to take success same as they will adversity to be puffed up, Matthew Think of the courage it must have taken for a boy to start out in the teeth of such a storm, especially when the driver had disappeared. And then to have got brought up as she's been—everything not easy on the eye—to do what she did—Well, all I can say is that my pioneer mother would have been proud of her!"

Matt noted with pleasure that Miss Columbine spoke with her accustomed ease.

"You must go home to-day, Matthew," she said later. "It's been a delight knowing you were here; but your father needs you, and I'll not be behind any longer."

The young man smiled.

"I've had orders per telephone, to stay on duty a day longer. Mark's on his way in from Prairie Ranch right now. Mother's coming down in the truck to take him home and incidentally, pick out a new car and take it home to get used to it and even Dad can't rake up an excuse to put us off. The Adam clan is thrilled at the prospect. We'll have a family reunion at the Ford agency this afternoon."

Miss Columbine laughed and said: "Your mother deserves a modern car if anybody does. Is Mark an right again?"

"He'd come whether he was or not. They've had to take turns sitting on him to prevent his getting out of bed! All that kept Mark from joining that rescue party, Miss Columbine, was the fact that Aunt Em hid his clothes and locked the closet where Uncle Tom keeps his. I must run now and get a bite before I meet the family."

After this things went more smoothly, and the messages to Edgemere contained only the best of news

Bicycle With Wings

Short Flight Has Been Achieved By German Inventor

From Germany comes the news of the first flight ever achieved by man-power alone. Since time immemorial men have been trying to conquer the air in various contraptions propelled by human muscles and the spectators at Frankford-on-Main saw a sort of winged bicycle actually leave the ground in a flight of several hundred yards.

So what? Does this presage a time when we shall long on our aerial bicycles and stall through space? The inventor says no, but we are inclined to doubt him. Terrestrial bicycles, if you recall, became somewhat less popular with the development of the gasoline engine. It would be great sport to go pedalling through the air, but when can air comfortably sit at the controls and let an engine do the work—well, somehow aerial bicycling seems less attractive. If it came to one's choice between flying fitvers and flying bicycles, we have a pretty good hunch which the public would choose —Detroit Saturday Night.

Tribute To Women

Share Largely In Contributions To Our Modern Civilization

Women's contribution to civilization has been a large one. No less an authority than Mary R. Beard, the noted historian, claims that women launched civilization. She points out that primitive woman was the cook and the guardian of the hearth, that women were the butchers, millers, harvesters, that they evolved the processes of spinning, weaving, dyeing that according to one authority they even invented the suction pump and that they are credited equally with men with discovering the origin of fire.—Country Life in B.C.

All Have Same Idea

Seven Sons In One Family Serve On Police Force

A family of seven sons, and all in the police force, is the record set up by Mr. and Mrs. M. Duncan, of Postmaster, Scotland. Duncan senior, also served as a policeman for a number of years, but left the force, and took up farming. After having served in turn the seven sons tried to farm. Six of them are six feet and over in height, while the youngest, who is only 18, is five feet 11 inches

Space is not exactly crowded considering an astron-mers' statement that space unoccupied by stars is 100 million million million times as great as that the stars themselves occupy

Little Helps For This Week

A bruised reed shall He not break. Isaiah 42 3.

All my life I still have found And I'll forget it never. Every sorrow hath its bound. No cross endures forever All things else but have their day, God's love only lasts for aye

We have never had more than we can bear. The present hour we are always able to endure. As our day so is our strength. If the trials of many years were gathered into one they would overwhelm us, therefore in pity for our little strength He sends first one and then another, and then removes both before He lays on a third heavier perhaps than both; still all is so wisely measured to our strength that the bruised reed is never broken. We do not look enough at our trials in this severe and continuous view. Each one is sent to us to teach us something, and altogether they have a lesson which is beyond the power of any to teach alone.

New Air Weapon

Huge Bombers Submitted To United States Army For Approval

A new Vultee observation bomber, described by experienced aviation men as "the most powerful air weapon ever devised," has completed secret factory tests and will be submitted to the United States army for approval.

Perhaps the most striking development of the 450-horsepower bomber, which can fly at 250 miles an hour fully loaded, is its canopy of shatter-proof glass, which permits unobscured vision and preserves low air resistance

The bomber is equipped with one machine gun firing fixed machine guns. Alternate armament can be one 1,100-pound bomb, or 24 bombs of 100 pounds each.

The big ship also can carry pressure tanks for poison gas to be discharged over trenches at 250 miles an hour

Pilgrims Visit Battlefields

A quarter of a million pilgrims visit the Great War battlefields of France every year, and of these six per cent. are German, twice as many as British. No fewer than 14,700 Germans visited Verdun alone during 1934

As late as 1800, English rustics caught rain water falling on Ascension Day The water was bottled and used in each bread leavening to insure "light" bread. 2121

SPECIAL REDUCED FARES ON C.N.R. FOR REMEMBRANCE DAY

WINNIPEG, Man., Oct. 22—Remembrance Day, celebrated this year on Monday, November 11, offers the opportunity for a long week-end, and the Canadian National Railways have taken advantage of the date to offer to the public or Canada a long week-end at special reduced fares.

One-way ordinary first-class fare and one-quarter, with a minimum charge of 50 cents for the round trip, will be the cost for travel between all stations Port Arthur, Armstrong, Ont., and west, also from stations in said territory to stations in Canada east thereof.

Tickets will be good going from Friday noon, November 8, until 2 p. m. Monday, November 11, with return limit to leave destination not later than 12 midnight, Tuesday, November 12. These tickets are limited to continuous passage, going and returning.

The long week-end thus granted should prove attractive to travellers who are desirous of visiting friends and relatives within the wide range of territory covered by this fare and one-quarter concession.

Alberta some day will have to have a permanent hard surfaced highway extending from the international boundary to the far north, Premier Aberhart stated Monday.

"It is unfortunate that we have not been held asfaring right along. While the initial expense might be higher, there would be a saving on maintenance costs later on," said the premier, owing to the province's financial condition it was unable to embark upon such a hard-surfacing program. This was something that might have to be delayed for some years but it would be done ultimately, the premier said.

ISLAND HILL

As can be seen by advertisement in this issue the McCambridge Drama Co. is in staging a comedy entitled "The Rube True Duchess" in St. Andrews Hall (nine miles north of town) Friday Nov. 1st. In addition a high class concert program is arranged. Do not miss seeing this play. You will have a good hearty laugh and forget all about frozen wheat and skinny hogs.

Mr McIntyre Sr is a member of the company and he would make a cat laugh. P. McCambridge Jr. the leader, relating his matrimonial hardships and troubles will make you scream. The admission is only 25c.

Miss Beatrice Moir is sponsoring a dance here at the school Friday 1st November. The Dell orchestra will be in attendance. Will ladies please note to take cake. Everybody that is anybody will be present.

Island Hill Sluggers scored a meritorious victory over Campbell Lake in a ball game here Sunday. Miss Moir Island Hill and Miss Gray, Campbell Lake deserve a special word of praise for the interest they take in their pupils' welfare. Bert Searle was umpire. We hope Bill does not ever look handing over the two bases of chocolates.

Edward Toner well known to a number of our readers and who hails from Bonnyville where they eat the potato skins and all paid us a visit a few days ago—he was sing like a lark and talk the hind off a steed. When talking his leave he informed us that we were the most intelligent person he'd met since he left home nine years ago. Without a smile we cordially reciprocated the compliment.

(N.B.—Now dear reader you know the two most intelligent men in Alberta.)

We believe it would be a paying proposition to start a matrimonial agency—anything would be better than raising wheat for Jack Frost.

These thoughts occured to us when Ned and Frank two eligible young bachelors called upon us the other day. So boys you have only to wait a few weeks—1936 is Leap Year and you know in that year ladies have the privilege of popping the question and if we know anything of the ladies they always take full advantage of their privileges. "Hope the Editor pops his blue pencil through that nonsense" whispers our life-partner as we meekly replied

VERMILION PEOPLE

HEAR UNITED ARTISTS

The choir of the First United Church are to be congratulated for their initiative in bringing such artists in their respective fields as Miss Marjorie Moore pianiste, and Mrs. Grace Seigert, dramatic reader and impersonator, to Vermilion.

The programme rendered by these talented ladies at the United Church on Thursday evening, October 17th, was brilliant to the extreme; and those who were fortunate enough to realize the musical and dramatic feast that was in store for them were lavish in their praise of the high quality of the items presented

The programme opened with a reading by Mrs. Seigert, an excerpt from one of George Eliot's master-pieces.

Throughout the evening, at different intervals, Mrs. Seigert pleased her audience with other readings of a lighter and more humorous style, in all of which she held the wrapt attention of her hearers, who marked their appreciation in no uncertain manner.

Of Miss Moore's pianistic ability one can say nothing that has not already been said, and the only thing left is to corroborate the exceptionally high tributes which have been paid to her artistry by some of Canada's leading musical critics.

Miss Moore's first offering was the "Sonata in B Minor" by Liszt, in which she displayed a technical skill of high order.

A second appearance was in a group of compositions by modern composers, all of which were well improved, the audience were especially enthusiastic over the composition by Phillip—"Feux Follets" and the "Golliwog's Cake Walk", by Claude Debussy.

Two numbers by Chopin—a nocturne and a polonaise—were Miss Moore's last programme offering, but the audience demanded more, and the artist obliged with one of the loveliest selections of the evening—Rubinstein's arrangement of Beethoven's well-known "Turkish March."

The excellent impressions left by both Miss Moore and Mrs. Seigert will assure them of a very warm welcome at any future visit.

WEDDING BELLS

CARPENTER—LAWSON

A beautiful wedding was solemnized at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Olson in Dorrington on Wednesday, Oct. 16 when their only daughter, Bertha Louise was united in marriage to Idris, second son of Mr. and Mrs. J. G Carpenter of Streamcross.

The bride and groom were attended by Coinlyn Carpenter, sister of the groom and Hershal Olson, brother of the bride.

The bride was charmingly dressed in white satin and carried a bouquet of white and pink roses. The bridesmaid wore a dress of silk green and carried a bouquet of white carnations.

The ceremony was conducted by Rev. M. L. Wright of Kitscoty and was accompanied by music by Miss Mary Law, sister of Lauson. The bride's table, which was presided over by Mrs. Olson, was artistically decorated and served to about 36 guests. Mr. N. McClellan proposed a toast to the bride and groom, the groom responding in a fitting manner. The couple received many beautiful and useful gifts and best wishes for a long and happy married life.

Mrs. Fairer was in attendance and asked that the seizure on hay crop for arrears of taxes be released stating that he only threshed 200 bushels of feed wheat and that needed for living expenses. Request granted.

Instructions were given to pay $1 per acre to farmers in the district willing to harrow and to write M. D. of Lakeview re responsibility for same.

1936 seed grain circular from the Minister of Agriculture was read. Estimated that only 50 farmers in the district will need seed oats next spring.

It was carried that Cat to the S. T. A. meet at Secretary's office to combine Municipal district action on an arranged date

Councillor Rooney appointed Deputy Reeve for balance of year.

Secretary gave a report re assessments made when he was given further instructions that seizure must be made, wherever there is arrears of taxes not consolidated

The Reeve reported having appointed the Secretary and Deputy Reeve to appear before the Assessment Commissioner in Mannville to contest the appeals against the decision of our Court of Revision re Wild Lands tax. It was carried that appointment be approved and expenses paid

A number of timesheets were ordered paid Meeting adjourned.

AUBURNDALE

Only about sixty-five per cent of the voters turned out at Autumn Leaf on election day to cast their ballots. The returns were: 31 for Social Credit, 28 for C. C. F., 6 Liberals and 3 Conservatives.

Social Creditors were of course elated that Mr. Robert Fair was elected in the Battle River riding with such a big majority. In Mr. Fair we believe we have a thinker, and a man who will get things done as well.

Mr. Fair and the other Social Credit speakers, Mrs. A. Wilson of Edgerton and Mr. A. H. Wray, organizer for Social Credit, after addressing a meeting at Caron's hall on Saturday evening, Oct. 12th, stopped at Mr. and Mrs. Little's of Cummings for late supper and then motored on to Edgerton the same night.

Mr. George Cox of Battleview has been operated on in the Vermilion hospital for adhesions resulting from an appendix operation some months ago. He is progressing as well as can be expected. The doctors say it is the worst case of adhesions they have seen in Vermilion. Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Seale, Mr. Cox's next door neighbors, were in to see him on Sunday.

Miss Lily Harris has gone to stay with her parents in Chauvin until her arm and other injuries are mended. Miss Rita Majury is taking Miss Harris' place as teacher of Heatherbell school until Miss Harris is able to be on the job again

Miss Bernice Fraser had to come home for a day or two on account of illness but she is better again and is back in Wainwright attending High school.

Miss Lois Arthur is expected to be home from Vermilion hospital in a few days. She was taken to hospital suffering with rheumatism and a hich fever.

The Vermilion Choir was present at the beautiful memorial service held in Auburndale church on October 13 for Rita Symes. The hymns selected were: "Abide With Me", "Rock of Ages." "I Need Thee Every Hour," and "Peace, Perfect Peace." The service was conducted by Rev. H. A. Boyd of Vermilion.

We saw Mr Frank Fish of Wainwright and Mr Wallace of the Oliver Company's Collection Department driving around this district in a fine new streamline model Chevrolet car

We hear that Mr. and Mrs Lawson (nee Dorothy Hetherington) are having a grand honeymoon down east. Mrs. Lawson is enjoying seeing new places and meeting new relatives and friends. After spent some time with Rev. Elwood and Mrs. Lawson, her parents-in-law at their summer camp, while Mr. Lawson Sr. was away attending to other duties.

Miss Ellie Cleland is at home again after spending a month with Mrs. Harold Barlow of Cowley.

Lost, strayed or stolen or blown away by the wind, one "round be" basketball. Finder please return to Mr. F. S. Brimacombe, teacher of the Autumn Leaf school. Reward offered

A. Vermilion.

Besides his widow, the deceased leaves to mourn his loss his mother and two brothers, in Larbert, Scotland

Mr. Alexander Law Miller was born at Steinhousemuir Scotland, Aug. 3 1893, was educated at Larbert Public school and entered the service of the Canadian Bank of Commerce in January 1914. In Aug. 1914 on the outbreak of the Great War he enlisted in the Fort Garry Horse (afterwards transferred to Lord Strathcona's Horse) and was in France until demobilized in Sept. 1919. His war service included actions at Ploegsteert, 1915, Somme 1916-1917, Cambrai 1917 here he distinguished himself by taking charge of the remnant of his squadron and leading them to safety, and Amiens, 1918. When the war ended, Mr. Miller had the rank of Sergeant He was wounded April 1 1916. He returned to the service of the Bank, Sept. 1919 and served at Rockyford, Manny berries, Medicine Hat and Vermilion. In 1921 he was moved in Calgary to Miss Rose Le Clerc of Gaspe, Quebec. In 1930 he was promoted to the Managership of the Bank's Hairy Hill office and was there until Dec. 1934, incidentally having to undergo the experience of a robbery there in Sept. 1931.

On the closing of the Hairy Hill branch Mr. Miller returned to Vermilion, serving on the staff here until his death

Mr Miller was a quiet, reserved gentleman, who was highly esteemed by those who had the privilege of his friendship. His loss will be keenly felt by his acquaintances in Vermilion and elsewhere

Recreation A Vital Necessity

Ever since some authority discovered and told the world that every man should have a hobby the dictum has been reiterated at intervals by later authorities with varying degrees of emphasis and sometimes by those who are interested in promoting some form of amusement or recreation.

Whether uttered however with or without an ulterior motive the assertion is one which has a sound foundation in psychology and human experience. It is first sounds and as well founded as that more popularly known saying "All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy

While a hobby or recreation is a valuable adjunct to work for man at all periods of his march from the cradle to the grave, in at least two stages of his progress, in youth and in old age, it is an absolute essential if he is to achieve the goal of life happ ness

The word recreation itself gives a clue to the reason. Re-creation, the making over again of the individual as he seeks relaxation from the "trivial round and common task" means what it indicates

Unless a man is content to be a dull dog he must refresh and re-create himself by seeking relaxation in some pursuit which, for the time, will lift him above the cares and worries incidental to earn ng his daily bread and providing for the needs of those dependent upon him. He needs some interest, which will infuse zest into aching limbs or brush away the cobwebs from the brain.

It is with th s diverse interest may take the form of athletics mechanical activity and with a minority, some more sedentary type of relaxation, but no matter what form it may take, it is essential to the development of a sound rounded citizenship, that youth should be allowed time for recreation

The lad or young man without a hobby is apt to become morbid and unhealthily introspective. Youth is normally a period of superabundant energy at this certain energy is entitled to expression Itself in various forms which creations, and if it can be used as a step ladder to a life vocation it is that much more to the good

Many a youth has "found" himself in the pursuit of a hobby. History is full of instances of boys and young men who became made good in later life because they have been allowed to follow their bent and of many more who have done so despite overwhelming obstacles and discouragements. By all means encourage the young man to take up some interest, apart from his daily work and chosen.

And if a hobby is essential to youth it is vital to old age There is no more pitiful sight than the old man whose physical powers have waned and who has no interest in life or in living Such a man is a burden to himself and an incubus to his associates. He is misery personified and makes miserable those with whom he comes in daily contact.

But the old man who has built up an interest secondary to the life work which he pursued in his prime is spared these pains and penalties of advancing years. As he becomes physically enfeebled he is able to turn his hand and his mind to a pursuit which daily grows in fascination, because it can be taken for granted that the hobby which he has developed is something which he likes and in which, therefore, he can excel. Such a pursuit will go far towards prolonging life itself and will certainly give zest to the declining years. Gloom will give way to sunshine and contentment will displace unrestfulness.

But it is too late for the aged to develop a hobby after they have reached the sere and yellow The old adage, "You can't teach an old dog new tricks" is applicable to humanity There may be exceptions but that is the rule That is one of the reasons why every man should, in the years of prime and middle life, a recreation is not only advisable but essential. It is an insurance policy for a contented and interesting old age

Moreover the man who develops his interests beyond his life's vocation, even during the period when life is at the full, is more likely to have an old age in which to further develop his hobby. It need not necessarily be something apart from his daily work. It may well be something related to it, in which event its pursuit will yield additional interest and perhaps more tangible dividends in the task of making a living.

Chinese Dancers Are Willing To Help Aviation League

Dancers are to be their bit in helping China get together a strong air force. This is a result of a request by the China Aviation League to the proprietors of Chinese dance halls in Shanghai for a charge of five cents on every dollar earned in their establishments to go towards a fund for the purchase of airplanes. The dance hall owners will pass the five cents charge on to their customers. The proposal has been accepted by 30 dance halls and others are expected to notify the Aviation League of the compliance before many dance-nights have passed.

First Bicycle in Bavaria

Built In 1984 It Is Made Entirely Of Wood

Bavaria's first bicycle, built by the famous German sports instructor, Johann Gottlieb Tröls, has been acquired by the Deutsches Museum at Munich. The bicycle is made entirely of wood, and was designed and built by Tröls in 1984. Peasants, when they first saw him pedalling the wooden machine along the road around Munich, shouted "witch-doctor" and often threw stones and crossed themselves. Tröls only managed to overcome Bavarian prejudice after he had built an indoor bicycling hall in Stuttgart to "introduce Germans to the bicycle"

No Book So Widely Read As The Bible

The Bible of the present generation is the outcome of centuries of research and labor. It contains 66 books in one, covering history, poems, prophecy, romance, law, history, biography, and letters delivered as correspondence. Men like King George read a part of it every day for guidance, and management in their tasks; Sun Yat Sen, Chinese follower of Confucius, Mahatma Gandhi the Hindu, and Kerenga of Japan, pore over it and believed in its power to their destinies by its teaching. It is read in palaces and in mud huts. Each year 25,000,000 copies in hundreds of languages. In spite of supposed religious indifference it is the most read book in the world.—St. Thomas Times-Journal.

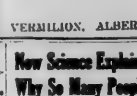
Now Science Explains Why So Many People Past 40

Feel That They're Slipping Losing Their "Grip" on Things



Many people 'round 40 think they're "growing old." They feel tired a lot —weak.—Have headaches, dizziness, stomach upsets.

Well, scientists say the cause of all this, in a great many cases, is simply an acid condition of the stomach. Nothing more.

All you have to do is to neutralize the excess stomach acidity.

When you buy any of these acid stomach agents, take Phillips' Milk of Magnesia after meals and before going to bed. That's all!

Try this. Soon you'll feel like another person! Take either the familiar liquid "PHILLIPS" or the convenient new Phillips' Milk of Magnesia Tablets. Made in Canada.

Mounted Section Necessary

Separate Division Of R.C.M.P. Is Being Considered

The old order changeth.

The Mounted Police are considering forming a mounted section in the forces, according to the annual report released at Regina headquarters.

"If present plans are advanced to completion," the report states, "the subjects of equitation, mounted drill and stable management will be undertaken by those assigned to the mounted section only."

The report states difficulty is experienced in completing the training of some recruits within the prescribed period of six months as intensive training in equitation is included in the syllabus.

So some recruits may be assigned to mounted duty only, while others will take instruction in more modern and rapid means of travel.

Despite reports that the force was slowly but surely doing away with horses, Major-General Sir James H. MacBrien, commissioner, states in the report that "there is no intention whatever of dispensing altogether with the mounted man. A well trained mounted unit of sufficient number is invaluable to any force which may be here by land with mounted troops."

At the present time, the report states, the force throughout the Dominion has 1,000 saddle horses, 19 team horses, and of these, 88 saddle horses and 13 team horses are located at Headquarters.

Other means of land transport owned by the Mounted Police are 411 passenger cars; 34 motorcycles; 19 motor trucks; three railway gas cars and fifteen boats.

Of this, number, there are 96 motor cars, motorcycles and 26 dogs employed in Saskatchewan.

The force also operates 11 cutters and eight patrol boats in preventive services on the eastern and western coasts.

Might Spoil Their Appearance

Army Troopers Prefer Jail To Having Hair Cut

Troopers of the Czechoslovakian army went on strike recently to escape the great peril of having their hair cut. About 60 of the men stationed at Olomouc flatly refused to obey their commanding officer when he ordered them to report to the barbers for a trimming. They clung to their determination not to have their hair cut and were sent to cells. Their reason, they said, was that they were about to be discharged from the army and would have to look for work. Everyone knows that a smart appearance counts for a lot in getting a job, they pleaded, but who can look really smart with one's hair cut like a convict's?

Experiment A Success

British Eggs Despatched By Air Reach Canada In Safety

An experiment in sending British eggs by air mail to Australia, to be hatched by Australian hens has proved a success and is likely to result in Rhode Island chicks hitherto unknown in Australia prove. Mr. F. P. Tinney, assistant secretary of the Poultry Club of New South Wales, received two settings of Rhode Island eggs sent by air mail. They were despatched fifteen days earlier by Lord Greenway from his farm at Stanbridge Earls, Romsey (Hampshire). The two chicks hatched out 25 days after receipt.

Idea For Poultrymen

Chickens May Be Tattooed With Breed Of Owner

Chickens, tattooed on the wing, may soon become the present-day counterparts of the Saxon-branded cattle and horses of the old west, and for the same reason—to foil thieves. A system of identification, endorsed by the Northeastern Poultry Producers' Association is based on needle-punctures made in the skin-webs of chickens' wings and then filled with indelible ink. Each poultry-raiser has his own "brand", which is registered, and entered in identification books distributed to law-enforcement agencies.

NO VOLUNTARY WHEAT POOLS TO BE OPERATED

Winnipeg—With the long-sought Dominion wheat board in actual operation, no voluntary wheat pools will be operated by the Manitoba Pool Elevators, Limited, the s yea, it was decided by the board of directors accepted at the annual meeting of the pool delegates.

Similar action on dropping voluntary pools in favor of marketing by the Dominion wheat board will be taken by the Saskatchewan and Alberta Pools when their annual meetings are held shortly, said L. C. Brouillette, chairman of the central selling agency.

Increased handlings of wheat, increased membership and reduction of indebtedness of the pool to the Manitoba government were disclosed in reports to the 150 delegates from all parts of Manitoba. Payments to the government totalled $177,722.43 and met the due instalment in full. An operating surplus of $308,534.15 was reported.

Termination of the voluntary pools because of establishment of the Dominion wheat board was in line with the policy of the pool organizations, it was announced. The pool elevators will handle the grain and the marketing will be done by the Dominion wheat board.

The pool was anticipated in agitation for the Dominion wheat board and the Manitoba pool delegates passed a resolution which urged that the board extend its operat'ons "to handle coarse grains and to set a minimum price which approximates the cost of production. Such action can be taken by the board if approved by the governor-general-in-council.

Pool members will continue to have the alternative of delivering their wheat to pool elevators or direct by accepting the street price when delivery is made or selling through the board. The record of a minimum price of 87½ cents a bushel No. 1 Northern, Fort William basis, and further payments to the board by growers of grains gs of the board warrant them.

With due instalments paid to the Manitoba government, indebtedness of the pool to the government as a result of re-financing four years ago, now stands at $1,362,363.67. Payments made this year were $824 60 16 on interest and 395,262.26 on principal. The liability of the Manitoba Pool Elevators to the province will be liquidated in full," said the director' report.

Increase in membership of 884 brought the total membership to 10,142, the report said. Wheat handled increased from 10,034,359 in the crop year 1933-34 to 10,908,637 in the crop year 1934-35. After taking care of its expenses, a net operating surplus of $368,324 15 was shown from which the payments to the Manitoba government, interest along with other payments to working capital, etc.

May Try State Medicine

Envisaged For Manitoba By Minister Of Health

Winnipeg.—State medicine throughout Manitoba, if an experiment about to be made in a small area proves successful, was envisaged here by Hon. L. S. Griffiths, provincial minister of health and public welfare.

Preparations now were being made by the government to establish a unit area in which a form of state medicine will be tried out, he said. The ultimate scheme would involve free medical, hospital and drug service to individuals, the cost to be borne "probably by provincial and municipal governments out of taxes."

In the unit area contemplated, said Mr. Griffiths, there would be no change in the present system except that doctors, druggists and hospitals would not send bills to patients. Payment would be taken care of from a common fund provided by the municipal and provincial governments.

Wilkins And Ellsworth Expedition Leave For Antarctic

Montevideo, Uruguay.—The Norwegian whaling ship Wyatt Earp bumed with activity as Lincoln Ellsworth and Sir Hubert Wilkins completed preparations for a start at once for their Antarctic expedition.

Accompanied by two Canadian aviators, Herbert Hollick-Kenyon of Winnipeg, and J. H. Lymburner, of Montreal—Ellsworth hopes to span the Antarctic by air before Jan. 1 in the low-winged monoplane "Polar Star" which has undergone intensive tests here. It will be Ellsworth's third attempt to conquer the icy continent by air.

The objective of the flight across 2,000 miles of ice-bound mountain crags and snowy wastes will be to determine if possible whether Antarctica is one immense continent or two, divided by a channel from the Weddell sea to the Ross sea.

Enforcement Of Act Delayed

Premier Aberhart Gives Out Statement Regard ng Health Insurance

Edmonton.—State health insurance will not be brought into effect for some time, it was announced by Premier Aberhart. The act, passed at the last session of the legislature, will stand over until payments of basic dividends gain.

"One reason for not taking action now is that Social Credit means health insurance for the people," the premier said.

One objection was that under state health insurance there would be no direct levies on people living in a unit organized under the plan.

As a result it is felt, he said, that the matter should stand over until Social Credit is brought into operation, when there would be automatic health benefits for the people.

Powerful Radio Stations

U.S. Talk Of Install'ng Super-Powered Stations Near Border

Washington.—A study aimed at installing 500 new-powered ones has been undertaken by engineers of the federal communications commission.

Plans under consideration are said to call for the establishment of high-powered stations on the Canadian and Mexican borders. There stations, however, would operate with directional antennae, throwing most of their power inland and away from the border stations of Canada and Mexico.

Ottawa.—Before any general plan was considered finally by the United States which would involve radio interference with broadcasting operations here and in Mexico, no invitation to such a conference has been received here.

Rio De Janeiro.—Although virtually approved a cut in Brazil's standing army. The proposal would remove 2,000 men from the army, leaving it at 856,161, in an effort to save about $300,000 in the 1936 budget.

CONFERENCE IN NOVEMBER IS CALLED BY KING

Ottawa.—It was learned here that Rt. Hon. Mackenzie King's cabinet-shaking congratulations received from Liberal provincial premiers, had empowered the Dominion premier to arrange their engagements as to make possible their presence at a Dominion conference to be held in Ottawa on a date to be arranged in November.

It also sent a telegram to Premier Aberhart of Alberta advising him of the communication he had sent to the other premiers and advising if Mr. Aberhart also could so arrange his engagements as to enable him to be present at the conference he would be the other premiers (Liberal premiers).

As soon as the new Liberal government assumed office, Mr. King said, it was his intention to discuss immediately with his colleagues the holding of a dominion-provincial conference. The premiers would be advised of the decision

Although King gave no indication as to the subjects proposed to be discussed by the conference, the impression here is that legislative enactments of last session will be studied in relation to their constitutional validity Suggestions to amend the British North America Act may also be under review

WAR MATERIALS RUSHED FORWARD TO AID ETHIOPIA

Zella, British Somaliland —Ethiopian commanders and their staffs are reported at high tension day and night to complete plans to oppose invasion on a battleground of their own choosing, according to reports reaching here.

Cheered by Somali tribesmen, trucks carrying new rifles and cartridges for the Ethiopian army are passing daily through British Somaliland, en route to Jijiga and Harar. More than 100,000 tons of munitions, shipped across the Red sea from Aden and landed by British vessels at Berbera, have been delivered safely across the frontier since Britain lifted the arms embargo against Ethiopia.

Had dry weather enabled Italian tanks to make a dash through the desert, this route from the coast would have been cut off and the supplies hastily purchases would have been useless But continued rains have delayed the tanks and held up the Italian troops.

COLD WAVE SWEEPS PRAIRIES; SNOW GENERAL

Following several fine days last week end, the weather changed suddenly Sunday night. Monday morning it was snowing and the Dominion motor had fallen to a low overnight of 30 above. The morning stayed low all day with some flurries continuing Monday night the low was 3 above and on Tuesday night 5 above. Light snow still continues and about four inches covers the level. Reports of heavy snowfalls are pouring in from other parts of the province.

Wednesday night and Thursday morning were the coldest of the present frigid dip, the low being 2 above. More snow fell during the night.

C.N.R. GRADE IS NOW READY FOR TRANSFER

S. J. Hungerford Signs Agreement, Fallow To Affix Signature

Done of contention in the Jasper highway construction plans for many years, the abandoned section of the C. N. R. grade, west of Edson, is ready for transfer to the province as soon as Hon. W. A. Fallow, minister of public works signs the agreement, Blue-print says.

Speaking on Monday, Hon. Mr. Fallow said he had received from S. J. Hungerford, president of the C. N. R. a blue-printed copy of the section of railway grade to be used. Mr. Hung erford's signature to the agreement is affixed and Hon. Mr. Fallow will sign immediately and return it.

The lease is for 12 years and provides for an annual nominal rental fee of $1

One string attached

The only string attached to the agreement by the C. N. R. is that any material going on to the railway grade in the way of improvements, shall be first approved by company engineers. This is to keep the grade up to standard, a principal declared the minister, already recognized by the government in work done west of Hinton.

For years the transfer of this grade has been the subject of negotiations between the provincial government and the railways.

Track Meet Held Last Thursday

Lloydminster High Wins Honors In Close Finish — Fine Day for Sports"

A lucky break last Thursday provided a very fine day for the inter-high school track meet, under auspices of the S. A. A. A. Arrangements were very complete and but for one or two minor hitches, the long list of events which takes considerable planning and preparation were run off smoothly and in good time

STANDING OF THE SCHOOLS

Lloydminster won the senior cup for the fourth successive year but it wasn't until the last event had been run, that custody of the cup for the ensuing year was settled. With three events left, Lloyd and Provost were tied with 35 points each. Vermilion had 31. Provost was finished here ever as they had no competitors in the last three events. The girls relay was won by Vermilion with Lloydminster second. This gave the locals 40 points and Lloyd 34. Provost in the box-ball mite did not change the standing, the points going to Paynton and Wainwright. The boys relay was Lloydminster win first and Vermilion third and settled the question. The outstanding school performance of the day was provided by Provost. Only four athletes, two girls and two boys came from that town but they did splendid moments of the day their school was in the lead and ended only 4 points back of the winner. Three individual cups went to the Provost students.

Standing by points: Lloydminster 52 Vermilion 35 Provost 35 Paynton 11, Irma Wainwright 6 schools were competed

The Lloydminster Citizens cup went to Lloydminster high school while the J. A. M. Craig cup for the schools went to Paynton, which school amassed 11 points out of 14 points.

The individual cup ... to senior boys cup—Frank tanner, Provost, 12 points.

Junior girls cup—Irene ... Provost, 12½ points.

Runner up—Ula Ballard Lloyd minster 12 points

Junior girls cup—Lillian ... Vermilion 24 points.

Runner up—Ida Hal ... Lloydminster 12 points

Next year's meet will be held in Lloydminster on a date agreeable between the border town and Vermilion. While it necessitates a lot of work and also considerable expense the officials feel that the meet is worth while. The idea of track meets is becoming a popular one and during the past two years three have sprung up in ... centres

Of the 10,579,818 bushels of wheat imported by China in the first four months of 1935, Australia supplied 7,831,836 bushels; Argentine supplied most of the remainder while important ore from United States and Canada were negligible.

All premises used as grasshopper poison mixing stations were condemned by the Manitoba government as unsuitable for living quarters for any person. The action was taken as a result of 26 rondvouchers, housed in a mixing station, being stricken with poison recently

Purchasers of new cars in November and December this year will not be required to buy a part-time 1935 Ontario automobile license, it has been announced. Instead, those purchasers can buy their 1936 plates after Nov. 1 and these licenses will convey them to the end of December, 1936.

Canton Takes Action

Would Bar Small Merchants From Importing Old Newspapers

The practice of small merchants in China, who wrap purchases in old American newspapers may be halted by a measure put before the Canton Government to curtail such importations, the Department of Commerce reports.

The extent of the practice is shown by the fact that the city of Canton alone imported over 21 000 000 weight of such old newspapers in 1934

Chinese paper manufacturers succeeded last year in stopping the merchants from so wrapping fresh foodstuffs, the Commerce Department said, and it is now planned to prohibit the importation of old newspapers

Was Famous Cartoonist

Sidney Smith Creator Of The Groupe, Killed In Automobile Accident

An automobile crash in Illinois ended the career of Sidney Smith, cartoonist-philosopher, who made "Oh Min" and "Soup's On" household phrases in many lands.

The veteran creator of "The Gumps", "Old Doc Yak" and "Ching Chow" who dropped pearls of wisdom and humor from his lips each day, was dead when they removed him from the wreckage of his car.

Smith, who was 58, ranked with Chics Briggs as probably the greatest portrayer of family life through the medium of cartoons. The daily doings of Andy and Min Gump, Little Chester and the fabulously wealthy Uncle Bum, their joys and their sorrows, have been a comic page feature for years.

More recently Smith introduced "Ching Chow," a little Oriental of few words and much wisdom. This boy cartoon was made to tell readers such things as "The slave has but one master—the ambitious as many as their whims may be liable to be useful to him."

Smith's noted career started when he was but 18, making him one of the real oldsters of the game. The ranks of the veterans are thin. "Oaf" Herriman, artful drawer of "Krazy Kat" and Bud Fisher, creator of "Mutt and Jeff," remaining as probably the two best known among the old hands.

Among the intimate little twists Smith got out of his work was the license number 848. Long ago it appeared on Yak's auto. Then he transferred it to Andy Gump's half-plus buggy. Only Smith's intimates knew that 848 was the cartoonist's own motor permit number and was entitled to him for many years.

Smith's attorney, E. Williams, disclosed that a few hours before the fatal journey the cartoonist had renewed his contract with the Chicago Tribune-New York News syndicate. He had just signed the payment of $750,000 for a five-year period.

A native of Bloomington, Ill., Smith had been a staff member of the Chicago Tribune since 1911. He began his career as a cartoonist on the Bloomington Eye in 1896.

New Gold Discovery

Several Groups Of Claims Staked In Ontario Near Manitoba Boundary

A new gold discovery in the northeast corner of Ontario, where several groups of claims have already been staked was announced by Hon. Paul Leduc, Ontario minister of mines, who said the new area "appears a favorable one for prospecting."

Harold Foster, prospector for a Winnipeg group, was credited with the discovery. The area, it which quartz exposures were said to exist in three places over one 300-foot stretch, is 40 miles east of the Manitoba boundary and more than 300 miles north of the Red Lake chaos-eries. It surrounds the Bachigo river

Huge Sum In Tips

Chimney Sweeps In Yugoslavian Town Earn Good Money

Last year the 27 municipal chimney sweeps of Zagreb, Yugoslavia, earned between them, apart from tips $120,000 almost $50,000. This is far more than many bank managers earn there. Sweeps in Zagreb are paid a monthly sum whether the chimneys need sweeping or not. They are then responsible for the cleanliness of all chimneys and for any fires due to chimneys not being properly cleaned.

A Law Every Mother Should Know and Observe

Never Give Your Child An Unknown Remedy without Asking Your Doctor First

According to any doctor you ask, the only safe, way is never to give your child a remedy you don't know all about, without asking him first.

When it comes to "milk of magnesia," that you know everywhere, for over 60 years, doctors have said "PHILLIPS' Milk of Magnesia for your child."

So—always say Phillips' when you buy. And, for your own peace of mind, see that your child gets this; the finest men know. Made in Canada.

Safe for You and Yours
You can accept others by refusing substitutes of "Milk of Magnesia" unless it bears the name PHILLIPS' and you'll have safe relief for children and adults.

Milk of Magnesia.

Place Men On Farms

Alberta Government Planning To Care For Single Unemployed Men

A plan under which from 3,000 to 4,000 single unemployed men would be placed on farms this winter is being considered by the provincial government, Premier Aberhart stated. The plan is an extension of the farm scheme operated during the past two years, and has been successful, he said. It would be given $5 a month as formerly, a similar sum would also be paid to the farmer.

Another suggestion is that such unemployed placed on farms under this scheme could be given work to work more than five hours a day.

Paving the way for the $5 minimum cash payment monthly to needy families in need of relief, an order-in-council has been passed by the provincial government. As a result, municipal secretaries are being circularized in order that the plan can be brought to the attention of rural authorities and the extent of the response gauged by the government.

The plan was outlined recently by Premier Aberhart who said it was not to be regarded as providing a real "basic dividend." While the Social Credit movement was set at $6 which would be provided by the government, the municipality would be expected to pay a like sum. Any compensation for its contribution, the municipality could require the relief recipient give some work in return. In work. If the size of the family justified more than the minimum, this could be provided, while as the size increased, the municipality's share would be proportionately increased.

Applying For A Job

Girl Stated Qualifications But Neglected To Sign Her Name

A girl applied yesterday to Walter Lester, city editor of the Post, for a reporter's job and was disappointed. "Are you prejudiced against women in the newspaper game?" she asked.

. . . Mr. Lester replied: "It isn't that I'm pre-rudiced, but I find that most of them are careless and sloppy in their work. . . . Send me a letter, though, listing your qualifications, and I'll place it on file."

The letter arrived—a two-page note, carefully typewritten, and listing qualifications tending to offset any suggestions of carelessness

The only trouble, Lester forgot to sign her name!—Leonard Lyons, in New York Post.

Runs Into Misfortune

First Woman To Swim English Channel Has Hard Luck

Gertrude Ederle, the girl who ten years ago was the first woman to swim the English channel, can never swim only a few feet. Her back injured in a fall, she is fighting to retain the control of her legs. In addition, misfortune has dogged her in that she has become partially deaf because of all the swimming she once did, and the money she made after her channel swim has been lost on movies investments.

In the sixth year of Zedekiah's reign, 586 B.C., in the tenth month according to the Babylonian calendar (which numbered its months from the spring season, the tenth month corresponding to our January), and on the tenth day of the month, Nebuchadnezzar, king of Babylon, came with his army and besieged Jerusalem. This nation never forgot the month and the day on which the armies of Chaldea finally invested the city. It was felt as the day of the deepest gloom by the Israelite exiles, Ezekiel 24. It has been commemorated as a fast, the Fast of Tebeth, ever since in the Jewish Church (Dean Stanley.

The Flight from Jerusalem and the Fate of Zedekiah, verses 4-7. When a breach was finally made in the city walls, the Israelites fled by night by the way of the gate between the two walls, which was by the king's garden. This gate was on the south of the city. The Israelites must have known that their best chance of making good their escape, for the Chaldeans surrounded the city.

The Fate of Jerusalem, verses 8-10, 13-17. On the seventh day of the fifth month, Nebuzaradan, the captain of Nebuchadnezzar's guard (literally "chief of the executioners," the king's bodyguard to whom such duties belonged), came to complete the destruction of Jerusalem. The work of destruction was thoroughly done. The gold and silver vessels, and the pillars and parts of bronze of the temple were saved to be carried to Babylon, and thus the sacred temple, on which such a record of love had been lavished, was razed to the ground. The houses of the city, every great house in the city were burned also, and the city walls were broken down.

The Rest of the People, verses 11, 12, 22. The commander of the body guard carried off as prisoners the people left in the city and those who had already surrendered to the king of Babylon, as well as the rest of the masterworkmen (Moffatt's translation). The poorest of the people were left to cultivate the land, as vine-dressers and husbandmen.

Nearly Two Million Dollars Set Aside For Air Site

A 900-acre property four miles from Sydney, N.S., has been selected as the site for a $1,750,000 North American terminus of the projected ocean air service, C. H. Clendining, chairman of the Irish Transatlantic Air Corporation, announced recently.

Owned by the Nova Scotia government, the property has been deeded to the corporation and will be developed along the lines proposed for the eastern terminus at Londonderry, northern Ireland.

Planning the "quickest practical route" for air transportation between the Old Country and North America, the chairman said the terminus at Sydney would be leased to other corporations connecting the ocean service with Canadian and United States lines. The planes, he said, would provide accommodation for 45 persons beside facilities for handling mail.

SYNOPSIS

Nancy Nelson is a sub-deb, a gay, irrepressible girl of nineteen, with no care beyond the choice of her costume for her coming-out party. Suddenly, in the market crash, her Ingolfryn father loses all he had, and his family is faced with the necessity of a simpler method of living. At the finctiure a letter is received from an eccentric relative in Colorado, who offers the girl a home on what seems to be impossible conditions

After much consideration Cousin Columbine's offer is accepted. Andy Nancy and Jack arrive at Pine Ridge, Nancy's new home. Afternoon they climb to the top of a hill so as to obtain a view of the surrounding landscape and misses the path Aurora Tubbs had told her to follow. A truck comes along the road, driven by Matthew Adams, and she asks him which way to go. They exceed the hill, look around, and then go on to Cousin Columbine's. There Mark Adam tells Nancy that his brother Luke has broken his leg, and that Jack Nelson has been hired to help out while Luke's leg gets better. With Jack away, Nancy finds that she is lonesome, and having no books to read, the idea of starting a public library at Pine Ridge seems a good one, and Nance writes home to get her parents to send all the books they could spare and all they could induce others to let them have.

Nancy's parents and friends gave their liberal support to her request for books, and a sizeable bus arrived in due course. Father Adam painted a sign for the library, and the Adam boys worked on the shelves for the books and decorations to make the room look presentable.

Jack Nelson, Matthew Adam, and Nance go to the prairie home of Matthews' uncle for the ride, and after Nance and Jack leave for home, they are caught in a blizzard. Blinded by the swirling snow they collide with a bus full of school children, which was stalled across the road. Jack's car wheels resting in a snow-filled gully. Their car being wrecked, Jack and Nancy stay with the children and do all they can to help. The next morning Jack is found to be badly injured. He succeeds in finding help, and the party of children and Nancy are rescued. As a result of the exposure Nancy's feet are badly frozen, and Jack is seriously ill with pneumonia, but both of them recover.

He blushed a little; and Nance said: "I'll admit that Jack is. I'm not a bit."

"Then may I propose again next year?" he asked.

"But it will be the same thing then."

"No; my hairdresser says I shall be bald in a year."

"I'm sorry," she said, "but I could never marry a newspaper man."

For home to look good to many people, it is necessary for them to get a long distance away from it.

"I'd forgotten that," she answered softly; then lowered her voice still more, her face flushing a little. "Matt will you tell me something, honestly? I can't ask Cousin Columbine, she looks so worn and tired; and I've got to know. It's about my feet. These papers said I'd lose them—that my legs were frozen solid to the knee. Was that the truth?"

"Yes, that was true, Nancy. I'm never going to forget the way I felt when the nurse told me an amputation wasn't necessary. I wanted to cheer, or—or cry or something. Miss Columbine did cry when I told her."

Nance swallowed, and it struck the young man that she was still frightened.

"Is there something else you want to know, Nance?"

Only—only—well, my dear? We'll make up the neglected work after you leave us; and it warms my heart to get out one afternoon Columbine enjoys these trips. It gives her a new zest of life to visit the old scenes and watch the young folks who are really interested."

Jack thrilled over that trip to Cripple Creek; but the day they visited Aunt Eva's the Manitou Pampered's colossal hoax, stood out, a high light, in Nancy's memory. This was during a time that Jack was with them, and Jack sway, Nancy finds that she is lonesome, and having no books to read, the idea of starting a public library at Pine Ridge seems a good one, and Nance writes home to get her parents to send all the books they could spare and all they could induce others to let them have.

CHAPTER XXII.

"I am well aware, dear Cousin James," wrote Columbine Nelson on paper that was a bit yellowed, "that you are to get your heroic young folks back; but nevertheless, I am going to ask a favor: Let them stay until Jack has time to fill out again. He looked so splendid the morning they started off for Prairie Ranch that I can't bear to send him home to you as gaunt as he is now. A few weeks of careful feeding will work wonders in his appearance; and Aurora Tubbs is itching to 'fat him up,' as she expresses it. If I may keep them until after the Fourth of July they'll have a chance to see so much more of this wonderful country and your old cousin will be far happier."

A note from Nancy added her plea:

"Don't ever think that we're not crazy to be with all, but Jack is a beanpole, and Aurora's marvelous cooking ought to flesh-hat in no time. Then too, Uncle Tom and Aunt Eva want us at Prairie Ranch for a few days, just to convince us, I imagine, that the plains can be warm and friendly as well as cold and cruel. A visit there will be something to remember; and anyway, Jack refuses to go home until he's husky enough to handle a pick and shovel and can straighten up the gate posts at Cousin Columbine's driveway. That trouble him a great deal more than they do her (!); but she does want the house painted, and couldn't afford to because she paid our fares out here. Aurora told me that. I guess Uncle Jethro didn't make any great pile in Landville; and I sha'n't accept a penny of the 'salary' she offered as ball in a fit of conscious humor. Your wandering girl will return as poor as she started out!

"But I'm feeling wonderful now. My feet are as good as new. The library's booming; and I still get something of a kick when any one addresses me as 'Miss Aladdin.' I've not gone back on New England, Daddy; but I'll miss the library and those 'big, open spaces' we Easterners joke about. Tell Phil I'm sending him some real Indian arrow heads. . . .

"Though the family at Edgemere was disappointed, this plan was obviously best for Jack, and they did not protest. The boy's strength returned more rapidly than Cousin Columbine anticipated; and by the middle of May they ventured to make some of the long-promised excursions to places not far distant enough to tire him.

"I'm sick to death of puttin' up picnic luncheon," grumbled Aurora one bright May morning. "And what my body in their senses should go to Cripple Creek when they could stay away, is somethin' entirely beyond me. Not a tree in the whole town, Nancy Nelson! Not a growin's' thing except you could sagg—and those awful prospect-holes all over the hills lookin' for all the world like open graves in a cemetery. And what Cousin Columbine as excited over the trip as if she'd never seen a minin' town, let alone been head the cookin' of it. Looks like the Adams is neglectin' everything these days to take you gallivantin'. It's a wonder they stop to milk the cows!"

Eve Adam laughed when Nancy repeated this caustic comment.

"Only—only—well, my dear? We'll make up the neglected work after you leave us; and it warms my heart to get out one afternoon Columbine enjoys these trips. It gives her a new zest of life to visit the old scenes and watch the young folks who are really interested."

His voice was thoughtful, and with sudden inspiration the girl quoted:

"Under the wide and starry sky
Dig my grave and let me lie.'

"Is that how you feel, Matt?"

His eyes lighted at her intuition; but before he could reply, Mark's laughing voice broke in upon them.

"Both poetic and appropriate, young lady; but you two seem to have forgotten that we're on our way. The old folks have caught up vegis, an, but they're too lazy to get out, and Jack's already explored this melancholy scene. There's still ten or twelve miles ahead if we're to eat our lunch on the shore of the Platte as Miss Columbine has set her heart on doing, so climb down, do."

Matthew, who longed to strangle his brother for this intrusion, nevertheless accepted the portion with good grace; while Nance exclaimed: "You've saved my life, Mark! I'm positively starved. Isn't the Platte the river we read about in history? I mean the one the pioneers were always fording?"

Rise In Diamond Prices

Increase To Release More Stones For The World Market

London's diamond kings, controllers of the world's supply, are to release for sale more uncut stones within a short time than were sold throughout the whole of the last

No convinced are they in England that the world has recovered enough to indulge once more in luxuries that prices are being advanced 7½ per cent., and there is confidence that all stones offered will be sold.

Altogether stones worth more than $15,000,000 will be offered in selected buyers from all parts of the world within two months. The Diamond Corporation, which has accumulated $45,000,000 worth of stones during the years of depression, has been allocated a quota in the sales. Invitations already have been dispatched to representative brokers in Amsterdam, Antwerp, Vienna, Paris, Bombay and New York.

The central selling agency of the diamond groups is in a four-storey building off Holborn. Every foreign buyer is shown into a walnut-panelled room. He is accompanied by a representative of the selling firm. A square of plain white paper on a ledge under the window is poured a little heap of graded, uncut stones. It represents a fortune.

The buyer examines the stones, makes his choice, says his price, and departs with a tiny package as casually as if he had purchased a bag of nuts.

Biggest buyers are expected to be New York and India. U.S. jewellers' stocks are believed to be lowest since the depression. India's demand is based on "deboarding" of gold by the princes.

Little Helps For This Week

Love is of God, and every one that loveth is born of God and knoweth God. I. John 4:7.

Forbearing one another and forgiving one another, Colossians 3:13.

Oh, might we all our lineage prove,
Give and forgive, do good and love;
By soft endearments, in kind strife,
Lightening the daily load of life.

We may if we choose make the worst of one another. Every one has his faults, every one has weak points, and we may fix our attention constantly on these. But we may also make the best of one another. We may forgive even as we hope to be forgiven. We may put ourselves in the place of others and ask ourselves what we would wish to be done to us were we in their place. By loving whatever is lovable in those around us, love will flow back from them to us and life will be a pleasure indeed instead of a pain. Such will be to come like heaven and we shall not be unworthy followers of Him whose name is Love.

Birds Devour Hoppers

Thousands Of Gulls Lead And Clear The Fields

In certain parts of southern Alberta where grasshoppers were so numerous this summer vast flocks of gulls were literally covering the fields rounding up the hoppers, and when they had concluded their attack about 75 per cent. of the insects had been devoured.

Reeve A. Schug of Rosenheim said that on a field of 60 acres a flock of gulls glided in from the south and practically covered the ground. He estimated about 50,000 on the entire field A wave of grasshoppers could be seen travelling ahead of the birds trying to evade them as the gulls walked onward, but by the time the gulls had dined to their satisfaction, some three-quarters of the hoppers were no more.

Care Of Children

Lectures To Be Given In New York To Educate Mothers

An institute to debunk the ancient myth that all mothers are good mothers was founded in New York with plans to promote its idea by lectures and clinics. The institute's program was outlined by Bernard Deutsch, president of the New York board of aldermen.

"Every walk in life, to be trod successfully, needs long and weary training," he said. "Why except motherhood? Let us debunk the ancient myth once and for all. There are good mothers, bad mothers, indifferent mothers, diligent mothers, intelligent mothers, and ignorant mothers."

By instructing women in proper care of children, the institute is to attempt improving the motherhood "ability" of its pupils.

POPPY DAY

Poignant reminders of those spurious days of glory and glowing "Pippa Passes" once more recurs to prompt the citizens of this country in the duties and privileges inherited from the past generation. To Canadian youth in this year is grave the deep-rest portals of the Poppy and we carry the same sustenance they have to the young to sometimes years ago. The sym bolism of sacrifice with which the Poppy is so closely related is only one of the present generation reminders only through the wisdom of the aged who fought their country's battles who suffered privations, endured long separations and finally triumphed amid surroundings carpeted with Poppies

To wear this humble emblem on Poppy Day is to proclaim that amid all the jostling commerce through which this country is striving valiantly to penetrate, the heart and mind are responsive to the Master Mason. Although the dead were men whose portion has inspired poesy Canadians to offer themselves for service between 1914 and 1918; of that number more than 60,000 found graves in France and Belgium. And it is over these graves that the Poppy blows in perennial bloom

Those numbered dead were no aliens. They were young Canadians, filled even as we the youth of to-day is filled, with the joy of living and the desire to serve. Of the 170,000 men who in 1935 bear upon their bodies the marks and scars of war—the disabled ex-service men who suffered disability most for which, Canada.

To maintain that proud recognition of their labors in this country, to mark that tribute which is their due, Poppy Day has been set aside in order that all may join in recalling the Great Sacrifice.

The blessed emblems distributed throughout Canada by the Canadian Legion are the volunteer organization are the product of disabled veterans men striving to maintain themselves by the Veryth Stamp, administered by the Dominion government. To purchase a Poppy is a small thing. To every citizen to do so is a big thing.

MOTORISTS WILL PUSH FURTHER GAS TAX JUMPS

Any action by the new premier's government to raise the gasoline tax in this province will meet with the strong opposition of the Alberta Motor Association officials state

It is realized that when the govern ment starts that the treasury is empty and it is hard pressed for funds, there is danger of a further levy on the motor vehicle. When the Alberta tax was raised from six to seven cents a gallon this year, there were threats that the validity of the legislation might be challenged

Alberta was the first province to impose a gas tax, levying it in 1922 when the rate was two cents per gallon

The tremendous area of the Mackenzie River Basin in the Northwest Territories is to be opened up by the Hudson's Bay Company, which has been granted a lease of 1,000,000 square miles of territory for a period of 21 years. The lease includes the right to mine coal, oil and other minerals, and to cut timber. The company has undertaken to build a railway from Waterways, Alberta, to Fort McMurray, on the Athabaska River, and to establish a number of trading posts. The lease is subject to the approval of the Dominion Parliament.

GRAND CARNIVAL AT DERWENT, NOV. 6-7-8

Derwent's first grand carnival is scheduled for next week, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday Nov. 6, 7, 8, 1935 will be held in the Ukrainian National Hall and will partake of a variety of entertainment, including bingo, crown and anchor, fish pond, wheel or fortune etc.

An outstanding attraction will be an exhibition of National handiwork and on the last night, the Coronation of the Carnival Queen and a big dance. There will be a draw for ten grand prizes—Fun and frolic for everyone—hot dogs, lunch, candy—plan to holiday in Derwent next week.

The carnival is being held under the auspices of the Members of the Ukrainian National Hall.

MELBERTA MINUTES

Council of M D of Melberta No. 183 held their regular meeting in the municipal office, Manville, Tuesday, Oct. 15th, 1935 with the whole council in attendance. Reeve Allanach in the chair.

Minutes of the meeting Sept. 9th were read and adopted

Correspondence was received as follows: Municipal Control Purchasing Agency whereby we might get stationery cheaper. Left over for the delegates to the municipal convention to make enquiries. Old Age Pensions Act in connection with application of Robert Pyll for old age pension. Council recommended that a pension be given him. Application of Blair Veitch to come under the Relief Settlement Plan was turned down. Old Age Pensions Act, notifying us that Stewart Martin was getting a full pension. Notice of extension of patents to the Manville and Vermilion hospitals

Mr. Allanach appointed a returned tee of one to look after Mr. Wirth ham

In connection with a bill from the University hospital for Theodore Pyll, the council refuse to pay it as they had not admitted him to the hospital.

Membership fee of $18.00 was ordered sent to the Association of Municipal Districts, Alta. Messrs. Allanach and Scott were appointed to attend the convention as delegates on Nov. 20th to 22nd.

Chas. Doherty appealed against the impounding of his cattle by W. J. Rickard; Messrs. Watling, Scott and Allanach were appointed a committee to investigate it.

Ralph Lee, who is a patient at the Modern Woodmen Sanatorium, Edmonton, was given a donation of $5.00.

Councillors Allanach and Scott were appointed to act on the path at Manville, filled even as we the path at Manville is filled, with the joy of living and the desire to serve. Of the 170,000 men who in 1935 bear upon their bodies the marks and scars of war—the disabled ex-service men who suffered disability most for which, Canada.

NO INTERFERENCE FROM SHORT WAVE TRANSMITTER

Anyone claiming that their reception is being interfered with by short wave transmitters had better look for another cause. Bob Ducey, who operates a short wave set under private license, carried out a rigid test on his transmitter. No interference was recorded on an ordinary receiving set in the same room as the short wave transmitter. Bob, by the way, carries on some interesting conversations with amateur short wavers all over western Canada and also some of the states.

Here and There

Our snarling wilderness has for some time reflected the concern of conservationists, but now science is bestowing our solicitude in behalf of many of the glaciers which bid fair to disappear within a few decades. If scorching summers succeeded by mild winters become the rule, Dr. Francois E. Matthes, of the United States Geological Survey, fears that within another 25 years Glacier National Park, Montana, may be minus its glaciers. Mount Rainier National Park, Washington, also has suffered from land prosecution. At no time within the memory of living persons has the recession of the ice fronts been more pronounced as rapid as during the long-protracted heat wave of 1934. Similar normal winters snowfall and rigidity are wont to replace the large degree the melting snows of summer.

Third annual competition for the most beautiful autumn-tinted single Leaf is announced by the Canadian Government through the Canadian Travel Bureau at Ottawa in co-operation with the Canadian Pacific and Canadian National Railways. The prize list for the 1935 competition provides for a total of $200, of which $100 goes to the person sending in the most beautiful leaf, a second prize of $50 and a third prize of $25. In addition a prize of $20 for the leaf with largest area, and for second largest $10 will be awarded.

"Street of Empire," the recently published work by John Murray Gibbon, while really the story of the Canadian Pacific Railway, has as much of other Canadian history that it will find a permanent place in one of the outstanding contributions to the records of the Dominion. Starting with the first known arrival on our shores, Jacques Cartier, Hal Hunt, in British Columbia at the end of the fifth century, Mr. Gibbon traces the romantic growth of the Canadian Pacific, many centuries later, with a wealth of anecdotal and detail, the author's long association with the railway having been of the utmost value.

Possessing one of the finest collections in the world of colored pictures of mountain flowers, Mrs. Beckwith Mountains, T. H. Lonsdale, of Banff, recently exhibited some of her paintings at Canadian Club at an illustrated lecture at the Empress Hotel, Victoria. The pictures included scenes of mountain valleys, lakes and bird, animal and flower life.

Brangwine Booth, 69-year-old commander-in-chief of the Salvation Army, told the "story of the Army" to the Men and Women's Canadian Club at the Royal York Hotel, Toronto, recently. "I was born in the Salvation Army," she said, "and I have never known any common thing to me. It has always been a miracle." A capacity audience gave her an ovation.

Keen outdoor man, enthusiastic mountain and game hunter, the Trail Riders of the Canadian Rockies elected as leading stalwart in the ranks of the Trail Riders, J. M. Wardle, engineer with National Parks of Canada, has now been appointed warden in the east of deputy minister of the Department of the Interior, Ottawa.

Premier Dysart, of New Brunswick, was the chief guest speaker when the City of Saint John gave a dinner in the Admiral Beatty Hotel to the New Brunswick's guides at their two-day annual convention. Many fall guiding affected attendance but a good membership under the chairmanship of William T. Gorman, of Andover, president of the Association, enjoyed a successful gathering.

ISLAND HILL

TO BUILD HALL AT ISLAND HILL

We understand arrangements are completed to build a new hall here. It will be a spacious building suitable for dances, whist drives etc. and will certainly supply a long-felt want.

Do you enjoy a good "Boil"? Here is one. At a health committee meeting in a certain town a discussion took place regarding the quality of the milk supplied. The chairman of the committee evidently a man of few words, said, "What this town needs is a supply of clean fresh milk and what we should do is to take the bull by the horns and demand it."

Miss Frances Antoine is an expert motorist, we saw her steering a car through a gate entrance with barely room to get in and her handling of the car deserves all praise.

BORN—at Vermilion hospital on Wednesday, Oct. 23, to Mr. and Mrs. Alex Richardson, a daughter, congratulations!

Miss Muir has invited her pupils and their mothers to a Hallowe'en party. She deserves all encouragement so we hope all the adults of the community will attend the dance ere

TOLLAND TIMES

Well, threshing is finished at last. Mr. Lyons and the Wolfers Bros were the last quite through. So far I might say the yield average generally known as 25 bu per acre for oats, wheat and 50 bu. per acre for oats. Grades vary from 2 to feed. Stack ing of grain seed was hardly finished before the snow.

The community was glad to attend the surprise shower to Mrs A. McQuad on her return home from an extended trip and visit in the east, and trusts that she has fully recovered her health

We also hope that Mrs. Holman and Mrs. C. McGrath are well of the ills that when this appears.

Mr. Shepherd, our famous old-timer has passed all the way out to Tolland from town to rest his toes. He stayed the rest of the week, visiting friends and attending to business in connection with his farm. Mr. Shepherd did not choose to any extent the effects of his years(84), but was able to enjoy his outing with the best of health and spirits.

Messrs. E. E. Webber and Harold Webber were officers at the polling station here. Results were as follows

THE COMMON BOND

Being the Popular Report of The British and Foreign Bible Society

The title to this report is very suggestive the Bible, "The Common Bond," between the nations. In fact, third Popular Report the Rev. John A. Patten, M. C., M. A. Llewelyn Jones Interdent of The British and Foreign Bible society, has very effectively told the story of his work during another year, reading the history of the Bible as "The Common Bond" through the ages. His chapters are entitled, "The Bond or the Translated Word", "Ministrants of the Common Bond", "The Power of the Common Bond", and "The Share in the Enterprise."

There are many literary allusions and extracts from relevant prose and poetry. Perhaps nowhere in these 8 better parallel or "The Common Bond of the Bible amidst diverse peoples than the experience the Quakers had and in the distribution in the Iroquois of Canada. Looking Forward

Never in the history of the country have the actions and policies of an incoming government been subjected to such close scrutiny as will be the deeds and things of the new Mackenzie King Liberal regime, which has returned to power with such overwhelming support from all parts of the country on October 14

The reason for this assertion is not far to seek. Canada is apparently just emerging from a prolonged period of agricultural and world-rooted economic depress on. During this period pocket books have been hard hit. Much misery has prevailed as the standard of living for a very large percentage of the population steadily declined. The cost of operation of all governments federal provincial and municipal have necessarily mounted to meet the demands for assistance from all classes of citizens bringing in its train increased taxation at a time when people could ill afford it. Some of the expenditures has been great as it was incurred. Much of it has been pushed ahead for future application.

As a result all governmental units are faced with the difficult problem of operating economically so as not to bear down harder than necessary on individual resources and at the same time maintain a growing list of public services which the people have become accustomed to expect. And these conditions the governments are expected to cope with while an accumulation of indebtedness is being paid off. It looks like a herculean task

The fact that such a large proportion of the population has felt in varying degrees the intensity of the rix depression years has in itself stimulated a much greater interest in the affairs of the country, the province and the municipality than was generally noticed in years of comparative plenty.

In general these tendencies are prone to take but a cursory interest in their own public affairs and usually only just around election time, but when times are hard and unfortunate conditions strike right into the home, people begin to ponder and become curious. And that is exactly what happened on October 14 and for many months prior to that date

And now that the people have spoken their mind quite definitely it is safely assume that for at least, they will follow up their decision, by continuing to take a keen and watchful interest in what their representatives at Ottawa do. The interest so recently stimulated is not likely to be immediately extinguished—it will be the order of the day, and one of the reasons for this is the fact that even if the so-called prosperity corner has been turned there is still a long climb ahead before the peak is reached

From now on the people will be critical. The road will be rocky in places and thorned bushes line the path. The inevitable temporary setbacks will be experienced and doubtless there will be some who will become impatient

Whatever measures the new federal government may have in mind to remedy the highway and make the journey easier must await the necessary preliminary discussions and decisions and subsequent announcements and they must be put into operation before a final verdict as to their effectiveness can be pronounced

It must be borne in mind that it took several years after the big avalanche of the fall of 1929 before the floor of the depression valley was reached. It is only reasonable to suppose that it will take as long, perhaps longer, to reach the summit as it required to touch bottom. Past experience has taught the lessons for those whose memories are long enough

Canada, however, has come through this trying period in better condition than many other less fortunate nations. She has preserved her democratic institutions. The fortitude and courage of her people have proved a bulwark during the difficult period. Her financial integrity and credit have been preserved unimpaired. Her people have not starved nor frozen. Materially she has not sustained such severe shocks as have been the lot of citizens of many of the other countries of the world

With these assets to sustain the people in their progress towards recovery, plus such assistance as a stable government is able to give within its limitations, Canadians have every reason to look forward with hope towards the future

And stable government, too, will be able to play an important role in the forward move to better things and improved conditions. It is true there are many who are disappointed that the political party of their choice was not successful at the polls on October 14, but even they will join the majority in expressing approval that the winning party was returned to office in sufficient strength to ensure a government that will be unhampered by the necessity of temporizing at a time when stability and a straightforward course is essential if a maximum of progress is to be enjoyed.

Even so all eyes will be turned on Ottawa during the next few months.

Fifty-Foot Yacht Makes Safe Voyage Across The Pacific

Three months out from Yokohama, with auxiliary engines disabled three days after departure, the 50-foot schooner-rigged yacht Romance arrived at Victoria after weather ag almost continuous head gales across the Pacific.

The yacht was skippered by Captain Ernest Green, former master of the Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Asia, and carried a crew of two, the skipper's 22-year-old son Philip as engineer, and John Hunter, former Victorian, able seaman.

"I've spent 40 years at sea, part of that time on old square-riggers, but these waves seemed like huge mountains with the mere combing of mad Captain Green, telling of the worst blow on Sept. 21.

"The Romance rode there beam on with bare poles, taking them in beautiful fash on and shipping no water. But when I saw she was becoming that much below her beam 80 feet high, I truly thought we were done for and that was the last time I ever made it. Then we put on two oil bags, one at the fore rigging and the other at the stern. And the effect was instantaneous; the seas calmed and we breathed easier.

"The Romance is as safe as an Empress. However, it may not be as comfortable The French government thinks so well of it that French officials in Tokio asked for the plans of the builders for specifications. With more power than type of craft would be ideal for use in the Pacific ocean."

Captain Green chose the old-time sailing ship track over 60 north latitude and glided off any sight of Japanese vessel, on the trip from the Yokohama breakwater.

The voyage was the culmination of a lifetime ambition of a seadog who retired last year and who made the crossing many times in command of the 17,000-ton Empress of Asia until he reached the retirement age.

Diamond Mines In Canada

American Geologist Believes There Is Valuable Wealth In This Country

A geologist and an industrial diamond expert voiced the belief that beneath the soil of this country in the moon fields far richer than those of South Africa.

They are A. S. Furcron, of Western Reserve University, and D. W. Carter, head of a diamond tool company, agents that have distributed diamond discoveries in the United States support the Canadian theory.

"I believe that the glaciers of thousands of years ago carried to this country many precious stones together with enormous tons of Canadian rocks and minerals.

Carter asserted he subscribes to a theory that northern Canada and the jungle before nature began forming gems in South Africa. "Therefore," he continued, "Canada could contain greater deposits of riches than the comparatively new dark continent."

Population Of World

Estimated At Will Be Six Billions By The Year 2100

It has been estimated that if the present rate of increase continues the world will have no fewer than 6 000,000,000 people to feed, clothe and house by the year 2100 less than 170 years in the future. The number mentioned is regarded as absurd as many as the old earth can reasonably enter for unless the soil is taught to yield more bountiful crops than it does at present. To-day the world population is only about 1,900 000,000.

Lastex Fabrics Useful

Has Lately Been Used Extensively For Women's Garments

Lastex fabrics have played an increasingly important role during the past few years and promises to be popular materials for fall and winter wear.

Being impervious to water, Lastex made invaluable bathing suits for the summer, and likewise will go into the smart one-piece gowns for shooting, golf, skiing and skating. Special tweeds woven with Lastex have been used for these sport suits with specially reinforced bands at the wrists and ankles of ski suits to keep out the snow. There are leather skiing gauntlets which fit closely at the wrist with jersey Lastex bands.

Lastex has been used extensively for women's underwear in tailor and laces as well as jersey. These garments have all the advantages of the strongest elastic without any of the disadvantages of old-fashioned corsets and girdles. Lightweight materials can be combined with Lastex and be laundered easily without losing any of their qualities. For large women, girdles and corsets are made of Lastex combined with a satin which has been reinforced by Lastex through the fibre.

This same wonderful material is used in attractive weaves by upholsterers and has been found that it is particularly practical for spring seats which were formerly covered with burlap and cotton fabrics to give play to the springs.

New Engineering Marvel

Installed The Longest Escalators In The World

After five years of hollowing and boring and propping, excavator and otherwise staff-warding summer-old overhead public services, the London Transport Board, as successors to the tube authorities, were able to open recently the new Leicester-Square Station. In many ways the achievement is an engineering marvel Many difficulties had to be encountered which were unexpected. The work was carried on in a confined area under Piccadilly, and also Shaftesbury-avenue from the street, and three of the escalators are 161 feet long—the longest in the world—and capable of a speed of 160 feet per minute.

Man Flys Under Own Power

Drifts Two Miles Into Wind Before Beginning To Climb

A parachute jumper of New Jersey is the first man to fly under his own power, it is claimed. Strapped to wings attached to his arms, he stepped out of an aeroplane at 8,000 feet, rode into the wind like a kite, and drifted two miles before he began to use his parachute at 2,000 feet. The daring parachutist reported that he had been able to maneuver a "barrel roll" and one or two other flying tricks at the beginning of his drop. He has a chute of canvas, about three feet square, sewn between the legs of his jumpers. This, he says, enables him to change direction and execute stunts by kicking his legs and holding them at varying angles. After his parachute opened he found himself on a tree. The theory that a man will be able to fly without the aid of a parachute is just a bit of hooey," he said. He added that as far as he knew his experiment had no practical value. It was just a good stunt, he said, viously. In February of this year, Mr Clem Sohn, a 22-year-old parachute jumper, was reported to have flown under his own power at Daytona Beach, after dropping from an aeroplane at a height of 12,000 feet.

The World Bakes

Lighter Things Will Rule In Modern Oil Heated Ovens

A thesis that five men "master the consciousness of the mass of humanity" and that the world is "managed or mismanaged" by about 200 out of a population of more than 2,000,000,000, is presented by "the Unofficial Observer" in a book published in New York.

In a volume entitled "Our Lords and Masters," the anonymous author asserts that, of these 16 score potentates, barely 25 men rule the world rulers in their own right."

In the sphere of social behavior the five he finds as masters of human conscience are: King George V., Pope Pius XI., Leon Trotsky, the Emperor of Japan and Mohatma Gandhi

Among the more mundane political potentates he lists as the eight outstanding world rulers: Right Hon. Stanley Baldwin and Sir Samuel Hoare, of Great Britain; Andre Tardieu of France; Joseph Stalin of the Soviet Union, Benito Mussolini of Italy; Adolf Hitler of Germany; President Roosevelt of the United States and Mustapha Kemel Ataturk of Turkey.

PLAN MERGER OF DEPARTMENTS IN FEDERAL CABINET

Ottawa.—Assembling of a Dominion-provincial conference at an early date, reduction in the size of the Dominion cabinet by merger of departments and adoption of the British system of appointing parliamentary under-secretaries to assist cabinet ministers were three announcements made by Prime Minister Mackenzie King.

As soon as the new cabinet had been sworn in Mr. King issued a statement explaining his views on these matters.

Prime Minister King intimated that after the government was sworn in cabinet council immediately discussed preliminary plans with respect to calling of the Dominion-provincial conference, appointment of the national unemployment commission and matters relating to trade with Great Britain, United States and Japan.

Finance Minister Dunning will have, in addition to provincial finance, the question of money and refunding operations to deal with.

Many administrative changes will result from the merger of six departments which involve the disappearance of three portfolios. Transportation will be gathered into one jurisdiction with the merger of railways and marine departments, the interior department will be merged with that of immigration and colonization, and the office of solicitor-general disappears completely and that of the justice minister taken over by the minister of justice.

All these changes will require legislative action and numerous staff and office adjustments. Considerable reorganization will be required also to bring about proposed adoption of the English system of parliamentary secretaries to the ministers of major departments. Instead of the nine ministers of certain departments. They will be on full time with salaries, and, while not attending cabinet, the government will be empowered to speak for their departments in the House of Commons, thus relieving the ministers of a burden which, in some instances, has proven heavy.

Search For Meteor

Excavation Work Carried On In Arizona Desert

Fortier, Mass.—A party of men worked to excavate what is believed to be a meteorite that thundered out of the skies during a severe electrical storm Oct. 15.

Residents of this district, 25 miles west of Winslow, declare the "roaring noise" was heard during the night. The next day a hole 12 inches in diameter and 40 feet deep was found in the home of Cornelius Giebrecht and within 70 feet of the general store of A. B Manning

The object is believed to have been lightning striking the ground. Later the belief was expressed it might have been a meteor. No indication of the meteor has yet been uncovered but excavation work is under way at the scene

Excavation work is under direction of Prof. V. W. Jackson, of the University of Manitoba.

The premier pleaded for sympathy and co-operation and promised that all the powers would be taken by the government without the best expert advice.

May Repudiate Pacts

Sir Herbert Samuel Refers To The Ottawa Agreements

London.—Sir Herbert Samuel, leader of the Liberal opposition, in the House of Commons, interpreted the Liberal attitude toward Prime Minister Baldwin's repudiation of the Ottawa economic agreements by the people of Canada.

During a discussion of the international situation, Sir Herbert said the agreements reached at the Ottawa imperial conference of 1932 were one of the main causes of the present unrest.

The world had taken those agreements, he said, as an indication the British Empire was to be made into a closed system.

MILITARY ACTION IS NOT PROPOSED AGAINST ITALY

London.—Sir Samuel Hoare, foreign secretary, issued an appeal for an honorable settlement of the Italo-Ethiopian controversy and said Great Britain had no intention of acting alone to halt the campaign in East Africa.

Sir Samuel outlined in detail the progress of the quarrel between the two countries in opening debate in the House of Commons on the international situation.

Sanctions to be taken against Italy were accumulated between us and the continent becomes difficult and dangerous."

He said they "did not realize the sincerity of our hope and faith in the new order of international relations. They failed to understand our belief in the league as an instrument, not only for stopping war, but also as an instrument for creating a better world."

The foreign secretary emphasized that Britain's interest in collective security to world peace was the motive for her firm stand at Geneva. "No thought of imperial interest moved us," he said. "We are not a fighting empire must feel for preservation of world-wide peace, has entered into our minds."

Towards the end of his speech Sir Samuel said: "The league, let us remember, is a great instrument of peace. Let us remember this fact when they say that we ought at once to close the Suez canal and cut Italian communications."

Such action, taken alone, would destroy Britain's contention that "this is a league affair and not merely Great Britain and Italy." There would never be collective agreement for such action, he declared.

Sir Samuel's speech was followed by vigorous opposition attacks upon the agreements reached at the Ottawa imperial conference of 1932 were one of the main causes of the present unrest.

The world had taken those agreements, he said, as an indication the British Empire was to be made into a closed system.

Boy Actor

Freddy Bartholomew Becomes Legal Ward Of Aunt

Los Angeles.—Freddy Bartholomew, 11-year-old screen actor, becomes the legal ward of an aunt. Miss Myllicent Mary Bartholomew, and in the superior court hearing gave his opinion on what happens to boys who tell lies.

Attorney Felix Cunningham, representing Miss Bartholomew, asked the child actor if he understood what it meant to swear to tell the truth and then what happens to boys who lie fails.

"They probably go to hell," said Freddy candidly.

The boy's parents, Mr. and Mrs Cecil Llewellyn, now in England where Freddy was born, opposed the guardianship petition.

Miss Bartholomew testified she had had exclusive care and custody of Freddy for eight years and had carefully explained the reason for the trip to Hollywood to his parents. She said the young actor had a contract for 40 weeks each week year in pictures at $1,600 a week.

PAYS A TRIBUTE TO THE GOODWILL OF CANADIANS

London. The Earl of Bessborough speaking at a dinner tendered him by the Canadian club, urged that British people travel between Great Britain and Canada and paid warm tribute to Prime Minister R. B. Bennett and Prime Minister-elect Mackenzie King

The earl, who has just completed a term as governor-general of Canada, recalled with approval the suggestions made by Premier Baldwin at the Ottawa imperial conference in favor of greater exchange of civil servants between Whitehall and Ottawa.

The former governor-general paid tribute to the goodwill manifested by Canadians. He owed a great deal to the assistance of Lady Bessborough.

"If any of the many kind things said about us in Canada are true, the credit is due entirely to my wife," he said.

Mr. Bennett, he declared, was respected by people of all political parties in Canada. The early training of Mr. Bennett as a prodigious worker, of phenomenal memory and great ability, with a particularly knowledge of financial and legal questions.

"During my time in Canada—one of unexampled depression—difficult problems presented themselves continuously, some of them of great urgency. However burdened or exhausted by the care of office, I always found Mr. Bennett in our personal relations most patient and considerate, ever ready to give his best in any questions that arose—a staunch and loyal friend for whom no pains were too great to help his friends.

His Majesty's government has no more devoted servant and in the cause of empire no more convinced adherent."

Former governor-general re-called that when he arrived in Canada the first thing that Mr. Mackenzie King said to me was that he hoped there was anything the opposition could do to assist me he was entirely at my disposal. In the year that followed he was as good and better than his word. Our personal relations at all times were of the most delightful character."

He it Howard Ferguson, Canadian high commissioner in London, was given an ovation by the gathering He paid tribute to the great public services of the Earl of Bessborough in Canada

He referred to the highest ideals of Freedom and democracy which are the influence exerting effect and helpful in guiding Canada through one of the most depressing periods in history

He said that to Lady Bessborough are due well wishes of thousands who have met the Dominion as the representative of a young nation. "A son was born to Lord Earl-ford of Montreal in 1931

Lt. H. Thomas Lumsden, secretary likewise commended the work of Lord Bessborough in public service and development.

Referring to the speech just Mr Ferguson he said "We are not in the line of the changes which must necessarily occur, but I would be wanting in my duty if I did not say publicly how every Canadian and every Canadian proud of the great service rendered by the high commissioner to this country."

Mr Ferguson is expected shortly to take his resignation into the hands of the new government follow the precedent of the Conservative party in the general election i

CALL A NAVAL CONFERENCE TO MEET DECEMBER 2

London.—Great Britain formally invited the United States, Japan, France and Italy to a naval conference in London.

The government set the date for December 2, and followed up the invitations with an announcement in commons by Sir Bolton Eyres-Monsell, first lord of the admiralty, that the purpose of the conference would be to obtain an agreement replacing treaties expiring in 1936

These are the Washington and London naval limitation pacts.

In Paris, officials said France would accept the invitation Naval minister Francois Pietri it was expected would join the British in asking qualitative instead of global limitation or restriction of fleets, which Japan has sought.

In Washington the state department announced the United States had accepted the invitation also

In Tokyo, vernacular newspapers printed anonymous naval officials as saying the attitude of the United States on parity promises little hope of success for the conference although a foreign office spokesman said the government hope for tangible results

The government expected immediate acceptance of the invitations and designation of fifi various ambassadors or envoys as chief delegates and by technical experts to lay the groundwork for the conclave

Italy Withdraws Troops

Gesture Of Good Will To Made Towards Britain

Rome.—Italy made a definite gesture of good will toward Great Britain by ordering the withdrawal from the colony of Eritrea of troops from Libya but at the same time a spokesman asserted entitlement of the Ethiopian war would be difficult "as long as the sanctionist machine works at Geneva."

Discussing the removal of the troops, which have been concentrated upon the border of Egypt, a fact Britain regarded as a threat, the spokesman said:

"Our actions have been taken on our own initiative. Italy hopes this move will be interpreted as a friendly gesture."

The steamer Sannio, capable of carrying 2,000 troops, sailed from Naples for Libya under orders to be ready to take off contingents of the Eritrea division.

A government spokesman said Mussolini's gesture in Libya represented the major contribut" to the solution of the problem of peace, not only in Europe but also in East Africa

The matter, of course, does not dispose of the Italo-Ethiopian dispute, but informed quarters believe it was expressed that it lays a foundation for a solution, impossible so long as friendship existed between Italy and Britain.

Mussolini started a drive against Ethiopia as Italy campaign to legalize Italy's Ethiopian conquests

War forces on two fronts gave him accomplished facts with which to confront the League of Nations Big and rich Tigre province of Ethiopia, taken by General Emilio de Bono and troops, has been formally annexed

To Run For Parliament

Ramsay Macdonald Will Be Candidate For Re-Election

London.—J. Ramsay MacDonald, Britain's premier of the national will again run for parliament in Seaham, it was announced. This ended rumors that the former prime minister would soon accept a peerage, or would run in another seat Seaham is regarded as a Labor stronghold but Mr MacDonald retained it by a majority of almost 8,000 in 1931 shortly after he had formed a national government and suffered expulsion from the Labor party

WILD ANIMAL PICTURE COMING TO COLUMBIA

"Sequoia" an unusual feature in which the leading parts are taken by Malibu, a doe and Gato, a puma, is coming to the Columbia theatre. Human beings play but inconsequential parts in the picture. The animals are wonderfully trained and a regular drama is enacted by them, with a good plot unfolded, a love story running thru it but as an unusual that it is difficult to describe. The animals are real, the picture unusual and really wonderful. You will have to see it to believe it.

Increase in Insanity

One Out Of Every 200 Of Population In Mental Institutions

Canadian school children should be told in their classrooms of the importance of selecting a mate who is physically fit and in whose family there is no history of insanity, Dr. Harvey Clarke, superintendent of the Homewood sanitarium at Guelph told a service club in Toronto.

"One out of every 200 of the population in mental institutions or one person out of every 500 people in Ontario," he said, "is confined, and the rate of increase in insanity is between four and five per cent a year he said. Annual cost of caring for mentally sick totals $10,000,000.

Debt Adjustment Act

Law Regulating Disposal Of 1935 Production Given Cvg

(Hon. T. C. Davis, Attorney-General)

Reports coming to the Saskatchewan government and representations made to the government indicate that there is a very great deal of doubt in the minds of the people of the province with respect to the law regulating the disposal of crops or the proceeds thereof in the province. Furthermore there seems to be considerable doubt as to the protection which can be afforded to any person applying to the Debt Adjustment Board in this province.

In view of this condition, the government thought it well to have the following statement prepared and issued

First in connection with the Debt Adjustment Act and the protection afforded thereunder, let me again repeat that there is a representative of that Board to be found at the judicial centre of each judicial district in this province. These representatives have been working under them, so that the facilities of the Board are available at every part of the province. Applications to the Board do not need to be made in person but by letter seeking information will bring prompt reply.

Now with regard to the law respecting disposal of crops. I have been asked to give certain particular features.

First: Doubt has arisen as to whether or not a farmer can be obliged to give up more than one third share if his crop, under a share of crop lease, mortgage or agreement, irrespective of the terms of the document itself. It is quite clear, that notwithstanding what the lease, mortgage or agreement may state, the farmer is only obliged to deliver the third share of the crop and he has the right, from that one third share of the crop to pay one third of the taxes. In other words, he is only obliged to hand over one third as between the share of the crop and one-third of the taxes and one-third share of the crop. This applies to every case except where the other party to the lease, agreement or mortgage has purchased or supplied seed or has paid a share of the cost of seeding. Second: Doubt has arisen as to whether a farmer is obliged to hand half the crop less a share under a share crop lease. Specific provision is made in the law giving the Debt Adjustment Board the power to relieve from these agreements and to determine what share of the crop the farmer is obliged to hand over, but excepting one half there is no

[illegible] became the law in 1933 was continued in 1934 and at the last session of the legislature was continued for the year 1935

The section [illegible] Act providing for this is to [illegible] of the 1935 [illegible] of Saskatchewan Limiting the Limitation of 1934

[illegible] ever been asked as to the status of a farmer who has agreed to deliver a share of his crop and who fails to deliver the same. To this regard is as follows

The farmer who is the mortgagor tenant or purchaser or by law created a trustee in favour of the holder of the mortgage the owner of the land or, in other words, the other party to the share of crop lease or agreement, in respect of the share of crop which the farmer is obligated to deliver to the owner or other party to the contract, and the share of the farmer, vendor or landlord is by law made the absolute property of such person. If the farmer, being the tenant mortgagor or purchaser fails to turn over the share of crop to the party entitled thereto, then, of course, he has committed a criminal breach of trust and has violated the provisions of the criminal code in this regard and is subject to prosecution. Prosecutions in cases like this, however, cannot be undertaken in the same way as an ordinary prosecution because the law specifically provides that no prosecutions can be instituted against anybody in connection with the failure to deliver a share of crop until the consent of the Attorney General has been first had and obtained which, of course means that each prospective prosecution, before being instituted, must be reviewed by the Attorney General and approved and authorized by him. The effect of this, of course is subject to the restrictions under the Limitation of Civil Rights Act of the share of crop to one-third or one-half as the case may be.

Fourth: Then apparently doubt has arisen as to the rights of the individual to relief from foreclosure and the Exemptions Act provides for what the rights of the debtor are. This Act provides for the exemption to which a person is entitled as against seizures under Writs of Execution, and the pertinent paragraphs of this Act are paragraphs 3 and 5 which are as follows

"3. Grain, flour, vegetables or meal, whether prepared for use or not, or any of them, sufficient when converted into cash to provide food and fuel for boarding purposes for the execution debtor and his family until the next ensuing harvest

4. Six horses, oxen or mules or portions of them, ten cows and sheep four pigs and fifty domestic fowls besides the animals which the execution debtor may have chosen to keep as necessary food for himself and his family and feed for the same for the months of November, December, January, February, March and April or for such of those months or portions thereof as may follow the date of seizure, provided such seizure is made between the first day of August and the thirtieth day of April next ensuing; or in lieu of the horses, oxen or mules one tractor and one motor vehicle which has been in use for not less than one year and does not exceed four hundred dollars in value

Provided that the exemption of one motor vehicle shall apply only to a person actively engaged in following operations or a person whose sole occupation is that of a physician or surgeon, veterinary surgeon, draysman or common carrier and who resides in the Province of Saskatchewan;

5. The harness necessary for six animals, one wagon, one buggy or democrat, one disc harrow or cultivator, one mower, one breaking plough, one gang plough, one set of harrows, one horse rake, one cream separator, one set of bob sleighs and one seed drill."

(To Be Concluded Next Week)

New Ships For The British

Calling Tenders For More Vessels For The Admiralty

Twenty-one ships are comprised in the 1935 naval construction programme, for which the Admiralty, in accordance with normal practice at this time of the year, have begun to call for tenders.

They consist of three cruisers, one flotilla leader, eight destroyers, three submarines, two minelayers, one depot ship, four sloops, and one surveying [illegible]

Several small vessels are also included in the programme.

It is understood that $60,000,000 is readily available for payment of the cost of this programme, which is expected to be spread over three years.

Wide promises have been given by the New York papers to a statement by President Roosevelt reaffirming American adherence to the World Arbitration Treaties, but adding that "only the failure to renew the treaties, or a termination thereof, could change the policy of the United States"

The United States press is puzzled as to why Mr Roosevelt should have made this statement.

It is suggested that the president's statement is to dissuade this country from embarking upon an enlargement naval programme.

In regard to the necessity for such a programme, the government will soon have to make up their minds.

British experts have, it is understood arrived at the conclusion that our naval defences no longer suffice.

As the prospects of agreement under which a general limitation of naval armaments could be arranged are altogether remote, this government will soon have to face the issues which are thereby raised.

Combined naval exercises between warships and aircraft last year demonstrated that there are factors in naval warfare to-day which the fleet at present is not designed to deal with.

What may appear to be revolutionary methods in warship design are possibly in contemplation.

A great increase in the fleet air arm and in the number of vessels for carrying seaplanes is quite likely

The measures needed to combat the new danger will be costly, but the sum required can be raised by a Naval Defence Act as on a previous occasion.

War Shells Discovered

Man Unknowingly Struck Unexploded Shell Twice Without Mishap

While engaged in clearing out a well at Littleton Pannell, near Devizes, England, recently, Mr A Wiltshire, a well-sinker, of Devizes, struck his pick against a hard object.

To discover what it was he struck again, and out of the mud protruded an 18-pounder shell. Further investigation revealed a second shell, also unexploded.

The Army authorities were informed, and it was then found that both shells were unexploded relics and they had apparently not been fired from a gun.

That Mr Williams struck the nose of the shell, there is no doubt it would have exploded with tragic consequences.

A rotted sack that appeared to have contained the shells was also found. The shells had evidently been in the well many years, and it is suggested they were dropped there during the days when the village was the centre of considerable military activity.

Cheap Machine Turns Out To Be Valuable Find In Australia

A string of black pearls, said to be worth $300,000 and to have belonged to the collection of Mary Queen of Scots, is reported to have been bought at Forfar, Angus, for fifty shillings by a woman.

This woman, whose name is being kept secret, had no idea of the value of her purchase, and it was only revealed to her, it is stated following a mishap.

It was during a visit to the showrooms of Messrs. Simon Urquhart and Son, in Castle St., Forfar, that she found in an old trinket box what she thought was a string of black [illegible]

"They were lying at the bottom of the box under a lot of rubbish," she said, "and the way they glistened attracted her attention. She bought them for fifty cents.

"Shortly afterwards she went to London for a holiday and was wearing them in a hotel when they broke. A man who helped to gather them told her they were worth having restrung.

Household Arts

PATTERN 8486

A handsome afghan is a decorative accessory as well as a practical asset to a household. Here's one in four colors that is very easy to make and can be joined up in a variety of ways to give you an entirely different afghan. A great part of its charm is in the stitch used. Some of the small squares are worked on count to popcorns. The individual block is small, and especially suitable for using left-over yarns. Make it and you will have an afghan that will be admired by all who see it.

In pattern 8486 you will find complete instructions and charts for making the Afghan shown; an illustration of it and of the stitches needed, material requirements.

To obtain this pattern send 20 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred) to Household Arts Dept., Winnipeg Newspaper Union, 175 McDermot Ave. E., Winnipeg.

EZEKIEL TEACHES PERSONAL RESPONSIBILITY

Golden text: Each one of us shall give account of himself to God. Romans 14:12.

Lesson: Ezekiel 18:1-32; 33:1-20. Devotional Reading: Psalm 139.

Explanations And Comments

The Prophet's Responsibility, verses 7-9. Ezekiel is set as a watchman unto the house of Israel. A watchman's duty is to warn of danger. Ezekiel must hear the word of Jehovah and must proclaim it. He must know that God punishes wickedness, and he must warn the wicked from his way. If he should fail in his duty of warning, the wicked man has to die for his iniquity, but the prophet will be held responsible. If, however, the prophet warns the man and the man fails to heed him, the prophet is free from guilt in the matter. His was the responsibility, not that of obtaining obedience. Experimenting With Fire

Walks, Sits And Lies Down In Middle Of Blazing Fire

The three hundred thousand dollar history made only one spectacular entry into the fiery furnace; Mr. John Bridgeman, of Cape Town, S.A., earns his living by doing it two or three times a week. He has been experimenting with fire for about six months. He does heavy asbestos clothing, and, looking like a deep-sea diver, walks calmly into a blazing fire and lies down. He regularly goes into a fire tunnel where a forced draught brings the temperature up to about 1,700 Fahrenheit. He has lain in a boiler furnace for two minutes and twenty seconds. Illusions Shattered

Eminent Liver Specialist Says Liver Is Blamed For Many Ills Not Its Fault

Four French scientists on an expedition in Greenland have shattered two more illusions about Eskimos. They declare that the Eskimo prefers broccoli to blubber, and does not live in a snow hut. They also found that the average Eskimo, reputed to be a man of few words, has a larger vocabulary than the average business man and that he laughs more in a month than ordinary people do in a year. Most of the Eskimos they found, live in houses built of stone, bone, and even imported wood, and then cover them over with turf. The average Eskimo, reputed to be 14,000 Eskimos in Greenland only a few hundred have ever seen snow huts, and still fewer have ever lived in them. Although blubber is still the mainstay of a polar diet, Eskimos consume considerable vegetable, including broccoli, of which they are very fond

SYNOPSIS

Nancy Nelson is a sub-deb, a gay, irresponsible girl of nineteen, with no care beyond the choice of her costumes for her coming-out party. Suddenly, in the market crush, her indulgent father loses all he had, and his family is faced with the necessity of a simpler method of living. At this juncture a letter is received from an eccentric relative in Colorado, who offers the girl a home on what seems to be impossible conditions.

After much consideration Cousin Columbina's offer is accepted, and Nancy and Jack arrive at Pine Ridge.

Nancy set out one afternoon to climb to the top of a hill so as to obtain a view of the surrounding landscape and misses the path Aurora Dale had told her to follow. A truck comes along the road, driven by Master Adams, and she asks him to show way to go. They encounter the bull, bull around, and then go on to Cousin Columbina's. There Nancy Adam tells Nancy that his brother Luke has broken his leg, and that Jack Nelson has been hired to help sell Uncle Luke's log pets better. While Jack away, Nancy finds that she is lonesome, and having no books to read, the idea of starting a public library at Pine Ridge seems a good one, and Nance writes home to get her parents to send all the books they [illegible] spare and all they could induce others to let them have.

Nancy's parents and friends gave their liberal support to her request for books, and a sizeable box arrived in due course. Father Adam painted a sign for the library, and he and Aaron boys worked on the shelves for the books and decorations to make the room look presentable.

Jack Nancy, Master Adam, and Nance go to the prairie home of Matthews' uncle for the ride, and after Nance and Jack have dinner, they are caught in a blizzard. Blinded by the swirling snow they collide with a bus full of school children, which was stalled across the road with its back wheels resting in a snow-filled gully. Their car being wrecked, Jack and the party of children and Nancy are rescued. As a result of the exposure Nancy's feet are badly frozen, and Jack is seriously ill with pneumonia, but both of them recover.

Now Go On With The Story

"The same, lady—or one branch of it anyhow; and after last night's rain the brooks and rivers will be full to the brim. Never mind over the road ahead, Nance."

Mark was right. They followed a mountain stream bordered by giant fir and spruce and aspens. The mountains were greener here. "More friendly," observed Nance. "More like New England." And after a camp-fire lunch, with the historic Platte rippling peacefully at their feet, Cousin Columbina told some of the old tales which never failed to stir her audience

"When we get home," Jack promised, watching his sister's rapt countenance with some amusement "Nance will have all her friends with stories of pioneer days in Colorado and storm the library for literature on the subject."

Father Adam looked up with a [illegible]

"In that case, I've a little book by a young Englishman which I'll have sent to you, Nancy. It's worth reading."

"You mean the fellow who landed at Vera Cruz, came up through Mexico and capped for a time at Santa Fe, Bayou Salado, they called it then?" asked Matthew

His father nodded, and went on. "I wish I could recall something one of our western poets wrote about him. It says:

"'Alone through dusk he sat and thinks in the lone cañons the Platte,
Safe from the rumbling dust to [illegible]
Cool in the woven spruce that curtained day
While . . .'"

John Adam paused, unable to remember further, and to the surprise of every one, Matthew, dreamy eyes watching the river, continued:

"'While good Panchito browsed along the sage
Beyond the picket fire, it was an age
Of picket fires,
Bruised beaver-tail was good
Better than dripping bump-rib, cedar wood
Was sweet in slapping, snapping, crackling bright—'"

Alone, the boy, Bayou Salado, and Night."

There followed a moment of appreciative silence as Matt ceased speaking. Then Luke exclaimed with admiration: "Gee! brother how'd you ever remember that?"—while Nancy, realizing that with this honest praise Matthew's self-consciousness had returned again, tactfully drew attention away from him by asking:

"Did any of those old, old Spanish expeditions come this way?"

"I couldn't say, my dear," responded Cousin Columbina. "They may possibly have passed near Pine Ridge, though that, I believe, has not been proved."

And no one dreamed that the girl with set there, to the present in visions of other days, was to discover what looked astonishingly like the missing proof.

CHAPTER XIII

It was on the fourth of July when Jack announced at breakfast that with their departure only two days away, the time had come to tackle the nagging gate posts.

"You can't put me off another hour," he insisted (when the old lady said: "Hother those posts, Jack. Don't waste your strength on 'em"), "I'm two pounds heavier than before the blizzard, Cousin Columbine, thanks to those lazy days and Aurora's cooking; and those posts give me the heebie-jeebies. If there were time I'd paint the house, too, inside."

"You may have that to look forward to when you come again!" she responded, endeavoring to speak severely. "I hope your father will consider John Adam's offer of a job for the winter, Jack, and send you back to us. As for Nancy—I don't like to think how still the house will seem without her. I felt like a lost soul the days you stayed at Prairie Ranch."

For the visit to "Uncle Tom's" was over three weeks and had softened the memory of those cruel, windswept plains leaving instead a vision of sunny-dappled valleys.

"If it weren't for this stack of newspapers and letters," Nancy continued in the silence that followed them in her trunk, "that whole ghastly experience would seem a dream."

A nightmare, rather, for Cousin Columbina. "Victor Tubbs says I lost ten pounds durin' that blizzard; and as for Miss Columbine, she'll never be the same again. Again, it's my opinion that if Eve and John Adam hadn't took their lives in their hands and come after us, we'd all be dead by now. Especially Jack's pet, for he'd have lost her mind."

"And it's my opinion" retorted Cousin Columbina, whose face was unobserved "that you were in a lot more danger of losing yours! Don't talk nonsense, Victor Tubbs!"

Nance laughed at the time, even though something told her that in a way Victor Tubbs was right. One paid toll for hours like those, and Cousin Columbine had not escaped. The old lady's face was shadow less [illegible] energetic, and Nance hated to think how lonely she would be when [illegible] with only Aurora Tubbs for company.

"If I were twins, or could be in two places at once," she confided to Cousin Columbina. "I'll help with the digging if you'll get to work before the sun's too hot."

The old posts rotted at the bottom, were dislodged with little difficulty

Chinook fails after feeble attempt

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

The Hallowe'en Dance held on Friday last, Nov. 1 in honor of the track team was a decided success. The girls and students of the V. H. S. were unable to accept our invitation, much to our regret.

ABERHART TO SEEK APPOINTMENT WITH KING FOR NOV. 25

Alberta expects to seek an appointment with Premier Mackenzie King on Nov. 25 when the whole Alberta financial situation will be placed before the dominion government. Premier William Aberhart declared on Tuesday. He stated he hoped to wire Ottawa to this effect during Tuesday afternoon.

As a preliminary the provincial government will confer with mayors in Alberta cities on Nov. 20, when the position of the cities will be dealt with and their position made clear to the provincial authorities.

To drive home to farmers in general the important place of good seed in an agricultural program requires that a continuous, persistent, sound, educational program be carried over a period of years, said Proffessor Robert Summerby of McDonald College in his presidential address to the Canadian Seed Growers' Association.

WARNING!

Parents are warned that sleigh riding or coasting down the hill roads by children is prohibited. This is a dangerous practise and many complaints have been received at the Town Office from motorists and tenants. Further instructions will be dealt with severely.

AUBURNDALE

On Friday October 25th a most successful dance was held in the Caron hall. A dance like the good old days before the "depression," when everybody was cheerful and optimistic. Over two hundred people attended, the ladies all beautifully and fashionably attired. A number of people from Vermilion and Wainwright were present. The Coultman band from Irma played the dance music.

Snow and lots of it; but we refuse to believe that winter is here yet and that we will not have a good long spell of mild weather again in sunny Alberta before the year is out. Our local prophet says that we will have mild weather up until the new year. The district is fortunate in being well supplied with cattle feed now that the snow has covered up, for a time, what grazing there was.

A surprise party was given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Eyben for Miss Lena Miller on the occasion of her birthday last week. The party was a complete surprise to Miss Miller, who came from southern Alberta and has lived in this district now for over a year. She declares that this is a much better country than that part of Alberta where she comes from. Over thirty-five guests were present at the birthday party. Many happy returns of the day Lena.

Miss Hilda Kennedy has returned home after spending a week of happy holidays with the Carrington family of Avondale.

Miss Agnes Cleland has gone to Vermilion to take up the course of studies at the Agricultural College for the winter term.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. J. Leighton, (nee Hazel Everett), on the birth of a son at the Viking hospital.

Mr and Mrs Byron Fraser and family spent a jolly day with the A. Fraser family last week end.

ISLAY NEWS

Dance at Morrison school on Friday Nov. 15. Good music. Goats 25c. Ladies please bring cake. 28-9

Mr. Poulson Robertson recently left the district on a trip to Inverness, Scotland.

The anniversary chicken supper at the Islay United church was fairly well attended in spite of the uncomfortable weather conditions and bad roads. About $34.00 was realized. Following the supper there was a short program. Speakers were Rev. McPherson, Rev. M. L. Wright, Kitscoty, Rev. Daley from Mayerthorpe. Vocal soloists were Miss Linehan, Miss MacClellan and Miss Bothwell. Miss Lila Bowser spent last week end in Vermilion, the guest of Mrs. E. F. Ruff.

Mr. Allen, senior school teacher here entertained his pupils at a very enjoyable Hallowe'en party in the school last Friday evening. All the children report a splendid time.

Miss Goodwin held a jolly Hallowe'en party in the junior room on Thursday afternoon. Needless to say the kiddies enjoyed the affair immensely.

Mrs. MacPherson went to Edmonton early this week as her daughter Ronnie underwent an operation there on Monday morning for appendicitis. The patient is reported as doing very well.

Following some very much below zero weather and considerable snow, mild weather swept in from the west on Tuesday night and Wednesday morning. A decided thaw resulting. Here is hoping that the soft spell continues until all of the snow is gone.

CREAMERY MANAGER BEING TRANSFERRED

Residents of town and district will learn with deep regret that Mr. and Mrs R. Bushell and family will move to Edmonton in the near future.

Since coming here about three years ago from Vermilion, Mr. Bushell has created a wide circle of friends both socially and through his business contacts as manager of the P. Burns & Co. Creamery here. Mrs. Bushell and children will be keenly missed locally.

All that Mr. Bushell could tell the Mirror at this writing was, "I am being transferred to Edmonton."

The name of his successor was not to hand, today, Wednesday.

Boxing Matches Saturday Night

For the first time in many moons Vermilion fans will be treated to some boxing matches. These will be held in the Orange hall on Saturday evening, this week, Nov. 9. The bouts will commence at 8.30 sharp.

The matches is between Battling Brannina of Neilburg and Joe McClellan of Clandonald. The boys are in the 160 pound class and both love a good scrap. Another good fight is promised in the Johnny Klaschinsky and Ted Hames of Marwayne go. They on top of this there are two preliminaries.

The four principles are all well trained experienced fighters and will show a lot of science to the onlookers as well as some real punching ability.

"CLIVE OF INDIA" NOW PLAYING AT COLLINGHAM

This picture narrates in a thrilling spectacular style the incidents and events in the career of an obscure clerk that elevates him to the status of one of England's greatest heroes. It graphically illustrates how this one man made India a British dominion. This picture packs so much worthwhile entertainment and educational value that everyone should see it.

ISLAND HILL

The dance here Friday drew a large crowd and was a royal success. The Burt orchestra improves as time goes on and we anticipate a rush of orders for this splendid musical combination during the winter months. Mrs. Bert Searle and Mrs. Jenkins were responsible for a dainty supper. Jim Will lams was floormaster.

BORN—To Mr. and Mrs. George Martin "Taff" Wednesday October 16 a daughter. We should not too widely overlook recording this interesting item. (The news has just reached us.) Taff's family now consists of five girls. There is something attractive in the figure five for Canadians in family life—ooh no, Taff's five did not arrive at one same time, but we want it tell on readers of these five-taffs or should we write taffwear. that all are budding postmen of the mean ability —even the latest arrival on the ward of the proud father, who, keeping him awake nights eye-strain nically.

"CANADA TIR A DHEANTA"

Canada Tir a Dheanta is the Irish Gaelic for "Modern Canada" and that is the name given to the exhibit by Canada at the Empire Exhibition now being held in Glasgow, Scotland. The exhibit is a comprehensive display of Canada's natural products, manufactured articles, industrial activities and resources. Canada's display is the largest ever made by the Dominion at any exhibition outside Canada. Made in Canada should be stamped on boxes, packages, crates and containers in which Canada's products are shipped, and the country of origin should be legibly and conspicuously marked on each article. Canada's exhibit is designed to show the country as a whole, and to help Canadian industries to secure trade in Canada. MAKES HAZARDOUS TRIP

VANCOUVER B. C. Novemb Mrs J Norman Henry and [illegible] year old daughter Josephine [illegible] here from Prince Rupert B. C. recently made her home in Pitt Lake after completing a 1,200 mile trip through Northern British Columbia.

Mrs. Henry, her daughter [illegible] men made the hazardous journey from Fort St. John through the rugged wilderness between the Peace and Liard rivers to the coast which Charles Lindeman and his party of 150 horses and five tractors attempted last summer only to be turned back by unfavorable weather conditions

The party left Fort St. John July 16 with 25 horses and struck out along the Peace and Lauder rivers. They forded a number of smaller streams and rafted the larger ones, reaching Mellanie Creek on September 22 after the total distance travelled 700 miles were on foot. Mrs Henry and

PEOPLE SHOULD KNOW OWN TOWN

The fact that familiarity breeds contempt was forcibly brought home to us by an Edmonton paper a month or more ago, when it printed an interview with the well known eastern writer, Maurice Peterson, Women's Editor of the London, (Eng.) Advertiser. The lady was when interviewed making a tour of the west and in extract from her writings reads as follows:— "From Vermilion, where we stayed in a rather little hotel where the baths were 25c extra, and the dames had no transom glasses we drove on to Mannville and then 50 or more miles to Vegreville. It was very hard trying to get information in these towns to write about for the residents seem to have no idea that there is anything of interest in their communities. Sometimes there isn't but at Vermilion, for instance where we asked repeatedly for help in this regard, we were told there was absolutely nothing yet we learned later that the provincial agricultural college a fine structure indeed is situated on the edge of the town."

This merely serves to bring home the point that residents have over look many things that are of real great interest to outsiders. To a lady writer of Margaret Sievens ability a trip around the grounds in a closed or horse drawn would take very little value — Number two item of interest we have in Vermilion a regular health resort plant that never fails to entertain visitors. It is one of three municipally owned systems in Western Canada, yet we have nothing of interest. We have also one of the two municipally owned Electric light plants in the province. Our high school according to inspectors has a laboratory equal to any in Alberta, having no school large or small we have an arena that was constructed largely by volunteer labor. We have a waterpark designed by a local man and built of native stone. A lady with the ability of Miss Stevens would have revelled in such information—she would have been delighted with the view of the town from the north hill with a visit down to the swimming pool. She would never fail to go to a garage a visitor who is in search of material yet according to persons with whom this lady sought interim information, Vermilion had absolutely nothing of interest. Possibly it might be well before the next tourist season rolls around to conduct an educational program among the residents of Vermilion something along the lines of the one "Parts about Canada" pamphlet which is issued yearly.

The Calf Club show of the Dominion wide Boys and Girls Farm Clubs at the Sherbrooke Winter Fair held recently was the largest assembly of its kind at a provincial exhibition. Two hundred and twelve Calf Club members from every district of the province of Quebec took part in showing 108 calves and yearlings and in the different judging contests for not certain home to go to the Royal Winter Fair. "Remembrance Day"

The eleventh of November has been set apart by the Government of Canada as "Remembrance Day." On this date seventeen years ago the Great War ended. A war which lasted over four years and in which 562,366 men and women of the British Empire including 60,661 Canadians laid down their lives for honor, for truth and freedom principles for which we can honestly say "never ready to live or die valiantly."

"Remembrance Day" is not a holiday; it is a Holy Day, sacred to the memory of our heroic dead. It reminds us that Canada stood with the other great Dominions side by side with the Motherland that nearly 600,000 Canadians were under arms that 272,950 nurses enlisted; that both at home and overseas people themselves equal to those who had had years of training for active service; that thousands of broken hearts and bodies and shattered lives resulted, and that 60,000 Canadians lie sleeping in the Gardens of the Dead" in Flanders and on many battlefields. Canada's answer is given in the words of Sir Robert Borden, then Prime Minister. "Not for love of war but for forgetting Vimy, are forever emblazoned on the standards of Canadian regiments and on the hearts and minds of those who survived."

You are familiar with the following verse—"My duty to my country is to love it to obey and maintain its laws, respect its flags, and to defend it against all enemies." This is an duty what those brave men and women did who gave their lives for the land they loved. It is not fitting, therefore, that one day should be set apart as a memorial to them, and as an opportunity for us to attune them in reverence and gratitude.

There are set up in almost every city, town and village in Canada, memorials to those heroes. Respect and care for these evidences of our country's gratitude all your lives, for on them are engraved the names of those who made the supreme sacrifice that you might live in peace and safety.

November 11th an Empire will stand at attention, its speech silenced, its thought centred upon the brave dead. It is inspiring to know that millions of grateful people in our vast Empire will take part in this sacred act of remembrance. Will you join them? Be present at the ceremony at the Cenotaph, and in the "Two Minutes Silence" listen to the spirit voices of the War dead in the great beyond as they cry:—

"To you from falling hands we throw

The Torch - be yours to hold it high:

If ye break faith with us who die,

We shall not sleep though poppies grow

in Flanders Fields."

POPPY DAY

The symbolism of the Poppy, the memorial appropriateness of its blood red bloom, lends a deeper significance with each succeeding year. Time and War is passing almost perceptibly beyond the memory of the present day of carrying into the years that have yet to come the work and the deeds of those whom the Poppy commemorates.

Canada has adopted the Poppy as a Flower to be worn on the 9th, 10th and 11th November, when the people of Canada will pay tribute to the memory of one kind or another. The crosses in the cemeteries of Flanders are garlanded with Poppies—emblems and emblems of a nation's youth consecrated in the "Wrath-red forge of War".

On Poppy Day this Dominion pauses in its normal activities to recall the sacrifices of its young men, the deeds of their heroism, their unselfishness and the uncomplaining fortitude with which they bore their privations and sufferings. In this present time, Canada strives to liquidate in some small measure, an obligation which can never be discharged. Those employed in the Veterans' Workshops of the country, whose only means of livelihood is the making of these simple emblems.

The simple remembrance of the great Canadian Legion, with its tens of thousands of workers on Poppy Day, will take care the distribution of these Poppies throughout Canada.

In this connexion to their disabled Comrades to those Veterans' Shops a real performance of a sorrowful yet proud task.

All Canadians of every age and degree should wear a symbol on Poppy Day. For that is surely a day of remembrance and of re-dedication to the work and bonds of brotherhood, sympathy or sentimentalism where the sons here of a previous generation

NOVEMBER 11TH, 1935

Twice seventeen years ago today
When guns of war were hidden
"Cease"
In gratitude we celebrate
This Anniversary of Peace.
Oh, heroes of the boundless deep,
Soldiers of Flanders' Field sleep on;
Her hero enshrined in memory . .
Burns high, is ever burning on.
To men who wield the nation's power,
God grant that you may always heed,
That covenant.—"If ye break Faith,
We shall not sleep, in Flanders Field."
They died for Honor, Freedom, Peace,
But their flaming "Torch" must never die.
They filling it back in trust to you;
With pride "Tis yours to hold it high."
God, guard the Souls of those who died,
Bless Thou, the yearning, and despair
Of lonely hearts, of those who mourn:
We ask of Thee, oh God, in prayer.

M. Josephine Turner.

CANADIAN FLOUR TO SCOTLAND

WINNIPEG, Man., November 6—The people of Scotland may be strong and stalwart, but they also, evidently, know the value of good bread. The British people are noted for their demand for high-quality merchandise, and are sticklers along this line in the matter of foodstuffs. This is borne out in Aberdeen and the North of Scotland where a larger proportion of Canadian flour goes into the bread than in any other part of Great Britain according to the Industrial Department of the Canadian National Railways.

OLD-TIMERS RE-UNION ATTENDANCE BREAKS ALL RECORDS

The Vermilion Old Timers Association held their Sixth Annual Dance and Round-up on Friday, October 25th in the Elk's hall, Vermilion.

This surpassed any previous Round-up as 140 persons sat down to the splendid dinner provided by Mrs. Annie Cameron and her squad of helpers. The dinner caused so many happy remarks that the Hon. President at the close, moved a vote of thanks to Mrs. Cameron which was heartily approved. This was seconded by Mr. M A. Brimacombe.

At the end of the dinner and before the members moved away from the tables, the annual meeting of the Association was held, with President W. F. Raddatz in the chair. The secretary read the minutes of the previous annual meeting and the financial statement showing a satisfactory balance, both of which were adopted as read.

At this point the Hon. President broke into the proceedings and presented the secretary with a parcel marked not to be opened until safely married by N. R. Lindsay, K. C. of Edmonton. J. W. G. Morrison K. C defended the accused.

LAMB FEEDING PROFITABLE

The main profit of the Alberta lamb crop is made when the lambs are sent to market in good condition. The experience of far Normal Institute and Agricultural Representatives has shown that it pays to properly finish lambs.

The Dominion Experimental Station Lacombe states that lambs for feeding should be of good type, growthy and thrifty. Poor type "scrubby" unthrifty lambs should not be used. Lambs should not be fed with the fitmess orchestra. The party broke up at about 3 a.m., all voting that this was the best Round-up yet held and all voting to continue the Association, as it affords the only opportunity to the men and women who opened up the country thirty years ago to renew acquaintances

C. W. Robinson was again elected secretary by the executive.

SOLD MORTGAGED GRAIN

Pathfinder Farmers Found Guilty of Theft and Fined

Selling mortgaged grain did not appear to be very remunerative to two young farmers from the Pathfinder district, William and Steve Wanglyk, brothers, in the District Court on Tuesday when the J. I. Case Company preferred a charge against them for theft of 750 bushels of wheat in the fall of 1934 and covering which they held a chattel mortgage as security for the purchase of a tractor.

The Crown called some 7 or 8 witnesses while the accused state evidence in their own behalf, claiming they sold the grain under a misunderstanding as to the contract and purport of the mortgage. They were found guilty and fined $100 on which fine was paid. The offence carried a penalty of seven years but from the evidence adduced the Court felt the ends of justice would be met by the imposition of a fine as a warning to anticipate the property covered by it cannot be indiscriminately dealt with by the mortgagor. V. R Hald win prosecuted for the Attorney Gen eral and stated by N. R. Lindsay, K. C of Edmonton. J. W G Morrison K. C defended the accused.

To Settle An Issue

There are few people in Western Canada, and in the east as well for that matter who will not follow with lively interest the proceedings before the Royal Commission appointed by the Saskatchewan Government to inquire into all the circumstances surrounding the 'On to Ottawa' trek of relief camp strikers which started out from Vancouver this summer and culminated in the battle in Regina, in which a city police detective lost his life and scores were injured.

The inquiry will start to be held in Regina may be regarded as an event of major importance to the whole country in view of the fact that charges have been made public that the purpose and object of the movement was to speed the constituted authorities of Canada and to impose on the country a government by unlawful means.

The has been denied by the strikers leaders who have insistently declared that their purpose was peaceful and inspired only with the desire to draw their grievances to the attention of the Federal government and the people in the hope that the means these grievances would be remedied.

While all sympathize with the courage of the brutal the people at large are by means of knowing at the present time but it is sincerely to be hoped that sufficient light now will be thrown before the Commission to settle the question definitely one way or the other.

The charge of treason, as a serious one since it true it involves a serious threat to the foundations of any government which has been bequeathed by the people of Canada and has been carefully fostered and cherished by them since its inception. The whole trend of the history of the country since that date has been onward and upward and strength in that form of government which assures individual personal liberty and the people of the country shall decide whether those governments was misplaced or not.

The inquiry will undoubtedly be interesting in a spirit of youthful adventure, as those participating in the trek undoubtedly were, but the charges of treason and the attempt to overthrow the constitution that it was a peaceful and law-abiding gathering, without want to know whether they were bound on an innocent pleasure trip or a deliberate and plainly looks in the hands of a menacing leadership has now been assigned.

There are matters which should be cleared up definitely and finally for the sake of the peace of mind of the public generally and for the information of participants in the march and of those who sympathized with them and aided them.

There is only one way, however, for these questions to be definitely determined and that is by all those who have specific information on the movement and its motives to come forward and offer their testimony without fear or favor. Such information, no matter what it may be, provided it is reliable will, it is safe to say, be welcomed by the Commission and the public.

It must be borne in mind that the Commission is purely a fact-finding body. It is not charged with the duty of drawing conclusions from the evidence adduced, or of making recommendations as a result of the information it receives.

The Commission s duty as are confined to bringing out whatever facts they and their counsel may be able to secure and, while, no doubt, every effort will be made to secure information as possible, the value of the Commission s work in the public will be limited to the extent that such information is made available.

Those who have important information on the subject matter of the inquiry neglect to bring it to the Commission s attention. To that extent the investigation will necessarily fail to fulfill its full purpose and to that degree the inquiry will be disappointing.

No matter how economically handled a Royal Commission inquiry is bound to involve considerable expenditure and it is to be hoped that those who have information will not hesitate to submit it and help the public to secure a good return for the expense entailed

Triumph For Science

Milk Used Cow With The Aid Of Mechanical Heart

By means of an artificial heart the udder of a dead cow has been made to give milk, Dr. W. E. Peterson, University of Minnesota scientist, it school recently.

Dr. Peterson devised the artificial heart to aid him in studying the fat content of milk.

He said it led to a new and better test for butter fat. The new test is known as the Minnesota Babcock butter fat test, a refinement of the Babcock method, the scientist asserted. It enables creamery tasters to obtain more accurate results.

Dr Petersen and on one occasion he kept an udder "alive" for 18 hours, and milked it five times during that period. This was accomplished by prolonging the circulation of blood through the gland by means of the mechanical heart and utilizing the animal's lungs

The lung also was kept active for the same length of time as the udder. Tubes from the udder were affixed to the lung.

The mechanical heart is a revolving disc with tubes from arms on each side. The arms are parallel but just out from the disc at different levels As the disc revolves, propelled by a small electric motor, the arms press rubber tubes through which the blood flows.

Dr Petersen then added a lung taken from a dead cow to the apparatus. It was inflated and deflated by an automatic air hose. Before the lung was used it was boiled, retaining from the udder would be almost black, he said When it was circulated through the lung it came out normal color.

To keep it at body temperature the blood is passed through a glass coil immersed in warm water. Thirteen pounds of blood are used.

Extensive Travelling

Journalist Covers 1,200,000 Miles, Always Going Eastward

A man has come to Durban, Natal, who is 22 days younger than any man of his age in the world. He is Mr. M. Franklin Kline. Eleven years ago he set his face to the sun and he has travelled towards it ever since, completely looping first the Northern and then the Southern Hemisphere every year. He has thus been round the world 22 times in 11 years, and, as he has always travelled east, 22 days have been clipped off his life. "I've travelled 1,200,000 miles in my life, always east," he said, "and have never grown tired of it. There are too many interesting things to see. Anyway, I guess I'm wound up now and can't stop. I'm the editor and compiler of the official guide for shipping and travelling in the principal ports of the world, which is published by the Osaka Shosen Kaisha Company, Japan. I visit all the big ports of the world every year, and take heads of business firms and interview them. I spend all my time in ships, trains and connecting my guidebook, which is published every year. I was born in Tennessee. I came to South Africa in 1904 and spent 20 years in mines. When the Zulu rebellion broke out in 1906, I joined up with the mounted volunteers. I've had my real fighting in those days." Mr. Kline became a journalist after the rebellion, and when a Japan he conceived the idea of issuing a shipping guide-book as a means of travelling round the world. This was successful that he has continued travelling ever since.

Requests For Dionne Bowls

Premiums Have Been Given To People All Across Canada

That the Dionne quintuplets are the means of the delivery of thousands of pounds of cereals is amply demonstrated in the tremendous demands for the bowls bearing pictures of the babies given away as premiums in connection with the cereals. Although the premium offer was first made only a comparatively short time ago, requests literally thousands upon thousands of requests for the bowls have been received from families all over the Dominion. Requests for premiums, according to The Quaker Oats Company, come from people in every walk of life, high and low, rich and poor, both men and women, as well as children.

The premium offer of chromium bowls bearing a representation of the heads of the five famous babies in intaglio on the bottom, and their names carved around the rim, is being made to mark the fact that Quaker Oats was chosen by the best food experts in the country as the breakfast cereal for the Dionne Quintuplets have been eating Quaker Oats regularly since their very earliest months.

Quaker Oats was chosen because of its remarkable richness in Vitamin B. Food editors of leading publications have constantly featured articles stressing the importance of this vitamin. Also recommended universal because of its abundance of body-building minerals, health giving proteins, and energy-making carbohydrates, the "Quaker" guy bowls of Quaker Oats.

Flying Torpedo Boats

War Instrument Capable Of Slashing Biggest Battleship Afloat

Just as Germany started the naval world in 1909 with "westpocket" cruisers, she has again, after five years of experimental work, sprung a new surprise in westpocket torpedo boats—variously called death boats or flying torpedo boats because of their tremendous speed and their agility. Carrying two torpedo tubes and capable of making the biggest battleship afloat, these "mosquito boats" of 208 tons size reach a speed of 65 miles an hour and therefore, against the giants of other navies, they rely on this terrific speed, not armament, as they dart forward under cover of smoke screens, the technique demonstrated at the Battle naval manoeuvres.

Hasty conclusions reports claimed that the westpocket torpedo boats were manned by a crew of only five men, a number which experts declared in war would be simply to drive their little craft loaded with explosive straight into enemy battleships, taking their chance to survive by leaping overboard at the last minute The United Press ascertained that the crews actually number 22, eight on deck, eight in the engine rooms and six officers.

Grasshopper Menace

Infestation For 1936 Believed To Be Higher In Manitoba

Indications of grasshopper infestation for 1936 are much lighter than for many years, Dr. R. D. Bird of the Dominion entomological laboratory, Brandon, Man., told the Manitoba grasshopper control committee in Winnipeg

The areas of heaviest infestation, according to indications of egg deposits in the soil, are in patches south and southeast of Winnipeg, said Dr. Bird, who has just completed a survey of egg beds. Lighter infestation is indicated over a wide section of the southwestern part of Manitoba.

'QUAKE TREMORS CAUSE DAMAGE IN EASTERN CANADA

Toronto. — An earthquake shook Canada with a rumbling shock from the head of the Great Lakes to the Bay of Fundy. Buildings were shaken, dishes knocked from tables and thousands of persons frightened so badly they rushed into the streets during the tremor that lasted from 15 seconds in some areas to a minute or more in others.

Damage was almost negligible in Canada, but a home caved in at Syracuse, N.Y., and street signs fell to the street in Plattsburgh, N.Y.

Two seismographic instruments at the Dominion observatory in Ottawa were broken by the 'quake's severity. Telephone communication in central Ottawa was disconnected for a time after the shocks felt about 1:05.

Frank C. Nicholl of the Dominion meteorological bureau at Toronto said the tremors were the worst ever felt there.

"It must be a very severe 'quake somewhere," he said, adding that just north of Cape Lawrence there must be a fault in the earth structure.

There were two distinct shocks in the east. The first lasted 40 seconds in some places and was followed by a briefer, less pronounced tremor.

Toronto, Montreal, Detroit, Buffalo, N.B., Detroit, Cleveland, Washington, Boston, Albany and Fairmont in West Virginia, all reported that buildings were swayed by the tremors. Telephone lines were out in a number of centres in upper New York state.

The 'quake lasted about five seconds in Toronto, causing pictures to shimmy. At Montreal it was of sufficient strength to move furniture

Slight damage was caused at Simcoe, Ont., where bricks fell from several buildings cracked. Reports from Windsor indicated the shock there was slight.

It was believed the centre of the shock was in the United States, probably in New York state.

Frightened citizens deluged the newspaper offices with calls. In Montreal, in the eastern Canada area, the 'quake was strong enough to awaken the slumbering.

Hundreds streeted in Toronto, the most violent 'quake felt there in eight years failed to cause any traffic accidents.

Says Italy The Aggressor

Co-Author Of Kellogg-Briand Pact Denounces War Policy

St. Paul, Minn.—Frank Kellogg, former secretary of state and co-author of the Kellogg-Briand pact declared that "the United States in common with other countries can and should designate Italy as the aggressor in its flagrant violation of the sovereignty of another nation."

He added the United States should "denounce Italy's violation of its treaty obligations and announce that it will take no step to interfere with or nullify the measures that other nations are now taking to put a stop to the war.

"What some of the American people seem to have forgotten and what the Italian people or their government seem to have entirely ignored," Kellogg said, "is that when Italy invaded Ethiopia and thus, beyond a shadow of doubt, proceeded to make war as an instrument of national policy, Italy violated a treaty with the United States and thus violated the supreme law of our land." He referred to the Kellogg-Briand pact.

Kellogg declared the hope that "those who are considering trading with Italy . . . will have it borne home to them soundantly that in supplying oil, cotton or machinery they are aiding and abetting a nation that has made a solemn treaty as a scrap of paper."

Test Validity Of Laws

Social Legislature To Be Submitted To Supreme Court

Ottawa.—Social legislation passed at the last session of parliament will be submitted to the supreme court of Canada for a decision as to its constitutional validity, Prime Minister Mackenzie King stated recently. An effort will be made to have the court's decision on these matters ready for consideration by the Dominion-provincial conference which Mr. King hopes to have late in November.

Mr. King did not give any detail as to the particular statutes to be submitted to the supreme court, but it is assumed they will include those dealing with the minimum wage, regulation of labor, and control of rest in seven and the unemployment insurance act, most of which, while passed by the opposition were challenged by them on constitutional grounds.

Social Credit Plan

Aberhart Will Not Call Next Session Before Next Spring

Edmonton.—Major C. H. Douglas, reconstruction adviser to the provincial government, will not make a second visit to Alberta this year, Premier Aberhart announced. He expressed the hope it would be possible to call Major Douglas here before the end of the year, but the government is preparing a Social Credit plan.

As the two-year contract which the provincial government made with Major Douglas provided for a fee of $2,000 and expenses during each visit to the province not exceeding three weeks' duration, the province will be saved that additional amount if the economist does not return this year. He was last here during May of this year. His fee is $2,000 special fee for each visit. Major Douglas has a $5,000 general contract, one-half of which has been paid.

Benefit From Snow Storm

Saskatoon Great benefit to western land was seen by Dean A. M. Shaw of the college of agriculture, University of Saskatchewan, as a result of the 63-hour snow storm that swept Alberta and Saskatchewan. The unfrozen ground will absorb the moisture if the snow thaws. If the white blanket remains it may keep the frost out of the ground, he said. The university recorded 1.20 inches of moisture as snow melted during the last 48 hours.

U.S. Bureau Of Agriculture Says Stocks Much Lower

Washington.—A decrease of 240,000,000 bushels from the 1934-35 season in world supplies of wheat, excluding Russia and China, was reported by the U.S. bureau of agriculture economics.

The present world supply was reported to be 4,380,000,000 bushels, 500,000,000 bushels less than the average from 1928 to 1932.

The reduced supply was said to have resulted from smaller stocks in all major producing countries except Canada.

Ottawa.—Senator Iva Fallis of Peterborough, Ont., second woman member of Canada's upper chamber, has been in hospital since Oct. 18, suffering from a broken wrist and a foot injury.

Dr. Stanley F. Service, her physician, said she was not seriously hurt, that she had broken only one bone in her wrist and a bone in her right foot. He said she slipped on the curb and fell.

UNITED STATES TO STRENGTHEN NEUTRAL POLICY

Washington. — President Roosevelt and Secretary Hull aimed sharp and almost simultaneous blows at United States feelings of any description with either Italy or Ethiopia.

Advancing beyond any previous point the efforts to bulwark the government's neutrality policy by discouraging trade with the belligerents, the pronouncements by the president and secretary of state were followed by spoken hints that still further action might be taken.

The president, after hitting at commercial profits gained from war, declared: "Accordingly the American government is accepting informed us to all shipments consigned for export to both belligerents."

Hull, employing stronger language than at any time past, asserted the neutrality policy was intended to "discourage dealings" with both of the warring countries and added: "I again repeat that an early peace with the restoration of normal business and normal business profits is far sounder and far preferable to temporary war profits."

The pronouncement stirred considerable speculation. Some observers believed the president's remarks were intended to pave the way for some definite action should heavy war exports be shown.

Airliner Lands At Nelson

Lost U.S. Plane Makes Safe Landing In B.C. Town

Nelson, B.C.—A Northwestern Air Lines passenger plane, out of Helena, Mont., which made its last call at Billings, Mont., and then started for Spokane, made a forced landing in a rocky field on the outskirts of Nelson Three pilots and four passengers climbed out of the damaged ship unhurt.

The giant airliner first appeared over Nelson and circled the city at a low altitude and then headed westward. It was reported later over Taghum, five miles west of Nelson, where it circled about and then continued over Trail where it was sighted.

Returning to Nelson the machine with lights ablaze circled the city and grazed mountains as it flew over the business section.

Passengers reported the plane lost the radio beam just out of Helena in a snow storm. They drifted about attempting to pick it up without success. A northeastern wind hit the plane and they lost their bearings completely.

Alberta Liquor Prices

Increases Are Announced To Go Into Effect At Once

Edmonton.—With increases up to 25 cents on a 26-ounce bottle of scotch, 20 cents on a similar bottle of rye, 20 cents on imported gin, 10 cents on Canadian gin, 25 cents on the more costly liqueurs and five cents on a dozen pints of beer, new prices at Alberta vendors will be ready to go into effect, it was announced.

The new list includes the initiation in red ink "Prices quoted are for the trade an assessment for relief purposes."

The new list, however, shows steep reductions in the price of brandy imported in the bottle One brand drops from $4 00 for a 26-ounce bottle to $2 50. Another brand shows a reduction from $3 65 to $3.10.

Increases in the price of wines run from five to 10 cents a bottle.

The increases go into effect following an announcement by Premier Aberhart that he hoped to raise $500,000 by this method.

ITALY MAY ARM MERCHANT SHIPS IF NECESSARY

Rome Premier Mussolini, in two emergency, war-like decrees, today ordered a watchword to fight beyond sanctions and ordered a census of the merchant marine to determine the strength of the naval reserve

It was a merchant ships will be armed if necessary, said the decree In well informed circles belief was expressed that by this step Il Duce might be trying to avert a war and conflagration in Europe

All shipowners and captains were told to be ready to give information about their vessels to a mixed commission from the navy war and communications departments

Those ships designed as has airplanes will carry them on deck in case of war, the decree stipulated

The mixed commission, the decree said, will be composed of naval officers, government engineers, representatives of the department navy economy and shipowners' organizations. By the 31 December 1936 the chief inspectorate of the M. V. I. must have completed the task of taking at the families who fought for them.

As for all spoke-man at the same time issued statements of optimism, which said that the population was calm and that sanctions will be ineffectual

The mobilization of all merchant ships of more than 1,000 tons gross, and the census of the entire merchant marine, was ordered by two decrees signed by Premier Mussolini and published in the official gazette

Informed circles here were reported that these steps were necessary to make a reserve of ships available for conversion into warships in case of war. Italy has no battleships under construction at present.

WILL DETERMINE THE VALIDITY OF ENACTMENTS

Ottawa.—Submission of legislation to the supreme court of Canada, as announced earlier by Prime Minister King, will be much wider in scope than previously expected, it was learned here.

In addition to the measures respecting working hours and wages affecting from draft conventions of the international labor office, the reference will also include employment and social insurance, legislation adopted to carry out the recommendations of the royal commission on price spreads and mass buying and the Marketing Act

Hon. Ernest Lapointe, minister of justice, stated the reference will ask certain questions which have been raised regarding the validity of the following acts

The Employment and Social Insurance Act, the Dominion Trade and Industry Act, the Natural Products Marketing Act (1934) and amendments, an act to amend the criminal code, section nine, the Minimum Wages Act, the limitation of Hours of Work Act and the Weekly Day of Rest in Industrial Undertakings Act.

The reference to the supreme court will be made immediately, Mr. Lapointe said, and the government hoped an answer might be ready for consideration at the Dominion-provincial conference to be held later in November or early in December

The Employment and Social Insurance Act has already gone into operation with a commission set up under the chairmanship of Hon. H. H. Harrington, former premier of Nova Scotia. Work has not yet proceeded to the stage where employers and employees would make contributions to the insurance fund.

The tariff board, of which George Sedgewick is chairman was instituted the remission to it of matter the Dominion Trade and Industry Act in its initial stage, and no additional staff was appointed

Wheat Situation

Denial Of Rumors That Government Will Sell At Sacrifice Prices

Ottawa.—Denial of rumors that the government intended to force Canadian wheat on the markets even at sacrifice prices followed the first meeting of the cabinet committee to deal with the wheat situation

Hon. W. D. Euler, minister of trade and commerce and chairman of the wheat committee, issued the following statement: "There are rumors abroad the government intends to direct that the western wheat now held in the wheat board be sold even at sacrifice prices. The rumors are entirely without foundation. Under the law the board functions for Mr. McFarland (John I McFarland) has full authority with regard to the selling policy."

Members of the committee which in addition to Mr. Euler, include Finance Minister Dunning and Hon. James Gardiner, minister of agriculture, declined to amplify the statement It is believed the denial was prompted by representations from Winnipeg to the committee that the uncertainty of the situation was having a depressing effect on the market

Canadian High Commissioner

Hon. Vincent Massey Has Been Appointed To London Post

Ottawa Hon Vincent Massey, who has been chairman of numerous royal commissions, a lecturer and author has been appointed to succeed Hon. Peter Charles Larkin as high commissioner to Great Britain, it was announced. Mr. Massey's appointment was made from Nov. 8 the announcement said, and Mr. Larkin will sail from Montreal on Nov. 6. Howard Ferguson, present high commissioner is effective leaving that date

The press manager had already announced he would leave Mr. Massey on his London office. Mr. Ferguson forwarded his resignation a few days ago but after an exchange of communications with Mr. King agreed to remain at his post until it would be convenient for the government to fill his place.

Relief And Unemployment

Ottawa The new government's policy with regard to unemployment relief camps was probably be announced within a few days, it was learned here today. Mackenzie King, the whole cabinet was now being studied. The government's decision would be made known after examination of all phases of the unemployment situation

New Map Of Canada

Much Detail Shown In New Map Published By Department Of Interior

The Topographical and Air Survey Bureau, Department of the Interior, Ottawa, has just issued a new map of Canada on the scale of 100 miles to the inch which will be found of interest to all those persons who have to use for a small scale map of the Dominion

The last map of Canada printed by the Department of the Interior is published on the scale of 20 miles to one inch in four separate sheets which, when joined together cover a space about 4½ feet by 8½ feet, making an extremely wall map if one has such a space available There is another map of intermediate size on the scale of 60 miles to one inch which is very convenient for desk use or as a smaller wall map.

The new map has been produced to meet the demand for a small map of handy size, useful for general reference purposes. It is 30 inches by 36 inches and fits into any large size drawer or a small space on the wall. The map shown all of Canada south of latitude 75, thus including with some of the northern islands All the larger physical features, such as lakes, rivers, bays and islands, are depicted in correct position The boundaries of the provinces and districts are outlined. All cities and towns are shown and all the railways are drawn in but without the intermediate small stations being named The latitude and longitude lines are drawn and from them it may be seen that Vancouver Island lies in the same latitude as Boston, while the most northerly tip of the Ontario peninsula is as far south as the northern end of the state of California.

According to the latest figures, the land and fresh water area of Canada, including province and territories, is given in the following table:

	Square Miles
Prince Edward Island	2,184
Nova Scotia	21,068
New Brunswick	27,985
Quebec	594,534
Ontario	412,582
Manitoba	246,512
Saskatchewan	251,700
Alberta	255,285
British Columbia	366,255
Yukon Territory	207,076
Northwest Territories	1,304,903
	3,684,083

Lake Superior is the largest lake shown on the map. It and Lake Michigan, in Ontario, lie between Ontario and the United States. Of the Great Lakes lying wholly within Canadian territory, Great Bear Lake is the largest with an expanse of 11,200 square miles. Other large lakes over 1,000 square miles in area include Great Slave, Winnipeg, Athabaska, Winnipegosa, Manitoba, Nipigon, Southern Indian, Reindeer, Dauphin, La Marte, and Lake of the Woods.

Canada has some great river systems, the Mackenzie being 2,800 miles in length from its mouth to its headwaters, and the St. Lawrence 1,000 miles. Other great rivers over 1,000 miles in length include the Nelson, Saskatchewan, Churchill, Columbia, Peace and Yukon.

Mount Logan is the highest mountain in Canada, with an altitude of 19,850 feet. In addition to it there are 66 other mountain peaks above 11,000 feet in height.

Copies of this map may be obtained from the Surveyor General, Department of the Interior, Ottawa, for 25 cents per copy. As it is a useful school map, one copy will be supplied free to any school for official use upon application of the teacher or school board.

Discover Cure Of Mennaites

Believed To Be Living About 1,000 Years Ago

In limestone caves of the coastal mountains of New Guinea rows of mummies of men, their chins on their hands, their elbows on their knees, have just been discovered They are believed to be 1,000 years old. The caves are near the strip of coast administered by the Australian Government. Almost at the time of the discovery a party of explorers stumbled on a valley populated by a hitherto unknown pastoral people who lived in dwellings like the mummies were living men. Until the mummies were found there was no evidence that New Guinea tribes preserved their dead.

World's Super Timepiece

Impossible For This Clock To Lose Or Gain

A clock that will not lose or gain more than a fraction of a second in a year is to be installed at the Royal Observatory, London, Eng. It will be recognized as the world's super timepiece.

Controlled by electricity its pendulum will swing in a partial vacuum at a constant temperature, and a series of electric impulses will be given out each time the pendulum swings

The electric impulses will control the dials

Debt Adjustment Act

Law Regulating Disposal Of 1936 Crops Upheld

(Hon T C Davis, Attorney-General)

"Let me stress the fact that these examinations apply only where a mortgage is being made under Writ of Execution issued under a judgment obtained through the courts and do not apply in respect of other mortgages in connection with which the absolute control of the situation is held in Debt Adjustment Boards which, of course, decides each case upon the merits of the case.

"Fourth: In connection with the examinations with any mortgagee, it is to be noted that a very material change was made in the Land of Saskatchewan in the year 1933 when it was provided that the right of a person, selling a farm implement, to recover the purchase price thereof was restricted to a representative of the article sold. This does not apply to implements which were purchased for less than $100.00 or to binders, but, in connection with every other implement sold, since that law came into effect, the farmer who purchases it cannot lose some of the northern islands All the larger physical features, such as lakes, rivers, bays and islands, are depicted in correct position The boundaries of the provinces and districts are outlined. THE RETURN FROM CAPTIVITY

Golden text: The Lord hath done great things for us. Whereof we are glad. Psalm 126:3.

Lesson: Jeremiah 29:4-14; Ezra 1; 3:11; Psalm 126:1-6.

Devotional reading, Psalm 136.

Explanations And Comments

The Return Foretold—4 Cyrus, Ezra 1:1-4. Cyrus was a Persian by birth. He was at first king only over Elam, but in 559 B.C. he conquered Media and became king of Persia, Lydia, and Babylonia. In the first year that he was king of Persia, he captured Babylon and began his reign over the whole Assyrian Empire, the year 538 B.C., Cyrus made a great proclamation. That the word of Jehovah in the mouth of Jeremiah might thus be accomplished. Jehovah stirred up the spirit of Cyrus so that he made the proclamation permitting the exiled Jews to return to their own country. The prophecy Jeremiah is found in Jer 29:10: For thus saith Jehovah, After seventy years are accomplished for Babylon, I will visit you, and perform my good word toward you, in causing you to return to this place. The word seventy is, of course, to be taken in a round number.

By heralds and by written edicts' documents Cyrus sent his proclamation throughout the vast part that was his policy to claim the favor of the gods of the conquered lands. Cyrus's proclamation in these words: All the kingdoms of the earth hath Jehovah, the God of heaven, given me." "And he hath charged me to build him a house in Jerusalem, which is in Judah," he continued, meaning well that the desire of the Jews to return was religious rather than political, that the restoration of the temple was their main objective.

Cyrus did not order them to return, he merely permitted them to return, and encouraged the native Babylonians as well as the Jews who would remain to aid the returning Jews by giving them silver and gold, goods and beasts, besides the freewill-offering for the temple.

Any over the Return to Jerusalem, Psalm 126:1-3. The first effect of the return was of dazed bewilderment. The Psalmist says: It seemed so incredible, too good to be true, and but a dream. Polybius and Livy use similar language to describe the joy and astonishment of the Greeks when, after the conquest of Macedonia by Flaminius in B.C. 196, the freedom of Greece was proclaimed at the Isthmian games. As Wordsworth says, "Home could believe," wrote Livy, "that the had really heard aright; men looked at one another in astonishment as if it were the empty creation of a dream Although the testimony of his own ears, each began to question his neighbor."

Such is the stupefying effect which sudden joy or sudden relief often produces. When the moment of full deliverance came to the returning exiles, they broke out into songs and laughter, their joy was full.

The nations round about. "Jehovah hath done great things for them" and the Psalmist says that the people realized that this was true, and they could affirm the words as their own conviction Jehovah had done great things for them.

Manchuria is to have its own "brain trust."

Freedom Of Thought

Vimy University Professors Will Have Their Say

Defence of freedom of thought and expression by university professors was voiced by Sir Robert Falconer, former president of the University of Toronto, in addressing a University of Manitoba gathering in Winnipeg.

Sir Robert drew attention to the curbing of freedom of learning in universities under the Fascist and Nazi regimes, a tendency in this direction was noticeable in Anglo-Saxon countries because many suspected universities of being hotbeds places for restless professors harbouring subversive thoughts.

Simply because a professor did not think like the majority of men on a certain question was no reason why his opinion should be stifled, said Sir Robert. He said many professors were "far too radical for me" but he was eager that they continue to enjoy freedom in their work.

Excused From Jury Duty

Shopman Had Good Reason For Not Wanting To Serve

A Un'on Pacific shopman had been excused from jury service because he didn't want to serve. When his name was called, he asked Judge Pollock Tyndall, Kansas, for the privilege to excuse him. "We are very busy at the shops," said he, "and I ought to be there."

"So you are one of those men who think the Union Pacific couldn't get along without you," remarked the judge.

"No, your honor," said the shopman, "but we could get along without me, but I don't want it to find out."

"Excused," said the judge.

SYNOPSIS

Nancy Nelson is a sub-deb, a gay, irresponsible girl of nineteen, with no care beyond the pleasure of the moment for her coming-out party. Suddenly in the market crash, her beautiful father loses all he had, and his family is left penniless. The majority of a simpler method of living. At this juncture, Peter is received from an eccentric relative in Colorado, who offers to finance Nancy in what seems to be impossible conditions.

After much consideration Cousin Columbine's son is accepted, and Nancy and Jack arrive at Pine Ridge. Nancy set out one afternoon to obtain a view of the surrounding landscape and comes to the hut where Tubbs had told her to follow. A trunk comes along road, driven by a man, Thew Adams, and she asks him which way he is going. He tells her the hill, look around, and then go on to Cousin Columbine's. There Columbine Adam tells Nancy that his brother Lobe has broken his leg, and that Jack Nelson has been hired to help out while Lobe lay get well. When Jack saw, Nancy finds that she is honeymoon cottage on the hillside. Instead, the idea of starting a public library at Pine Ridge seems a good one, and Miss Aladdin decides to get her parents to send all the books they can spare and they send them instead of others to let them have.

Nancy presents her friends gave their liberal support to her request for books, and a meeting box arrived in due course. Father Adam painted a sign for the library, and the local boys worked on the shelves for the books and decorated the room. The room took presentable.

Jack Nelson, Minister Adams, and Nance go to the prairie home of Matthew uncle for the ride, and after Nance and Jack leave for home, they are caught in a blizzard. Blinded by the swirling snow they ride with the bus full of school children, which was stalled across the road with its back wheels resting in a snow-filled gully. Their car being wrecked, Jack and Nancy stay with the children and do all they can to help. The men seeking Jack sets out for help in the blizzard. They succeed in finding him and the party of children and Nancy are rescued. As a result of the exposure Nancy's feet are badly frozen and Jack is seriously ill with pneumonia, but both of them recover.

How Go On With The Story

"It's fortunate they're so much taller than the fence," said Jack. "I suppose they were intended to be jumping; but we can lower them a foot without losing the appearance of them. Finishing the uppermost one I observed a small iron bar, almost disintegrated by rust and time.

"Is it locked?" questioned Aurora, too utterly amazed to speak with her accustomed shrillness.

Nance shook it cautiously, then with small difficulty raised the door, disclosing what proved to be a Maltese cross of solid brass suspended from a crucifix carved from the same wood. As she lifted the relic from its long hiding place, holding it aloft for all to see, a sense of awe fell upon every soul present. Then the girl exclaimed in sudden inspiration: "Those Spanish priests! They must be one of them have had it, Cousin Columbine?"

The old lady reached out, touching the cross with reverend fingers.

"Why not? It may have lain here more than a century. Or perhaps it was captured by hostile Indians, buried for safety and then forgotten. If we find an inscription even a date. Nancy, it will shed some light on this strange mystery. Come, Jack, and all into the house and we'll examine them!"

In the absorbing interest the gate posts were forgotten for an hour; but no one as to the origin of the sacred relics was discovered; and though Jack dug deeper in the hope that other treasures were buried nearby, his efforts were fruitless.

"What stone is the crucifix carved in?" questioned Nancy, when the gate posts property over at last, the gaslight was removed at the dinner table.

"Chalcedony, I think," said Cousin Columbine. "And did you notice the hammer marks and filed edges on the Maltese cross? Hand work, and very, very ancient, if I'm any judge. Those things are of real historical value, Nancy They should be in some museum, but surely you have the right to keep them for the present. In my own mind there's not a doubt that they came from one of the Spanish expeditions. Dear me! what a story we shall have to tell the Adams! Did Mark say what time they would send down for us?"

"Not before five. I have some things to do at the library this afternoon; and I must finish packing so that to-morrow will be free. It gives me a—terrible feeling. Cousin Columbine, to think how soon we're going to leave you."

"And I bet it gives Miss Columbine a terrible feeling to have you," said Aurora, as she thumped an apple pie down on the table. "Pine Ridge won't never be the same again, if you ask me—not that it won't be nicer's before you came, with the Aladdin Library and sought the library. It was not a good influence on Juanita, Nancy Nelson, even if you have got her so she wasn't her dreames darken's I like on a young girl, or an old one either for that matter. But she's took your advice, and I'm glad to hear college come fall, and'll stay with her Aunt Emma down to Colorado City while she learns shorthand. I'm glad the spunk, dragging for a moment viciously. "It certainly feels like a rock, but—"

"It's your grandfather's gold-for-nothin' feller afterward. No use wastin' money on an education if you're to spend your life over a washtub."

That afternoon when out but the newspaper reporter again arrived, Nancy slipped into the white sport silk she was to wear at the Adams', and sought the library. It was not "Library Day," but she wanted to finish numbering a second box of books from the Aladdin Library, as well as to write instructions for Mary Taylor; and not wishing to be interrupted, the door of the little Nance worked slowly, pausing every now and then to look about with that possessive pride in achievement the little library always gave her; wondering why, when those books in Pine Ridge had given so well and was now eager to see the family, this horrid homesickness kept creeping over her.

"Nance!" cried because Edgemere's so far away," she mused, "and Cousin Columbine hates so to have us go And when are the others? It would be queer. . . ." Nance closed her eyes as it to call up some picture, then opened them rose as she said impetuously. Why don't you face the truth, Nancy Nelson? You just can't bear to leave because . . . ."

The door pushed open

"Do you mind if I interrupt you for a moment?"

Town Preserved In Peat

Mass Protects Settlement Covering One Acre For 2,500 Years

An unexpected settlement of the Etruscan tribe of Old Prussians, dating back at least 2,500 years, has been discovered by an archaeological expedition from the University of Posen.

The discovery was made on a peninsula in Lake Lobsigallen, about a small town of Zinin The entire settlement covered an area of about one acre, and consisted of 30 houses, 10 and seven streets, enclosed in a high wall and a palisade.

Owing to the settlement being buried in peat moss, everything was in an excellent state of preservation, and even the wood of the houses, including utensils, tools and a crude wheel, were found in perfect condition.

Other settlements and tombs probably dating back 3,000 years, have been found in the Baltic provinces of Esthonia. The Old Prussians, of whom these are relics, were not ancestors of the present-day Prussians

Paralysis Is Contagious

Recovery From The Disease Is Believed To Produce Immunity

Sixty per cent of Edmonton residents are immune to infantile paralysis, according to a medical opinion on a dread disease, knowledge of which is still in the transitional stage, it was declared by Dr. R. R. Jenkins, medical health officer.

While some have said that infantile paralysis is not contagious Dr Jenkins said, the findings of all investigators indicate that the disease is contagious. Nance worked slowly, pausing every now and then to look about with that possessive pride in achievement the little library always gave her; wondering why, when those books in Pine Ridge had given so well and was now eager to see the family, this horrid homesickness kept creeping over her.

A New Bacillus

Moscow Professor Announces New Theory In Connection With Infantile Paralysis

Dr. V. Drobotko of New Microbiological Institute, Moscow, announced the discovery of a new bacillus which he said may give an entirely different explanation of certain diseases which are thought in the past to be due to pulmonary consumption

He has named the bacillus "diplococcus." Several of its varieties, he declared, are responsible for infantile paralysis, although it does not produce diphtheria.

The "diplococcus" is now being studied by the Institute to determine whether it is responsible for lung alterations.

Famous War Commander

German "Iron Devil" Says He Never Took A Life During All His Raids

Count Felix von Luckner, whose exploits as commander of the German raider Seeadler earned him the title of "Sea Devil," visited England recently with Countess von Luckner

During his stay in London the count met British naval officers, including Sir Reginald Hall, who, as chief of the British naval intelligence department during the war years, endeavored to capture the "Sea Devil" while he was raiding British shipping.

Count von Luckner, indeed, never he managed to evade capture for so long during the war, said: "You see, I was sailing in British, Scandinavian and every other kind of ship. I know what a reputation the British have for chivalry, so I had my 16-year-old boy on board a Norwegian ship dressed as my wife. Then I had a gramophone playing Tipperary. It was really good fun But never during all my raids did I take a single human life."

The count began his adventures early, for he ran away to Australia when he was 13. Three years later the Salvation Army. In 1903 when he visited England, he was working as an ordinary sailor on a boat which took cargo of coal to Plymouth. 15 years later he became notorious in England, for between the spring and autumn of 1917 he sank ships worth $40 000,000. He captured 17 ships within a few weeks and sank them, but made sure that the crews were safe first.

"You see," he explained, "I have always regarded myself as a knight of the sea, and when I have come across an enemy ship, those manning her, too, were citizens of the sea."

"Lion Dogs" To Hunt Lions

Hunter And Pack Have Already Accounted For 200

Successful lion hunting, if you believe Giles Goswick, depends on having good "lionhounds."

Goswick's opinion on anything connected with mountain lions is regarded as gospel in the mountains.

For ten years, Goswick has made his living by killing mountain lions, first as a U.S. biological survey hunter and now as a state-employed predatory game hunter charged with ridding this section of the state of the fierce killers which destroy tens of thousands of dollars worth of livestock each year.

Goswick's pack of "lion dogs" are descended from a hound brought to Arizona 35 years ago by his father and through successive years of training, they have lion hunting bred into them.

According to the hunter, he and his pack have killed or captured 200 mountain lions, including a nine-foot specimen that was one of the largest ever killed in the southwest This particular lion, he said, was tracked for three days by the pack before they frightened it into a tree

REMEMBRANCE DAY ACTIVITIES

(Written by a Returned Man)

Another year has rolled by and again the Canadian Legion, from coast to coast, has been tremendously busy with the various Armistice celebrations.

LOCAL POST HOLDS SMOKER

The local branch, Post 11, began its activities with the annual get-together smoker held on Friday evening Nov. 8. In spite of the inclement weather, bad roads etc. the attendance was good, there being about 65 present. We were pleased to welcome Mayor Robinson to this, his first legion smoker. His worship gave a brief, appropriate address, which was well received. We missed the friendly spunk of the late W. A. Fuller, with the cheering and straight to the point message which he always brought to us. Several kind references were made to him during the evening, and the good wishes of the "boys" go out to him in his new sphere. Our old friends Mr. Morrison and Mr. Kaiser favored us with a few remarks, as also did Mr. G. C. Douglas, and Mr. Easton the new station agent. Mr. P. G. Pilkie proved very interesting as he briefly sketched his experience over a period of 20 years.

The old war songs were sung with the usual gusto and several solo numbers were greatly enjoyed. We are convinced some new talent this year, prominent amongst them being Mr. Harold J. Reid, who was making his debut in the world of song. Harold shows signs, only signs, of developing into a glorious tenor, radio station scouts will no doubt follow up this tip. Jimmy Little couldn't make the long journey in and we missed him. However he phoned at the piano was ably filled by W. G. Glanvill and F. J. Richardson. Only one moment occurred during this smoker, Cliff Kirby, our "pore Ole Secretary" at the end of a lengthy and inspired speech, pointed out that collections were short of expenses, and that he was afraid he had missed someone. He hated to hurt anyone's feelings by having missed them, but offered them the privilege of coming forward with their donations. Cliff's audience was speaking; the deficit was made the cheering and straight to the point message which he always brought to us. ATTEND CHURCH SERVICE SUNDAY MORNING

The Memorial Service held on Sunday morning at St. St. Matthew's Anglican church was well attended by members of the Canadian Legion, their W. A. and members of the L.O.D.E. The beautiful and reverent Anglican service, was enjoyed and appreciated by all. We are very grateful to Canon Letheridge for his splendid address and for his kind invitation to attend Divine Service.

MEMORIAL SERVICE IN COLUMBIA THEATRE SUNDAY EVENING

The Legion's own Memorial service was held as usual in the Columbia theatre on Sunday evening, Nov. 10. The simple impressive program of previous years was again carried out sincerely and reverently. The speakers this year was Canon Letheridge, who gave a wonderful discourse on Peace and its attainment. The Reverend gentleman showed us how, it was not to have peace in the world, we must begin with peace and harmony in our own homes, our own town, province, and over the province and Dominion.

President Harry Scott was in charge of the program, while others assisting were Major Acton, Salvation Army; Rev. H. A. Boyd; Comrade W. H. Barton and W. G. Glanvill.

CENOTAPH SERVICE HELD IN THEATRE

A happy thought prompted W. P. Pilkie to offer the use of the theatre for the Memorial parade on the morning of Nov. 11. This was indeed appreciated by everyone, as the weather conditions were too severe to allow arrangements to be carried out as usual. The cenotaph service which is generally followed thruout the Empire was carried out indoors for the first time since the local cenotaph was built.

The first verse of "O God Our Help" was sung, prayers were led by Canon Letheridge, the Last Post sounded two minutes silence observed and then "Reveille" sounded by W. H. Barton. "The King" was sung next after which members of "X" squadron, 1st A. M. R.'s filed out to mount guard at the Cenotaph. The Organization, lead by the legion, before the theatre, marched around the Memorial placing their wreaths at the foot. After waiting on the guard to relieve it the ceremonial the various groups divided up and went their ways, yet one more Memorial Parade behind them.

SUGGESTS CHANGE IN CANADA WHEAT POLICY

Writing in Wheat Studies (Stanford University publication) Almon E. Taylor, United States' wheat authority, suggested a change in Canadian wheat policy from that of the present government and says. "The people of the United Kingdom will be surprised if the Liberal party maintains in Winnipeg an artificial wheat price which enforces in England the price of Canadian wheat significantly higher than the prices of other available imported wheats." Mr. Taylor points out in his article that during the past two years the price of Canadian wheat has stood continuously and significantly above the price of Argentine wheat.

STORK PAYS VISIT TO CALGARY TRAIN

CALGARY Alta. November 13. For the first time in the history of Calgary, Old Mr. Stork has paid an official visit to a standing train. A few days ago Mrs. Schuler was a passenger to Calgary from Drumheller. As the train was pulling into Calgary she called for assistance and a baby girl was soon ushered into the world. Doctor and radio calls were answered by the three wise men, and when on the scene, however a baby had put in his appearance. The sleeping car porter and conductor [illegible] Mrs. J. We had the great pleasure of dropping in at the new Municipal office the best and most [illegible] M. Wilson see [illegible] Bear M. D. We were given a royal welcome and [illegible] down to look over the delightful little building with [illegible] municipal business. It certainly indicates a good business enterprise where such courtesy and efficiency are actually combined, and we are proud of the accomplishment and good judgement [illegible] our councillors.

By the way, Winks, it was no fun how close we came to being stranded [illegible] our journey on that day, but owing to car trouble. The Boss was sure anxious to prove that a machine he was in could get past the Waiteville place.

The Winslade S. C. Study Circle held a meeting last Saturday night and transacted a real volume of business. [illegible] typewriter such as ours is treated with the respect we do. Please regard in a dance were discussed. Cake set on Dec. 5th (luck it away.) Inquiries are to be made about [illegible] Whist drive. Prizes are to be made [illegible] a magazine exchange to be operated by the group. The next meeting of the group will be held on Dec. 5th, to hear a report on the dance.

It is with extreme interest the Neighborhood regards the news of Island Hill's new hall. That district is a perennial outcrop in the Neighborhood and it is beginning to seem as if there were enough enthusiasm in the community to build one by using a combination from each of the buildings owned by the district. Nothing could be of more importance to the Neighborhood as a whole than a community hall. The Neighborhood is especially interested in that it appears to Rankin keeps up its good reputation. Harvey.

CANADIAN WHEAT POLICIES

Persistent declines in the wheat market has aroused a certain amount of apprehension in Canada. Last week the Winnipeg price skidded down below the pegged price of 97½c and this decline persisted until wheat was 4c on Tuesday. Various causes have been assigned for the break but the main cause is the failure of Canadian wheats to reach expected values during the past three months. Importing nations refused to become excited and purchase freely even during late September and early October when news concerning the Argentine and Australian crops was all black. Since then rains have occurred at regular intervals their improving crop prospects.

The 1935 Canadian wheat crop is a small one—too much bigger than last year's production but even at that what is more has received the large total of 271 million bushels, being some 127½ million bushels greater than last year. Therefore buyers are impressed with the size of this visible supply and are obviously little concerned over the danger of any prospective shortage.

The attitude of the new Canadian government towards the wheat question has not been made public as yet. The only official statement has been that of Hon. W. D. Euler minister of trade and commerce who stated that Canadian elevator could be offered to store grain for the Winnipeg Free Press outstanding Lib

ATTENDANCE AT AGRIC. SCHOOLS MAKES RECORD

Establishing a record for recent years, the attendance at the two provincial schools of agriculture at Olds and Vermilion, which opened recently already has reached a total of 350 according to figures released by the provincial agriculture department. By the time the rolls are completed for the five-month term accomodation will be all taken up.

Owing to the small number of registrations for the third year which this was discontinued, otherwise the accomodation at both schools would be now taxed.

In addition to students from several provinces, there are several from the United States.

Dried fruits and vegetables which have been preserved by drying without canning was not available should be stored in air tight containers. Tin cans and glass jars are satisfactory but paper bags dipped in wax and allowed to dry. The bags should be carefully sealed and stored in cool dry well ventilated place.

eral newspaper of Western Canada expresses the opinion that the next attempt of Canada can and will improve the country's position in the wheat trade by going after markets and broadening up restrictions which have hampered commerce in the last few years. A cabinet committee composed of Hon. T. A. Crerar minister of agriculture and Hon. W. D. Euler minister of trade and commerce is also stated that Canadian elevator could be offered to store grain for the Winnipeg Free Press outstanding Lib

We regret to learn Miss Beatrice Muir the teacher is seriously ill and has gone to Edmonton to undergo an operation. Her many friends, especially her pupils wish her a speedy recovery

David Jenkins and party have returned home from their hunting expedition. David reports a jolly time with a bag of three deer.

This did not happen in Vermilion, but in a small town a learned professor of convivial habits was brought before the local magistrate— "You've charged with being drunk and disorderly" snapped the magistrate "have you anything to say why sentence should not be pronounced?" "Man's inhumanity to man makes countless thousands mourn" began the professor, "I am not so neurotic as Poe, as profligate as Byron, as intemperate as Burns, so vulgar as Shakespeare, so—That'll do, that'll do interrupted the magistrate "twenty days and officer take down that list of names he mentioned and round em up I think they've had a picnic."

War seems to be a favorite topic now a days, this excerpt taken from a talk given on the Western Front" suggests a way out to settle the horrors of war. "Krup said that a declaration of war should be a kind of popular pastime with entrance tickets and bands like a bull fight, in the arena the Ministers and Generals of Europe in bullfight garb armed with clubs could have it out among themselves—whoever survives would be the victor." It would be far more just than the present arrangement where the wrong people who are never consulted do all the fighting. It would be a delight for the gods to see Mussolini and his leading generals dressed in bathing suits and armed with clubs enter the arena to meet in mortal combat the five feet high King of Kings of Ethiopia and his generals half naked, doubtless large, dear reader, if ever Krup's idea bears fruit, war will cease.

BABY—At Vermilion hospital on Saturday Nov 2, to Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Morrison, a daughter. Congratulations.

Bill Hall picked up the short wave broadcast from the balloon which ascended to a height of 73,000 feet at Rapid City, S. D. The balloon was in contact with their ground station all of the time and Bill says the broadcasts were well worth listening to. At one time during the descent, the balloon travelled very swiftly and excitement reigned, the two balloonists having everything movable over board in an attempt to stop the precipitous descent. This was slowed up when warmer temperatures were reached at lower levels.

1936 AUTO PLATES ORANGE ON BLACK

New York and New Jersey Will Have Plates of Same Colors

Alberta's 1936 automobile license plates will have orange figures on a black background, it was announced Monday.

Of all 1936 color combinations so far chosen, only that of New York and New Jersey states coincide with that of Alberta.

Saskatchewan, Kansas, California and Idaho have "reversed" Alberta's choice, and will have black letters on an orange background.

The color combination is said to offer a high degree of visibility.

Many of the farmers of Eastern Canada who fed Western lambs during the 1934-35 winter under the Dominion Lamb Feeding Project are placing increased repeat orders, in many cases asking for double the number of lambs they fed a year ago. The applications, particularly from Quebec and Ontario, reflect the abundant supplies of hay, grain, silage and other crops in Eastern Canada.

TOLLAND TIMES

Tolland is very sorry to learn of the illness of Mrs. Chas. McGrath, who is undergoing treatment in the Vermilion hospital. Sincerest hopes for her recovery are expressed, and her kind neighborness is missed in all community activities.

Bruce Tollanders turned out in the miserable weather last week, with sleighs, wagons, and trucks to supply a carload of coal awaiting them at Borradaile. It was town going for the heroes of the road.

The ladies decided it was too much for them that day, and the quilt business will now be attended to at the home of Mrs. Mashell on Wednesday of this week.

The Juniors had a very pleasant meeting, and decided to hold a novelty dance in Anson school on Nov. 22. Each your brains Cubs! Then bring your idea to the next meeting to help decide about the details of the dance. On the way home, some of the Juniors stopped in to listen to Fred Sloman's radio, and cheer up Tolland's most popular bach.

Annual Fire Losses

During the next few months while King Winter holds the province in his icy grip and folks are piling furnaces and stoves high with fuel to withstand his onslaught the newspapers can be depended upon to relate a number of stories of dreadful tragedy

They will be stories f families or members of families burned to death the charred remains of their homes their funeral pyres. In some cases a whole family will disappear in the raging inferno that will devour their homes In other cases, some members of the family will escape in night attire or nearly clothing only to suffer agonies and perhaps death from frostbite as a result of their misadventure.

Adults and children ranging almost from maturity to infants a few months old will be asphyxiated by smoke or burned to a crisp Others will suffer untold agonies for weeks and perhaps months from burns or frostbite occasioned by a hurried flight from a burning home in sub-zero weather, or by a combination of both. These will represent a portion of the toll to be exacted against the prairie dweller during the winter of 1935-36 by the fire demon if the last months experience is any criterion

In addition to making the death a considerable number and the injury permanent or seriously of a still greater number the fire fiend will, during the twelve months of 1936 take a further toll of property to a total value of the vast majority of which will be a total loss to the province of Alberta Saskatchewan and Manitoba if the fire loss story of the past three years is repeated

These facts and figures borne out by official data and records of the fire departments of the three provinces indicates that people are paying an appalling tribut, to carelessness or ignorance of the dangers they run when they fail to exercise proper control over one of the most useful elements in the service of man when kept in its place

For accompanying the facts and figures in the possession of governments officials is sufficient evidence to suffer agonies and perhaps death from frostbite as a result of their misadventure.

Adults and children ranging almost from maturity to infants a few months old will be asphyxiated by smoke or burned to a crisp Others will suffer untold agonies for weeks and perhaps months from burns or frostbite occasioned by a hurried flight from a burning home in sub-zero weather, or by a combination of both. These will represent a portion of the toll to be exacted against the prairie dweller during the winter of 1935-36 by the fire demon if the last months experience is repeated

These facts and figures borne out by official data and records of the fire departments of the three provinces indicates that people are paying an appalling tribut, to carelessness or ignorance of the dangers they run when they fail to exercise proper control over one of the most useful elements in the service of man when kept in its place

For accompanying the facts and figures in the possession of governments officials is sufficient evidence to suffer agonies and perhaps death from frostbite as a result of their carelessness or ignorance must be indicated for this tremendous loss of life and property. The testimony indicates clearly that most of these tragedies are needless They can be obviated if proper precautions are taken at the right time

In fact 1 in 7 all of 40 deaths by fire in Alberta and Saskatchewan in the calendar year 1934 thirteen, or more than one-fourth, were directly attributable to the misuse of gasoline, distillate or coal oil in lighting fires or speeding up the fires in kitchen ranges, furnaces or furnaces In addition the deaths of a number of other people who were trapped in homes or buildings destroyed by fire where the cause of the outbreak is listed as "unknown" may also have been placed in the same category if the origin of the conflagrations could have been determined

But that is not the whole case against the trinity of highly inflammable and therefore dangerous liquids. For, in addition to the number cited, five more lost their lives as a result of explosion of gasoline, four on account of explosion of coal oil lamps, two because coal oil stoves exploded and one either died when gasoline used as an agent for cleaning clothes ignited during the process

While misuse of gasoline and coal oil is the major factor in loss of life by fire in the prairie provinces, defective heating apparatus is responsible for the greatest property loss as well as for some of the deaths and this fact is also clearly brought out in the data contained in the reports of the fire commissioners

Approximately 3,000 buildings are either a total loss or seriously damaged by fire in the three provinces every year, occasioning a monetary loss of about $2,250 000 or approximately one half of the total average annual property loss by fire

Most of this loss naturally occurs between November 1 and March 31, as might be expected this being the period when furnaces and stoves are being forced to capacity to combat the outside cold.

Unfortunately the origin of two-thirds of the heaviest losses is never determined but of the remaining one-third more than 50 per cent. is laid to the door of defective chimneys, stoves and stove and furnace pipes and one half of the remainder to carelessness of smokers in disposing of cigar and cigarette butts and pipe ashes or matches

Experience has shown that the greatest property loss occurs in January during the period of the most severe winter weather and simultaneous with the zenith of the most dreadful tragedies in the form of human loss

In the light of these facts, it would seem almost unnecessary to issue warnings to people to refrain from using inflammable liquids to hasten fires, to make sure that all heating apparatus is in safe condition to withstand a long siege and to exercise care when smoking. But such warnings are issued frequently by authorities and still the tragedies and losses continue.

Ironite Versus Concrete

Eliminates The Necessity Of Long Waiting For Drying

A revolution in concrete, which foreshadows significant improvement in the construction of dams, bridges, piers, roads, foundations and tall buildings, is demonstrated at the Yale University laboratories before a representative gathering of experts.

Walk-known engineers, state highway officials, contractors and builders witnessed a radical departure in the utilization of all types of cement, which it was asserted makes possible a concrete from 30 to 100 per cent. stronger than that produced by present methods and which will harden and dry in about twenty minutes.

The new method is the invention of Karl Paul Biller, New York Citv e.vil engineer.

By this invention, Duff A. Abrams, an authority on cement, said "Mr. Biller has eliminated the outstanding weakness in present methods of making concrete mixes.

The present weakness is the excess water needed to produce plasticity in the concrete mixture, this excess water can be removed only by drying, which frequently results in cracking and consequent weakening of the structure The drying also requires considerable time, an economic factor in the case of massive dams, skyscrapers and important highways.

Mr Biller's method consists in extracting the excess water in the mixing machine by the use of vacuum pans, casting and laying by a vacuum process.

The vacuum not only quickly withdraws all of the excess water, but it also simultaneously compresses the concrete to make it dense and close so that voids due to the removal of the water.

The dual vacuum action is accomplished by the use of a vacuum pan on the concrete slab immediately after pouring and creating a vacuum between the forms or screeds. This sucks out the excess water which is drawn off and collected in the vacuum tank.

The vacuum under the cover at the same time creates a corresponding air pressure on top of the mixture to compress and harden the mass.

110 Years Of Age

Britain's Oldest Woman Still Enjoys Life

Believed to be the oldest woman in Britain, Mrs. Caroline Merriott celebrated her 110th birthday in Mayday Hospital, Croydon, by being hostess at a tea-party.

Arrayed in her best clothes, and with her hair newly bonnet, she cut a birthday cake that had been specially made for the occasion, and entertained some of her friends.

She is Canada's oldest. Mrs. Merriott is still an active woman mentally, and her voice is surprisingly strong. She reads without glasses, and likes a drinks several pints of tea with great enjoyment.

Where she was born she was so small that for a week after her birth they could not put any clothes on her. Born in Stoke Damerel, Devon, she is of how one of her uncles bet £100 that they could put her into a quart jug.

"They tried," she gleefully said, "and they got me in."

Born in Wesley Corner, ten years after Waterloo, Mrs. Merriott remembers the Crimean War, the Corn Law riots, and the Coronation at Queen Victoria. She had twelve children married twice, and her second husband died in 1900.

She worked in a laundry until she was 85 - News of the World.

Strange Ring Unearthed

May Have Been Worn By Chinese In Prehistoric Days

Origin of a strange ring unearthed in a Vancouver garden is proving a subject of unusual interest to students of British Columbia's early history.

The band is of heavy silver a quarter of an inch in width. It is not joined at the back, after the style of early rings. At the front the design is lost because of a piece of lead appearing to have been stuck in place by the ingenuity of finder.

A Spair uncovered the relic six feet below ground while attempting to move a half buried log in the back of his garden. Pieces of shell and colored glass were adhering to the end of the log, and as he brushed them aside the ring came into view. Forty years ago this portion of Vancouver was covered with forest.

One theory is that it was dropped years ago by an Indian or early white visitor. Another is that it may have been worn by early Chinese centuries before the arrival of the white man. Students point to other evidences of Chinese occupation in prehistoric days.

Marvels Of Surgery

Limbs Of Crippled Children Are Made Straight And Sound

Detouring of muscles and nerves in surgical remodelling of arms and legs of crippled children, to make them straight and strong boys and girls was described to the American College of Surgeons.

The operations were reported by Leroy C. Abbott, M.D., and Tracy C. Bast, M.A., of the University of California medical school.

One was performed on a 13-year-old girl, with a leg deformity due to infantile paralysis. The limb had suffered from permanent spasm, stiffening and deformity, [illegible] part of the brain controlling muscle, thereby disconnecting them partly from the haywire control. Then they lengthened the muscles which had been too short, by a tendon operation.

The result was to relieve the strain which had held the child's leg in the deformed position.

Sight Restored

Toronto Woman Recovers Sight As Result Of Earthquake

Sixty-three-year-old Mrs. Kate Mitchell saw clearly for the first time in three years as she turned on the electric lights just after the earthquake shook her King street house in Toronto. The tremors was like a message "direct from heaven" for her, the white-haired woman said, continued the shock restored her sight.

For three years, Mrs. Mitchell said she had been able "only to see shadows." She could not leave the house without aid of another person

"Thank God I can now see," she said—"the long hours of night are over."

Olympic Camera Is Fast

Can Show Pictures On Screen Ten Minutes After Race

A motion picture film which can be shown on the screen ten minutes after taking the pictures has recently been perfected especially for the Berlin Olympic games in 1936.

This film is used in a camera which makes 100 exposures per second. While the race is being filmed, a clock accumulator, released the moment of its start, records the time on the film every one-hundredth of a second, so that the runner's time as he crosses the finish line is clearly registered on the film.

The officials at the Olympic games at Los Angeles used a similar device, but it took quite some time after the finish of a race before the film was ready for examination of the judges. Another advantage of this new Germanium is that the pictures are taken by two stereoscopically arranged lenses of red and green glass respectively, and the result is a more vivid and lifelike image than it has heretofore been possible to obtain.

By the use of new device the Judges will be able to decide the outcome of a contest with greater accuracy and with more justice to the competitors than the human eye is capable of.

Terrifying Air Death Ray

Can Explode A Plane At Sixty Miles Distance

That he had received a private invitation to carry out tests of his "electric death ray" in England, has been disclosed in Copenhagen by M. Ravn, the Danish engineer. He declares that the ray will cause aircraft to explode in the air at a distance of 60 miles. M. Ravn will accept the invitation on certain conditions, chiefly concerning the electric potential with which he works. This is very high and involves risk. The inventor states that he can produce an effective "death ray" apparatus in the size of a suitcase. He has a speed as a cadet with the C.P.R. for three years.

Young is a new field of endeavor for the merchant service. Cadets receive theoretical studies on board H.M.S. Conway, the training ship at Liverpool, and practical experience at Hooton aerodrome, Liverpool.

Young Sturdy came within 20 minutes of creating a record in training for solo flight. The requirement calls for 12 hours before taking solo, and the record for the British Air ministry is five hours. The Vancouver boy made it in 5 hours, 20 minutes.

Build Military Roads

Super Highways To Be Constructed In Germany

A scheme for a vast network of super-highways in Germany, which foreign experts see as of great military significance, was a step nearer realization recently.

Why at 40 You Think You're "GROWING OLD"

It's Frequently Just an "Idea." Not "Old Age." And According to Scientists, May be Something No More Alarming Than A Touch Of Acid Stomach

At about 40, many people think they're "growing old." They're tired a lot. Have headaches. Stomach upsets. Dizziness. Nausea.

Well, scientists say the cause, in a great many cases, is merely an acid condition of the stomach. The thing to do is simply to neutralize the excess stomach acidity.

When you have one of these acid stomach upsets, all you do is take Phillips' Milk of Magnesia after meals and before going to bed.

Try this. You'll feel like another person! Take either the familiar liquid PHILLIPS', or the convenient new Phillips' Milk of Magnesia Tablets Made in Canada.

TRADE TREATY PROSPECTS WITH UNITED STATES

Washington.—Prime Minister Mackenzie King told a score of Washington correspondents who visited him at the Canadian legation no good purpose could be served by public comment from him on the question of trade and other diplomatic questions outstanding between the United States and Canada.

In his determination not to be drawn into official statements to the press during the course of his vacation trip in the United States, Mr. King is no more reticent than Washington state officials. But it is known the three Canadian experts who have been here for some days have been in constant negotiation with state department officials and indications are some progress has come to increase trade between the two countries is approaching completion.

The latest current report is that a treaty of somewhat narrow dimensions would be effected temporarily, dealing particularly with certain Canadian lumber products, fruit, cattle and some minerals and some wholly or partly manufactured United States commodities.

A more inclusive trade agreement would await the result of next November's Canadian election, and the time when the new Dominion government, more or less pledged to a large measure of free trade, will have completed its reorganization of the Canadian customs tariff.

Mr. Hull, secretary of state in the Canadian legation, told correspondents he was on a holiday "to get away from the cares and troubles of politics." His visit here was "purely social." Mr. King said.

"After the previous business of conducting an election campaign and forming a government," Mr. King said, "I needed a holiday. I would have gone to the Old Country but for the fact that they are in the midst of a general election there. And I have had enough of elections for a while."

Farm Debt Legislation

Constitutionality To Be Tested Before Supreme Court

Ottawa.—Supreme court of Canada will be asked to test constitutionality of the Farmers' Creditors Arrangement Act, it was announced by Minister of Justice Lapointe. It will be examined by the court in the same general reference as the reform bill and price spreads legislation.

The arrangement act enabled debt-laden farmers to come to equitable terms with their creditors. Mortgages have been reduced, interest charges lessened so farmers could be under the Canada Act.

The court reference followed several attacks on the legislation made in the courts—one in Toronto, Hamilton, Ont., involving direct attacks on constitutionality. The British Columbia government threatened to submit the question, but some months ago but the Dominion took power to withdraw it from that province

May Reduce Forces

Some Warships In Mediterranean Likely To Be Withdrawn

London.—Progress toward a joint reduction of British and Italian forces in the Mediterranean was believed by informed sources to be under way.

British defence council ministers met at No. 10 Downing street after Sir Eric Drummond, British ambassador to Italy, conferred with Premier Mussolini at Rome.

Sources close to the government did not deny the ministers considered a reduction of the reinforced British fleet in the Mediterranean to help ease the Anglo-Italian tension.

In Paris it was stated the British are expected to take some of their warships out of the Mediterranean in exchange for further withdrawals of Italian troops from Libya, but that no announcement of this settlement is expected until after the British elections Nov. 14.

Today the anti-British campaign in Italy would be one condition of the settlement, it was said.

These points are unofficially but trustworthy source: "It is only a question of waiting until after the British elections."

An authoritative source indicated Il Duce admitted disappointment that the Ethiopian picture in withdrawing one division of troops from Libya had not resulted in some reduction in the neighboring British fleet.

Famed Evangelist

Billy Sunday, Of Baseball Fame, Dies In Chicago

Chicago.—"Billy" Sunday, the internationally famous evangelist who left baseball to become "hit the sawdust trail" in his pulpit and renounce the devil and rum, died suddenly of asthma pectoris.

Sunday, who quit major league baseball at the height of his career to become the leading evangelist of the United States, had been in failing health for some time. He was visiting at the home of a brother-in-law here when he told his wife "Mother, I feel queer." A doctor could bring the 73-year-old preacher only temporary relief.

The disease first seized him three years ago and had curtailed his preaching since.

He had been a compelling figure on North American revival rostrums since 1896—thundering voice, lanky physicology, vehement in gustures.

Sunday, born in Ames, Iowa, November 19, 1863, finished high school in Nevada, Iowa, before continuing his education at Northwestern University at Evanston, Ill.

His first career was in professional baseball. He played with teams representing Washington, Pittsburg and Philadelphia in the National League [illegible]

Expresses Regret

Baron Tweedsmuir Writes To Former Whose Horses Were Killed

Ottawa, Baron Tweedsmuir directed a secretary to write a letter of regret to a Pendleton, Ont., farmer whose two horses were killed by the westbound train as it sped toward Ottawa.

The farmer, Orvide Boudreau, narrowly escaped being struck by the train himself as he sought safely to drive the horses from the track onto which they had strayed after escaping from their pasture.

The governor-general knew nothing of the incident until he read it in a newspaper. Pendleton is about 20 miles east of Ottawa.

Completes Model Flying Suit

Inventor Claims It Has Proved Efficient In Tests

Banff, Alta.—The dream of a lifetime, a "flying suit," making it possible for man to fly without the aid of present day aeroplanes with their heavy motors, is near realization for John Kropocz, a 65-year-old inventor, according to claims he advanced.

Kropocz, a native of Czechoslovakia, who quit his job in a local hotel to devote his whole time to the perfection of the flying suit, announced he had completed a model, which in tests here had proved its efficiency. It has yet to be tried out by man. The inventor has completed an aluminum suit with metal wings and a series of springs, operated on the principle of the grasshopper, called by its inventor the "metal man."

Hepburn To Retire

Ontario Premier Is Suffering From Ill Health

Toronto Premier Hepburn announced that he would retire as premier of Ontario after the 1936 session of the legislature. His prospective retirement is brought about by ill-health

"My two enemies, fatigue and worry, have pursued me relentlessly on this job and have resulted in complications which culminated in my present condition," said Mr. Hepburn, who has been in power for little more than a year and who has only one session of the legislature behind him.

"I didn't intend the announcement to be made just yet but as it is a matter of public interest it might just as well be known now," added the premier. "I intend to retire from political life after my present session, solely because of poor health"

Mr Hepburn is suffering from his chronic attack of bronchitis of many years and his inability to throw the disease off has caused himself and his physicians concern.

U. S. POLICY IN DEALING WITH FOREIGN WARS

Washington.—A policy of using "appropriate" influencing to stop foreign wars was still known as one of them, was announced recently by Secretary of State Hull.

In a foreign relations address, intended to explain the United States' neutrality stand in the Italo-Ethiopian conflict, Mr. Hull at the same time made a plea for wider discretionary powers for the president in directing foreign affairs in times of international disturbance.

His suggestion was interpreted by some observers as a request by him for an administration request to the next congress for a more far-reaching but less rigid neutrality law than the present act. The existing law expires at the end of February. Congressional action is almost necessarily because of poor health

Difficult Problems

The problems which it may be expected will be discussed at the pending conference between representatives of the Federal government and premiers of the Canadian provinces will furnish plenty of material for controversies and negotiations.

If only one half of the difficulties which the western provinces have recently experienced and still are experiencing in finding sufficient revenue to maintain their ordinary services, to repay nothing of contributing substantially towards the cost of relief, can be removed a forward step will have been taken, and representatives of the provinces will have Ottawa with something a little more tangible than hope for speedy recovery and for future progress.

One of the factors in the present situation that will have to be faced squarely is the fact that the cost of government is pressing heavily on the taxpayers, that there is just so much money available for the upkeep of services and that a shifting of burdens from one unit to another is not the way out of the trouble, though it may be a temporary palliative.

If several buckets are dipping water out of a well which is not being replenished from natural sources it is only a question of time when the well will run dry and in the long run it does not make very much difference which of the buckets took most of the water out of the well.

That is actually the position of the taxpayer in western Canada. There are the same buckets drawing on his resources, the federal, the provincial and the municipal, the last-mentioned, of course, including the schools.

The permanent solution of the difficulty lies not so much in a decision as to who is to be allowed to draw the most, or the least, water from the well but how the well is to be replenished, and until this can be determined. Those in authority will have to address themselves to the task of finding ways and means of conserving the presently available supply and making the utmost of it.

There are many ways in which a conservation policy might be put into effect and one of the most practicable would be to eliminate a good deal of duplication and overlapping of services that have grown up apparently without any blame attachable to any one in particular for the situation.

There are, for example, services which are being provided by both federal and provincial governments which could be handled more economically and operation in addition to a degree of confusion and ineffectiveness attendant upon two unrelated organizations trying to reach the same good by different means.

In this category might be included debt adjustment machinery and to some extent agricultural services rendered by both federal and provincial administrations. These are only cited as illustrations of a number of fields of endeavor in which co-ordination of effort by a merger of duplicated services would not only bring about greater efficiency but would also save considerable expense to the taxpayers.

It is true that in connection with these and other activities in the same category objection might be raised that dual services are essential because of the limitations of legislative competence, but if that is the sole barrier in the way of economy, then necessary legislative authority to dissipate the difficulty should be sought and doubtless could be secured if a spirit of true co-operation on the part of all concerned is evidenced.

In the matter of sources of revenue also there is duplication which should be eliminated by a better defined allocation of spheres of taxation as between the several governments and municipalities,

D. S. A. NOTES

It is expected that Major Norbury will mention a visit Vermilion on Thursday, November 28th to give an illustrated lecture on British Art. He will be brought to town under the auspices of the Vermilion Club of the D. S. A. and people of the town and district are cordially invited to attend the lecture to be held in the Dunn Block building at 7:30 p.m. sharp. A small admission fee will be charged non-members of the club. As completion of this date has not yet been received it is suggested that those interested in attending phone Z-3 early next week to make sure of the date and time.

Until the suppliers of the students' Council all committees to do with social Athletic and Literary activities have now been appointed and students of the D. S. A. are taking forward to a full programme of events. The first which is the opening dance to be held on Friday of this week. If the services of the bus company can be had as formerly, to transport students to and from the D. S. A. for these events a bus will be run. Admission and dance tickets are priced at

Rev. Matheson M. A. returned from Edmonton on Monday where he gave a very interesting lecture to staff and students on the subject of Canada.

ARMISTICE DANCE

The Armistice Dance which the Ball and the Canadian Legion have held in the Vila Hall on Wednesday Nov. 13, and on which the proceeds in aid of the Poppy Fund, amounted to approximately $50 was a most successful affair. Music was supplied by the Vermilion Orchestra and was of high quality and variety. Refreshments were also served. Everyone seemed to enjoy themselves and the old war songs produced the usual thrill and tonal effects. Mad medicine on Armistices will never die apparently in spite of the lack of attention shown her for so many years. During the afternoon of the 11th several of the Legion members spent considerable time decorating the hall. The result was very pleasing. Some humorous war time sketches drawn by Scouts were hung about the hall, and the stage was dressed up to resemble a dug out even to hiding the rats and a "no smoking" which were not quite empty.

An excellent lunch was served to members of the legion. Those who we have to thank the members of the Women's Auxiliary of the Canadian Legion for their share in preparing and providing the fine lunch.

ISLAND HILL

We are requested to state that the play and box social arranged by the United church for this Friday at the school here is postponed owing to the illness of Miss Moor

There is no truth in the rumor that Bill Spielman and Bill Hawbolt are in the ballroom or which Bill Hall gave an interesting report in last week's Standard

The lumber for the new hall here will be on hand in a few days. The ice is good men and true at the head of affairs to soon business and get things done. And what a big opening night there will be!

Mr. Bud Gordon has written an official biography of the late Lord Haig who was Commander-in-Chief of the British forces from Dec. 1915 till the end of the war. The publication of the book has caused a sensation in the Old Country because of the frank opinion given in Earl Haig's own words of Lloyd George, Sir John French (afterwards Earl of Ypres) and General Joffre. Earl Haig had attained supreme command and Lloyd George was Minister of Munitions when they first met in France early in 1916. The entry in Haig's diary was: Lloyd George seems to be amusing and cunning with much energy and push, but I should think shifty and unreliable".

Of an early conference with General Joffre, Haig recorded: "The old man saw, I think, that he was talking of details which he did not really understand.....He was really past his work." Haig on another occasion was talking to Joffre of pressing an attack, and asked him whether the French army would attack simultaneously at another point. General Joffre responded in a fit of rage. He could not approve of it, his breast heaved and his face flushed".....of General French, Haig writes, "in my own heart I know that French is quite unfit for this command."....In another part of the book it is told how a British Cabinet Minister, F. E. Smith (afterwards Lord Birkenhead) was placed under arrest at the front by his own troops. One and thing about these revelations is that while Cabinet Ministers and incompetent generals were scrutiny safely behind the lines, brave men were offering their lives for their country in the trenches

Mr Weldon is the new teacher here. Among his other duties he is preparing his pupils for the annual Christmas concert

CHRISTMAS SAILINGS TO THE OLD COUNTRY

MONTREAL, QUE., November 18 —Christmas in the Old Land" is a slogan which will soon be in the air and railway and steamship companies are already busy making preparations to handle the increased traffic which naturally arises at this season of the year, the trans-Atlantic companies having already listed their pre-Christmas and Christmas eastbound sailings from Montreal, Quebec and Halifax, according to C. W. Johnston, general passenger traffic manager of the Canadian National Railways.

There will be four pre-Christmas sailings from Montreal, commencing with the Antonia, Ausonia and Duchess of Atholl, all on November 23, and followed by the Montcalm on November 23. From Quebec the Ausonia, Letitia and Duchess of York sail on November 29. From Halifax there will be six sailings of steamers belonging to the various trans-Atlantic lines operating in the British Isles and Europe, these being the Montclare December 7, Alsatia December 8, Letitia December 9, Duchess of Richmond December 13 and the Ascania and Duchess of Atholl December 15. In addition to these sailings, there will be others from Halifax bound for Scandinavian countries.

In order to take care of the extra volume of passenger traffic for the pre-Christmas sailings, additional train service will be in operation by the Canadian National Railways, which will include special services from Western Canada connecting up with trains from the East for the conveyance of passengers to the ships leaving from the various ports. Special through sleeping cars will be in service on Canadian National lines from the west through to the ship's side at Halifax.

"In view of the large choice of sailings via the various steamship lines from Montreal, Quebec and Halifax, it is expected that the coming Christmas season will witness a large volume of passenger traffic destined for European ports", stated Mr. Johnston, "in connection with which the special train services of the Canadian National Railways placed at the disp osal of the public will greatly facilitate overland movement."

Russian Wheat Situation

Russia has been producing in recent years, on the average, about 850 million bushels of wheat per annum. This year it is said she has a bumper crop some consider over 1,000 million bushels. Her population has greatly increased in the last ten years. The Soviet is now permitting the people to use more bread. Considering these factors, how much wheat will Russia have to spare for export to world's markets? Only time will show.

WHAT OTHERS THINK

Premier Aberhart and his colleagues have taken office in a difficult period. There has been a serious decline in provincial revenue in recent years, but no corresponding drop in provincial expenditure. Increasing interest bills due to continuous heavy borrowings, and the financial drain caused by contributions to unemployment relief, have produced a serious financial situation from an administrative standpoint. The advice of Mr. Magor will be invaluable in these circumstances. Every member of the present Alberta cabinet is new to office and as a group they cannot reasonably be expected to master the many intricate details of provincial administration in a few months.

There is no doubt that considerable saving can be effected by the merging of certain government departments and by a reduction in the number of officials.—Calgary Herald

Premier Aberhart has his hands full in taking over the responsibilities of his office and in attempting to redeem the four per cent eminent he promised to do. This insistence from the outside that he launch his Social Credit immediately and "put on the show," is not in the best interests of Alberta as a whole. Social Credit is something much more serious than a show or an experiment in Alberta people. The stability and welfare of general business and livelihood are involved in the action of legislators and the more cautiously the premier proceeds in any drastic changes, the better the majority of Alberta people will be pleased.—High River Times.

PLAN TO TEST QUALITY ALBERTA'S GASOLINE TAX

Motorists in all parts of Alberta will watch with special interest the results of the legal action initiated at Edmonton by C. H. Grant, K. C., to challenge the validity of the gasoline tax in this province.

Definite notice of intention to test the act has been given and it is expected that proceedings will commence soon. Mr. Grant is acting on behalf of a private client.

When the provincial government raised the tax from six to seven cents per gallon last April, there were threats that validity of the legislation might be challenged but no decision was taken. Nevertheless there was a feeling that within the small government's right to impose the levy might reach the courts and this has proved to be the case.

A vigorous fight against the government's practice of raising taxes without specifically earmarking the revenue for road construction or maintenance purposes has been waged for years by the Alberta Motor Association. That body has on several occasions declared that these taxes, when only a portion are used for highways, would be the same as taxing a horse for work while also using it to manage the household.

Alberta motorists pay more than $20,000,000 annually in taxes, of which approximately $7,000,000 is derived from the gasoline tax.

WORLD HAPPENINGS BRIEFLY TOLD

Mr. Chat Mr. Arcan has been appointed to Mexico and Cuba and it is believed he will exchange at Washington with Mr. Lansing.

The full name of the Duke and Duchess of Kent—soon will be Edward George Nicholas Paul Patrick. It was unofficially reported. He will be known as Prince Edward of Kent.

Canada's home will house a population of 17,000,000 at last estimate. Dr. Charles Pope, of the Taylor farm bill, called into the house chair on the grounds at the Department of Trade and Commerce.

Plans are under consideration with Federal officials and Belgian officials in St. John, N.B., and Montreal whereby the Belgian relief fund will be raised with the co-operation of the Belgian Government.

Sergeant-Pilot Price, whose home is in the British Columbia town of Penticton, and Lieut. Arthur Pope were naturally killed when the planes collided 1,000 feet over the Allenby-on-the-Sea.

The Alberta government will enforce the provincial Trade and Industry Act, after certain changes the Calgary branch of the Retail Merchants' Association has been assured by Premier Aberhart.

The Young Women's Christian Association announced that Lady Borden, wife of Canada's new governor-general had consented to become patroness of the association in Canada.

Another step in the modernization of ancient Palestine was taken recently when the Arab town of Tulkarem, in the central part of the country was illuminated with electricity for the first time.

Notwithstanding the recent series of fatal aeroplane crashes, the Canadian commerce subcommittee investigators have concluded after a thorough survey that travel by air today is "three times safer than it was 10 years ago."

Sir Frederick Ponsonby Given Secret Letters By Kaiser's Mother

Baron Sysonby of Wonersh, better known as Sir Frederick Ponsonby, for 20 years keeper of His Majesty's privy purse, who died a short time ago, had served in the households of Queen Victoria and King Edward and few or their aides enjoyed greater confidence.

He was descended on his mother's side from the second Earl Grey, author of the Reform Bill of 1832. He was the second son of General Sir Henry Ponsonby, for many years private secretary to Queen Victoria.

He was appointed assistant keeper of Victoria's privy purse in 1894 and there followed a long series of highly confidential posts at Buckingham Palace. When the Empress Victoria, the Queen's daughter, widow of Emperor Frederick, was dying at Friedrichshof in 1901 she summoned Sir Frederick from London secretly and entrusted to him her private correspondence, saying:

"I do not want a soul, certainly not Willie (her son the Kaiser Wilhelm II.) to know you have got them."

He succeeded in taking to London two large coaded boxes and when the Empress died the grounds of the castle were surrounded by cavalry and police while searchers for the letters ransacked the room. He kept the letters for 27 years and then decided on their publication "in the interests of historical truth."

When the letters of his mother were published in England in the Fall of 1928 the Empress Frederick reported to contemplate legal action to suppress the book. A few weeks later, however, it was said in London that Wilhelm not only waived the unaltered publication of the letters in German, but wrote a foreword introduction to the German edition, the translation to be supervised by Sir Frederick Ponsonby.

Pioneers Honored

Cairn Unveiled By Founder Of First Icelandic Settlement

The dramatic history of Icelandic pioneers who first landed on the shores of Lake Winnipeg in 1875, was fittingly marked 60 years after when a memorial was unveiled at Gimli, Man., by Captain Sigtriggir Jonason, first discoverer of the site of what is now Gimli.

Jonason, approaching his 80th year, brought the first group of Icelandic settlers to Gimli in 1875 from Moorhead, Minn., by way of Winnipeg. The party made the trip in scows constructed in Winnipeg, and sailed down the Red river and along the west shore of Lake Winnipeg to their new home.

The cairn, built of local granite stone, has a 13-ton red granite boulder fixed to the top, symbolizing the lasting qualities of the early pioneers. On the west side of the boulder, engraved in Icelandic and English, is the following inscription: "The first Icelandic settlers arrived here Oct. 21, 1875." The names of the various districts of the first settlement are carried on the reverse face of the cairn.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

THE MESSAGE OF HAGGAI

Golden text: I was glad when they said unto me, Let us go into the house of the Lord. Psalm 122:1.

Lesson: Ezra 3:1 to verse; Psalms 84:1-12; Haggai, Chapters 1, 2; Zechariah 4:1-10.

Devotional Reading: Psalm 122.

Explanations And Comments

Combating the Mental Attitude of the People, Haggai 1:1-6. This address of the prophet Haggai was made to Zerubbabel, the governor of what was now the Persian province of Judah, and to Joshua, the high priest, in the sixth month, in the first day of the month, in the second year of Darius the Persian king, B.C. 520.

"It is not the time for you to come, the time for Jehovah's house to be built," the disheartened people were saying, but Haggai was sure that it was the time God would have them build. They were waiting for the right time, the psychic moment, as it were, to build, but they had not waited for the time to build their own houses, the prophet reminded them. Some of them had built exceptionally fine houses, panelled with costly cedar, but the site of the house of Jehovah was still lying waste, although they had now been living for 15 years in Jerusalem. The trouble was that they lacked the desire, and had not heard forcible words to arouse their desires. If they really desired the temple, they would build it.

The people had sown much and brought in little. A drought had been upon the land, withering everything (verse 11); they had lacked food and drink enough; satisfy themselves, and clothes enough to keep them warm, and their low wages had evidently been such that it seemed as if the money was lost as soon as it came, as if it had been dropped through a hole in a bag. All this was true: what was the problem? Haggai had challenged their conscience. "Now, therefore, thus saith Jehovah of hosts, Consider your ways," he twice repeats. Consider what they have been doing. All had been zealous about building their own homes, and had given no thought to the house of the Lord. "They had only themselves to blame.

Ye looked for much, and, lo, it came to little; and when ye brought it home, I did blow upon it. Why?" said Jehovah of hosts. Because of my house that lieth waste, while ye run every man to his own house. Therefore for your sake the heavens withhold the dew, and the earth withholdeth its fruit.

The Call to Work, at Haggai's Appeal, Haggai 1.13-15. Within three weeks the people were presented with a new address, for, inspirited by the prophet's words, the governor of the province and the people all began to work upon the temple building.

Whether the Remedy You are taking for Headaches, Neuralgia or Rheumatism Pains is SAFE is Your Doctor. Ask Him.

Don't Entrust Your Own or Your Family's Well-Being to Unknown Preparations

BEFORE you take any preparation you don't know all about, for the relief of headaches; or the pains of rheumatism, neuritis or neuralgia, ask your doctor what he thinks about it — in comparison with "Aspirin."

We say this because, before the discovery of "Aspirin," most so-called "pain" remedies were advised against by physicians as being bad for the stomach; or, often, for the heart. And the discovery of "Aspirin" largely changed medical practice.

Countless thousands of people who have taken "Aspirin" year in and out without ill effect, have proved that the medical findings about its safety were correct.

Remember this: "Aspirin" is relied among the fastest methods yet discovered for the relief of headaches and all common pains . . . and safe for the average person when taken regularly.

He said the secret lay in frequency modulation instead of amplification modulation, the prevailing system.

Mothers Aided by Guide to Better Control of Colds

Practical Plan Is Helping Families Everywhere to Have Fewer, Milder and Shorter Colds

SIMPLE AND EASY TO FOLLOW

Already, thousands of Canadian mothers are benefiting by following Vicks Plan for Better Control of Colds — proving for themselves that it is a practical home guide to fewer and shorter colds.

This common-sense, medically sound Plan represents the 30 years' experience of Vicks Chemists in studying colds. It has been tested in extensive clinics by practicing physicians — further proved in everyday home use throughout the country.

Here, briefly, are the three simple steps in Vicks Plan:

1. To Help Build Resistance to Colds Live normally, avoid excesses. Eat simple food and keep eliminations regular. Drink plenty of water. Take some exercise daily—out-doors preferably. Get plenty of rest and sleep.

2. To Help Prevent Many Colds At the first warning nasal irritation, sniffle or sneeze, use Vicks Va-tro-nol—just a few drops up each nostril. Va-tro-nol is especially designed for the nose and upper throat—where most colds start. Used in time, Va-tro-nol helps to prevent many colds—and to throw off head colds in the early stages.

3. To Help End a Cold Sooner If a cold has developed, or strikes without warning, rub throat and chest at bedtime with Vicks Vapo-Rub. Vapo-Rub acts two ways at once: (1) By stimulation through the skin like a poultice or plaster. (2) By inhalation of its penetrating medicated vapors, direct to inflamed air-passages. Through the night, this combined vapor-poultice action loosens phlegm, soothes irritation, helps break congestion.

What Vicks Plan can do for you and your family can be proved only by trying it. Directions for following the Plan come in each package of Vicks Va-tro-nol and Vicks Vapo-Rub

SYNOPSIS

Nancy Nelson is a sub-deb, a gay, irresponsible girl of nineteen, with no care beyond the choice of her costume for her next dance or party. Suddenly, in the market crash, her indulgent father loses all he had, and his family is faced with the necessity of a simpler method of living. At this juncture a letter is received from an eccentric relative in Colorado, who offers the girl a home on what seems to be impossible conditions.

After much consideration Cousin Columbine's offer is accepted, and Nancy and Jack arrive at Pine Ridge.

Nancy set out one afternoon to climb to the top of a hill in an to obtain a view of the surrounding landscape and misses the path Aurora Tubbs had told her to follow. A track shines along the road, driven by Matthew Adams, and she asks him which way to go. They ascend the hill, turn around, and then go on to Cousin Columbine's. There Mark Adams tells Nancy that his brother Luke has broken his leg, and that Jack Nelson has been hired to help out while Luke's leg gets better. With Jack away, Nancy finds that she is lonesome, and having no books to read, the idea of starting a public library at Pine Ridge seems a good one. Matthew writes letters to get her parents to send all the books they could spare, and all they could induce others to let them have.

Nancy's parents and friends gave their liberal support to her request for books, and a steerbie box arrived at the station. Matthew Adams painted a sign for the library, and the Adam boys worked on the shelves for the books and decorations to make the room look attractively bare.

Jack Nelson, Matthew Adams, and Luke to the prairie home of Mark Adams' uncle for the ride, and after Nancy and Jack have left for home they are caught in a blizzard. Blinded by the swirling snow they collide with a bus full of school children, which was halted across the road with its back wheels resting in a snow-filled gully. Their car being wrecked, Jack and Nancy stay with the children and do all they can to help. The next morning Jack sets out for help in the blizzard. He succeeds in finding help and the party of children and Nancy are rescued. As a result of the exposure Nancy's feet are badly frozen and Jack is seriously ill with pneumonia. Both of them recover.

Now Go On With The Story

Nance started, smiling as she recognized the voice of the bashful seeker on the back road, one of the library's most faithful visitors.

"Come in," she welcomed. "I'm leaving for Denver to-morrow and am glad of this chance to say good-bye."

The woman said, as she sat down in the cushioned chair: "That's why I came. I meant to stop at Miss Nelson's, but when I saw these open windows I knew you'd be here. I want to thank you for what you've done for —well, for every one in Pine Ridge, Miss Aladdin." She paused up, her worn face lighted by a smile, while Nance realized with something of a shock that this faded woman was quite young, probably not ten years older than herself. "Do you know, I've come from time to time and questioned a bit shyly. "Sometimes I've almost wondered if that's what you are — a sort of magician who has worked miracles."

Nancy laughed, flushing a little sun.

"It wasn't a miracle at all, if you mean this library. It was only common sense and a bit of elbow grease."

"No," answered her caller wisely, "it was more than that. It was things you could make life happier for other folks. It's made all the difference between exile and home, to us!" she added. "My husband's better now, really better; and it's due to nothing in the world but having something to look forward to and wonder we think of you as Miss Aladdin."

When she was gone Nance sat there feeling strangely humble, a lump in her throat that threatened to grow bigger.

"I ought to have gone to see these people," she said regretfully. "I'll ask Matt to drop in on them some day. Why, the first time that woman came for books I thought she was older than Aunt Judy! Oh, why does life hurt some of us so cruelly?"

Rising with reluctance, Nance closed the windows. This was her last visit to the library, for to-morrow she must give to Cousin Columbine. She girl stood for a moment looking off at the mountain; and suddenly she longed to view it once again from the hilltop under the old pine.

"I'll sneak up back of the houses," she planned, locking the door. "If Jack sees me he'll want to go along, and somehow I'd rather be alone. I can stay a half hour and get back before the Adams send for us. I do hope Matt will have cheered up by evening. I just can't stand the way his eyes look."

By skirting the village it was possible to gain the hilltop unobserved, but it was a steep ascent, and Nancy was breathless when, emerging from the woods, she started toward the ancient landmark. Then, as an animal will stop when suddenly alarmed, the girl stood still. Some one was there, half hidden by the gigantic tree-trunk. How disappointing! Her tryst on this wonderful spot must be foregone. She ventured one cautious backward step, but a twig snapped under her foot, and the intruder, almost as startled as herself, turned quickly.

"Oh!" exclaimed Nance. Her heart was thudding. "I didn't dream— I mean, Matt, I—I thought—"

She paused, for Matthew had sprung up, an unsmiling Matthew, who said, curiously, she noticed, as he came toward her: "Is it you, Nancy, or—or am I dreaming? No, I'm not crazy!" (He smiled a little. "But I've been lying here for an hour or more wishing I had the power of Aladdin, so I could rub my lamp and —and make you appear before me just like this! Is—Is it really you?"

Nance had instinctively moved away in a smile: "What other fellow in the world would say a thing like that?" Then with a sudden impulse she stretch out both hands.

"Touch me, and see!"

CHAPTER XXIV.

No use trying: it was simply impossible to sleep. Thus thought Nancy as she turned, and tossed, and thumped her unoffending pillow. The night was electrically bright, as most nights are in Colorado, and (perhaps because she knew where each one was), there seemed to be many more stars in the "splasher"; the mineral speckled clock which never ticked; the deformed spruce, pointing the way to General Grant, and Aurora's mammoth calendar.

"It's very, very strange," murmured the girl, "how you get used to things. I don't see that awful engulfing blackness any more, and I've grown quite fond of General Grant. It just doesn't seem possible that this is our last night in Colorado, and that to-morrow Jack and I'll be jogging along somewhere in Kansas. Why, the sun doesn't set here, when Cousin Columbine displayed this room so proudly, I thought I couldn't stay another minute—and now all I can think of is—suppose we hadn't come!"

Nancy began to ponder in a awful possibility. Nance turned again and saw that the door into her brother's room was open. "Said Jack, in muffled, irritated tones: "What the dickens is the matter with you, Nance? That bed's about as comfortable as a broker's office would likely, and you're dragging round Edgemere, pitying yourself and running up the telephone bill by calling your long distance boy friends every few hours just to kill time. Honestly, sis can you imagine living our whole lives without having known Cousin Columbine, or the Adams, or or going through the blizzard and every-thing" Maybe you'll laugh but I feel lots older than when we came."

But Nancy didn't laugh. She said thoughtfully: "You seem older, Jack And I —

Indispensable

Mainly Responsible For High State Of Scientific Perfection

It is safe to say the civilization today could not have reached its high state of scientific perfection but for the diamond. Everything nowadays has to be made with an infinitesimal margin of error, and the diamond being the hardest thing in the world, its consequent capacity to resist abrasion makes it of inestimable value in industry. To give you an idea how hard the diamond is Sir William Crookes once prace ted the following experiment "On a flattened apex of a conical block of steel plate a diamond then spun at a thing down a second cone of steel. On forcing together the two steel cones by hydraulic pressure the diamond is squeezed into the steel blocks without injuring it in the slightest degree."

The diamond drill is an indispensable tool for mining engineers, for there is no rock or strata which the diamond cannot cut through, and the hardness of the bit makes a clean sequence of the rocks passed available for inspection. The crowns of gems for cutting the two-inch hole costs about $5,000

In other industries the diamond is equally important, as in the manufacture of electrical equipment. Diamond dies plates used in drawing wire are used in processes where an accuracy of .0015 millimetres is sometimes necessary. — From the Sphere London

Low And High Tides

Here Is Bay Of Fundy's Highest In World

The lowest tide in half a century was recorded on October 12 by the Bay of Fundy Tidal Power Men in Charge were able to wade across the Avon to Campbellton Island. New Canada. The flowing into the Avon at low tide is the highest tide in the world, it is thought. It is the up of whatever else lifted so high that the painters built for the men to be washed into smoke. Of the men of this year's party, three were from their homes on the east coast of Nova Scotia, and high tides were a familiar sight to them. Many of Maine coast.

The Bay Fundy has the world's highest tides, and it is there that the first tidal power station will be built. Plans for the project, which will cost $5,000,000, call for a dam across the Avon at Minas Basin, with a rise of three to six feet. Power will be developed by the rise and fall of the tide, and will be transmitted to Moncton, Truro, Amherst, Sackville and Saint John, New Brunswick.

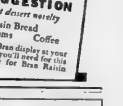
That therefore to the end the outer go King may rest on that throne of thy soul thou oughtest to take pains to keep it clean and peaceable. Clean from guilt and defects, quit from fears, and peaceable in temptations and tribulations. Thou oughtest then to always keep thine heart in peace that thou mayest keep pure that temple of God, and with a right and pure intention thou art to work, pray and obey as well as suffer whatever it pleases the Lord to and thee without being in the least moved

Are You Rundown, Tired?



Mrs. Mabel Murphy of 11 Wilson Crescent, Toronto, Ont., writes: "After I was married I was run down, tired, and could scarcely sleep at night. I had pains in my back and limbs. I was nervous and irritable. I read about Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and decided to try it. Before I had taken half a bottle I felt better. I continued taking it and now I am strong and well. I can highly recommend it to any woman who is run down."

Uses Homing Pigeons

School Teacher Finds Them Handy For Sending Messages Home

Each Sunday afternoon homing pigeons fly into the yard of Alice M. Tucker of Wakefield, Mass. bringing the girl tidings that his school teacher daughter Gladys arrived safely in South Hampton N.H.

Miss Tucker, who spends every week-end in her family's former home, telephone to her expense and the birds two slow. Homing pigeons are a hobby of her father, Samuel the pigeons.

The pigeons return to the Tucker home in from 15 minutes to an hour, Mrs. Tucker is down to South Hampton

WEDNESDAY HALF-HOLIDAYS TO BE CONTINUED

At a meeting of business men in the town hall on Tuesday evening it was decided that no change would be made in the by-law governing early closing hours. The two points dealt with were the Wednesday half holidays which commence the first week in January and continue for eight months and the advisability of closing at 6 p.m. Saturday during the months of January to March inclusive.

Matters were left as they are at present, business men and clerks will be able to enjoy their half-day off in Wednesday's commencing in January and late shoppers on Saturday nights will still have their hour of shopping.

BOARD OF TRADE NOTES

Albert M. Wood was in the chair at the luncheon on Monday and 27 members were present. Two guests were introduced in the persons of Mr. J. M. Duncan of Edmonton and Mr. Hickson of the college staff.

Mr. Heckbert reported on the town room question, stating that an inspection of the basement of the fire hall had been made and said the council had decided to make no change in the present arrangements.

The committee thought that a real room could be fitted up for ladies at a cost of about $500.00.

There was some discussion relative to road clearing operations but no other new matters were brought up.

A general invitation is extended to farmers who might be in town on Monday noon to attend the luncheon. This is not a dressed up or formal affair and if you didn't remember [illegible] bring your friends, they will be cheerfully accompany you. Business men in town who have not been in the habit of attending are again urged to support the luncheon movement. It is of value to the town and to you and your business.

Bowman-Stephens Nuptials

On Thursday evening, November 21, First United church was the scene of a wedding of much interest, when Agnes Findlay Stephens, younger daughter of the late Henry Newburn Stephens and Mrs. Stephens, early pioneers of this town, was united in marriage to Mr. Robert Alexander Bowman, son of Mrs. Ida Bowman of Fullerton, California and former residents of Vermilion. The church was beautifully decorated for the occasion with Ferns and flowers making a perfect setting for the ceremony, which was performed by Rev. H. A. Boyd minister of the church.

The wedding marches were played by Mr. W. B. Eford, organist and choir master of First United church, and during the signing of the register Miss Dorothy Smith, a classmate of the bride sang "Because."

The bride who was given in marriage by her brother, Mr. W. Prain Stephens, was charming in a gown of white crepe back satin trimmed with seed pearls. Her veil of Brussels net and Chantilly lace was most becomingly arranged and held in place with orange blossoms and strands of pearls and she carried a shower bouquet of pink roses and lilies of the valley.

Miss Margaret Stephens, who was her sister's bridesmaid wore a becoming [illegible] with [illegible] and [illegible] with [illegible] and carried an arm [illegible] of Rosaie chrysanthemums.

Mr. Cecil H. Bower of Calgary assisted the groom and the ushers were Mr. Ronald S. Barwick and Mr. Gerald P. Stephens.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's mother. Over a hundred friends of the young couple called to see the many beautiful gifts and to express their good wishes. They were received by Mrs. H. N. Stephens who was smartly gowned in Plum transparent silk velvet with silver trimming and wore a matching hat of silver lace and velvet. Mrs. J. Dawson Stephens presided with her and was becomingly gowned in blue flowered georgette with velvet hat.

Mrs. W. S. Cash poured coffee and Mrs. H. Perry Long cut two [illegible] Some assistance was rendered by Mrs. [illegible] Heckbert and Kaiser. Those serving were the Misses Betty Hazel Bower, Vina Hughes, Marion Cash, Gwen Robinson, Lois Long and Lydia Stein. The toast to the bride was proposed by Mr. H. A. Boyd and was [illegible] responded to by the groom.

Mr. and Mrs. Bowman left on the midnight train on their honeymoon trip to Saskatoon, Prince Albert and points north of that town. They were [illegible] with a [illegible] of brown with rust trimmings and brown accessories.

The out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Baker of Edmonton, and Mrs. Jack Wood, Mrs. Robert Pearson, Miss Ina Jolly and Miss Dorothy Smith, classmates of the bride, and all from Edmonton. Mr. and Mrs. Weaver and Mr. H. Weaver of Lacombe.

Mr. and Mrs. Bowman will reside [illegible] until more [illegible] is [illegible] required and will build on [illegible] stock in [illegible] order. Mrs. [illegible] Heckbert, District Representative.

Acute Distress in Many Families; Much Help Is Needed by Local Sunshine

Besides the odd 6c or 9c hampers distributed at Christmas last year the Associated Charities Committee gave away to deserving families since then 458 different articles of clothing, shoes, baby wear and bed linen. In 1934 353 such articles were distributed. Hardly a day passes without an application being received for clothing especially children's wear. Inmates of the organization find cases of practically absolute destitution where families have neither proper clothes nor enough to eat. The situation applies particularly to farm families (the case reported showed the family to have lived for two to three weeks on bread made from low grade wheat and tea. Push Sale Of Canadian Wheat

Western Canadian farmer organizations are on the right track in taking steps to launch a well defined and co-ordinated program of publicity with the promotion of greater consumption of high grade wheat in customer countries as its objective.

Within a period of a couple of weeks two of the large farmer marketing organizations have given their blessing to such a move. These are the central organization of the Canadian wheat pools, whose plan to place an all-Canadian wheat loaf before the British consumer was endorsed at the annual meeting of the Saskatchewan Wheat Pool delegates and the United Grain Growers Ltd., who, at their annual meeting in Winnipeg sponsored a public ty program for Canadian wheat overseas

Briefly, the U.G.G. Ltd. propose to interest boards of trade and other organizations throughout the prairie province in the immediate request to the Federal government to set up a special sales promotion body to be known as the Canadian Wheat Institute with offices in consumer countries, the objective being to develop greater consumption of high quality wheat, which, of course, means wheat grown in Canadian fields.

The necessity for stimulating overseas consumers' interest is cited in the following quotation from the directors' report at the annual meeting of the Saskatchewan Wheat Pool: "In spite of the fact that Great Britain remains the best Canadian overseas customer for Canadian wheat, our wheat is invariably used only for blending with other wheats, particularly in the English mills. The British people generally are not familiar with the high quality of bread which can be baked from Canadian flour."

In support of the argument that a publicity campaign should be conducted in Great Britain, figures were quoted at the U.G.G. convention to the effect that while world consumption of wheat has dropped 21 per cent. in the past five years, Canadian wheat exports have been lowered by 49 per cent. in the same period.

While this may be true, it does not necessarily mean, however, that Canada is not holding her own in competition with other wheat exporting countries as total exports have dropped faster than total consumption due to the self-sustaining efforts of a number of the former customer countries in Europe. It does demonstrate, on the other hand, a material reduction of consumption of wheat during the period under review.

Unfortunately, there is evidence that there is actually a reduction of consumpt on of wheat in Great Britain, Canada's best customer for high grade wheat. Representatives of the Scottish Co-operative Wholesale Society, while in Western Canada this summer, testified that while the Scotchman insists upon bread made of wheat of high protein content, as a result of which bread sold by the Co-operative's affiliates and subsidiaries contains 86 per cent. Canadian wheat, he is also eating less bread than formerly and, incredible though it may sound, is consuming less porridge. "The Cockburnian is substituting more expensive fruit, bacon and eggs and other comestibles, for a percentage of his erstwhile substantial diet of bread and oatmeal.

There are indications that a similar a tuation exists in England, where the popular taste is for a lower grade loaf than the Scotchman demands, for within the past year the British millers have found it advisable to institute a five-year advertising program at considerable expense in an effort to persuade the population south of the Tweed and the Cheviots that they should eat more bread.

With many of the former markets virtually closed to Canadian wheat and the British market showing a tendency to shrink, due to changing dietetic tastes, or whatever the cause may be, the outlook is not reassuring to the Western Canada pa fermer.

The farmer organizations are becoming alive to the need for taking some steps to deal with these conditions and it is to be hoped that some effective program can be devised with all interests working together to a common aim.

In some quarters it is suggested that this is an opportunity for the Canadian Wheat Board to take the initiative in co-operation with the Department of Trade and Commerce. It is pointed out that the Wheat Board, under the Canada Wheat Board Act, is vested with wide enough powers in section 8 sub-section B, which gives the board authority "to sell and dispose of, from time to time, all wheat which the board may acquire for such price as it may consider reasonable with the object of promoting the sale and use of Canadian wheat in the world markets."

Some recent experiments in the home market show that the public will respond to a loaf made more attractive by flavoring or other devices and it is possible that similar efforts to woo the British consumer would pay dividends. At any rate it is worth a trial.

Soil Survey

During the past summer the Manitoba Soil Survey under the direction of Professor J. H. Ellis of Manitoba University has made a reconnaissance soil survey of approximately 1,774,080 acres in the drought area of southwestern Manitoba.

Canada's Chief Loss

In the event of Italy retaliating by refusing to buy from Canada the chief loss would be in wheat, according to the experts for the last fiscal year wheat to the value of $1,000,624 was shipped to that country.

Terminates Annual Gifts

Rockefeller Believes Sectionalism In Church Is Wrong

Forsaking the traditional practice of his father, John D. Rockefeller, Jr., has terminated his annual monetary gifts to the Northern Baptist Church in the belief that inter-denominationalism is the best servitor of Christian religion.

In a searching letter to the Northern Baptist convention, written March 7 last, but revealed only recently, the son of the founder of one of the world's greatest fortunes informed the church that henceforth any future gifts would be only to specific agencies of the church.

"I have long felt," he wrote, "that this denominational emphasis is a divisive force in the progress of organized Christian work and an obstacle to the development of the spirit and life of Christ among men."

To hold young people, Rockefeller said, who are largely unconcerned with denominational distinctions, the church must work with them "in relegating the non-essentials to a place of secondary importance and stand with them for the fundamentals of Christian duty."

Rockefeller, the largest individual donnor to the church, has in the past made annual donations ranging from $500,000 to $1,000,000 to the general budget of the Northern Baptist convention

Swarming Wasps Routed Pack Trains In Far West

Wasps were numerous throughout British Columbia this year. Hundreds of nests honeycombed the rocky ground of the Cariboo district and on Vancouver Island

"You could stand still anywhere in the woods, listen quietly, and hear a humming like a flock of distant aeroplanes," said one of the many district of Vancouver Island reported.

He told of finding an area where a bear had demolished a dozen nests in the space of a quarter of a mile, feasting on the young wasps it found.

Many nests were situated on the Forbidden Plateau and pack trains were often attacked by the stingers. Horses rear and plunge as the swarms sail in to the attack. The stings remain with the horses only a few minutes, however, and they are soon quietened

Unique Picture Gallery

Has Been Hobby Of Hoteikeeper For 35 Years

Trail, a little mining town in British Columbia, boasts a unique picture gallery. It is owned by Pete Lavesque, a hotelkeeper, who has made it his hobby for 35 years, and it covers every inch of wall space in his lobby.

The gallery includes a photograph of every prominent man or woman who has visited Trail since 1900, and many of the latter have also autographed. All carry a short biography of the subject in Mr. Levesque's history written with the honors, and it covers every inch of wall space in his lobby.

Making It Clear

Moss knocked the ashes from his corncob pipe and put it on the mantelpiece. "Mandy," he said, "I think I's gwine put on mah best clo's an go down to the theatre tonight to see de chaunce Hamlet take."

Mandy turned a stony eye on him. "Moss," she grumbled, "listen here. If dat am what you thinks, den you'd better think ag'in. Niggah, you ain't gwine to put on nothin' to go no place, no time, to see nobody do nothin'; never, nohow, and not at all. Does yo' understan'?"

Wanted

The golfer had lost his ball, and, not unnaturally, was inclined to be annoyed with his caddie.

"Why didn't you watch where it went?" he asked.

"Well, sir," said the boy, "it don't usually go anywhere, and so it took me unprepared like."

English Language Changes

Words Drop Out And Come Into Use

A sign of the way in which the English language changes is seen in the case of the word "trembler," when describing earthquakes. In the last few days it has frequently appeared in news dispatches, but we were unable to find it in the Oxford English dictionary or in the Century, though we thought it would surely be there.

We could find "tremblor," that is, one who trembles, and "tremor", the act of such agitation or the limbs, or of the earth, but no "trembler." The Century dictionary quoted J. Milne's use of the word "tremblor," and described: "Modern research has shown a typical earthquake to consist of a series of small tremors succeeded by a shock or series of shocks."

The word was not in the body at the test of Webster's New International dictionary, either, but it was included in the footnotes, and this is how we read: "trembler, erroneous for tembler." And what is "tembler"? It is Spanish for earthquake, says Webster. From an old dictionary, the Standard, printed in the nineties, we got a little more information. It contained "trembloree" —the word there has extra "e"— which were defined as "tremors of the earth's surface in volcanic districts— from Spanish, from "temblar" —without the "r"—meaning tremble." It was derived from South America.

We dropped that word in favor of "earthquake" which was defined as "a violent convulsion

SURPRISE PARTY HONORS OLD-TIMER ON 79TH ANNIVERSARY

"Happiest Birthday of Them All" Says C. F. Dolliver

Mr C F Dolliver, well known old timer of Vermilion celebrated his 79th birthday on Saturday Nov. 23, at his farm home north of town.

In honor of the occasion two sleigh loads of neighbors arranged a surprise party and dropped in at Mr Dolliver's home to wish him many happy returns. A wonderful time was enjoyed by everyone and a presentation made to the 79 year young pioneer. In return Mr Dolliver said that this was the happiest birthday of the whole lot.

The veteran Vermilionite was born in the state of Wisconsin on Nov. 22, 1857. He came to Vermilion in 1906. The Standard adds its congratulations and happy returns to those already proffered

THE WEATHER

The weather is very changeable, since last Thursday it might be classed as mild winter weather Sunday broke of a chilness, crept up but usually are quashed before getting in much work. Tuesday afternoon the thermometer crept up to 38 but by mid afternoon the mercury slipped badly 2 below being registered that night. The weather turned decidedly cold Wednesday morning and is continuing so on Thursday

Mr and Mrs P Napier of Kinsella send in their renewal sub to the Standard this week and also inform us that they heard the Editor of the London Daily Telegraph, England, conversing with the balloonists who attended to the great height on Remembrance day last. The Editor asked them many questions and received distinct answers while the men were in the descent. At last the balloonists were forced to say goodbye when they were about two-thirds of the way down, an interesting bit of conversation was that relevant to parching a rip Mrs. Napier echoes our thoughts when she adds "It's wonderful the achievements of radios now-a-days".

LEGION AND TEXACO CUP CIVIC LEAGUE GAMES LAST NIGHT

LEGION 5—COLLEGE 2

The Legion and College fought on an even footing throughout their encounter, the town boys coming thru with their winning goal late in the third period. The V. S. A. team accumulated more team plays than any other senior in the league and given a little more practice are going to be hard to beat. Tex Lotus and Paul Thorienne notched the college counters, with Grey, Lisadale and Clarence Barr scoring for the Legion.

TEXAS OILERS 3—ELKS 1

Two goals by Manson Barr and Ken Cowan were sufficient to win the second game, either, the Elks turned on plenty of heat and had an edge on the play in the third period. Two young Elks, Jimmie Gilbert and Jim Bates scored a sparkling combined goal for the losers.

REGULAR LEAGUE GAMES NEXT WEDNESDAY

The regular league games will commence next Wednesday evening. The complete schedule is published elsewhere in the paper. Cut it out for reference.

The play-off commences the Monday following the completion of the league. Teams finishing second and third play a two-game total goal series, the winner meeting No. 1 team in a best two of three game series for the league championship and the Webb Cup.

DEWBERRY BUDGET

Well, here we are again, the weather didn't quite subdue us.

Miss Marie Garnier arrived home after a period of eight months in Rochester, Minn., where she has been receiving treatments. Marie is now a living picture of health.

Our adjacent neighborhood, the people of Harewood district, organized a club and have built a reputation since rink on Smith's lake. Many skaters took advantage of the bright sunny weather last Sunday and enjoyed a very pleasant afternoon of skating.

The club also proposes to build a toboggan slide on the hill near the lake. There is a possibility of a three team hockey league being formed between Dewberry, Harewood and Clandonald.

Mr. Jim MacDonald, who suffered a light stroke a short time ago, intends to go to Edmonton for medical attention

"Somebody To See You!"

IF EVERYBODY with something to [illegible] should! come and ring your bell, what a nuisance it would be! Think of the swarming, jostling crowd, the stamping of feet on your porch and carpets!

Every week we know of many callers who come to see you. They never jangle the bell—they don't take up your whole day trying to get your attention. Instead, they do it in a way that is most considerate of your privacy and your convenience. They advertise in your newspaper!

In this way you have only to listen to those you know at a glance have something that interests you. They make it short, too, so you can gather quickly just what you want to know. You can receive and hear them all without noise or confusion in a very few minutes.

In fairness to yourself look over all the advertisements. The smallest and the largest—you never can be sure which one will tell something you really want to know.

PASS IT ON!

To every man, woman and child who has, the appeal of the Sunshine fund comes again on behalf of those who have not, and with renewed force. In spite of all the governmental relief agencies, there are hundreds of people in Vermilion and district today, who will be in sore need of someone's kindness at Christmas time. Sunshine is the medium by which this kindliness of the fortunate is brought in touch with those less fortunate.

Families on relief and those struggling along to keep off relief have nothing to spare for little luxuries—luxuries to them but hardly in that classification to thousands of families where the family income is regular and adequate. Christmas would be a sad day indeed were there no heart toys for the little ones, no extra dish on the dinner table, nothing to lift the day from the dull rock of necessity.

Sunshine has never yet appealed in vain when it has asked the public in its unselfish work of bringing sunshine into homes darkened by poverty or sickness or trouble.

The old song runs "Have you had a kindness shown? Pass it on!" It's a good thing to share our comparative abundance with those less fortunate. So Sunshine appeals today to you to pass along a kindness.—From the Edmonton Journal with adaptations.

CANADA-U. S. A. TRADE TREATY

Announcement of the details of the trade treaty negotiated by Canada and the United States was made recently. Insofar as direct benefits on the exportation of wheat to the United States is concerned, nothing much was done beyond the continuance of the present arrangement whereby Canadian feed wheat and by-products of grain enter the U. S. under a 10% ad valorem duty. The regular duty of 42c a bushel for millable wheat going into the United States was not interfered with. This was to be expected as the United States is normally a wheat exporting country. However, a concession was made to such wheat growers in the U. S., the duty on such wheat entering Canada being cut from 10c to 12c a bushel. This wheat is used largely for pastry. While there is a shortage in Canada, as was the case last year, imports from are necessary. Last year wheat was brought from Great Britain and Australia to fill Canadian requirements.

Of great importance to western Canadian farmers is the cut on farm machinery. Reduction was from 35% to 25% in a wide range of machinery and to 20% on certain machines not made in Canada. Last year some six million dollars' worth of machinery was imported into Canada. There were also other cuts in manufactured goods which will bring down the cost of those to western farmers.

Of general interest to the West is the reduction of duty on cattle weighing 700 lbs. or more entering the U. S from Canada, from 3c to 2c a lb. and the provision of a quota of 155,000 head per annum. During the first nine months of the current year Canada shipped 56,741 head of cattle. Calves weighing 175 lbs. or less are given a tariff cut from 2½c a pound to 1½c a pound and an annual quota of 11,333 head a year. In addition a quota of 20,000 milch cows from Canada was set up, duty being cut from 3c a pound to 1½c a pound. The quota is not large when it is considered that 20,000,000 head of cattle are slaughtered annually in the United States, but it will help Canada a lot.

TENTH ANNIVERSARY OF CANADIAN LEGION

Monday Nov. 25 was the tenth anniversary of the birth of the Canadian Legion. This was celebrated throughout the whole Dominion in various ways. The local branch, Post 11, held a social to which the members of the L. O. D. E. were invited, the venue being the Memorial hall. A gathering of about 65 attended and enjoyed a very pleasant evening. Proceedings were in charge of Don Taylor and W. B. Eldred.

The evening was begun with cards, prizes being won by Mr. Loyal Amos for bridge and by Mrs. Douglas for whist. Community singing followed the cards, in turn succeeded by a very pleasing program in which the following artists assisted.

W. M. Glanvill, solo; Mrs. B. Hill, solo; Principal Steele, violin solo; Mrs. Heckbert, solo; F. J. Aly, solo; Miss Doris Up, solo; Mr. Corbett, solo.

Mr. Carl Heckbert was called upon to say a few words and in answering

Mr. Heckbert, in behalf of the Legion, thanked the ladies for their assistance and the artists for their splendid contributions to the program. He also spoke briefly on the aims and objects of the Legion, which he outlined the birth of the Canadian Legion as a component part of the Mother organization in England, the British Empire Service League. Mr. Heckbert also made a special appeal to those returned men not now members, to come forward and join the Legion in order to help carry on the excellent work which is being done.

More community singing followed and then a delicious lunch was served by members of the legion. A birthday cake had been provided, and Miss Cavil, as Vice-president of the W. A. was called upon to cut it

When all had been served with lunch the midnight hour had arrived and the singing of "The King" brought to an end a very pleasant birthday party

Mid summer it was caused as the guests at the evening left the hall, by members of the Legion singing "Good Night Ladies".

W. I. NOTES

The December meeting will be held at the home of Mrs Darnell. The hostesses are Mrs. Beckett and Mrs. Crossen. Roll call—New ideas for the 1936 program. City Built in Three Months

Turkish Dictator Wants Hi! People To Lead Outdoor Lives

"Build a city by the sea, near Istanbul, where the masses may go and enjoy themselves. It must be finished within three months. It must have a hotel, a casino, a bathing beach. It must have all other attractions of a first-class watering place. It must be a national playground for the people."

Thus spoke Kemal Ataturk, President of Turkey, to Dr. Lutfi Kirdar, Governor of Istanbul. The mayor put 8,000 men on the job. Within three months to a day the Turkish city sprang up.

The place is called Florya. It is on the European side of the Sea of Marmora, about 30 miles from Istanbul. It is the Turkish version of Monte Carlo, minus the gambling.

The first one to plunge into the open air at the resort was Kemal, as an example. He wants to free the people from centuries of traditions, from fez, from veils, and harems. He wants them to lead outdoor lives, like Americans and Europeans.

Old Spinning Wheel

In Perfect Condition Still Turns Out Good Homespun Cloth

In perfect condition and still able to turn out as good a quality of homespun cloth as the day it was built a spinning wheel more than 100 years old is in the possession of Mrs. Joseph Poirier of Sydney, N.S.

Of small design the wheel carries the Scotch manufacturers name as "Alex Mark-Inch built in 1818." Mrs. Poirier has used it continuously for 25 years. Previous to her ownership it was used by her aunt Miss Catherine M. Phee at Grand Mira, who used it from 1875 to 1910. The wheel is still in a good state of repair as well as strong and fast and the present owner could not be induced to part with it any price.

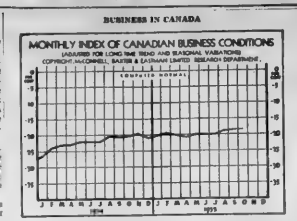
BUSINESS IN CANADA



Business in Canada during the month of October showed a fractional gain over the month previous according to the McConnell, Baxter & Eastman monthly index. The preliminary figure was 98.5 per cent. below normal. Revised index for the previous month showed conditions at 98.8 per cent. below normal. A year ago conditions were 21.1 per cent. under par.

Gains were recorded by two factors, revenue freight loadings, up one-tenth point and construction contract awards, up 1.1 points. Bank debits recorded one-tenth point and electric energy output was down a similar amount.

The combined index shows a gain of nearly ten points, or 18.4 per cent. over October, 1933.

The following table shows the four component factors and the combined weighted index after the usual statistical refinements

	Oct. 1935*	Sept. 1935	Oct. 1934
Carloadings of revenue freight	76.9	76.9	77.6
Construction contract awards	85.3	84.2	62.4
Bank debits	96.3	96.4	94.2
Electric power production	100.7	100.8	80.1
Combined weighted index	81.5	81.3	78.9

Vimy Pilgrimage

Thousands Of Applications Have Been Received In

This is class-reunion time throughout the length and breadth of Canada, and Legion halls, at battalion banquets and church parades, and the lengthening shadows of winter nights cause men of 40 to 43 to reminisce over the days of Ypres, Plug Street, Armentieres, Vimy, Arras and Mons (Conde). Even in the lighter side of things, as these men are wont to do, they always speak with respect of Bill Allen, and then follows the story of Ben is organizer for the Vimy Pilgrimage of the Canadian Legion of the British Empire Service League, which takes place in July of next year." So your reporter, who is of the class of 1914-1918, called on Captain Wm. W. Allen, in his digs on Sparks Street, Ottawa, and found him up to his ears in executive work. "This Pilgrimage," says Captain Allen, "is going to be the Pilgrimage of Pilgrimages. Up to Monday, November 11th, over 2,000 applications for first payment made have been received and approved here at headquarters. The Canadian Pacific Railway and the Cunard White Star Line state that this advance registration is the largest in the history of shipping in Canada. Our Pilgrimage headquarters in France has already made advance billeting arrangements for five thousand people."

"This Pilgrimage is of great spiritual significance," said Captain Allen. "But even with the solemnity of the occasion there will be great fun to be had by all. I note in our application quite a lot of professional and amateur talent basking passage, so we will have some grand concerts both going over and coming back."

Our leading spiritual adviser is of course Canon Scott, who is Padre of Pilgrim Number One in the Pilgrimage. In addition to the unveiling of the Canadian War Memorial at Vimy, the Pilgrimage will participate at the unveiling of the memorials at the cenotaph in London. Many thousands of ex-C.E.F. men will go from the Old Country for the ceremony at Vimy Ridge. Arrangements are now being completed by the British Broadcasting Company for an Empire broadcast of the services."

"Our group of personnel is that unless advance bookings are made, many thousands of ex-service men and their relatives who may wish to go will find that we have not sufficient accommodation if they withhold their applications too long."

Just State Of Mind

Given Ordinary Needful Things Anyone Can Be Happy

Dr Hans Spemann is a professor, one of the chiefs of the University of Freiburg, Germany, and recently was awarded the Nobel Prize for the best contribution to medical science in 1935. The award was a cash sum of $42,000.

But after the money came to him, this great scientist who knows so much more than most people, helplessly asked: "What can one do with so much money?"

That seems the easiest question in the world to answer. Yet to Dr. Spemann it is a puzzle. He has all the scientific equipment he needs and obviously he is happy in his job. So what more does he want? Apparently nothing.

The case of Hans Spemann is another illustration of the dictum that happiness is a state of mind, not a state of material wealth. There are thousands of well-to-do people in every land who are not happy. And for every rich man or woman who is not happy there are thousands of poor, or comparatively poor people, who are quite happy. Happiness is largely governed by the twists of the imagination. If a person is well and is reasonably satisfied with his work and possessions, there happiness lies. One can get over unhappiness by merely accepting one's lot and ceasing to strive for the unattainable St. Thomas Times-Journal.

Women Executives

Many Hold High Positions On Railroads In United States

Miss Ellen Raymond is assistant general freight and passenger agent of the Green Bay and Western Railway. Miss Frances Dorothy Allen is Interne Decorator for the New York Central lines. Miss Pearl Andrews is in charge of cookery on the New Haven dining cars. Dr. Catherine Lankford is surgeon for the Pennsylvania. Miss Daryle Hockman is counsel for the Baltimore and Ohio, which also boasts half a dozen lady passenger representatives, and there are a number of other women in executive positions on railroads in the United States, says the Canadian National Railways Magazine.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

DECEMBER 1

[illegible]

Golden text: The hand of our God is upon all them that seek him, for good. Ezra 8:22.

Lesson: Ezra 7:1 to 8:36.

Devotional reading: Psalm 68:1-8.

Explanations And Comments

Ezra Comes to Jerusalem, Ezra 7: 6-10. Ezra was a learned priest and scribe among the exiles in Babylon. As "a ready scribe in the law of Moses" he not only studied the law but copied it and interpreted it. He sought permission of Artaxerxes, the Persian king, to lead to Jerusalem a large company of exiles. His request was readily granted, thanks to the favor of the Eternal his God (Moffatt's translation). With the company were priests, scribes and singers for the temple service, porters to keep the temple gates (1 Ch. 9:17), and Nethinim, attendants for the temple (1 Ch. 9:2). They left Babylon the first day of the first month (Nisan, corresponding to March-April) of the seventh year of King Artaxerxes' reign, and reached Jerusalem on the first day of the fifth month (Ab, corresponding to July-August), after a journey of nearly four months.

Ezra had set his heart upon teaching in Israel the statutes and ordinances. As for himself, he had set his heart upon seeking to know the law of Jehovah, and, what is more, of doing it.

Nevertheless the knowing what should be done and the doing of it there is, he had often a gulf never bridged. In the words of Horace Bushnell, "Only the good you meditate, or if you never find the time for doing it, have the frankness to confess that your good intentions are hollow and worthless."

Letter of Artaxerxes, King of Persia, with its Instructions about Sacrifying the Temple, Ezra 7:11-26 Artaxerxes not only granted Ezra's request, but he gave him much gold and silver for the temple, and also a letter in which he directed his officers in Judea to do whatever Ezra might ask. "Blessed be Jehovah the God of our fathers," exclaimed Ezra, who hath put such a thing as this in the king's heart, to beautify the house of Jehovah; and hath extended his lovingkindness to me."

Gifts for the Temple Weighed, Ezra 8:24-30. The treasures of gold and silver and sacred vessels which the king and his counselors and the Israelites had given for the temple, Ezra had weighed and counted and given into the charge of 12 priests and 10 Levites, making them responsible for their safe-keeping until the treasure could be again weighed and counted before witnesses in the chambers of the temple—the store rooms around the outer walls of the court of the temple.

On the Way to Jerusalem and the Arrival, Ezra 8:31-36. The river Ahava was set on the twelfth of the first month, and Jerusalem was reached on the first day of the fifth month. God delivered them "from the hand of the enemy and the lier-in-wait by the way." After resting three days, the treasure was weighed in the temple, and burnt-offerings were offered.

Reception Is Perfect

Russian Boy Has Made World's Smallest Radio Set

What is claimed to be the smallest radio receiving set in the world has been constructed by Grisha Gronberg, a 17-year-old inventor of Venetsa, Russia. It is two-fifths of an inch high, three-tenths of an inch wide in length, and weighs one-twentieth of an ounce. The reception is said to be perfect.

Shoe manufacturing was introduced into America in 1629 by Thomas Beard, who brought hides over on the Mayflower.

PATTERN 5009

Grandmother's Fan - the very name suggests romance and olden times. This quilt design - an heirloom from the quiltmaker of long ago, has all the charm the name calls to mind. It's made of prints on lots of them - each one a more colorful block than the last. Your quilt will be a conversation piece as it is beautiful, for odds and ends of left-o- your favorite prints are used up all you'll need.

In pattern 5009 you will find the Block Chart, an illustration for cutting, sewing and finishing together with yardage chart diagram of quilt to help arrange the blocks for single and double bed size and a diagram of block which serves as a guide for piecing the patches as I suggests contrasting materials.

To obtain this pattern send 20 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred) to Household Arts Dept. Winnipeg Newspaper Union, 175 McDermot Ave. E. Winnipeg

PROSPECTS GOOD FOR BEST SKATING SEASON IN HISTORY OF RINK

Family Ticket Sales Likely To Set A Record

Prospects are good for the best season of skating in the history of the rink, this is born from a skater's viewpoint and from a financial standing. Indications pointing to this are the large numbers skating several times a week and the fact that many family tickets have already been spoken for than for many years past. Manager Chas Wilson says that the 5 for $1 rate tickets are also proving popular and are in constant demand.

Folks who have an eye to their own welfare and health and who do not take part in any other active recreation should by all means avail themselves of the skating facilities in the arena. We have one of the largest and best rinks in western Canada and we should also do something some lasting good from the standpoint of obtaining healthy exercise rapidly

THE SEED GRAIN SITUATION

Farmers Should Check Germination of Coarse Grains Now

A large portion of the province of Alberta this year is having a serious shortage of coarse grains that are of satisfactory vitality for seed purposes. The frosts which were general over Alberta prior to harvest have had an effect which more serious than was commonly supposed by producers in general in consequence it is all the more important that each farmer should make sure that his coarse grains are suitable for seeding at an early date so that if they do not prove to be satisfactory, steps may be taken to secure good seed before any supply suitable for seed in his district has been marketed or fed to livestock.

Growers can determine how well their seed germinates simply and satisfactorily at home. The procedure outlined below is not difficult and will show germination and strength of vitality quite accurately.

First clean a portion of the seed thoroughly up to the standard that would ordinarily be seeded. Then make sure that this sample is thoroughly dried. In removing excess moisture in the seed avoid direct heat if a small shallow pan of the seed is exposed in a sunny livingroom window for from ten days to two weeks, it should be in good condition for planting. When thoroughly dried, count out two hundred average kernels and another hundred in half in each of two flower pots or similar containers. These pots should then be placed in a sunny window at ordinary living room temperatures. No attempt should be made to keep the temperatures higher than ordinary. It should be understood that field conditions should be approximated as closely as possible.

Plant the seeds to a depth of from two to two and a half inches. If planting is shallower it will not be possible to observe the strength of growth that is important in good seed. The soil should be moist at all times but not wet. Excessive moisture must be avoided.

Count the number of seedlings that are above the surface at the end of twelve or fourteen days and average the results obtained from the two pots. The result will be a fairly accurate estimate of the vitality of the seed when used under field conditions.

MELBERTA MINUTES

Council of M. D. of Melberta No 483 met in the municipal office, Mannville, Monday, Nov. 11th, 1935. All the councillors present with Reeve Altmann in the chair.

Minutes of the meeting of Oct. 15th were read and adopted.

Correspondence was received as follows: Hudson's Bay Co., in connection with Wild Lands Tax appeals. Appeals against the imposition of the tax on the N. W. 26-52-0-4, N. W. 23-52-0-4 and S. W. 5-52-5-4 for 1933, were allowed and disallowed on the W. ½ of N. W. 5-51-5-4, Dept. of Agriculture, notifying us that M. A. and B. T. Peyton were moving from Chinook on Nov. 5-51-5-4. Dept of Public Works asking us to have the Hayward Lumber Co., Vermilion, send them a bill in duplicate for the material used in repairing the bridge over the Vermilion river, north of Claymore, when it would be paid to them. C. P. R. Co., informing us that they would accept $12.00 per acre for roadway taken off the S. E. ¼ 21-50-5-4, this was ordered paid. Director of Surveys, in connection with roadway taken off the S. W. ¼ 18-52-7-4. The owner in the Scottish Immigrant Aid Society, the secretary was instructed to offer them $12.00 per acre for .61 acres taken for roadway.

The roumell agreed to accept the government scheme for the issuing of direct relief as per their circular letter of Oct. 16th. This means $7.50 for the first two adults, $5.00 from the government and $2.50 from the district and the amount to the family to be split 50% to each. The council also agrees to abide by the decision of the Relief Branch in all disputes in connection with direct relief. It was decided to give recipients of relief cash.

The council recommended Mrs. Anna Nelson for a full Old Age Pension Nomination day was set for Feby 17th, 1936. The following officers were appointed: C. E. Stephenson, R. O. The D. R. O.'s, Dec 1, Mannville Dec. 2, E. K. Speedie, Dec. 3, F. E. McFadden, Dec. 4, R. H. Scott, Dec. 5 W. Jackson and Dec. 6, H. J. Dalton W. E. Scott voted against the appointment of W. Jackson.

The question of pound fees to L. Reid when Trebesty's cattle were impounded was brought up. J. J. Hogue was appointed a committee to interview Reid with power to settle with him.

A conference of delegates from the surrounding municipal districts was called to meet in Vermilion, Nov. 11 1935. This was for the purpose of entering into an arrangement with the C. P. R. Co. and the Hudson's Bay Co. for the deportation of their settlers who wished to be deported. Reeve Steele and Cundal were appointed delegates to attend.

It was decided to purchase a gravel pit from R. Rae at $20.00 an acre.

Meeting adjourned.

RAPID MINING DEVELOPMENT IN NORTH-WESTERN ONTARIO

SIOUX LOOKOUT (Int. Nov. 27 — No similar sized area in the world had the rapidity of mining development experienced by northwestern Ontario, declared Fred V. Selbert, superintendent of natural resources for the Canadian National Railways at Winnipeg, speaking at the closing banquet of the Northwestern Associated Chambers of Commerce here recently.

Two years ago there were two producing mines in the area—the Howey and the Moss. Today there are 16 producers in 12 distinct mining fields from Lake Ian in the Manitoba boundary. They are backed by a total of 27,000 tons of ore per day, and "the year will produce more than $6,000,000 in gold, a production double that of last year.

"Any of those 12 fields is a potential Porcupine or Kirkland Lake. Neither Porcupine or Kirkland Lake had a better start than any one of them," Mr. Selbert said. "We just have made a start in northwestern Ontario—no one can guess what is ahead of the district," he added.

Expenditures by the mining industry in northwestern Ontario jumped from $2,200,000 in 1932 to $5,000,000 in 1934. During the last nine years expenditures have totalled $19,112,000. Approximately 50% of this total has been spent in wages and services, 20 per cent on mining and milling machinery and equipment, 12 per cent on road 10 per cent on explosives and fuel, 10 per cent on miners' stores and hardware and 8 per cent on building materials.

Mining development was helping this area the "last gap" in the transportation into its own, and wielding the Canadian confederation more closely together, he concluded.

The good old days How electionwere won in the good old days the following story tells. Once when by election was pending in Yorkshire Pitt jovially told a great Whig lady that his candidate was sure of victory as that very night he was sending him down £10,000 by trusted hand to buy over the burgesses. "Are you by god" exclaimed the lady, "We'll see." That night the coach containing the Prime Minister's agents was held up by alleged highwaymen and the gold found its way into the coffers of the Whig candidate.

Leading Articles—It is wonder how present day readers of newspapers would like to be confronted with leading articles presented in a style akin to those of an old Country paper published some ninety years ago.

One of its leaders began:— "A before the Almighty's assets we probably be of opinion that the most appropriate punishment for invincible dullness and an unspeakable inaptitude for all instruction especially if dashed with a sneaking obligity of disposition equally incompatible with the grossest ignorance of both is to send the typical or the hardened adversary of a base one—would be the incarnation of a dull ass. Such a one is the writer in the person of an editor. To be eternally mumbling inarticulate past of dolor, to be ceaselessly twisting the toe of the bloke should be round of into action by speaking out or by not speaking out, must be to all of us such ineffable misery that the most vindictive avenge would scarcely impute his infliction on his enemy.

WHEN POTATOES BREATHE

In the storage of potatoes it has always to be remembered that the potato is a living organism and that there are two periods when respiration may become of practical importance at this time these is immediately after digging and the other a period of several days following a sudden rise in storage temperature. To prevent sweating special attention should be given to the ventilation of potatoes handled in bulk immediately after digging, and also after sudden rises in temperature following a period of steady cool storage. The lower the storage temperature the higher will be the initial rate of respiration at a sudden higher temperature. Sudden rises and falls in storage temperatures are to be avoided always. The early fall is the time to provide all possible air circulation by keeping ventilators and doors open until there is danger of freezing. On warm days doors should be closed and opened only at night when the air is cooler. The amount of ventilation required is that which will keep the potatoes dry. From early December towards all ventilators and doors should be closed and protected to prevent the potatoes from being frozen.

Don't Guess But Know
Whether the "Pain" Remedy You Use is SAFE?
Don't Entrust Your Own or Your Family's Well-Being to Unknown Preparations

THE person to ask whether the preparation you or your family are taking for the relief of headaches is SAFE to use regularly is your family doctor. Ask him particularly about "ASPIRIN."

He will tell you that before the discovery of "Aspirin" most "pain" remedies were advised against by physicians as bad for the stomach and, often, for the heart. Which is good for thought if you seek quick, safe relief.

Scientists rate "Aspirin" among the fastest methods yet discovered for the relief of headaches and the pains of rheumatism, neuritis and neuralgia. And the experience of millions of users has proved it safe for the average person to use regularly. In your own best remedies back.

"Aspirin" Tablets are made in Canada. "Aspirin" is the registered trade-mark of the Bayer Company, Limited. Look for the name Bayer in the form of a cross on every tablet.

The girl spoke softly, her dimple showing for a moment, but for her surprise Jack answered in all seriousness: "After what you did during the blizzard? You know better, sis. But Matt's different from some boys, and I wouldn't like to think you'd hurt him."

Sad Nancy, endeavoring to make her voice sound light: "You talk like Aunt Judy! She imagines that every boy who looks my way has lost his heart."

"Well," observed Jack, "most any one would think that Matt did, for I never saw him act so happy and keyed up as he did that evening—and last night too. But I will never, ever forget how excited Mr. Adam was over your finding that crutch! I think that he and Aunt Judy will live now, Nancy. So enthusiastic all of 'em. Do you suppose Dads Mother'll let me come back next winter." With Mark in California studying forestry there'll be short of help here at the ranch; and gosh! I'd like it more'n anything.

"I'll say a good word for you," promised his sister, and then: "Get back to bed Jack. We must be up in good season, and it's long past midnight."

Despite her wakefulness, Nancy was up early next morning, though not so early as Matthew Adam, who had according to Aurora, delivered milk at the Tubbs abode before she was out of bed.

He spoke through the window," she related, and almost frightened Victor into a collapse. He said I was to tell Jack to be ready to ride down on the truck along with the trunks and Matt and Uncle and John (young John, I mean) and Mary Taylor and Juan is. I told him it would look like a straw ride but he said, 'Who cares?' I'll have to admit that for a man who's been on a girl that's goin' two thousand miles away where he'll likely never lay eyes on her again, Matthew Adam looked pretty well resigned. And not more'n three days ago he resembled a man just comin' from the cemetery after buryin' his last relation. He's to drive the Ford with his father and mother and Miss Columbine and Aunt Missy. I declare, if I wasn't quite so flesky I'd squeeze in between on the front seat and go, too."

"Why not go down on the truck?" suggested Miss Columbine, emerging from her bedroom.

"Among all them trunks and young folks and milk cans?" retorted the good woman. "No thank you, Miss Columbine. I have to get back where there's house cleanin' to do even if you are going home with Eve Adam for over Sunday. I must say it was real considerate of Eve to ask you, for this house ti seem about as cheerful as the tomb till we get used to it. Well" (she sighed mournfully), "the last breakfast is ready, and you'd better eat if you've any appetite left which I haven't myself. A cup of coffee and four doughnuts was all I could get down this mornin'. I've took the liberty of inviting Victor Tubbs to dinner, Miss Columbine. I need food, and goodness knows I couldn't eat a bite if I was to be here alone."

The truck was gone at last, leaving Aurora flattered and rosy at Jack's farewell kiss.

"It's just as well," she said, wiping her apron as a last salute, "that Victor wasn't here to see. He's still jealous, Nancy, after more than 30 years of married life; and though Jack didn't mean nothin' in the world by kissin' me good-bye, Victor Tubbs might have misunderstood."

"Which proves that there's no fool like an old fool," declared Miss Columbine tartly. "Here comes the Ford, Aurora. I'd rather have Mark Adam drive us down the pass, but no doubt Matthew will be careful with his load of old folks. Where are you going, Nancy? I thought everything had been brought down."

"I must have one last look at the view from my tower," the girl responded, laughing; but once in the familiar room she tip-toed to a carefully closed closet and drew forth something she had hidden

"Will you send Matt up to get my suitcase, Aurora?" she called with charming assurance from the head of the steep stairs. "Those stupid boys have overlooked it."

The last ride down the historic pass was over. The station came into view, with an impatient "delegation," as Jack called it, on the platform. All too soon a gigantic engine roared past the waiting crowd, and slowly stopped, while, dazed and breathless, Nance found herself mounting steps into the Pullman, a dusky porter armed with luggage in each hand her on, and Jack behind, stopping to call something to somebody . . .

"Section eight this way, lady."

From her window Nance looked out upon a sort of composite picture of that friendly gathering. Then, as the train turned, she caught the glimpse her eyes were seeking: Cousin Columbine in her scarlet middy with Matt close by, bareheaded as she had even him first his hand slipped through and expressed the opinion to him that a glass was a dangerous thing for a respectable married man, as it always contained a head and to ask. Pass the matter please.

Matthew Adam?" she demanded brusquely. "Stop stumbling over your words like that. I'm not a stranger. Don't keep me on tenter hooks a minute longer or I'll do the packing. What are you trying to say?"

And at the reappearance of her own brisk self, Matt laughed, while in the face and eyes of an astonished baggage-man, he caught the oddly-attired lady in a bear-like hug.

"Only that Nance is coming back," he told her joyously. "And—and next time, Miss Columbine, she'll come—to stay!"

The End

A NEW SERIAL STORY

Arrangements have been completed for presenting to our readers a new serial entitled "Fleming's Folly", by that well-known writer, Lawrence A. Keating. This is an absorbing and exciting story of the western prairies, and those who follow the installments as they appear each week, will be thrilled by the intensive situations. This story will be commenced in an early issue. Be sure that you do not miss the opening chapter.

New Death Ray

Designed To Use Against Insect Pests, Could Kill Human Beings

A "death ray" designed for use against insect pests but conceivably capable of being amplified to kill human beings was described at Baltimore to 150 scientists

At the meeting of the eastern branch of the American Association of Economic Entomologists, Dr. Thomas J. Headley, professor of entomology at Rutgers University explained that "sterilization" of insects by "radio waves" requires no more than a "couple of seconds." Animals he said, develop heat more rapidly than do plants, so it is possible to kill the insects by heat before the plant develops sufficient heat to harm itself

His apparatus consists of an electrostatic field confined by two electrodes; by rapid oscillation of an 8,000-volt energy between the electrodes he has killed insects. The electrodes change from positive to negative at a rate of 50,000,000 times a minute, Dr. Headley said

Substitutes For Food

People In Hungary Are Buying Furze And Crown

At the market at Kecskemet (Hungary) crown are on sale where they are fetching as much as three cents each. They are bought by the poor people and then into a form of "chicken broth." Furze are also being sold by the farmers at a shilling a head. Never since the war have the inhabitants of this wealthy district been forced by hard times to resort to such substitutes for food

DOCTORING YOUR DAIRY HERD
Cows aren't machines. They can't tell sick or hurt. But Minard's Liniment makes it easy to cure for their ills. Mrs. Thos. Bulmer of Leeds, B.C., found one of her herd with a lump in her udder, "rubbed it with Minard's Liniment", she says, "and it soon got better." Minard's is best for Cuts, Bruises, Colic, Distemper, etc., and equally good in stable or in house. Well named "King of Pain".

Egypt Will Be Guarded

Britain Will Defend Country Against Any Foreign Attack

Having confidence in the League of Nations to enforce the rights of small nations, Egypt demanded independence from Britain and the removal of British troops from the Nile valley. This she has had for the last 15 years.

However, Egypt did not realize at the time, that her territory will always be coveted, as a key position for any country aiming at naval supremacy in the Mediterranean, African colonies, or mid-Eastern interests. The Suez canal is partly responsible for this. But Napoleon considered Egypt the corner stone of his enterprise, when he dreamed of Eastern conquests, and that was 60 years before the canal was built.

Now an Italian force numbering over 30,000 is on the Libyan border and a vast army is near the Soudan frontier. Egypt would have good reason to worry were it not for the clause in the treaty of 1922, by which Great Britain made herself guardian of Egypt against foreign aggression.

Facts speak plainer than pacts and the Egyptian realizes that the day is passed when a small nation can exist without the fear of aggression from great powers.

Signor Mussolini is quite candid in telling the world, they want Abyssinia for their surplus population, and trade is raw materials. The most violently Anglophobe Egyptian cannot accuse Britain in exploiting his country along these lines, as there has never been any British colonization of Egypt and British arms compete on equal footing with concessions.

The present state of affairs has brought the Egyptians and British together, as they see their interests are mutual

Swedish Economy Program

Request $1,560,000 For Expansion Of Electrified Railroad System

The Swedish State Railways Administration Board has requested 15,600,000 kronor (about $3,750,000) from the government for the 1936 fiscal year, of which some 10,000,000 kronor (about $2,500,000) will be used to expand its electrified railroad system. Construction will cover mainly additions to trunk lines and electrification of minor roads and spurs. All main lines on which such traffic is economically feasible already have been changed from steam.

At the beginning of 1935 electrified government lines totalled 1,351 miles. The expansion program calls for further electrification of 679 miles of which 220 miles will be completed during 1936. The main reason for this program have been economy in cost of operation, present cheapness of money and easy credit, the need of employment and a greater independence from imported coal.

Electrification of Sweden's principal railroad line, 383 miles from Stockholm to Malmo in the south was completed on Dec. 1, 1925. Work on the 285-mile line from Stockholm to Gothenburg on the west coast was also completed and completed the main electrified line from Stockholm to Narvik, Arctic that will connect the capital of Norway

Pedigree Registrations

For the first ten months of 1935 the total number of pedigree registrations with the Canadian National Live Stock Records, which are supervised by the Dominion Minister of Agriculture was 50,124 compared with 54,437 in the corresponding period of 1934. Included in the 1935 registrations are 2,901 horses, 28,765 cattle, 7,647 sheep, 5,724 swine and 1,213 poultry

High Grade Barley

About 500,000 bushels of high grade barley have been placed in storage at Calgary by a malting company. Another million bushels are now being collected. Much of the present storage stock has been secured from growers who held it over until well up out by the company in the spring.

Of the total of 314,154 farms in Western Canada, 222,981 or 71 per cent, keep 1,310,958 head of milk cows.

Phenomenal Doll Sales

Publicity Was Large Factor In The Success Of These Toys

Dolls have been the outstanding best sellers in the toy sections of departmental stores in the United States this year, according to national survey reports of toy world Shirley Temple dolls, Dionne quintuplets and fairy princess dolls, the latter prompted by Colleen Moore's fairy doll house now touring the country, have won first place in over-the-counter sales.

Needless to say, the newspaper, movie and magazine publicity has been a big factor in the success of these toys. As a result of this year's phenomenal doll sales, the stores also report a fine demand for doll clothes and accessories.

Velocipedes and bicycles held a firm place during the summer months and are expected to maintain a strong position with Santa Claus this Christmas

The four best selling games of the past month according to the survey were "Monopoly," "Finance," "Bandel Parcheesi "and "Badminton," all made by different manufacturers

Little Helps For This Week
For I reckon the sufferings of this present time are not worthy to be compared with the glory that shall be revealed in us. Romans 8 18
Believest thou in eternal things? Thou knowest in thy inmost heart Thou art not easy thy soul hath wings
And what thou seest is but part.
Every contradiction of our will, every little ailment, every petty disappointment, will if we take it patiently become a blessing. So, walking on earth we may be in heaven, the ill-temper of others, the slights of the world, the daily accidents with which God hath mercifully strewed our path instead of ruffling or disturbing our peace may cause His peace to be shed abroad in our hearts abundantly

International Language

Weather Men Adopt Program Unifying Means Of Exchanging Reports

An international language for the weather made up of signs and figures instead of words so as to avoid the confusion of varied national languages, is to become uniform for the world's weather man W. H. Gregg, chief of the United States Weather Bureau, asserted recently

Returning from Warsaw he reported that the International Meteorological Organization at its eighth meeting there, with representatives of 42 countries present, adopted a program for unification of codes symbols and units in the exchange of weather reports

The maps on which daily weather forecasts are based will look alike the world over. A black line will mean light rain or drizzle a star will mean light snow and a plain circle will mean clear cloudless skies. Observers weather map whether the observers supplying data for it speak English French Russian Chinese, Arabic or any other language

R. W. Bushell Buys Vermilion City Dairy

Former Creamery Manager Here Returns to Town

R. W. Bushel, a former manager of Burn's Creamery here and for the past 14½ years at Mannville, has purchased the Vermilion City Dairy from H. Chisholm and has already taken charge of the business. The Vermilion City Dairy has one of the most modern pasteurizing plants it is possible to obtain, has a new refrigeration system just installed this summer and is regarded by Health Inspectors as a plant equal to any in the west. They state that a plant on a par with it is one is not to be found in any town in Alberta.

In buying the business here Mr. and Mrs. Colvin wish to think all their customers for the support accorded them and hospitals a like support for the future.

Mr. and Mrs. Colvin have no definite plans but intend staying in Edmonton for a short time. Mr. Colvin has already gone to the city while Mrs. Colvin will follow on Saturday. They were in Vermilion for 4 years and 9 months and during these years he has made a large number of friends. Mrs. Colvin was a tireless worker in the United church and also a member of the U. F. W.

Five Mountees Taking Course At Universities In Canada

The famed Royal Canadian Mounted Police force which hasn't many "unsolved" murders to-day, is adding to its reputation by sending out into the province with the purpose of increasing its efficiency "to always be the best."

In conjunction with a new move instituted by Commissioner Sir James MacBrien, instructor H. Pentland, who is attending law school at the University of Alberta one of five members taking such a course.

Another who qualified for this special training is Lance Corporal James MacBrien, drill instructor at the Saint John detachment and son of the commissioner

It is understood a "mountie" is attending law lectures at each of the following places Dalhousie University, Halifax; University of New Brunswick, Saint John, McGill University, Montreal; University of Saskatchewan, Saskatoon, and University of Alberta, Edmonton.

Carrying Out Contract

Bodies Of Chinese Being Sent To Native Land

A contract with the dead, savouring their peaceful rest by the side of their honorable ancestors in the sunny China, was on its way to fulfillment in Mount Auburn cemetery of Bitchney at Chicago, diggers were exhuming the bodies of 600 Orientals under direction of the Chinese Consolidated Benevolent Association.

During their lifetime it had pledged on conditions of payment of a stipulated fee that it would remove their dead and interred in the land of their fathers and in the sepulchres of their families.

Murder Among Birds

Curator Tells Of Many Tragedies He Has Seen

"Birds often murder each other," according to P. A. Traverner, curator of birds at the National Museum, Ottawa, a delegate at the convention of the American Ornithologists' Union. "It's not always the big birds that kill the little birds. Birds will tackle others of their own species, just like humans."

During his rambles while studying birds Mr Taverner has several times come upon the remains of murdered birds, and often seen the deed committed There are even murderous mysteries, he says

"A case of wanton murder occurred in a long-billed gallery on a small stony island near the north end of Lake Winnipeg. Young gulls of all ages were hiding between boulders and under weeds while a few of the older ones were paddling in the water off shore The adults had taken to wing and circled in great excitement over a nearby lake. One of the large birds flew to a rock. It took what seemed to be a casual peck at one of the birds swimming. The young bird was distressed and as if its disorganized senses were a-signal, a considerable portion of the adults turned on the unfortunate bird and in a few moments only a few drifting feathers were left to tell of the tragedy."

Another time Mr. Taverner saw a bird that had dared to fly through a flock of gulls, glide down to the water, and the whole flock set upon it leaving only a little bunch of brown jetsam. A red-tailed hawk and a raven fought to the death on Point Pelee, and another clear case of murder occurred in a gallery in the St. Lawrence when a young gull wandered out of its territory and was killed with one stroke of the heavy bill of another gull

Cousin Pays Visit

Buffalo Resident Comes To Canada To Greet Lord Tweedsmuir

William Tweedsmuir of Buffalo who used to go to school in Scotland with a young cousin, John Buchan who is now Lord Tweedsmuir crossed the border on his way to Ottawa to see, for the first time in 60 years, the young dreamer, now Lord Tweedsmuir and governor-general of Canada.

The cousins last saw one another in Aberdeenshire, Scotland, four decades ago. William Reid is four years older than the governor-general of Canada.

"John was brought up in a manse and I on a farm," Mr Reid said here, "and went to the same school together. I was not surprised to hear he had become a writer, for he was always a bookworm. Nor was I surprised when they elected him to the house of commons. But when he was appointed governor-general of Canada, I thought it was about time to look him up again."

Delicious Crisp Cookies

This Recipe Proves They Are Easy To Make

Temperature: 600 degrees F.
Time: 15 minutes.

½ cup "Crown Brand" Corn Syrup
½ cup shortening
½ cup sugar
½ cup "Crown Brand" Corn Starch
1 teaspoon vanilla
½ cup finely chopped nuts

Method: Melt the chocolate in the top of a double boiler. Remove from heat and add the shortening, sugar, "Crown Brand" Corn Syrup, eggs, flour, Benson's Corn Starch and vanilla, beating the whole mixture thoroughly, being sure the eggs are added one at a time. Spread the mixture very thin on sheets which have been oiled with Mazola. Sprinkle with nuts and bake in a hot oven. Cut while warm. These cookies are very crisp and easily made.

Compressed Air Used For Dislodging Coal In Mines

A blast of compressed air is being used for dislodging coal from seams in some Illinois and Indiana mines, it was announced here. Heavy steel cylinders charged with air at a pressure up to 15,000 pounds to the square inch are inserted in drill holes. The air is released through a valve operated by remote control. The coal is pushed out of the seam in large chunks than when blasted and is therefore more valuable The greater safety for the miners is the prime factor New York Herald Tribune.

New Comets Of Stars

Discloses Number, Size Of Sun, Not Previously Identified

An astronomical star census, by a new method reported to the National Academy of Sciences at Charlottesville, Va., increases the theoretical mathematical chances of life like that on earth existing elsewhere in the universe.

This report does not discuss the possibilities of life, but shows a larger number of stars the size of our sun than previously identified. Its new star census is directly into statistics by which astronomers have been calculating the chances that there might be other suns with planet families and evolutions just like ours.

Such an "accident" was once considered remote. Lately the almost incredible multiplication in the estimated number of stars has caused astron-mers to consider the "accident" of exact similarity more possible, and the chances favor the existence of an increased number of specific places where there might be population.

The star count was made on "dwarf" and "giant" stars by P. Van de Kamp and A. H. Vyssotsky of the Leander McCormick observatory, University of Virginia.

Forgotten Fortunes

British National Debt Commission Holding Sum Totaling $20,000,000

Forgotten fortunes being held by the British National Debt Commissioners now total nearly $20,000,000 according to an announcement in London. The sum represents the value of British Government securities and their accumulated dividends which have never been claimed by the original purchasers. One of these holdings—in Consols—is worth nearly $1,000,000. No one has ever attempted to claim it. An English woman living in Marseilles, France, did not even know that she possessed a fortune amounting to $200,000 with accumulated dividends totalling nearly $100,000. For years she had lived by borrowing or begging from relatives or neighbors. "It is difficult to give the reason for the overlooking of what in many cases are substantial fortunes," an official of the National Debt Commissioners said.

National Memorial

Will Be Unveiled On Vimy Ridge July 26, 1936

Canada's national memorial on Vimy Ridge will be unveiled on Sunday, July 26, 1936, Hon. Ian Mackenzie, minister of national defence, said.

The announcement was made in the course of the minister's address at the 10th "birthday party" of the Canadian Legion, celebrated by a banquet at which 1,200 ex-service men, their wives and friends were present.

In the chair was Brig.-General Alex Ross, C.M.G., of Yorkton, Sask. Dominion president of the Canadian Legion, who called for a period of silence in token of respect for the memory of the late Admiral Jellicoe.

Hon. C. G. Power, minister of pensions, declared that there would be no raids on the roll of the unemployed, and 13,000 more, in receipt of small pensions for war disabilities, are on departmental relief. "Many are no longer employable in an age of keen economic competition. Their plight has attained the proportion of a national problem," he said.

Big Brother Movement

Religious Differences Are Buried In Paying Tribute To Worker

Frank T. Sharpe, secretary of the big brother movement, who died recently, was buried in Toronto. Participating in the funeral service were a Jewish rabbi, a Roman Catholic priest, a United Church minister, a juvenile court judge, and a judge of the domestic relations court.

Rabbi Sachs read from the Psalms, Father Michael McGraw and Rev. Canon Agar led in prayer and Rev. C. A. Gowans spoke on Mr. Sharpe's religious life. Judge Hawley Mott spoke briefly on the work in the big brother movement and of his achievements with the youth of Toronto, and Judge Hocking read the Scripture lesson.

NEHEMIAH REBUILDING THE WALL OF JERUSALEM

Golden text: The people had a mind to work. Nehemiah 4:6.
Lesson: Nehemiah 2:1 to 7.4.
Devotional reading: Psalm 6:8.

Explanations And Comments

The Ridicule of Sanballat and Tobiah, 4:1-6. "What are these feeble Jews up to?" mockingly questioned Sanballat before his brethren and the army of Samaria. "Do they think they can do it all in a day?" "We expect to bring the stones to life out of these heaps of rubbish." And Tobiah joined in the ridicule. "That stone wall which they are building," he said, "will be broken down if a fox tries to scale it." Their words were repeated to Nehemiah, and he appealed to God to judge them.

The work progressed so rapidly for the people "had a mind to work," that the rebuilt walls soon attained half their height.

The secret of much of the failure in the lives of men, the ground for much of the finest success, may easily be discovered in these words. "The people had a mind to work." Great things are done when men and women are mainly done. The City of God does not spring up over night like a mushroom. Its building requires hard and patient and faithful toiling, and the men who do not willing to give that will not help greatly in the undertaking. At the moment there is a great shortage of the work by which measures their daily bread, but there is still plenty to do in that great enterprise of setting up God's Kingdom among men. It is calling loudly for men and women who have a mind to work.

Many Enemies Conspire Together to Stop the Work, 4:7, 8, 11. Common hatred has a wonderful power of uniting former foes, and the various peoples of the land, Arabians, Ammonites, Ashdodites, as well as Samaritans and Philistines, were in opposition. When they learned that the work of rebuilding the wall was progressing rapidly and that the breaks were being filled in, they were greatly angered. They feared to have Jerusalem again a powerful political centre, but greater than this fear was their hatred of the religious ideals that inspired its rebuilding. They agreed to go to Jerusalem together, capture it, and by violence would terrify the timid, confusion would result, and work would stop. They planned to come so stealthily as to take the Jews completely by surprise. Nehemiah posted sentinels day and night, and prayed, and "to pray and watch is the secret of victory."

Building and Building, 4:13-23. Nehemiah formulated the strategy of the lowest spaces behind the walls and in such open places he stationed, placed people with arms, arrows for use when the enemy was at a distance, spears as the enemy drew nearer, and swords for a hand-to-hand fight. And when he beheld the enemy approaching in the distance, he commanded for the Jews to fight, not fearing that their plan for a sudden attack was known to the Jews, entrusted, and the inter reamed their work upon again. Since the work was done by men with a sword at their side, which all he ever held in his hand, and which he wore even when he slept, and which he laid aside only when he went to bathe.

Tomb Among Buddhists

U.S. Scientist Will Be Buried In Chinese Monastery

Alan Priest, curator of the Oriental department of the Metropolitan museum has a newly completed tomb waiting for him in the Buddhist monastery of Chu'ai Tai Sze, on the monastery of the Ordaining Terrace.

The religious structure, 25 miles from Peiping, dates back to the third century A.D.

In the communal graveyard, dating back to the Ming dynasty, Mr. Priest has his tomb. It is the typical Buddhistic form of shaped, gray bricks, rising ten feet and looking not unlike a crème de menthe bottle. It is overshadowed by a great pagoda and other shrines 400 years old. Giant evergreen trees equally ancient give shade.

At present the plaque on the tomb bears merely the date of erection in Chinese characters, but it might some day include the character "Pu," Mr. Priest's name in Chinese.

In order to receive this special favor of resting in death among the monks, the American made friends with the chief abbott of Chich Tai Sze, and in a minor way is considered one of his followers. Mr. Priest, after graduation from Harvard, participated in an archaeological expedition to China, speaks and reads Chinese, and has had America's leading sinologists. He put the finishing touches to a book manuscript on Chinese subjects while on leave in Peiping.

Grim Curio For Sale

Cabinet Owned by Notorious Poisoner Has Sinister History

A large, highly-ornamented cabinet, with a sinister history, was on view in London at Selfridge's recently.

It was given to Lucrezia Borgia, the notorious "mass" poisoner of the Renaissance period, by her brother Cesare. It contains drawers in secret drawers in which Lucrezia is reputed to have kept liqueurs and wines. The most interesting feature, however, is the key, in the handle of which is hidden a needle which remained embedded in a deadly poison.

Lucrezia's enemies often attempted to open the cabinet, but their ignorance of the existence of the lowest spaces behind the walls and in such open places she stationed, placed people with arms, arrows for use when the enemy was at a distance, spears as the enemy drew nearer, and swords for a hand-to-hand fight. 2 Things to Do
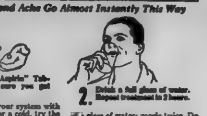
TO EASE COLD INSTANTLY
Discomfort and Ache Go Almost Instantly This Way



1. Take two "Aspirin" Tablets—make sure you get "Aspirin."
2. Drink a full glass of water.

Instead of taxing your system with strong medicine for a cold, try the way pictured above — the modern, easy way. Your own doctor will approve it. And it takes hold of even a bad cold almost immediately.

The "Aspirin" you take will start combating your cold internally at once; it breaks up sore, rush and stir 3 "Aspirin" Tablets in a third of a glass of water; gargle twice. Do as directed.

"Aspirin" Tablets are made in Canada. "Aspirin" is the registered trade-mark of the Bayer Company, Limited. Look for the name Bayer in the form of a cross on every tablet.

LAWRENCE A. MEATING

CHAPTER I.

Chill with promise of approaching winter, a low morning, sighing wind curled down from the snow peaked Captain's Mountains twenty miles west to devil-dance with macabre glee in the wide main street of the cowtown of Rawhide.

Buckboard teams and saddle horses lined the Jumper hitchrails before Sam Pichett's Cowboy Palace, the false fronted Half Moon Saloon, and the three-story Trailend Hotel across the street. With ears flapped and muzzles covered by blue woolen mufflers, roans, mustangs, and bronks huddled together in morose resignation to the sting and sigh of dust-devils that came and then all but hid them from view.

Through brand, hazy windows of the hotel lobby could be seen a big log fire, and a few men sitting near it. Outside, in the main street, there was a great shortage of the work by which measures their daily bread, but there is still plenty to do in that great enterprise of setting up God's Kingdom among men. It is calling loudly for men and women who have a mind to work.

Many Enemies Conspire Together to Stop the Work, 4:7, 8, 11. Common hatred has a wonderful power of uniting former foes, and the various peoples of the land, Arabians, Ammonites, Ashdodites, as well as Samaritans and Philistines, were in opposition. When they learned that the work of rebuilding the wall was progressing rapidly and that the breaks were being filled in, they were greatly angered. They feared to have Jerusalem again a powerful political centre, but greater than this fear was their hatred of the religious ideals that inspired its rebuilding. They agreed to go to Jerusalem together, capture it, and by violence would terrify the timid, confusion would result, and work would stop. They planned to come so stealthily as to take the Jews completely by surprise. Nehemiah posted sentinels day and night, and prayed, and "to pray and watch is the secret of victory."

Building and Building, 4:13-23. Nehemiah formulated the strategy of the lowest spaces behind the walls and in such open places he stationed, placed people with arms, arrows for use when the enemy was at a distance, spears as the enemy drew nearer, and swords for a hand-to-hand fight. And when he beheld the enemy approaching in the distance, he commanded for the Jews to fight, not fearing that their plan for a sudden attack was known to the Jews, entrusted, and the inter reamed their work upon again. Since the work was done by men with a sword at their side, which all he ever held in his hand, and which he wore even when he slept, and which he laid aside only when he went to bathe.

Growls and nods proved the body of ranchers in hearty accord. "Ain't no city gent gonna tell me where to feed my cattle!" threatened redheaded Burr Calgan.

"What's the gov'nment got to say about this, anyhow?" another man demanded.

"Anybody tried to stop up from sundown to them foothills, he's plumb liable to get his neck stretched on the handiest blue pine!" loudly declared Gyp Vaills.

"Boys," Link put in, "I don't like this interference any better than you do. But it won't solve our problems to hang anyone, or put up a gunfight. Down at Ox Draw they held a rockpile party with a governor's agent for the honored guest. The result was a regular small-time war, with seven killed, cattle run off, and the Ox Draw men and saddles ruined. The government won. Ox Draw cattle stayed out of the foothills last summer, didn't they?"

"That's right." As everyone looked his way Otto Pieper, the scrawny necked president of the Stockmen's Protective Club paused a moment to pat over his shining bald head as if in search of the hair that once had grown there, and caused Link Adams' spade to bob up and down in nervous preparation for further speech.

"It'd be suicide," he quavered. "Kill ten agents and 50 soldiers'll come. Hang the lot of 'em and five hundred'll be here next day. No, sir," Otto declared with emphasis. "This gov'rnment order means what it says. Fleming is dead right about that. I stand for everything fair on the range, but I'm for the American flag, too! That there, oh, striped cross o' patriotism borne so fearlessly by a host of honest-arnestin' pioneers like ourselves. Coots, would you jump at the hand that's feedin' yuh? Then cut out this talk of hanging and killing." Pieper advised earnestly. "Abandon it, I say, and—"

"Elect you to Congress!"

There was a laugh at Pieper's expense, for it rippled and died as a cotton elbowed his way to the front of the crowd until he stood near burly, red-faced Roper Kilgo. Roper's hot words were calculated to inflame others to his own fiery impulsiveness.

"I'm not right in talkin' big, but what will it get yuh? For years them foothills have been free. Now they're closed, an' we're liable to be kicked off. To that justice? Why, there wouldn't be a settlement in the whole west if it wasn't for cattlemen!

"I say," he went on, warmed to alcoholic bitterness, "if government agents come here to enforce this lynch 'em. Show who's boss. Are we goin' to let them eastern guys tell us what to do with our land? If we're goin' to lose everything anyhow, we might as well fight!"

His words brought great approval from several men in a series of low muttered growls that ran around the hotel lobby. Watching closely the man his own foreman, forthright Buster Townsend, apparently swayed by this suggestion of rough and ready resistance. So also was Honest John Mulrooney, a heavily built Irishman Fleming's agent there. Marty Bush, the local cattle agent, remained calm, as did a few others. Fearful lest the meeting get out of hand so that he could not offer the plan for which he had summoned them here, Link sought some means of placating the men.

"A year ago we talked of ways of improving our range, making more money out of steers. I suggested a remedy which is even more important to us now. What we need is permanent relief."

"Irrigation, I suppose," sneered Hamilton. "You been cracked on it ever since you came here." His sneer did slightly as he faced the crowd "What's the use talkin' about a scheme that's never ever been tried? I say we got to fight for our rights, or nobody'll even feel sorry for us!"

"Who says it's never been tried?" Roper Kilgo spoke up good naturedly. "I'm for fightin' out, in case irrigation'd be a good thing. Especially 'cause like Pieper told us, boys, we can't fight the whole U.S. Army.

"Let's hear what Link's got to say" he went on in a persuasive tone "I never thought much about waterin' dand land, but Fleming's talked it a long time, and I reckon he's gone into it plumb thorough. Tells me he got Soak Torney to draw up plans for a scheme to irrigate the whole Valley. I'm with you guys on whatever's decided, but this grazin' order means business, so we ought to look into the wise proposition."

Link felt a thrill of elation at the words brought instant praise. He had begun to fear from Roper's silence that he was failing him. No particular friends, this was one of the rare occasions on which they found themselves working in harmony. Fleming had ridden to the Box 50 yesterday to win this powerful support for his irrigation scheme—at which Kilgo, like most other ranchers, had always scoffed. But the grass-roots plan of the big rancher to reconsider, for he was the largest herd of beef cattle in Bronc County.

"Tell yuh, Link," Roper had declared after the visitor outlined his purpose, "I'll do what I can to have the boys think it over, anyhow? I guess they'll buck it, but I guess we're all willin' to be shown."

This was indeed a concession, and it roused hope in the Star Loop owner. "That's all I ask," he grinned, eagerly. "Don't let anyone get the men in a receptive frame of mind! I'll explain to them. If they reject it we haven't lost anything. And if they don't, I bet I'll take country will be a changed place!"

Kilgo had studied his visitor closely. "Reckon you'll have to get Bronc County—and, Link had come to suspect, the real power behind local politics. He was a big cattleman, a boss, a czar, jealous of his prestige and ruling with an iron fist. The man who dared defy him or oppose Roper was doomed to defeat. There were whispered stories almost between men, that those who opposed had marked with his wrath, and the series of misfortunes which came to them themselves. Coots, would you snap at the hand that's feedin' yuh? Then cut out this talk of hanging and killing." Pieper advised earnestly. "Abandon it, I say, and—"

"Elect you to Congress!"

The professor is head of the fine arts department of McMaster University, and has hit on the idea of renting out the collegeowned pictures at 10 cents for two weeks.

"The 10 cents fee is really a guarantee of interest," the professor told The Herald. "It will mean that the students won't just drag the pictures home, put them aside and pay no more attention to them. I feel that the dime will be a sort of premium, and I think that a deeper appreciation of art will be fostered this way."

At present the pictures are on exhibition at the university. There are 75 now framed and ready to be rented. The collection contains pictures of the 17th and 18th century masters, as well as some modern etchings and impressionist. Among the older pictures are Gainsborough's "Portrait of Graham," Lawrence's "Master Lampton," and Gilbert Stuart's "Portrait of Washington."

There are no Canadian reproductions, because the work of Canadian artists are not reproduced in such proportions. There are English, French, Italian and one or two Spanish portraits.

The idea of renting pictures originated two years ago with a friend of Prof. Longman at Brown University in the United States.

Britain's Defence Plans

Country Obliged To Bring Forces Up To Strength

Britain proposes to spend one billion dollars at once in building up the navy and the air force to make them the strongest in the world. Britain is to take no chances. She is not going to trust pious hopes any longer. If trouble comes, she is going to be prepared for it. Might has again taken the place of right as a solution for international issues, and if preparedness for war can stop war, Britain is going to be ready to do the stopping.

This is a tragic situation to develop so soon after the great world war. Britain, however, is blameless for it. She disarmed, while others were arming. She cut down her defence forces to a dangerous low level, as an example to other nations, an example which they refused to follow. Under these circumstances it is fitting to be wondered at that realism has taken the place of idealism in Britain's defence plans.—Ottawa Times.

Raising Gigantic Toads

To Be Used To Curb Increase Of White Grub

An "army" of gigantic toads is being mobilized at the Mevrags sugar experimental station in North Queensland, Australia, to the rescue, they will be flung into action against a certain kind of crop-destroying white grub. Quickly the first batch of toads were imported from Hawaii. Now there are 2,000 of them and the number is increasing rapidly. It is said to be the first time that such creatures have bred in captivity.

Canada-India Trade

Bright prospects for increasing trade between Canada and India through direct steamship services between the two countries were seen by Major J. G. Parmelee, deputy minister of trade and commerce, on his ada Major Parmelee assured importers and exporters doing business with India full co-operation from the department of trade and commerce.

Little Helps For This Week

Then I said, I have labored in vain, I have spent my strength for nought. Isaiah 50.4.

Because I have spent the strength
Thou gavest me
In struggle which Thou never didst ordain,
And have but heaps of life to offer Thee—
O Lord I do repent

It is the best thing that God wants, not the dregs of our exhaustion. If the people about you are carrying on their business or their amusements at a pace which drains the life out of you, resolutely take a slower pace, be called a laggard, and with economy, prepare to do your work than they, but be what you were meant to be and can be. Every man must have their natural limit of power as much as an engine, ten horse power, or twenty, or a hundred. It is only fit to do a certain kind of work and you need a certain kind and amount of fuel. In your occupations try to possess your soul in peace. Accustom yourself to do whatever you have to do with tranquility that you may have peace.

Unusual Source of Wealth

Yugoslavian Youths Making Money Through Selling Frogs

A plague of frogs has brought wealth to the districts around Valjevo, Yugoslavia. All the summer the frogs made life almost unbearable. Their presence on the roads made motoring dangerous and their croaks made conversation out of doors almost impossible. Then two youths from the district went to Paris for a holiday. There they found frog legs a popular delicacy and returned home to start the business of shipping them to Paris. Exports of Valjevo frogs now go to Paris regularly by air and merchants are finding their frogs have legs of "gold."

Not Well Acquainted

The man with the suitcase chased the train to the end of the platform and failed to catch it. He slowly walked back, mopping his brow, an interested onlooker remarked

"Miss that train?"

"Oh, not much," was the reply. "You see, I never got to know it very well."

MANY DONATIONS TO 'SUNSHINE'

The annual meeting was held in the Town hall on Nov. 20th, 1935, which passed the minutes of the last meeting, received the secretary's report and the financial statement.

The Association wishes to thank J. H. Pinchin for 4 quarters of beef on the hoof.

J. H. Andrews for butchering, cutting and delivering it to the Association's rooms.

Pastime Club — $10.00
Legion & Ladies Auxiliary $35.00
Queen Esther Chapter $10.00
Hockey $12.50
Elks $20.00

Other free use of their hall for entertainments.

To those for their services for a dance.

Lieutenant Wilson for the offer of his services as a nurse.

A proposition from Mr. Wm. Pibbs, Jr. for raising funds for the association was thought best not to be undertaken just now and the thanks of the meeting was passed to Mr. Pibbs for his interest in the work.

It was decided to accept the offer of the Elks of their hall and to put on a dance. Mr. Urquhart, Mr. Kirby, Mr. Glanfield and Mr. Scott were appointed a committee to carry it out.

Mrs. Firth presented a report of clothing distributed from February, 1935 to the date of the meeting which represented 458 articles and the thanks of the Association was extended to her for her splendid co-operation and support and also to Mrs. Floyd Olsen who so ably assisted her.

The citizens are asked to contribute any cast off clothing and on behalf of the Scouts and Cubs Canon Leversedge offered their assistance in the collection if a phone message is sent to him.

A number of matters were discussed relative to the operation for the coming season which it is felt will tax all the resources of the Association and the co-operation of all the citizens of the town and district is asked in this number which appeals to them.

The election of officers for the season of 1935-36 resulted as follows — Hon. President Mayor Robinson, President, J. W. G. Morrison, K.C. Vice-President Mrs. C. L. Whitby, Cow Treas. A. E. Kaiser, Executive Mrs. Firth, Lieut. Williams, Mrs. J. W. G. Morrison, Mrs. Tayler, Mrs. A. V. Mitchell, Mr. Cooper, Canon Leversedge, Mr. C. S. Kirby, Mr. Harry Scott, Mr. W. Glanville, Mr. Urquhart.

The citizens of the town and district are asked to notify the secretary of any private contribution they make so that there will be no overlapping with the work of the Association — also all the contributions you can for the town so that all needy will get something and not some get more than they can use at one time.

All donations will be acknowledged through the Standard each week.

Don't forget Sat. Dec. 7th is the date of the annual Bazaar, Tea and Homecooking sale of the Women's Association of the United church. Hours, 3 o'clock till 6 in Elk's Hall. 29-2c-1

CALGARY, Nov. 28 — Effort to attract eastern capital to Alberta for developing extensive salt deposits at McMurray will be made while Ross is in the east for the inter-provincial conference Hon. C. C. Ross minister of lands and mines stated here Thursday.

A meeting was held in connection with the skating rink, which will be going in full swing soon. A meeting with the same business in view will be held on Wednesday evening December 4th.

Everybody who attended the Tindall double wedding dance last week received a piece of wedding cake to dream on. Hoess hoping all the wishes and dreams come true.

The Autumn Leaf co-operative society held a directors meeting at the store at Asbundale on Thursday afternoon Nov. 28th. On the Saturday previous, Nov. 23rd a meeting meet ing was held in Battleview school. The bowling last season gave all the members great satisfaction and it is intended next year to launch a schedule that will include several more members to the ring.

Sixteen Years Ago To-day

ISLAND HILL

We regret to learn of the serious illness of John MacKinnon. He has gone to a hospital in Edmonton to undergo a major operation. His numerous friends wish him a speedy recovery.

The children's Christmas concert on event looked forward to annually by the children and parents here will take place Friday 20th at the school hall. Mr. H. Webber the teacher is hard at work training his pupils and hopes to stage a program that will be pleasing to all concerned.

Friday last, under the musical direction of Burt's orchestra, a dance took place at the school at which a large crowd was present, representative of the districts at Campbell Lake, Morrison Asbundale, Poplar Heights, King Edward and Island Hill. A very pleasing interlude was the singing of the Misses O'Fee. Frank Debard journeyed from town to act as floor master. Frank has for a good number of years acted as floormaster to the community dance here and he is in all fairness entitled to a better name. What say you Bert?

Housewarmers Night will be celebrated here Tuesday 31st December by a dance. Keep this date open and get your invites ready. Full particulars will be advertised later in the standard.

Congratulations to Pat McCambridge Jr. at Campbell Lake who as a member of the Island Hill Junior Ukrop Club does first prize for his wheat with a score of 96 a performance for which he deserves and is justly awarded the Medal. Philip Tuvell was second with a score of 95 a merrits one per to mature too.

We learn that on Sat. Mr. Mel Malloy is looking quite ill. Michael by the way is adding to his laurels given room by taking over also her farm, south east of Clandonald.

Another old friend we met was Bob Arbuckle of, as lively as a young kitten. Bob we hope you get your mitt alright. Bob was hale from Bailey mena 1 later, tells a good story of the misfortunes of a well known Bailey resident and of all the ghastly consequences. Well, what was it, don't you see it all in the papers. He has a wedding lined up for Christmas, so cannot be a man's life one and build was practically new so the happy man we bet a good saddle is he dropped it we hope we let it either rain sadle I mean as all he's asked him to propose to her. Bob finished the story with a tremble. Come over in our set and see it.

Inspector Pickard paid a visit to the school here on Monday.

W. M. S. NOTES

A very pleasant evening was spent at the home of Mrs. Thos. Hall on Thursday, Nov. 28th when the Women's Missionary Society of the United church met for a social evening. Mrs. Hall was assisted in entertaining by Mrs. Bell. Mrs. Lovell presided over the business session and after the usual opening exercises Mrs. Hall read a paper on "Missionary Work in Japan." Mrs. Bell gave a reading and Mrs. Lovell sang a solo. Mrs. Pibbs also favored with a solo. Mrs. Pibbs expressed the appreciation of the ladies present to Mrs. Hall for her kindness in opening her home for the meeting. Mrs. Hall served delicious refreshments and a very pleasant evening was spent.

Vermilion, Alta., Dec. 5, 1935.

A determined effort to collect clothing is being made by Associated Sunday School this and next few weeks. The actual work of canvassing is being undertaken by the Vermilion Boy Scouts who are going from home to home asking for every article of discarded clothing, boots and shoes, stockings, sox, coats, dresses, underwear or bedding that you have to spare. Nothing is too badly worn to turn over to Sunshine. Many of these articles can be cut down for smaller children and some shivering poorly clad person will appreciate it.

Gather together now all your discarded clothing for Sunshine. The scouts will call for it. Help them by having the bundle all ready.

NEIGHBORHOOD NARRATIVES

From the Neighborhood of the South-East

As the Christmas season draws near and one is reminded of pleasurable additions to friends, old and new, it is hard to take time off to devote to the little matters of everyday life. Commonplace affairs seem so much wearing when echoes of preparations for xmas entertainment fill the air when the young hopeful gets highly excited over a decorated tree Hung-tensed, and hundreds of tree reach out to one from everywhere in remembering the season of goodwill. Even various rivalries lose their sting, and contracts made solely with a thought to business.

For some of good wishes of the neighborhood a Saturday bungalow is heartedly Bush are very well known and highly respected members of the community. Every happiness is awarded the couple.

We would like to thank Wilkinson for explanations in regard to delay. She tells the whole case for all of us, and further comment is unnecessary.

The Wauneta school Xmas concert takes place on Friday evening, Dec. 20th the Club dance being held later on a New Year's Masquerade. The Union concert is unscheduled as being held Saturday evening Dec. 21st.

If you are concerned with a mouse or two more glimpses into the future maybe you can be helped out by Fortune Teller at Woodvale through the services of Madame Mystaly. But if you want a glimpse of the Standard but the trip for their pains

CIVIC LEAGUE AWAY TO START

The Civic league schedule got away to a good start last night with a double-header, as a result of which the Elks and Texas Oilers head the standing.

	ELKS	COLLEGE
1st game	2	1
2nd game	2	1
Total	4	2

100 college supporters kept the V. A. team on their toes for two periods when they outplayed the opposition but could not score, the angle then faded badly in the 3rd and the Elks, last year's champs, ran in three goals. Waldenberg scored a pretty goal to open, Doug Brimacombe tallied from a mix up and then Dunc laid a perfect pass to Jim Gilbert for the third counter. The college team, with the exception of Kalal are a very fast running team, they are speedy but lack ability to score at the present time.

	TEXACO	LEGION
Total	3	0

Texas Oilers got the first three goals and then the Legion came back with two in the third but just fell short of the scorer. Corson scored from Lederoute, then Lederoute and Murray teamed in the sandwich period. Curtiss Barr and Dengnauth tallied for Legion markers.

The official standing etc will appear next week.

Referees—E. Corson and R. Carroll

BRIDE IS "SHOWERED"

A shower for Miss Margaret Galloway was held at Union school Tuesday evening, Nov. 28. The neighbors and friends gathered together in the school, which was prettily decorated with pink and white streamers, in the centre of the room hung a big white wedding bell.

When the charming bride arrived, everybody young and old joined in some lively games. Then the bride was conducted to a chair beneath the white bell.

To the march of "Wedding Bells" little Violet and Raymond, cunningly dressed as bride and groom drew up to the waiting bride a sleigh laden with many white gifts. In behalf of the friends, Mrs. Leonard Vanwood spoke a few words to the bride, to which she graciously responded. Miss Galloway was the recipient of many beautiful and useful gifts, and one which was a lovely plush arm chair. A dainty lunch was then served followed later with dancing. It was altogether a very pleasant evening the friends enjoyed by everyone.

"GRAIN FORUM" IS NEW FRIDAY RADIO FEATURE

Grain Trade To Sponsor Short Informative Talks and Music

Friday, December 6th, at 9 p. m. Central standard time and 8 p. m. Mountain standard time will mark the opening of a new all-Western program, known as "The Grain Forum" which will be broadcast over a net work of Western stations every Friday at the same hour. It is sponsored by the Winnipeg Grain Exchange and the North West Grain Dealers' Association and promises to contain several interesting features. The initial music will be provided by a string orchestra known as the "Cereal Strings" and, on occasions, by a specially selected group of male singers.

Short, interesting addresses of not more than ten minutes duration will deal with various aspects of the production, distribution and marketing of grain.

An invitation will also be extended to all those interested in the growing of grain to submit questions on agricultural problems all of which will be answered. The more important questions and answers will be broadcast.

The first talk on December 6th will be introductory to the series and will contain some announcements of particular interest to the farming community.

On December 13th a short talk on The World's Foodstuffs and the Place occupied by Wheat" will be given and on December 20th will be devoted to a special Christmas broadcast entitled "The Carol and the Bible" ensemble.

Other talks planned for early December are "Lands and Land Company" [illegible] Sessions of the Committee. Elevator [illegible] Transportation, What it does and what it does not do. The factors that govern and influence the price of wheat.

The Trade Agreement

About all that can be said at this juncture in support of the Canada-United States trade agreement signed at Washington on Fr day, Nov. 15, is that it is a step in the right direction and it will be a profitable to further consummate in the interests of a freer flow of trade and commerce between the two great neighboring and friendly countries.

Both the former Canadian administration and the newly-elected Dominion government are deserving of congratulation and congratulations for their respective shares in the negotiations which culminated in a pact to promote greater commercial intercourse between the two States, geographically and ethnologically designed for close relationships.

In the far, however, no judgment can be pronounced on the tangible benefits to be derived by the two countries if the Washington treaty of November 15 be a result of the agreement, that is a verdict which must await results demonstrable after the pact has been in operation for awhile and perhaps, for some considerable time.

That a statement which cannot be emphasized too strongly. For it must be borne in mind that the benefits of a reciprocal commercial agreement cannot be reaped immediately by parties arriving upon one can the mutually exchange of commodities. Such benefits as may accrue to each country can not be realized in the earlier stages of the operations of an agreement.

There are good reasons for this. The amount of the duty reductions involved may be so massive that they will determine the quantity and value of the goods exchanged between the co-operating signatories. There must be an available supply to meet a demand at the time the demand requires it. The demand must exist to take care of the supply. Trade practices and seasonal exigencies are contingencies which have to be reckoned with. New financial arrangements have to be made when commodities are diverted into new channels of trade. Existing stocks may have to be liquidated. New methods of packing and shipping may be involved.

Then too it should also be pointed out that a number of the commodities on which duties have been reduced under the agreement are subject to quarantine restrictions and these will have some bearing in limiting the benefits to be derived.

These are only a few of the factors involved in the diversion of trade over new routes or in diverting it into old channels. There are many others, and because of this the Canadian producer must expect to wait awhile before he is able to reap enhanced prices for the products he expects to sell on a new market and, by the same token, the consumer can not hope to be able to purchase foreign commodities imported under a newly signed agreement at a great deal less than the price he has been accustomed to pay.

Unquestionably one of the most important concessions to Western Canadian agriculture is the reduction of the duty on live cattle exported to the United States. This is one of the items, however, on which a quota restriction is placed. The lowering of the duty will provide a material outlet for a considerable number of cattle but, on the other hand, many cattle raisers, who have been almost driven out of the business in the past two or three years on account of drought and poverty, will not be in a position to take advantage of the new market for some time.

While Western Canadian consumers will undoubtedly benefit by reduction of tariff on a number of commodities importable from the U.S.A., it should not necessarily be assumed that the benefit will be immediate on all articles covered by the agreement or even, in some cases, to the full extent of the reduction in duty. For example it has already been announced by the radio dealers' association in Winnipeg that the lowered duty on radios will not result in reduction of price to the Canadian purchaser because radios sold in this country are made in Canada "and are considerably cheaper than the American article sold here."

These statements are not made with any intent to belittle the agreement, the efforts of the governments who have had a hand in the pact or the ultimate results which may ensue as a result of the insertion of the last end of the wedge, but they are made in the hope that over-optimism as to immediate results will not result in disappointment.

No matter what the operation of this first agreement may bring in the way of benefits to Western Canadian producers of export products and consumers of imports, the important thing is that it paves the way for further concessions and it is to be hoped in the not far distant future

It might also well be pointed out that there are some indications that the operation of the pioneer pact may prove to be more beneficial than the more cautious commentators anticipate. The daily press reported that eastern Canadian manufacturers are apprehensive and on the other hand the international boundary a number of interests fearful of the effects of new Canadian imports are planning to lodge vigorous protests at Washington. Straws as a which way the wind blows.

This would indicate that the new agreement may be pitchforked into the political arena in the United States and may be a cause bellum in the next national elections in that country with what results remains to be seen. It is comforting to know that President Roosevelt has stated he believes the agreement will double the trade between the two countries within a couple of years and it may reasonably be expected that he will defend his action rather than recede from the position he has taken

What Is Churchill

A total of 12,846,000 bushels of wheat has been exported from Western Canada by way of Churchill since 1931, the directors report presented in Regina at the annual meeting of the Saskatchewan Wheat Pool, showed. In the season just passed 2,207,000 bushels were shipped through the Hudson Bay route, as the Hudson Bay route is compared with a high mark of 6,000,000 bushels in 1934

Discontinued The Custom

New Weather Predictor

Magnetometer Can Forecast Conditions Two Years Ahead

Selby Maxwell, instructor in meteorology, who has been doing research work in a laboratory at Northwestern University, Evanston, Ill., has invented a "magnetometer" to aid him in his computations.

"We can predict the world's weather for two years in advance with the same ease that you might predict a storm for to-morrow," he asserted.

Last August, he said, he knew there would be a major storm in the northeastern United States in mid-November. In October he made 12 charts of the storm's course, and placed a blue print of the storm in the hands of navy weather men and his friends.

His new principle is based on the fact that the relative motions of the earth, moon and sun are irregular, resulting in a slight motion of the earth's whole mass.

"That causes the atmosphere, which is like a fluid, to slosh back and forth over the earth, that part as water will slosh out of a pan if the pan is jiggled," he said.

Maxwell predicted little snow in a winter and another drouth next summer

Fashions A Telescope

Western Ontario Student Makes Himself An Efficient Instrument

A few pieces of sheet metal, some bits of a broken windshield, and a discarded Coke or Chinese, University of Western Ontario student, can watch the rings gaily spinning about Saturn, and the moons of Jupiter nevercending trail around Jupiter.

For 18 months, he devoted his spare hours to working on odds and ends, and now has a telescope, at a) no great expense, a telescope. Recently he showed his creation to his instructor, Professor H. E. R. Kingston, who described it as one of the most successful telescopes for construction he has seen.

Mr Cole made the lens out of a piece of broken windshield, grinding it himself. For the six-inch mirror, he invested in a piece of one-inch plate glass, but even in that case, he made it into a mirror himself.

The tubes of sheet metal, rolled to resemble stove pipe, formed the base of the telescope. About it he constructed his lenses and mirrors, his delicate instruments, all of which were made out of wood, turned on his own lathe

Royal Water Fair

Alberta Is Heavy Winner In Cattle Class

Alberta came to the fore at the Royal Winter Fair when Charles Bell, of Calgary, exhibited the winner in the senior yearling division for bulls. Hereford beef cattle section. Exhibits of Alberta Stock Co., Kew, Alta., and Frank Collicutt, Crossfield, Alta., were second and third, respectively.

Western entries also dominated the bull junior yearling class with Hereford bulls placing first, second, Frost, Hanton, Alta., on Donald Stanway Third. In second place was Hughes Bros., High River, Alta., with Beavercrest Domino.

The Prince of Wales ranch of High River, Alta., with Bapton Orabella Lad, judged best in the bull, two years and under three class of the Shorthorn beef cattle section.

No Vaccination Marks

Just Swallow A Pill In The New Way

The day when little Mary will vaccinate herself by gulping down a pill is envisioned by Dr Lloyd Arnold of the University of Illinois.

The vaccination mark will thus be done away with, the medical college professor told those assembled at Champaign, Illinois and Ohio. The pill, he said, will contain vaccine, or dead germs.

In order that the stuff may not be destroyed by digestive fluids, science plays a trick on the stomach administering a bile pill thirty minutes before the vaccination pill is taken he said

As a result, the stomach is remained quiet for one or two hours and the vaccine passes on unchanged to the small intestine, where it is slowly absorbed into the blood stream.

Sounds Like Good Advice

A farmer once asked the editor of a country paper for advice as follows: I have a horse that at times appears normal but at other times it tame to an alarming degree What shall I do?"

The reply came "The next time your horse appears normal, sell him."

Survival Of Old Days

The venison banquet given to the Prince of Wales by the Mayor of Windsor, is a survival of the days when King John, in the hope of discouraging poaching in Windsor Forest, made a gift of venison to the whole town once a year. Successive Sovereigns have carried on the custom in various forms.

On leaving school German girls are required to take a post as mother's help for a year before entering business. No pay except board and lodging is given during this period

A New Ship Elevator

Will Be Capable Of Handling Vessels Of 11,000 Tons

A ship elevator is being constructed near Rothensee, Germany, about eight and a half miles north of Madeburg, where the Midland canal crosses the River Elbe by a large aqueduct.

The difference between the level of the water of the canal and of the river varies from about 31 feet at high tide to nearly 36 feet at low.

This new elevator will resemble the famous ship elevator at Niederfinow in so far that it will be able to accommodate ships of 11,000 tons, but otherwise represents a different type of construction.

While the Niederfinow elevator rises 210 feet above the earth's surface, the new construction near Rothensee will be built deep in the ground. Instead of the water trough which carries the ships being borne up and down on wire-pulleys, here it will rest on two floats, each 90 to 96 feet, which are propelled by hydraulic pressure, and move up and down in shafts 210 feet deep.

The white, which have now been completed, stand over 150 feet apart and are each 33 feet thick with castiron frames, which are surrounded with concrete. Pillars 60 feet high carry the water through, and, like the Niederfinow elevator, the whole structure rests on an enormous concrete caisson.

The contest closes June 1st, 1936, and the winning books will be published within six months after the prize is awarded.

Eminent judges have been chosen for the contest as follows: Dr Pelham Edgar, National Presidents of Canadian Authors' Association; Mr. S. Morgan-Powell, Assistant Editor-in-Chief, The Ryerson Press; Mr. C. R. Sanderson, Deputy Chief Librarian, Toronto Public Library.

Information blanks for the contest and futher details may be obtained from George J. McLeod, Limited, 266-268 King St. West, Toronto, Ontario, Secretary, The Canadian Authors' Association, P.O. Box 1436, Montreal, Quebec.

We hope that some of our readers will enter this contest, and wish them all success in their efforts.

Curious Old Laws

Smoking On Street Is Still Illegal In Britain

A recent freak court case at Hastings brought lawyers in search for statute books and remind Britons that curious laws remain unrepealed and could cause trouble to jail.

Still illegal in Britain are:

Smoking a cigarette in the street.

Sunday radio broadcasting.

Christmas dinner on more than three courses.

Making a mince pie "an abominable and idolatrous thing."

Playing billiards on a Sunday.

It is possible, according to the old law, for anyone to be jailed for inducing another person to drink more liquor than would be good for him.

In Primitive State

Says Indians Of James Bay Area Have Changed Little In Past Centuries

Despite three centuries of missionary and other contacts with the white race, one group of Canadian Indians to-day is reported much the same as it was 1,000 years ago.

Dr. Truman Michelson, Smithsonian Institution ethnologist, found last summer that the James Bay Indians in the northern part of Ontario have changed their language, customs, folklore and mythology little during the past eight or 10 centuries.

He said they probably are nearer than any other Indians to the type of primitive Algonquins who peopled eastern North America long before the white man arrived.

Famed River Drying Up

Many Ships Stranded On Sand Banks In Fine Danube

The famous Danube river is drying up—as a result of drought unprecedented for this time of year.

The Danube and Save, which meet under the walls of Belgrade, are now lower than for more than 50 years. In many places people can wade across them.

All navigation on the Save has been abandoned and many ships are stranded on sand banks. On the Danube only small vessels of less than four feet draught can pass.

River service between Belgrade and Vienna has stopped.

Willing To Help

Charles Phillips in his "Padereveski" tells a story of Lord Balfour. In 1917, Balfour was in Washington, and one evening at dinner he handed back the meat can to the Negro waiter and, placing a generous tip by his plate, said, "Just bring me a good meal." A very good meal was served, and the same thing happened several times.

On the last occasion the tip was trebled. "Thank you, sah," said the waiter, "but if you done got any mo' othah frien's wat' cain't fend, you jes' send 'em to me, sah."

Life Insurance

Companies Have A Mission To Perform That Is Vital To The Future

The Canadian Life Insurance Officers' Association is "the biggest of the big interests," but that is a reason for pride and not apology, Finance Minister Charles Dunning told members attending the 42nd annual meeting of the association at Toronto. Mr. Dunning spoke briefly.

Representing assets of $2,500,000,000, and acting on behalf of 2,500,000 policy-holders life insurance men have a duty of trusteeship to perform that is vital to the future of Canada, Mr. Dunning asserted.

"There is scarcely a big interest in this country," he remarked, "that is not in reality an intricate system of trusteeship. Without you, and the trusteeship of $2,500,000,000 which you represent, Canada would be in a vastly different place than it is to-day."

Big interests must not be regarded as sinister just because they were big, said Mr Dunning in urging insurance officials to stress their trustworthy to the people.

Making Canada His Home

Young Boy Travels Alone From England To Join Parents

Looking as neat and fresh as though he had just stepped out of an English grammar school to spend a "half holiday," nine-year-old Norman Bell completed a 5,000 mile journey from Durham, England, all alone. Left on orphan Christmas with the death of his father, Norman's yearning for adventure and sight-seeing apparently turned toward Canada and when he received an invitation from his uncle, Arthur B. Jackson, 11430 93rd street, to come to live with him in Edmonton he readily accepted.

Atlantic Air Mail Service

Discussions At Ottawa Expected To Speed Up Activity

Ottawa, Oct.—Airmail discussions between representatives of Great Britain, the Irish Free State, Newfoundland and Canada concluded here to-day, are confidently expected that, as a result of the conference, airmail activity in Canada will be greatly accelerated next year.

The main topic of discussion has been the launching of a trans-Atlantic airmail service. Such a service will require heavy mail subsidies and a knotty problem to be solved is to apportion the total subsidy among Great Britain, the three Dominions as well as the United States. So far as the technical end of the service goes, practically all of the work, so far as the empire is concerned, will have to be done by Imperial Airways and the interviews given out by the British delegates clearly state that rapid progress is being made. What Canada will do, to the extent and nature of the land facilities which will be required and the contribution which will be made to the support of the trans-Atlantic service.

Royal Air Force

Capt. Forbes Recommends Flying To Those Who Like Adventure

Toronto.—Capt. Roger Pocock, one of the world's great adventurers, recommends the Royal Air Force to young fellows with a yen for adventure and danger. The 70-year-old explorer, who has "tackled the most dangerous thing you can find," Founder of the Legion of Frontiersmen, a non-military organization devoted to the defence and "safety, honor and welfare of our sovereign and his dominions," Capt. Pocock has been on the staff of an empire tour to further the interests of the organization.

Will Protect Consumers

Regulation To Prevent "Cut Throat Competition" In Alberta

Edmonton—Protection of consumers under any business code to be adopted in Alberta will be demanded by the government, Premier Aberhart declared in commenting on discussions between retail and wholesale merchants and the government toward establishment of regulations to prevent "cut-throat competition" in the trade. It was reported from the government took the view that retailers, wholesalers and manufacturers must join in drawing up their own codes and then have their proposals approved by the government.

Dr. Banting Says Medical Work In Russia Ranks High

Hamilton, Ont. — Mr Frederick Banting, one of the discoverers of insulin as a cure for diabetes, told the Hamilton Health Association of the high standard of medical work observed on a recent visit to Soviet Russia.

"You rarely see a case of tuberculosis that requires bed treatment in Russia," he said. Trade union doctors examine the workers before they commence work and they are placed under care immediately if any signs of disease be detected.

Profits On Canal

Save Doing Duty Enslaves From War Operations

Paris—An increase of 35,000,000 francs (about $2,775,000) in Suez canal receipts in 1935 over 1934 was revealed by canal officials.

Italian military operations, it was announced, were entirely responsible for an increase in traffic which raised the income, from Jan. 1 to Nov. 30, 789,000,000 francs compared with 754,000,000 francs for the corresponding period of last year

New Radio Station

Edmonton—Forging the last link in an aviation chain of private short wave radio stations linking northern Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba and extending into the northwest mining area as far as Cameron Bay, N.W.T., a radio station is being opened in the offices of Canadian Airways, Limited, here, C. H. "Punch" Dickins, company superintendent, announced.

Final Last Hike

Rich Copeland Mine In Northern Ontario Believed Located

Hudson, Oct. — The word went around in this western Ontario mining district that the log lost Copeland mine, a mine that promised riches in the early years of the century, had been found.

The mine was abandoned and when others were about to locate it recently it could not be found.

An accident some days ago revealed the Copeland. Two miners of the nearby Balcone gold mines tripped over a rusty shovel while walk ing through dense bush. The finding of the shovel led to an extended search of the area.

A quartz vein containing free gold was uncovered. A plentiful sprinkling of rose quartz in the vein indicated that the find, almost beyond doubt, was the Copeland.

Would Abolish Senate

De Valera Makes New Move For Irish Free State

Dublin, Irish Free State.—Eamon de Valera, president of the Irish Free State, made a new move for abolition of the senate.

He tabled a motion in the dail eireann resolving that the bill known as the constitution amendment No. 24" be sent to the senate. The dail will consider it Dec. 5.

The bill in question proposes to abolish the senate. It has been held up for 18 months following its rejection by the senate. Under the constitution, after 18 months the government is empowered to send a defeated bill to the senate again.

If the upper house again rejects it, it can, nevertheless, become law within 60 days.

GOVERNMENT TO INVESTIGATE THE PRISON SYSTEM

Ottawa.—It was the intention of the government to appoint a royal commission to investigate Canada's penitentiary system, Hon. Ernest Lapointe, minister of justice, stated, but delay has been caused by the decision have not reached a stage where any announcement could be made.

Report of the Ontario attorney-general on the case of David Meiser, serving a 15-year sentence for the Lakeview shooting, was being studied by departmental legal experts, Mr. Lapointe said, and he would not refer to the possibility to announce his decision for several days.

Speculation as to the fate of the Canadian wheat board and the policy to be adopted by the government toward disposal of the wheat surplus was heightened by Premier Aberhart and Mr. Lapointe said there was nothing to announce in this respect

The latter also announced that John I McFarland, chairman of the board, would be replaced by James R. Murray, vice-president and general manager of the Alberta Pacific wheat pool.

With the death of Hon. Charles Murphy of Ottawa the prime minister has a vacancy to fill in the senate and several names have been prominently mentioned. There is also a vacancy in the senate caused by the death of Hon. Frank O'Connor and W. T. Kernahan of Toronto, John Gleeson, Ottawa R. H. Burns, London, and J. J. McCann member-elect for South Renfrew.

A seat must be found for Hon C. A. Dunning minister of finance, and it has been reportedly rumored that Ontario would furnish it. Appointment of McCann to the senate would open up South Renfrew

Oil Embargo

Italy Takes Very Seriously The Threat Of League

Rome Premier Mussolini has recalled to the colors 100,000 soldiers previously released for farm work, and personally presented a $23,000,000 naval construction decree to the chamber of deputies.

Italy was said to look very seriously upon the threat of a League of Nations oil embargo. Reserves now in Italy would be slowly strangled if embargoes on coal and oil were added to the severe sanctions already being applied. Gasoline prices rose to $1.06 a gallon.

Well informed circles said Italian oil stocks probably were not large, as statistics showed imports this year had been only a little above normal.

Continuing in a drive to overcome the threatened shortage in fuel the premier will personally inaugurate the week of the Chemical Corporation.

This group will be entrusted with the duty of developing productions of alcohol, wood alcohol and benzol, the only native materials capable of replacing imported petroleum products.

Italy's semi-official oil monopoly was increased in size to facilitate a full control of the market.

Training German Children

All Over Ten Must Prepare For Labor Service

Berlin—German boys and girls over the ages of 10 will undergo special training to prepare them for the compulsory labor service in the third reich the Nazi government announced

The boys will have additional preparation for the obligatory military service which they must perform after their terms in labor camps.

Both young men and young women must serve in compulsory labor camps under the law intended to make the German nation physically and mentally fit to meet any future crisis or foreign crisis

SAY OIL EMBARGO MAY RESULT IN A WORLD WAR

Rome.—Responsible persons with high connections said a war that might be a world war would be certain to result if the League of Nations places an oil embargo upon Italy.

These persons were not officials. They said Premier Mussolini, at a midnight session of the Fascist grand council, Nov. 18, adopted this three-point program to be used if such an embargo is applied:

1. Italy would withdraw her ambassadors and ministers from all "enemy" countries (those applying the oil sanctions).

2. Italy would quit the League of Nations.

3. Italy's "tenth squad" air force of the navy would strike immediately at the British Mediterranean fleet. The "tenth squad" represents the air force of 125 pilots pledged to go to certain death. Each would carry one huge bomb which he was pledged to enemy warship and dive upon the vessel.

It would be a sudden, desperate drive in an attempt to break through the ring of 53 boycotting nations. These sources said. Knowledge of this program, these sources continued, caused postponement of a meet ng of a League of Nations committee to consider oil embargo.

London—Undaunted by Premier Mussolini's war-like preparations at home the government of Switzerland is to have decided to ask the League of Nations for an oil embargo against Italy when the sanctions committee next meets.

Information has been received here that if Dure has decided once more to enforce the Swiss-Italian frontier. Rome views the threatened s anbargo as a serious threat to Italy.

PA Havas despatch from Alexandria said it had been learned from reliable sources that the Egyptian order for 1,000 tons of petroleum withdrawn from Libya as a peace gesture sent back to the Egyptian frontier again.

Meanwhile, Anglo-French talks for an Eth opian peace have been greeted with caution here. Even official information from Rome indicates that since economic sanctions went into effect Italy has become much less exacting in his attitude.

Geneva France is not opposed to applications of League of Nations sanctions against exportation of oil to Italy, league officials said as the league general staff ruled that Haiian members should receive no commercial credit.

License All Merchants

New Regulation For Alberta Begins Monday

Edmonton.—All wholesale and retail merchants in Alberta will be licensed by the provincial government beginning January 1, it was announced by Premier Aberhart.

The move, it was said, is being made in the interests of the merchants themselves, and in some quarters is regarded as a preliminary to a system of fixed minimum and of minimum or fixed prices on specific products in Alberta

Cost of the license has not been decided, it was revealed, but is expected to be about $3 each.

Terror Man Sentenced

Worcester, England. — Arthur Charles Mortimer, called a "terror man" for his alleged practice of purchasing goods from trade rivals while driving a stolen automobile, was found guilty of murder and sentenced to death. The six-foot-tall lance corporal was gassed at Aldershot barracks, who found guilty of fatally wounding Mrs. Phyllis Mary Gahan, a beautiful private secretary by deliberately running her down Aug 8

Aviator Promoted

Edmonton.—C. H. "Punch" Dickins, superintendent of Mackenzie river district, Canadian Airways, Limited, and winner in 1928 of the McKee trophy for outstanding flying, has been promoted to general superintendent of northern aviation for the company, it was learned here.

Pilsning The Quinquplets

Toronto Canadian cameramen, studio workers and electricians will be employed in the production of the Canadian scenes of the "Country Doctor," in which the Dionne quintuplets will star, Minister of Welfare Croll has announced

Peace Efforts

France And Britain Endeavor To End Conflict In Ethiopia

Geneva.—The belief persisted in international circles that France and Great Britain are making determined efforts to end the conflict between Ethiopia and Italy by conciliation and saw evidence of this in the broadcast by Premier Laval, of France, of his appeal for national support.

In Italian quarters it was agreed the best chance for halting the war is through a direct agreement between Mussolini and Emperor Haile Selassie, which is admittedly difficult.

The Paris newspaper L'Oeuvre said it had learned in reliable quarters Great Britain has offered to serve as intermediary in peace talks between Italy and Ethiopia

The League of Nations general staff of experts met to examine the general sanctions situation with the projected addition of an oil embargo to the war penalties.

Working On Proposal

Unemployment Commission To Receiving Attention Of Premier King

Ottawa Completion of the broad details of a national unemployment commission, a plank in the Liberal government's program, is understood to be one of the activities which engaged the attention of Prime Minister Mackenzie King during his visit to Georgia seat of the Warm Springs foundation.

Some weeks ago the premier said it would be the intention of the government to have the unemployment commission practically completed before the Dominion-provincial conference which opens Dec. 9. The commission will be patterned somewhat after the Canadian patriotic fund commission. It will be an honorary commission with a salaried executive.

Increase In Employment

Level Higher Than In Any Month Since December 1930

Ottawa An employment gain in Canada of 14,661 persons between Oct. 1 and Nov. 1 was reported by the Dominion bureau of statistics. The bureau said the Nov. 1 payrolls of 9,683 firms making returns stood at 1,612,103 persons compared with 1,597,300 on Oct. 1.

The report reported the employment level at Nov. 1 was higher than that of any month since Dec. 1, 1930. It said particularly important improvements occurred in logging while highway and building construction making retail trade and manufacturing also contributed gains

OIL TANKERS ARE ORDERED TO BE IN READINESS

Montreal Masters of oil tankers forming the large fleet owned by the British admiralty and operated under charter by commercial interests have received orders to hold themselves at all their ships a readiness The dispatch said

Several of these ship-masts tankmasters who have served in the war were told that ships of the fleet, consisting of about 25 naval vessels, have been commercial vessels operated by oil company and hold themselves through regular steamship agents.

Records when conditions in the Mediterranean became acute orders went out to the masters of the fleet to make a map of the local waters and to have their ships ready to proceed at any time a warning to German ships was received.

It required by the navy in the ordinary course of events the tankers are let out on charter and pay has been a number of years, including those of the Dutch East Indies They come to Montreal at various times through out the year, in order to avoid bringing oil and gasoline to local wharves

They are subject to recall at any time by the British admiralty and in a case where they would be required on active service would be used to refuel ships of the royal navy at sea

The British admiralty owns a large fleet of these tankers numbering about 50 or so. Most of them were built in 1915 and 1918 and were used during the war. A few are of later date, constructed in 1920 1921 and 1923

The tankers are in command of officers holding rank in the Royal Naval reserve.

Ban Liquor Advertising

Dail And Weekly Newspapers In Alberta Affected February 1st

Edmonton All liquor advertising including ads and weekly newspapers will be banned in Alberta after February 1st, it was announced by Premier Aberhart

The advertising ban will apply to every type of liquor and malt liquor has been estimated that newspaper revenue from such advertising amounts to from $4 to $5 a week for each paper averaged about $25 a week in the past.

Prosecution To Ferguson

London.—In recognition of his services to business interests a luncheon was tendered to Hon. G Howard Ferguson, formerly Canadian high commissioner to London. Under the chairmanship of Sir Hewitt Skinner 500 of the Anglo-Canadian trading community attended and presented Mr. Ferguson with a George II silver loving cup. Mrs. Ferguson was presented with jewelry.

Motor Fatalities

Chicago Deaths on the highways of the United States reached a new high mark in the first 10 months of 1935 the National Safety Council declared council statistics announced 28,760 motor vehicles fatalities in the first 10 months of this year compared to the previous high of 28,1 TH during a similar period in 1934.

PLAN TO CLOSE ALL RELIEF CAMPS IN COMING YEAR

Ottawa. — The Dominion government hopes to close all relief camps during the coming year, Hon. Norman McL. Rogers, minister of labor, announced.

Mr. Rogers also announced appointment of a committee of three "to make personal investigations and report on certain problems raised by the pending transfers," of these relief camps from the department of national defence

The committee will consist of P. J. Rigg chief of the Dominion employment service, Humphrey Mitchell, former Labor member for Hamilton East in the federal house and Dr. F. W. Brodeur, president of the Frontier College. Dr Brodeur lives in Toronto and the minister referred to his peculiar qualifications for the task on the score because of his connection with an organization which conducts educational work in frontier labor camps.

The committee will start work immediately and intends visiting as many camps as possible of the 100-odd camps in Canada The majority of these camps are located in British Columbia and Alberta Approximately 9,000 men are in them at present

In the past they have been run by the department of national defence but steps for their transfer to the labor department were taken soon after the present government assumed office. The entire cost of the camps has been assumed by the Dominion. It will be an honorary commission with a salaried executive.

Established New Record

Graf Zeppelin Stayed Aloft 118 Hours To Avoid Revolt

Berlin. The German dirigible Graf Zeppelin established a new record for sustained flight, according to advices here. The Zeppelin is commander crossing over Pernambuco Brazil reported to the ships main office in Berlin that the Graf had been in the air for 118 hours since it left Friedrichshafen last week

A report from Rio de Janeiro said the Graf landed later at Pernambuco It had been cruising three days in the vicinity waiting until the Brazilian revolt subsided before landing it

The Graf's previous record for length of time aloft was established on a flight to North America in 1928 when it was in the air 111 hours 44 minutes On that trip the Zeppelin was caught in a storm and waved from disaster by the heroism of the crew in making emergency repairs.

WEDDING BELLS

A very pretty wedding took place on Nov. 20 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. Fallows, when their daughter Margaret became the bride of Mr. Ernest Lees, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lees, Vermilion. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Mr. Bowen in the presence of about 100 guests. The bride was attended by her sister as bridesmaid and Mr. Lees had his brother as best man. The bride looked very charming in a white satin dress with embroidered veil and carried a shower bouquet of roses. After the ceremony a dainty supper was served in the dining room of the home. The bride received many beautiful gifts including a chesterfield suite, a piano and a sum of money. Mr. and Mrs. Lees left on a short honeymoon trip to Edmonton and other points. On their return they will reside in Vermilion.

BOARD OF TRADE NOTES

Nothing new was brought forth at the board luncheon on Monday noon, although considerable discussion took place, chiefly in regard to keeping the roads open for motor traffic during the winter. This was more particularly in regard to the market and country roads. On motion this question was referred to the committee in charge to get a separate opinion should be formed to deal with this question as states roads.

No answer was forthcoming from the council regarding the proposed rest room in the town hall basement. Apparently the difficulty lies in the expenditure of money at this particular time of year.

Mr. Ratzer suggested that the merchants should be encouraged to put Christmas trees along the streets in front of their stores to add to the festive appearance of the town during the Christmas season.

C. L. Whitby presided and appointed Mr. M. Hill as chairman for Monday next.

CAMROSE NORMAL SCHOOL ALUMNI GATHERING DEC. 27

On Friday, December 27th, an event of interest is to be held in Camrose, Alberta, the Camrose Normal school alumni Reunion. We hope that all the members of the association will keep this date open and put forth every effort to attend and help make that occasion a success.

Now that steam heat has been installed in the town hall, an interior decorating was given to the meeting place of the town people which greatly improves the hall's appearance.

BUSINESS MEN DECORATE FIRST STREET SOUTH

'Christmas' Appearance Given Town

Town stores have in the past been presented a real Christmas appearance the windows being dressed with attractive gifts, Xmas trees and decorations in keeping with the yuletide. A wonderful display of goods suitable for gifts is to be found in each and every one of the local stores. Coupled with this you can shop in our stores with that friendly at home feeling not to be found elsewhere.

Just to make things a little more attractive business men on First street have placed on the electricity mains at the head of each avenue and have a row of electric lights on each side of the Bridge to the Bridge to the McWilliams corner. These are lighted all night and will be arranged with Xmas effects and tinsel bells etc.

When the electric lights were strung the colored lights across the intersection as has been the practice in the years Vermilion should rank as the most attractive and Christmas town in Alberta.

Agricultural Society Holds Annual Meeting

The annual meeting of the Vermilion Agricultural Society was held in the memorial hall on Saturday afternoon last and was somewhat better attended than for some years. The members showing a keen interest in the work of the society during the year.

The financial statement covering operations for 1935 was read and in spite of the extremely bad weather experienced during the fair the society showed that the society had made a net profit during that period.

It was decided to carry on the work in 1936 and the local society took the necessary steps to affiliate with the Provincial Agricultural Association.

No cash needed to get into this show, just bring along a tin or canned goods, vegetables, meat etc., a week from Saturday, Dec. 21—don't forget the date.

STANDARD TO BE ISSUED TWO DAYS EARLY CHRISTMAS WEEK

Notice To Advertisers and To Correspondents

Owing to Christmas Day falling on Wednesday next Thursday (publication day) of The Standard being observed as a holiday, the Standard will be issued two days earlier that week, namely Tuesday, December 24th. This means that the paper will be published on that date and all correspondents will please bear this in mind in sending in their items of news so that they will reach us not later than the noon hour on Monday next. Advertisements will also be required to be handed in earlier than usual and you will be required to pay if this notice does not reach you.

Owing to the Christmas holidays coming so close to the publication date of the Standard, it will be impossible to publish a paper the week following Christmas. In order to keep our readers informed of the doings in and around Vermilion, we will publish a special issue on Thursday, December 26th, which will be mailed to all subscribers. Please bear this in mind and help us to make this issue a success by sending in your items of news and advertising early.

Merry Christmas to all.

Delinquents Doomed To Dark Days

The council continued a meeting on Monday evening to go into the matter of delinquent taxes and utility accounts. A detailed statement of such accounts was submitted to the meeting and it was decided to progress rapidly. November 30th was the deadline for payment of taxes in order to avoid penalty and interest, and those who have not as yet paid the same and you will be required to pay it. This notice does not mean your name will be published in the paper, but some immediate action should be taken in order to avoid the inconvenience of disconnection of services which will be undertaken after the first of January.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

We are being kept busy with rehearsing the Christmas exams, which begin next Monday.

Prunes Trade Treaty

Step in Right Direction Says Sir Edward Beatty

Commendation of the Canada - United States reciprocal trade treaty was voiced at Thorold, Ont., by Sir Edward Beatty, K.C., who returned to his home-town to address the annual dinner of the Thorold Board of Trade.

"The new trade agreement is a step in the right direction," declared the president of the Canadian Pacific Railways in a postscript to his address.

Increased trade and postponement of large public works where the need was disproportionate to the direct stimulus given employment were cited as essentials in complete recovery in Canada. Later he said: "I never could see the virtue of trying to destroy because we have certain defects in our system. There is no reason to burn down the house because there are a few cockroaches in the cellar "

Mail Was Delayed

Letters Slipped Behind Post Boxes 32 Years Ago

The postal service of Fort Worth, Texas, is pretty efficient, but it has just finished a delivery that was 32 years late. Some letters had slipped down between crevices of old-time rent boxes in the old post-office. Some were so time-worn that they crumbled to bits between the fingers of workmen who were replacing the boxes. But the mail must go through. All that still remained their form were delivered. Now bonus eliminates the possibility of the accident's happening again.

Blackeyed Cuties

A hired man blackeyed cuties and fed pigs owned by J H Parsons and valued at $600, went to a watery grave in Seven Persons Creek, Alta. The cuties plunged through a hole and went down stream under the ice. The hired man was ordered to chop a hole near the shore. Instead, he went to the centre of the stream.

Utopia is in Tonga Islands

Island Has No Unemployment And A Smooth Functioning Legislature

A picturesque Pacific island where— There is no income tax
Nobody is without property
There are no poor.
Nobody is illiterate.
There is a simplified smooth-functioning legislature.

It is the island of Tonga, and its Crown Prince Taufa Ahau, when visiting Melbourne, Australia, for Methodist church centenary has been telling about it.

Every boy on attaining the age of 16 is given a grant of 8½ acres of land and a village home, in other words the means to make a living among his 30 000 fellow islanders.

In place of income tax, a payment of $10 a year is levied on every male adult, and this entitles him to free medical, dental and hospital treatment for himself and his family. To augment the revenue, there are customs duties and a tax on motor cars which are free primary schools and two colleges.

Prince Taufa Ahau, not yet 19, is more than six feet tall, and has already won distinction as a hurdler weight putter and footballer. He is studying law

Medical Science in Russia

Standard Is High Opinion Of Sir Frederick Banting

High praise for the standards of medical science in Russia was uttered by Sir Frederick Banting, discoverer of insulin in an address before the Hamilton, Ont. Health Association.

So intensively and efficiently had the nation tackled the problem of tuberculosis said Sir Frederick that one hardly ever saw or heard of a bedridden tuberculous patient in Russia.

Of course," he said, "their problems are not ours. They tackle the disease quite earlier The workers are examined by their factory or trade union doctors and sent to institutions as soon as signs of tuberculosis appear. The result is that you rarely see a case that requires bed treatment."

Sir Frederick who returned recently from a trip to Russia, also said medical science was keeping pace with civilization. It was not enough to fight disease when it came, but medical science must fight also to prevent it

Naturalists Baffled

Many Birds' Marriages Are On This Strange Specimen

Mother Nature got all tangled up, apparently when she was creating a strange bird which has naturalists from Lewiston, Idaho, baffled. The mysterious bird of many colors, a hen, bears the markings of a China pheasant, a blue grouse and a bronze domestic turkey. It is twice as large as a Ringneck pheasant. The tail is rounded and stunted, like that of a turkey. Around the eye there is the red mark of the pheasant rooster and the back and wings bear the mark of the Oriental bird. The feathers, legs and lower breast are marked like the grouse and the bronze and bars of the gobbler appear on the tail feathers

Bottle Crosses The Ocean

Tower On University Of London 230 Feet High

The tower that will dominate the new buildings of the University of London in Bloomsbury, England, will be 210 feet 10 in. 40 feet higher than Nelson's Column in Trafalgar Square, but not the highest structure in London. The Big Ben tower on the houses of parliament is 320 feet high. Yet by London standards the university tower will be something of a skyscraper, and the view from its roof should be magnificent.

Special sanction has been received by the university authorities from the London county council for the erection of a building above the limit of from 90 feet to 100 feet, prescribed under the London Building Amendment Act of this year. Work on the base of the tower has been begun, but the whole structure may not be completed until 1937.

The tower will have eight storeys, several of which will be used for storing books for the library. The library will be in the base.

Lloyds Granted Charter

Famous English Insurance Firm Will Operate In Alberta

Lloyds of London, famous insurance firm, has been granted a charter to operate in Alberta under an order approved by the provincial cabinet.

The permission was refused when application was first made last year to the U.F.A. government. At that time, insurance men in the province protested that the matter was better to be pooled by Lloyds. The British company will not establish a branch at Edmonton, but will deal through agencies already established, it was stated.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

DECEMBER 15

RUTH TEACHING THE LAW OF GOD

Golden text: Thy word have I laid up in my heart, Psa. 119:11.

Lesson: Ruth 1:16; Jehovah, Chapter 2.

Devotional reading: Hebrews 10: 19-27.

Explanations And Comments

Ruth's Love Leads Her Unto Obey the Law of God, Ruth 1 16. Ezra's primary motive, as we say two weeks ago, in coming to Jerusalem from Persia was to see the law more strictly observed by his countrymen.

The Reading of the Law, Nehemiah 8:1-8. The first day of the seventh month is the day which the Jews celebrate as their New Year's Day. On this day in Old Testament times men incurred the festival known as the Feast of Trumpets, which was observed with special rites. On this day in the year 445 B.C. the people of Jerusalem assembled in the broad place before the water gate. The streets of Jerusalem were very narrow, just as they are to-day, most of them resembling an alley more than a street. The only spot where a large crowd could assemble would be the broad place, or open square or else beyond the city walls. The water gate was the gate through which the water carriers entered the city with their water from the wells, or the Gihon's Spring as it is now called.

That assembly of men and women and such children as could understand, had the priest and scribe read the Book of the Law of Moses. It just what this book consisted is a disputed question among scholars; the entire Pentateuch, some believe; others that it consisted of only a part of Pentateuch, others maintain. He read from early morning till midday, on account of the host they had their customary rest during the noon hour —and all were attentive listeners.

The People Comforted, Neh. 8:9-12. Nehemiah the governor now comes into the story. He and Ezra and the Levites comforted the people, saying, "This day is holy unto Jehovah your God; mourn not, nor weep". The day was holy because it was the time of the new moon and of the blowing of trumpets (Num. 29:2-6) and also because of the reading of the Law. They bade Nehemiah or Ezra, counseled them to go their way, eat the fat and drink the sweet (meaning a proverbial expression meaning, let feast now), drink sweet wine, and send a portion to them for whom nothing was prepared. "Come, eat the dainty pieces, drink the sweet wine, and send a portion to him who has nothing ready," is Moffatt's version.

Death Defying Dive

Ability To Judge A 45-Degree Angle Saves His Life

Red Fraley, a recent visitor to Halifax, N.S., never studied geometry, but he says he owes his life to his ability to judge a 45-degree angle He makes his living by diving 110 feet into the depths of water.

Brady studies his degrees and distances like a professor of mathematics. The task into which he plunges is a 45-degree angle, 110 feet in the distances in mind. Then he tests the direction of the wind. If it is negligible he dives. If it is blowing, he makes a mental estimate of the slight adeddy it may give to his descent. Then he limbers up his feet, pauses, and falls forward and down—down in a dive that never carries him less than three and one-half feet below the surface

At night his dives are even more dangerous, because he ties a piece of gasoline-soaked waste to a back

Brady knows that if he miscalculates by as much as 10 degrees, he may never come up alive. He knows that his excellent physical condition will keep him accurate. He doesn't smoke, drink, eat greasy food, use coffee, and never goes to parties.

An Unscientific Storm

Weather Bureau Experts Were Puzzled By Freak Hurricane

Like men sitting on top of a rumbling volcano, citizens of Nassau, Bahamas, waited last November 5, Seventy miles north, a hurricane had whipped across the sea from Bermuda, and was on its way south. By morning, said Grady Norton, of the United States Weather Bureau, Nassau would get "a pretty good wallopping."

Miles westward the same day, in Miami, Florida, as'd the "Associated Press, "the sun was shining brightly, and a mild wind was blowing." The next afternoon, not Nassau, but Miami, received the wallopping.

Suddenly chang ng the course predicted by meteorologists, the storm veered into the Florida spa just after one o'clock, leveling homes, tossing boats up on land, and smarting telephone wires. After a short lull it struck Miami, with renewed vigor, killing seven persons, injuring scores.

Chief among those tearing their hair, after the storm, were Weather Bureau meteorologists, whose calculations have been upset twice in the last three months. The storm "had been under much observation," said Editorial hurricane route as an American auto-driver who insists on driving on the left side of the street," said the United Press describing an interview with I. R. Tannehill, Weather Bureau official.

The Springfield Republican called the latest storm "not just another hurricane, but a freak of nature so unprecedented as to set the scientific world agog."

Bacon Exports Up

A Million Dollars

Has Made Strides In Meeting Competition On The British Market

Canada's exports of bacon during the first nine months of 1935 show a gain of about one million dollars over the same period of 1934. Exports of Canadian bacon to the end of September totalled nearly 100,000 000 pounds with a value of $15,756 171 compared with 94,296 700 pounds valued at $14 972 331 in the first nine months of 1934. This increase, amounting to 3,153,500 pounds in volume, was mostly all in the British market, which took 94 143 900 pounds, or 99.4 per cent. of the Dominion's total export.

Canadian bacon entering the British market is sold in competition with the world's best, and in the competitive market period of four years Canada's position as an exporter of bacon to Great Brita'n has advanced from ninth place in 1931 to second place in 1935. In addition to supplying the British market with such a large quantity, Canada this year exported bacon to many other countries, including the United States, Newfoundland, Bermuda, the different portions of the British West Indies, the French West Indies, the islands of St. Pierre and Miquelon, Japan, China, Fiji, Colombia, Peru and Alaska.

Domestic Court For Navy

Established To Settle Minor Squabbles Of British Sailors

The British navy is to have "domestic courts" to try and settle squabbles of sailors and wives who need advice or assistance for the well-being of their families, and to settle any domestic troubles that may arise.

This decision is announced in Fleet Orders, just issued. These women have al ...d to assist men who ... ...n begun their duties.

Officially, "domestic courts" are called the Welfare and Marriage Allowance section

The "courts" ... to be established in naval barracks at each of the three home ports, Portsmouth Devonport and Chatham.

FLEMING'S FOLLY

BY

LAWRENCE A. KEATING

Here is an absorbing and exciting story of a fight against stubborn prejudice and a fight against pernicious agency—of a girl and a man battling ridicule, sabotage, tradition, and the treachery that crept in to turn them against each other.

The story opens with Link Fleming addressing a meeting of Boone County cattlemen, called together with the object of forming an irrigation company.

(Now Go On With The Story)

Thus, Link Fleming knew that to win Roper to his dream was to spell success. Only Kligo could swing ranchers into line for irrigation. He was now carrying out his promise of yesterday so that Link could prevent Hoak Torney, the drink-broken civil ing peer he had discovered in Al-ky-lin saloon. A mere shell of the man he had once been, he still was as enthusiastic as the irrigating barren land as Fleming himself.

"Dam is a regular fightin' cock," Kligo grinned at the crowd, putting his arm around young Hamilton. "I'll go for him too, 'cause I reckon yuh all know his stater and me are - Well," he said embarrassedly, "Helen will be back in town purty soon, and maybe then she'll let me tell yuh about our plans.

"But that's off the track now. I don't go in for fads as you men know, and maybe irrigation is one Link tell us about it: reckon that's what yuh got us here for, a'n't it?"

This was his chance; his long-sought opportunity to win the rancher-ers to his views! He had prepared for this moment for a year. Enthusiasm swept over him as it always did when he pondered the new means of improving the range. His pulse sped faster, and standing at full height before them, he chose his words with care

"If you men could raise alfalfa to feed your stock winters, and use your home grass in the summer, you wouldn't need to worry whether the government passed rules about the foothills or not "

"We ain't farmers. We're cattlemen" Buzz snapped

"Well, something'g got to be done, because some gang has got to make money! Buzz snapped

"Well, something's got to be done, because some gang has got to make money! Buzz snapped from the foothills, and our range is too thin to support steers all year round Either the waste land that's all around us and you can grow alfalfa enough to feed your beef and maybe have some left over to sell. The'se not irrigation!

"I've got seventeen hundred acres that hasn't been good for anything it ain't worth as much as ordinary range, and grass brings only fifty cents an acre. But if I water that wasteland— " He paused impressively. "It will be worth at least a hundred dollars an acre!"

There was a swift exchange of surprised, doubtful, and questioning looks. Kligo lifted a bushy eyebrow at his friend and benchman, Jackpot Mell. The proprietor of the Half Moon Saloon kept his face a mask but nodded slightly. His lean, wiry fingers toyed with the watch chain of shiny nuggets draped across his flowered vest. Fleming, from his raised position, followed the significant looks and felt a flash of uncertainty. Was Kligo using his habitual suspicion of the Box 56 owner and his suave crony, a cold blooded killer?

"From fifty cents to a hundred bucks an acre is purty long talk," Jackpot Mell muttered skeptically.

"Yeah, and dammin' up water costs money. How do yuh figure to get that water, Link?" Honest John Mulrooney inquired.

"By forming the Boone County Irrigation Company," Link said. "We'll buy stock according to the size of our spreads. That will provide capital for the irrigation ditches and dams."

"Who's to boss the job?" Mulrooney pointed out, "there's no use to form an association until we're above the shingle." Link looked at Roper, and oughta have the judgment of somebody that knows. Boys, how about Yesterday's Book Torney, the drunkdone engineerin' all over the world. He can tell us about Link's scheme, and whether it will or not."

This, of course, was an adroit leading up to the winning of the whole group. Mulrooney's "I figure to go on what Torney says," Roper went on generously. "How about the rest of you guys?"

Why, the thing was now almost a certainty! If Roper endorsed Torney, the others were certain to follow suit. Only Hamilton, who, when he tried hard to mask, Fleming watched the men react.

"Herbert Hoak knows plenty about engineerin', at that," Mulrooney conceded.

"Boys, wut yuh go aoong on whatever we decide? How about you, Bennet? All right. Link, let's hear the facts."

The Star Loop owner realised that perhaps he had misjudged Kligo. He was being helpful now, and seemed really anxious to know more about irrigation, which he had so derisively opposed during the last year. Yes, Link felt he had done the man an injustice. Roper wasn't as bad as he was painted.!

The important thing was to seize this advantage. Turning, he beckoned to Torney. "Come on up here and tell us about it, Book," he invited as carelessly as he could manage. "You're the man knows about waterin' land. We want your opinion."

All eyes watched the ragged, unkempt figure of the saloon hanger-on as he rose from his chair and began to shuffle forward in his furtive, hangdog way. Vague apprehension made Link fear as he saw that Book was the worse for a recent drinking bout, though he had promised earnestly to be sober for this meeting. His eyes were bloodshot and his whole mien that of a spineless barfly

However Fleming shrugged—It was Torney's endorsement and not a civil engineer that was needed to clinch the support of Boone County irrigation. He appeared sufficiently in control of his senses to give that Pshaw, what damage could he do, even in his ill present rendition?

"What's your idea on this?" Link asked. "Could we build an irrigation plant here?"

The man wet his lips while he blinked self-consciously. "Reckon you can build it anywhere you want."

Roper grinned at him secretively, and nodded. "How much would a proposition like this cost me?" Link went on, drawing him out.

The engineer rubbed his reddish nose as he studied the lay of the river Diverter from Russia and have now invaded Roumania, including the capital The ministry of public health has taken measures to destroy the pest, but the result has been nil At night, pedestrians wrestling with Victoria, Bucharest's main thoroughfare and the street on which is situated the prefecture, experience the unpleasant sensation of tripping over rats which cross their way in thick, brown streams.

"Reckon more money'n that? What do yuh mean? What's the total?" Howland demanded.

"Around sixty thousand."

Several men gasped. "If you want your land to increase in value it'll take some investment, of course. But if we all chip in it won't be so bad. The thing is sure to be worth while," argued Fleming.

There was a slight pause. "That's the point," Roper drawled slowly. "Will it be worth while" If it will, I've about made up my mind to go in it. How about you boys"

He gazed from face to face. Several men frowned hesitantly, then nodded. If there were any who distrusted Kligo's leadership, they feared to oppose it. A few looked glum and several appeared reluctant. But the Box 56 owner's declaration applied to all of them. At usual, they would do what he did, follow him like sheep.

"That's settled then. Me—I'm willin', like you boys, to gamble on Torney's say-so. Should we go ahead and form irrigation?" Link asked. "That's the thing in a nutshell. Ain't it, Link?"

"Exactly. Now, Book," he went on, striving to keep triumph out of his voice, "how about it?"

Torney swallowed hard. He cast a furtive, pleading look at Fleming. His bleary gaze swerved, to hold as if riveted on Kligo and the cold-eyed Jackpot Mell as he answered in his husky, half-audible whisper.

"You could build dams and raise alfalfa—but—but it'd be a crazy fool thing to do. Irrigation sounds all right, but it's nothing bi; a new-fangled notion to waste money.

"Roper's said all along this ain't any good," he went on hurriedly, "and I reckon it you men is to stick to Roper—then don't say I didn't. I wouldn't give two cents for all the irrigation dams an' ditches in the United States.

CHAPTER II.

Silence fell like a blanket over the meeting of cattlemen. Fleming's jaw sagged, and his stunned amazement changed swiftly to anger as he looked up at the throng. For everyone, of course, had fully expected Torney to give unqualified backing to the project. Why, the rancher-engineerin' all over the world. Hoak had lauded him as an instant; then they turned their faces front. No hint of feeling was in their enchanged deep in Fleming's heart. Link's distrust sparkled afire.

Ly as if he had heard exultant words between them, he knew why Book Torney had so changed his attitude toward irrigation

He must have been mad! Not drunk, for Torney, but reality loud true conviction Only yesterday the man had been as enthusiastic as he was

Modern External Treatment Helps End Colds Sooner

Just Rubbed on at Bedtime Its Double-Direct Action Continues Through Hours of Restful Sleep.

OFTEN RELIEVES BY MORNING

Before a miserable cold gets you down, go to bed and apply Vicks VapoRub. Two generations have proved VapoRub the surest help to a milder, shorter cold.

Just rubbed on throat and chest at bedtime, VapoRub acts five ways at once:

1. By stimulation through the skin, like a poultice or plaster.
2. By inhalation of its penetrating medicated vapors, released by body heat and breathed in direct to inflamed air-passages.
3. Continuing through the night, this combined vapor-poultice action loosens phlegm and relieves irritated membranes—helps break congestion. Often, by morning the worst of the cold is over.

For Fewer and Shorter Colds

Note for your family: Vicks has developed, especially for home use, a practical Plan for Better Control of Colds. This commonsense guide to fewer and shorter colds has been clinically tested by practicing physicians and found helpful in everyday home use by millions. Full details of Vicks Plan come in each VapoRub package.

SOUND SLEEP FOR you

Stop counting sheep. Don't toss and turn and worry away the sleepless hours. Be normal again.

Take PHOSPERINE, the great Sleep Tonic. You'll sleep—like a log. And when you wake up life will look much more pleasant.

PHOSPERINE is concentrated goodness, energy, new health, new nerve and body nourishment packed in a few concentrated daily drops. Its brain building effect is usually rapid. Almost from the first day you feel brighter in both mind and body. Your appetite perks up. You enjoy your meals.

Start with PHOSPERINE and keep at it — and your reward will be nights of sound sleep and days of sound health. PHOSPERINE has been a boon to thousands.

PHOSPERINE is splendidly effective at all ages for combatting fatigue, sleeplessness, general debility, retarded convalescence, nerves, anaemic conditions, indigestion, neuritis, neuralgia, neuritis and loss of appetite.

Get PHOSPERINE from your druggist. Price $1.00 and $1.85. Or send the following reduced prices—3 sizes, 50c, $1.00, $1.35. The $1.00 size is nearly four times the 50c size, and the $1.85 size is twice the $1.00 size.

Get new consideration of this matter, which he was so earnestly convinced.

Then sudden anger waved over him, and with both fists clenched until the knuckles showed white, he spoke in a low, intense tone "Somebody has bought and paid for Torney. That wasn't his real opinion. He told me a hundred times irrigation would do wonders for us all. We've worked on the thing, drawn up blueprints, even. Somebody influenced Hoak, made him say what he didn't believe. Somebody. I'll tell you men you're going to regret it if you don't irrigate"

An Expensive Privilege

Player Who Makes Hole-In-One Deserves A Reward

The doubtful privilege of buying drinks for everybody, which used to be the time-honored custom for all golfers playing a hole in one stroke, is being abandoned in London, Eng. In future they will be rewarded for accomplishing the feat.

The ambition of all golfers, a hole in one, invariably cost at least $25 in drinks and entertainment to fellow-players, and the pleasure of doing it rarely was unalloyed.

It wasn't so bad in pre-war days when whiskey cost less than a dollar a bottle, but now when it sells around $2.50, a hole in one is pretty expensive

So the Wilderness club, Kent has decided that the player doing a hole in one shall be entertained to a meal with full liquid trimmings on the house. In addition, the green fee if he is a visitor and his caddy fees will be refunded

We feel that the player who does a hole in one deserves his reward said Major W. H Hodges secretary of the club "The party who has the pension that most players envy. It was the 13th hole which was responsible for the ace. It is a 240 yards, and it calls for a good deal of skill and watchfulness."

Foundry Employees Work On Farm During Slack Periods

A new idea in industry was brought to light recently with the announcement a factory making automobile parts was buying horses. The Holmes Foundry Co., Ltd., a manufacturer of automobile cylinders at Sarnia, Ont. purchased three head of Percheron horses for a total of $5 000

L. G. Blunt, president, explained the horses were used on vegetable farms owned by the firm. His industry was seasonal, he said, and during the off-season his men went out on the farm and grew all types of vegetables. As a result their off time was put into profitable use.

The men were not paid for their farm work, but the total produce was divided among the number of workmen, the company footing the bill for land, seed, implements and horses.

The reason for this, he said, lay in the fact his industry demanded skilled workmen. If all employees were laid off when the slack season came it would cost a tremendous amount of money to either find them work or train new employees when the busy season again came around.

In this manner, he said, all employees are kept busy and the most available immediately they are needed. This avoids closing down the plant when the public demand for automobile cylinders slackens.

Alastair Buchan, and had a look at Bapton Lord Tweedsmuir also examined the University of Alberta cattle, and was much interested in the grand champion cattle shown by Waldo Skinner, Senneville, Que., and Mount Victoria Farms, Hudson Heights, Que.

The governor-general said he would very much like to see the hogs," and followed them up with those and dogs. "There's a Cotswold sheep, a thing you don't often see in the Cotswolds now," he remarked at one stage.

Earlier, His Excellency visited the blind display shop and bought a rug after watching rug and broom making by the blind handicrafts men and women at work.

Little Helps For This Week

But this I say brethren, the time is short. 1 Corinthians 7 29

I sometimes feel the thread of life is slender,
And soon with me the labor will be wrought;
Then grows my heart to other hearts more tender:
The time is short.

You who are letting miserable misunderstandings run on from year to year, pretending to clear them up some day; you who are keeping wretched quarrels alive because you cannot bring yourself to make the step that is due; you who are pawning men silently on the street, not speaking to them out of anger or pride, and yet knowing it would fill you with remorse if you heard that one of them had suddenly gone beyond recovery, you who are letting your neighbor starve till you hear he is dying of starvation, or letting your friend's heart ache for a word of appreciation or sympathy which you mean to give him some day—you could only know and see all of a sudden that the time is short, how it would break your hearts. How you would go and do instantly that which you might never have another chance to do

New Type Of Safety Match

Montreal's Dog Population

Montreal's dog population is growing in leaps and bounds. Figures released by F. Lamoureux, superintendent of the license and privilege department, show an increase of more than 1,000 dog licenses issued to date this year as compared with the whole of 1934. Last year's license totalled 7,542 while those this year are 8,612.

2 Things That Combat Colds Like Magic!

Ask Any Doctor . . . Then Follow Simple Directions Pictured Below. Quickest, Simplest Way

1. Take two "Aspirin" Tablets. Make sure you get "Aspirin."

2. Drink a full glass of water. Repeat treatment in 2 hours.

Instead of using fancy-named "cold remedies" try the new-fast way of relief pictured below! See if you don't do better with aspirin. It will start easing the average cold at once. Relieves headache, fatigue, neuralgia. Does not depress the heart. Take with plenty of water. Universally used in the form of tablets every adult.

Look for the name Bayer-Aspirin on the tablets and on the box. Then you're sure to get genuine "Aspirin" Tablets in a third of a glass of water, gargle twice. Do not rinse mouth.

"Aspirin" Tablets are made in Canada. "Aspirin" is the registered trade mark of the Bayer Company, Limited. Look for the name Bayer on the tablets and on the box. Then you're sure to get genuine "Aspirin" Tablets in a third of a glass of water, gargle twice. Do not rinse mouth.

A Tense Situation

As the Fall-Christmas war progresses and with each successive appeal by the great majority of the members of the League of Nations grad ually tightening the situation in Europe becomes increasingly grave. The danger of what a few months ago appeared to be little more than a simmering quarrel between Italy and Abyssinia at the expense of one of the Black races, looming always in the background of ever greater magnitude, that Great War—Christmas 1914 to 1918 is rather a mild affair—now has all the ingredients to produce a world-wide conflagration. Even more fearful consequences to civilization seem more imminent with the lapse of time.

When no hints reached us in Europe of any abatement of the war fever that was sweeping the Italian people, the optimistic assumption that Europe as an armed camp with all the nations anxiously watching the trend of events and the more powerful ones ready to assume the offensive at the slightest provocation or circumstances that require no professional experience may warrant.

One may nevertheless contain pause which reveal a healthy moderation among the nations are being pushed irresistibly with or without their desire. The possibility of the League of Nations ceasing to exist at the present moment has been imagined. People breathe a little more easily and await the next ensuing development, reasonably sure that it will soon appear.

Meanwhile, it is evident that the situation does not develop which brings tension and alarm. Ominous threats are uttered. Diplomats hastily exchange notes and communiques threats are withdrawn or modified or explained away. The tension is relaxed. The world has been startled momentarily at least but the black storm cloud has not continued to exist until it is either dispelled entirely or becomes a terrific substance.

It hardly seems conceivable that when Mussolini put his threatened invasion of Ethiopia into execution the League would not have taken some of what was going on. The nations have assumed that the League of Nations would be upheld. Another view is members were faced with the question of carrying out their obligations to protect the territorial integrity of a member nation or that some of the stronger members would be willing to put a stop to it at any cost rather than fail in their duty and run the risk of precipitating a situation which might lead to a general conflagration.

If that was the viewpoint of the dictator of Italy he guessed wrong. If he thought he could bluff the dominating powers of the League, again he appeared wrong. It would appear that the League of Nations would have begged the question and to have found excuses to permit Mussolini to have his way in North Africa knowing that the imposition of sanctions might lead to a very dangerous situation. They did not however but took their solemn pledges seriously and decided to implement them. Act on following decision.

The point has not so much in the mere fact that the League has imposed economic sanctions and in making them effective but in the possibility of some of the members weakening in the face of threats or of abandoning the position they have taken because of danger from other quarters or because it may become advantageous to do so.

And Mussolini knows it and is a dire predicament. He has now gone too far to make advantageous surrender without jeopardizing his position among his own countrymen. In fact such surrender would spell disaster for him at home. On the other hand he cannot expect to carry his campaign to a successful conclusion with a great majority of the nations cutting off his supplies, but defeat in Ethiopia would finish the career of Italian dictator. On the horns of this dilemma it can be assumed that Mussolini will leave no stone unturned to dodge the issued which are among the nations who have combined in imposing punitive measures against him.

Meanwhile unquestionably he knows that there is unrest against British rule in India and Egypt and that the Mohammedan and Turkomans would welcome any opportunity to throw off the yoke. If by stirring up trouble in these countries he could divert some of the energies of these two great powers and relieve the hazards it would be of distinct advantage to the Italians.

It is quite conceivable that the outbreak of strife in these countries would be the precursor of hostilities and warfare in other countries and might develop into the long prophesied conflict between the Christian countries of the west and the nations which bow their knee to Mohammed.

While it is difficult to forecast what combinations might result from a split among the nations the rationale now engaged in preventing the culmination of Italian aggression in the manner indicated is the result of the many diverse interests involved and the complications emerged among them the situation is fraught with peril which does not seem apprehension even among many peoples who at the moment appear remote from danger.

A Real Pioneer

Educated Mohawk Indian Was Early Surveyor In West

Thomas Daniel Green, 77 full blooded Mohawk Indian surveyor, died at Vancouver, B.C. Mr. Green was a friend of Sir John A. Macdonald, first Premier of Canada, and Hon. Edgar, Minister of Interior. He was born in Brant county, Ont., and graduated from Mcgill University with the degree of B.Sc. during the Macdonald regime and when the Marquis of Lansdowne was governor general he was employed in the department of interior. He was one of the earliest surveyors in the west. He had a splendid command of the English language.

May Grant Privilege

Australian Women Likely To Act As Jurors In Court

Before the year closes women might be acting as jurors in Australia and also sitting on the bench. The minister of justice of New South Wales L. O. Martin, has promised to introduce a bill to give women that privilege.

They would not be presiding magistrates but act as assessors do in industrial courts. They would be permitted to express to the presiding magistrate with bee-ming brevity it is hoped their opinions on the cases.

The desire to do this has long been in the thoughts of women who are active in public affairs, and they are bent upon translating ambition into fact. The children's court is their first objective. They claim that they are better qualified to deal with young children than the ordinary magistrate. The children's court however deals with cases of youths aged 15 years as well as with those who are 8 and even younger, and it makes admit that a man is better able to deal with a nine older juvenile than a woman is, they argue.

They argue however that a woman presence coupled with a word or a smile to the new penalties might be beneficial. Past and present magistrates do not all agree with that opinion. There are women justices of the peace of course in Sydney. Certain ardent feminists ask why they all will not be on the bench but not even male justices of the peace sit on the bench in Sydney. It is a matter of court familiar with the working of the courts that they never will.

Alberta Rhodes Scholar

Mark McClung, Son Of Canadian Suffragette, Receives Award

University, will be Alberta Rhodes scholar for 1935-36 is Mark McClung 24, son of Mr and Mrs R W. McClung, of Victoria formerly of Acadia gas and Winnipeg. The new Rhodes scholar's mother is Nellie McClung well known Canadian suffragette. Announcement of the scholarship was made known recently.

A student in honors philosophy Mr McClung's campus career was marked by brilliant scholastic success. He was a varsity cup for the League of Alberta for five years and during that time has taken active part in student affairs.

The new Rhodes scholar expects to leave for Oxford in the fall and intends to spend three years overseas. A brother Jack, also was in the province attorney-general's department, brought a similar honor to the family on completion of his career at the University of Alberta by winning the I.O.D.E. scholarship which enabled him to spend a year in the Old Country.

Savings Deposits

Have Increased Almost $ Million Dollars During Past Year

Savings deposits in Canadian chartered banks on Oct 31 amounted to $1 663 491 706 almost $100 000 000 more than on the corresponding date in 1934 according to the monthly statement of the banks to the department of finance. There was $21 - 000 000 increase in deposits since last September 30.

Current account deposits also showed a marked increase being up $35 000 000 in the month and more than $60 000 000 as compared with Oct 31, 1934.

Deposits outside Canada were up about $6 000 000 in the month and more than $60 000 000 for the year, accounted for in a large measure by the increasing deposits of currency other than Canadian held by Canadian banks which are shown in this column.

Notes in circulation were down some $15 000 000 in the month and $40 000 000 less than a year ago while call loans were also down.

License Fees From Radios

Amount Received From Owners About Same As Last Year

Collection of license fees on radio receiving sets during the current fiscal year has been running about on a par with last year when the total revenue from this source was slightly less than $1 500 000. Beginning with the fiscal year 1932-33 the fee has been $2 for each receiving set.

In spite of the depression and the fact that radio owners on relief have had fees reductions have been between 90 and 95 per cent complete officials at Ottawa said.

Cost of collection has been about an average of 15 cents for each $2 license with a general overhead of 5 per cent.

Inaugurates New Service

Japanese Department Store Has Opened Free Marriage Bureau

Not content with merely imitating the merchandising practices of the West, a large department store in Osaka, Japan, has instituted a new native service for customers. A free marriage bureau has been opened in the store There men and women who desire to marry may register and furnish pertinent information about themselves.

Marriage in Japan usually is arranged by families, rather than by the individuals concerned, through go-betweens who receive a commission for their services. The new bureau will take over the work customarily done by the go-between.

There is a business reason for the establishment of this free service. The couples who meet through the bureau will purchase their wedding outfit at the store New York Times.

Radio Inquiry

Parliamentary Committee May Hold Investigation

A parliamentary committee may be established when the house meets in January to investigate radio broadcasting in Canada, particularly the administration of the radio commission, it was learned recently.

It was understood every phase of broadcasting would be probed including the possibility of regulating broadcasting by a federation of regulation instead of a commission of three.

During the campaign Mr Mackenzie King took exception to certain broadcasts under the name of Mr Sage and promised reform of broadcasting sometimes the abuse of public men. It is probable the Mr Sage broadcast will be investigated.

Islanders Are Delighted

China Clipper Ends Isolation Of Residents Of Guam

Residents of Guam Island hailed arrival of the mail-laden China Clipper as ending the isolation of the tropical Pacific isle. The craft had left Alameda Calif. four days previously.

The graceful sky liner, nearing the end of its first flight over a transPacific route from Manila, arrived at Guam from Wake Island at 3.07. The 1,300-mile distance was covered in 10 hours, three minutes.

Two hundred pounds of mail was unloaded and speeded to the post-office for distribution. Capt. Edwin Musick skipper of the flying boat and his eight-man crew were welcomed by officials.

Recipe For Youth

Life Is Proved In Advice Of Famous Humorist

George Ade, the humorist, tells how to be young at 70 "Live only in the present," he said. "That's the secret I caught myself reading the funny notices recently before I turned to the sport page, and that is a sure sign of confiscation." Ade added that I won't let myself become a mossback and a has-been so I keep the old bean in touch with the latest plays, the latest plays, the latest movies, and the latest books."

Edwin Thomas Howes, secretary Londoner lived a miser's life and starved himself, but lit his pipe every morning with a one-pound note. He continued the practice until his recent death.

No Substitute For Better

It Is A Concentrated Energy And Heat Producer

Butter is one of the foods which has been widely used for many centuries, but whose true nutritional merit has only recently been brought to light, according to Laura C. Peppers, of the Dairy and Cold Storage Branch, Dominion Department of Agriculture. Recognizing the importance of adequate amounts of fats in diet and the valuable contributions made to health by butter, modern scientists regard the generous use of this superior fat.

Palatability and high food value are the two qualities which earn for butter the distinction of being "the fat for which there is no substitute." Fats recommended for their tasteless properties hold little or no interest for the woman who prides herself on her cooking. She knows it is butter that makes cream sauces look and taste so rich, it is the butter used in cakes and cookies that evokes praise from friends; and, similarly, it is butter that insures excellent flavour and colour in many dishes prepared for the family table.

As for food value, butter is a concentrated energy producer, yielding 2½ times as much heat in the body as the sugar and starch foods. This is a strong argument in favour of using plenty of butter particularly during cold weather when the body requires extra heat. Butter is easily digested and readily and completely assimilated by the body; it stimulates small quantities of lime and phosphorus and in addition has a high vitamin content which distinguishes it from other fats. It is an exceptionally good source of Vitamin A, which builds up resistance to disease and promotes normal health and growth. Butter is also one of the few foods which provide Vitamin D the sunshine vitamin so necessary for the development of bones and teeth.

Now Linked By Wireless

Lone Island Of Grand Cayman Connected With Jamaica

An island paradise where time for centuries has stood still, heard a belated warning of the march of progress, when wireless communication was established between Jamaica and Grand Cayman, one of her dependencies.

Lying about 300 miles northwest of Jamaica, Grand Cayman is the "whitest" island in the West Indies. Save that a belt out of a total population of 5,000 being from English stock. Many of the original settlers came to Jamaica about the time Charles II made peace with the throne, and when his governor began to make for exile for them here they moved to Grand Cayman. Others are descendants of English pirates and shipwrecked seamen who were the terror of the Caribbean more than 200 years ago. Piracy that brought uncertain rewards was abandoned for the easier trade of wrecking luring ships ashore by false beacon fires.

A religious people, they had vastly prayed ships would be caught on the coral reef bounding the island, and a story is told how a congregation who was out into a storm to look a wreck were hailed by the parson: Brethren, sit for the benediction and let's all start fair."

But to-day the Grand Caymans are described as the happiest and most lawabiding people in the world so peaceful they have they'll come, it is said the only sin they commit is in dropping their h's.

Until recently Sir Edward Denham of Jamaica formally opened the wireless service, the only communication with Grand Cayman was by boat.

And while the Government is paying the farmers for all the pigs they don't raise and all the corn and wheat and cotton they don't plant why don't they pay the radio song-writers for every radio song they don't write? And why not pay the gals who lecture and do parts in radio drama for keeping off the air asks the Chicago Tribune.

Vermilion And Lloydminster Play Tie Game

Score Was 2-2 in Hockey Fixture Thursday Evening

Local hockey fans were treated to their first senior hockey game of the season on Thursday night last when the Pro-Hies from Lloydminster visited here and tied Pete Weber's local 2-2. Vermilion had previously defeated Lloyd on their own ice 5-0.

For two periods the hosts had a decided edge on the visitors and at the end of the second period had a 2-1 lead after the puck had gone past Brown into the border times not less than five times—once it was kicked in by Waldenberg then again it was disallowed as the bell ending the period was supposed to have runs he on the goal was scored; another looked like a real goal but the goal judge remained motionless. Brown apparently missed the rubber into his own cage when attempting to clear. The disc was quickly hooked on to by Beckel like a counter from the sideline.

The Vermilion boys had a clear edge on the play in the first two periods but Lloydminster had a marked improvement in the last frame and in this a defensive game and let the Pirates come to them. The writer has nothing even faintly nice to say in such and such as hard as the visitors did, they literally skated themselves into complete exhaustion and kept a continuous stream of passing over the boards as they used three complete forward lines and three defence lines.

Vern Lund settled back to defensive hockey and this proved their undoing, as Vanderlind drifted a few times in right boards which Powell thought he had blocked but which slipped through his pads nonchalantly, making the fleeing counter rather tame in an otherwise thrilling game. No one else has played Bert Williams in present and was quite skilful with the body on offsides and penalties, having

The Tolland Times have a way of bettering about the remainder, that makes them fit for the "thirteen per cent column" The last one got lost altogether! So here's hope for a speedy journey to Standard.

As Winks was so kind to write about the junior dance on November 22nd, we only say this much that Mr. Wallington made an excellent floor-manager and a cheerful auctioneer if the sale is any attempt to judge down from the north country on this occasion.

We are glad that Mary Preston and Mabel Lysons are back home after the operations for appendicitis. Let us trust, that no more cases will be heard of in this community. It looks almost like an epidemic, that is victimizing the neighborhood. Mr. Douglas Stoutt of Wild Rose (formerly of Tolland) is the latest one to succumb to this sudden illness. Mr. Percy Lindsay, also well known in our district, has been a patient in the Vermilion hospital for some weeks too. Best wishes for a speedy recovery.

To turn to something more cheerful, here are the most hearty congratulations of the district to Mr. and Mrs. Fred Scott of Dorradaile on their recent marriage.

Mr. H. Portsmith and Mr. Van Wagner both visitors to Edmonton during the end of November meeting each other in the popular 5 and 10c store and spent the rest of the day together.

The U. F. W. A. held a meeting at the home of Mrs. Otto Wolters on December 4th. Business in connection with the dance on the 13th of December was discussed and settled. Be sure to come to tinsion school at that date. A basn grab-box full of surprises will attract young and old and the quilt raffled. The annual meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. W. Pierl on January 8th 1936. The ladies are also donating presents for the Christmas tree. The concert will be held on December 20th and promises to be an good and entertaining as other years under Miss Hutton's expert training.

Mr. Otto Wolters took his wife and baby to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Wilson, just north of Vermilion. They will spend the week there and we are sure the grandparents will on the first visit of their grandson, who is known to be the best and biggest baby boy of our community.

Mr. Harry Preston will soon leave for B. C. where he hopes the climate will agree better with him. Good luck to you Harry!

Hank Stoop and Bill Cooper spent a couple of days visiting friends in the district.

Mr and Mrs. W. Ford, Mrs H. McFarlane, Miss M. Ford, Miss M. McFarlane and Mrs. F. Van Wagoner were all seen Saturday in town enjoying the Christmas display in the stores.

A NEW APPEAL FOR PEACE IS MADE TO ITALY

London.—Sir Samuel Hoare, foreign secretary, addressed a new peace appeal to Italy, but coupled with it an assertion that "this appeal is no sign of weakness."

Before a tense and crowded house of commons, Sir Samuel joined this plea, a promise of "another great effort" to end the Italo-Ethiopian conflict, and a renewed pledge to "play our part" in any collective League of Nations action to apply an oil embargo against Italy.

These were the outstanding points of Sir Samuel's speech:

1. Declaring both Britain and the League were pledged in principle to the oil embargo, he said the United Kingdom was "prepared to take our share in whatever collective action is determined" at the league sanctions committee meeting.

2. The told the house of commons Britain and France intend to "reconcile our efforts" to reconcile Italy. His eyes and the league before that meeting, and appealed directly to Il Duce and the people of Italy to "dismiss entirely from their minds the suspicion that we have sinister motives behind our support of the league"

3. In announcing support for the projected oil embargo, Sir Samuel said he wished to make it clear "that no one government is any more responsible than another for this collective decision, or, indeed, for any of the sanctions proposals." He did not specifically mention Canada in this connection.

4. Taking cognizance of the North China autonomy trouble, he politely warned Japan that her friendly relations with her neighbors might be endangered by indications of aggression in North China.

Unfortunate events had lent color to belief that Japanese militarists were trying exerted to shape internal political developments in China. Anything tending to create that belief could only harm Japanese prestige and hamper friendly relations with her gr ghbors.

Sir Samuel expressed his regret that Great Britain had failed in an attempt to reopen discussions of the russions with Chancellor Hitler of Germany. "So long as the Ethiopian war is continuing, there is little to be gained by these discussions," he told the house

"We have no wish to weaken Italy or to humiliate Italy," Sir Samuel told the house. "Indeed we are most anxious to see a strong Italy in this world an Italy that is strong morally, politically, socially and that is able to contribute to the world individual assistance.

"I appeal once again to Signor Mussolini and his fellow countrymen to dismiss from their minds the suspicion that we have sinister motive behind our support of the league. We have none.

"Let them dismiss from their minds the suspicion that we wish to drive a wedge between Italy and France We wish to see Italy and France the firmest friends and we are glad we were able to help in the entente that brought Italy and France together at the beginning of this year."

Likewise, he went on, Britain had no desire to weaken the position of Il Duce "and destroy the Fascist regime if we have not the least desire to interfere in the internal affairs of Italy

Intends To Retire

Premier Of Ontario States His Decision Still Stands

Toronto Premier Mitchell F Hepburn of Ontario came home from a health t p to the south determined to carry out his plan of retiring from politics after the 1936 session of the Ontario legislature He spent the last month in Florida and will return there after the Dominion-provincial conference

Broad and feeling much better after his four weeks rest, Mr Hepburn was hopeful that the improvement in his health would continue but that decision later his decision to quit politics His decision to retire as premier and leader of the Liberal party in Ontario "still stands" he said

Memorial For Jellicoe

London Prime Minister Baldwin will ask parliament at an early date to make financial provision for a memorial to the late Earl Jellicoe, it was rumored in the lobbies of the House of Commons.

Not For Defence Purposes

Huge British Loan Is To Retire Other Obligations

London. — It was authoritatively stated that the funding loan which was successfully subscribed soon after its issue could not be devoted to defence purposes. It was specifically earmarked for the retirement of other obligations.

In some quarters, however, it has been suggested that the cleaning up of the money market by the present funding operations would simplify the flotation of a defence loan later.

(Previous reports were to the effect that part of the £300,000,000 loan might be used for defence purposes. Havas said it had learned from a high admiralty source that in the event that no agreement was forthcoming from the naval conference here some of the proceeds would be used for the building of three new battle cruisers.)

Reports of an impending huge defence loan for months off and on have been a handy device by certain stock market bulls to bolster sagging business.

Official assurances that there would be a substantial increase in the defence forces naturally stimulated interest in where the money was coming from. But far from satisfying public curiosity the government blithely has declined to reveal even the extent of the new armaments The appearance of the new funding loan revived conjecture on the point.

British Labor Platform

Lays Line Of Attack Against The Government

London — The Labor party, its membership in the House of Commons strengthened by last month's general election, served notice on the line of attack against the government it will follow in parliament.

An amendment to the address in reply to the speech from the throne was approved by the party.

The Labor amendment reads as follows "This house regrets the failure of His Majesty's advisers to indicate an effective policy for the restoration and maintenance of peace, the reduction of armaments by international agreement and the removal of the economic causes of war; the failure to recognize the need to plan the economic life of the country on the basis of public ownership in order to secure employment in the fullest plenty; the omission of adequate proposals for dealing with unemployment including the abolition of the means test, and for dealing with the distressed areas and the just claims of the unemployed for an immediate increase in wages."

Larger Wheat Acreage

Despite Governmental Efforts To Reduce Acreage This Year

Ottawa Wheat acreage increased in Canada this year despite governmental efforts to reduce it, it was reported by the Dominion bureau of statistics Under the world wheat agreement, Canada undertook to reduce exports and discourage increased acreage through educational campaigns.

A substantial increase was shown in the estimated area fown to principal crops this year which totalled 55,645,160 acres against 50,037 820 in 1934.

Wheat occupied the largest individual area with 24 115,700 acres, compared with 23,985,000 last year Oats were next with 14 096,200 acres compared with 13 730,800 in 1934, and barley third with 3 466,800 acres against 3,612,500.

Three-Hour School Day

Italy Shortens Time In Order To Save Coal

Rome War has its bright spots for Italy's 5,000,000 grade school children they have gone on a three-hour day

They won't have to get up early, becoming "10 o'clock scholars" School will be out at 1 p.m., replacing the previous 8 30-1 30 hours Probably all the poor pupils will get free hot soup for lunch as usual The hours were shortened to save coal needed for Italy s war.

Should Support League

Toronto Professor Norman MacKenzie of the University of Toronto addressing a service club here, said Canada is bound to support the League of Nations in all but military sanctions. He stated that, if league measures fail, "we will be forced in five years with a situation far graver to our position and one in which we will not be able to call on 50 other nations for help."

Mine Worker Killed

Last Balance On Timber Slide And Dropped 200 Feet

Nelson, B.C.—Joseph Nicholson, 39, Reno Gold Mines Company employee, lost his balance and plunged 200 feet to instant death in the bottom of a shipway in a mine at the Nugget-Motherlode property.

Nicholson, with Ivor Chalk and James Ferguson, was working at the head of the shipway. He leaned over the railing at the head of the inclined timber slide to see if a fourth worker, John Ferguson, was ready to receive the next load. He lost his balance, his fellow employees stated, and hurtled down, dying almost instantly.

Nicholson was a native of England. His wife, his mother, Mrs. J Nicholson, still lives.

Quebec Gangsters Escape With $13,803 Of Bank's Funds

Hull, Que. — Gangsters kidnapped and shot dead one of the Hull branches of the Banque Provinciale du Canada, killed one with a bullet in the head, left the other bound and blindfolded and escaped with $13,000 in bills the clerks were taking to the bank's main office in Ottawa.

The dead man, Armand Nadeau, 15-year-old clerk and former Montreal resident, was believed to have attempted to resist the bandits before they pumped three bullets into his head and body. The men fled towards Montreal along the Hull-Montreal highway.

FREE STATE WILL NOT ASK LEAGUE FOR INDEPENDENCE

Dublin.—A resolution demanding the Free State government should claim from the League of Nations recognition of its independence was defeated by a large majority in the convention of President Eamonde Valera's Fianna Fail party

It also required the government to withdraw from Geneva if the league failed to accord the recognition demanded.

Another resolution commending the present policy of the Free State government was carried with only one dissenting vote

President De Valera declared if Irish membership in the league did not help, it was also true it did not hinder them working for the unity and independence of their country They could get it in the League according various demands They could go only if there was a likelihood of the world's peace being affected by it matter in dispute.

The league could not listen to national appeals said De Valera, unless there was a serious threat of war. Otherwise Geneva would become a court on which all sorts of questions would be brought.

Replying to a question in the dail President De Valera said trade pacts for reciprocity between Great Britain were without any foundation He also denied there were pacts to dispose involving the payment of land annuities and tariff rates which have remained unaltered since 1932.

Economic Recovery

Hon. Vincent Massey Gives Cheerful Picture Of Dominion

London.—Hon. Vincent Massey Canadian high commissioner to London, gave to the Canadian Club a cheerful picture of a Dominion well on the road to economic recovery.

Sir Edward Peacock partner of Baring Brothers, London banking house, and former Canadian financier, presided at the meeting.

The progress of Canada during the last year, Mr. Massey declared, was due to the important indices of commerce, such as railway loadings and the cash clearings figures. The financial power created by economic factors for construction of highways and other uniform improvement

Ontario Government Will Take Steps To Recover Succession Duties

Toronto. Employment of inspectors to aid the Ontario government in its collection of succession duties on estates and other treasury levies was predicted by Premier Hepburn as he announced an additional $250,000 in succession duties had been recovered from the estate of the late Harold F Ritchie

"I warn these estates" said the premier, "that we will not tolerate any attempt to escape making their proper contributions to the province In future 10 per cent penalties prescribed under the Succession Duties Act will be enforced. In addition we are considering paying people who supply us with information respecting evasions"

Any arrangement of this kind, Mr Hepburn added, would be patterned after the existing federal legislation

To Assist Agriculture

Better Prices For Farm Products Are Necessary

Toronto Delegates to the United Farmers of Ontario convention were told of advances made by the organization in membership and financial position but at the same time were warned that if relief in the agricultural field was to be found it must come through adjustment of production to profitable demand

President R. J. Reid issued the warning of the precarious position of the farmer after Secretary-Treasurer H. H. Hannah's report had noted increased membership and an improved financial situation Mr Scott maintained the economic life of agriculture was enlarged as well as must blaze new trails

Before better days appeared farm product prices had to be raised until they reach what the president described as a just relationship to other commodity prices

The Battle Against Drought

Man s efforts to control the mighty forces of nature are at the best puny and can be of little avail, but man can harness these forces to some extent and utilize them to his own advantage by working with instead of against nature.

The general principle is understood and is being used in the war against drought and its resultant evil soil drifting, in the three prairie provinces by the board of agricultural and engineering experts of the federal and provincial governments and universities which has been set up under the Federal Prairie Farms Rehabilitation Act and which is just completing its first year's work of a five year plan.

Considering words were uttered by Dr. E. S. Archibald, Director of Experimental Farms, Ottawa, the chairman of the Advisory Board created to administer the Act at a week's conference of the Board and its five subcommittees in Regina recently when he announced, as the conclusion of one of the committees, that "soil drifting can be cut down to the absolute minimum." This was supplemented later by a report of the water conservation committee that its work "will increase the visible supply of water for prairie livestock by 30 or 40 times."

Proceeding on the sound basis enunciated in the opening paragraph and fortifying its efforts by applying the principle of co-operation, the Advisory Board and its subsidiary committees are on the high road to the goal of a reasonable success in its efforts to divine and put into effect ways and means to ameliorate the disastrous effects of future drought periods on the western plains, provided the organization is not impeded any niggardliness in the provision of the necessary ammunition money—to bring its work to a successful conclusion.

In the connection it should be pointed out that the Federal government appropriated $750,000 for the first year's work and agreed to vote a million a year for the ensuing four years for the speedy and efficient carrying for practical assistance involving monetary outlay are already very substantial. Some of the schemes requested may be practical and some may not. Some may be too expensive for the speed with which they are required yet to be demonstrated whether a million a year will be sufficient to carry out the gigantic task, even if the Board s efforts are confined to the most economic and most efficient of the numerous projects which have been and are being put forward.

The Board and its committees appear to be tackling their b g problems in a workmanlike manner. From the information available to date it would seem that personal and professional jealousies, if any exisited, have been relegated to the background and that all the members are working harmoniously with a single eye on the objective to be achieved. This is as it should be and is a matter for sincere appreciation.

One of the factors which will largely determine the success or failure of the plans and projects under way or under consideration is the matter of co-operation co-operation between the governments involved and their servants, and co-operation between the Board and its committees on the one hand and the farmers in whose interests they are working, on the other.

This, it may be remarked, is not recognized and emphasized and this augurs well for beneficial results. In some of the districts which have been established for projective work and experimental undertakings farmers have set up local organizations and it is here with the scientists, and where this is being done, maximum benefits should be obtainable.

In Saskatchewan assurance has been given by the provincial minister of agriculture that, so far as his government is concerned, there will be co-operation with the Federal organization, in the administration and operations of the new provincial Land Utilization Act which sets up machinery to arrange for evacuation of land which is unfit for farming and which perhaps never should have been devoted to grain growing, and for its use for grazing purposes together with plans for improvement of such lands in districts where circumstances appear warranted.

With the impetus of several years of soil drifting and ruined crops behind them as a driving force, farmers are turning to the Board and its committees with open arms. This is demonstrated by the large number of applications received by the water conservation committee alone. Requests for dams and dugouts and irrigation projects, mostly small individual schemes, but including a number of community projects have been and are being received by the committee to the number of 4,615 in the three provinces. From Saskatchewan points the committee has received requests for 840 small schemes and 40 large projects.

A considerable number of small projects have already been completed and the beneficial effect of their existence will be reaped for the first time with the run-off of water in the spring of 1938.

Reference might be made to the branches of work being developed and proceeded with by other committees, such as plans for tree planting, examination of cultural methods, considerations of moisture conservation under varying soil conditions, and the information made this passing notice at the time. Suffice it to say that all these angles are being carefully studied by the several committees in charge

The whole scheme is by far the most ambitious attempt yet made to solve the greatest problem confronting agriculture in the west. The best trained minds available are at work on it and there is every reason to believe that with the co-operation already referred to a substantial measure of success will be achieved

Railway Problems

Dr. Tory Tells How Mistakes Have Been Made

The taking over of railroads and not taking over the land settlement schemes which had paralleled them was one mistake in Canada's handling of the railway problem, Dr. H. M. Tory, Canadian educationist and scientist, told the Canadian Club in Vancouver.

"Had we spent half the money, we have spent on railways deficits in promoting national land settlement schemes, by now the railways would have been self-supporting," he said.

Dr. Tory defended the building of railways, but regretted the way it was done in many instances, though he still believed they were one of the country's greatest assets.

"The wrong was in the way it was done," he said. "We allowed rail-road builders, with practically no study of the land requirements to build where they thought they could reap the richest harvest for themselves.

"The result is that there are railways where they are not wanted and places that want roads have not got them.

"The second difficulty is, when we started road building we paralleled it with land settlement schemes, so that the roads became powers of settlement. Then when we conceived in deep water we took over the roads and abandoned the land settlement plans."

Radium For Ontario Government

Receive Delivery Of Three And A Half Grams Of Great Bear Lake Product

Delivery of three and a half grams of radium, product of the rich Great Bear Lake district, has been made to the Ontario government for use in cancer treatment at the provincial cancer clinic, Hon. Dr. J. A. Faulkner, minister of health, announced recently.

The radium, the largest single quantity the government has been renting from New York. The price paid for the Canadian element was $42,000 a gram.

In March, 1934, the previous government rented from a New York concern four grams of radium for the Toronto hospital "bomb." At the end of the first year the government exercised its option to purchase one-half gram. Since last March the hospital continued to hold three and a half grams, and will hold this load, but next March that amount will be returned to New York and replaced by the Canadian supply.

Ambrose Small Case

Ontario Government To Reopen Investigation Into Mystery

The Ontario government will reopen investigation into the disappearance of Ambrose J. Small, Toronto theatre magnate, in 1919, it was announced by Attorney-General Roebuck, it was reported, communicated from Ottawa with Patrick Small, brother of the missing man, and sisters of Small, and told him Senior Solicitor W. B. Common would interview him and the Misses Small to ascertain what evidence they have.

Sullivan declared his evidence will throw light on several angles of the case, and will include letters sent by the Misses Small by friends of Mrs. Small, indicating Small's disappearance was expected in some quarters.

Caribou used to be fairly numerous in the district 30 or 40 years ago, but since then only a occasional one had been met with

Germany Building Up War Machine Greater Than Kaiser's

Cabling from Berlin, Frederick T. Birchall, English-born correspondent of the New York Times, and dean of journalistic observers in Europe, writes of the "recession among all classes of the population" caused by the latest act of the German Government. The act, briefly, summoned to the colors all classes of 1918 and 1918.

Watching Mussolini in Ethiopia, the world may well give a thought to th's.

For what it means, as Birchall points out, is that Germany's male population is being wrought into a huge military machine; a war machine greater than anything ever possessed by the Kaiser.

Successively, as they reach years of usefulness, the millions of the Reich are to be catalogued and classified for such purposes as the state may determine. In addition to the building of barracks and munitions there will exist for Germany in the future another army of millions of men, on the outbreak of war or in any other emergency can become a military reality. It is the beginning of the creation of a nation in arms upon which Nazi ideology dwells so much.

Only seventeen years after the Armistice, is a devastating thing. Just recently we had France, the greatest military nation in the world, proclaiming that Germany now is superior to that of Germany; and meanwhile Germany goes on building a mighty air force, fashioning warships and submarines.

In Ethiopia are the legions of Italy. In the Far East there is the threat of a mighty Japanese empire carved out of North China. But these things, arresting as they are, and perilous, pale before what goes on to-day beyond the Rhine.

To Aid Working Man

New Zealand Government Makes Move To Reduce Mortgages

New Zealand's Labor government was sworn into office. Prime Minister Michael Savage stated that the first task would be to improve the lot of the unemployed. The next move would be to restore the wage levels prevailing in industry and the civil service before economy cuts were introduced by the National government in 1931.

The prime minister said he intended to get in touch with those who control the Dominion's banking system, including the reserve bank, in order to make available the country's real resources for national development.

"We shall have to find the resources," he declared. "We shall follow the old ideas of continuously borrowing abroad and adding to the public debt."

W. H. T. Armstrong, minister of labor, said the cabinet intended to increase the unemployment relief rates for both men and women, leaving assistation court to determine rates above the level.

Women Flyers

Every Bit As Capable As Men, Says R.C. Observer

Harold Wilson, of the Avro Club of British Columbia and chief pilot of Canada's leading instructors, differs with an opinion attributed to Kenneth Mais, Hollywood actor, who declared that women make poor aeroplane pilots.

"Maybe eastern girls are different but we have always found that, other things being equal, women who have the training for sport are every bit as capable as the men," Mr. Wilson said.

"It must be borne in mind, however, that the industry offers little future at present for lady pilots other than for their own satisfaction."

The instructor said women suffer because of poor judgment of distance and speed.

Zuyder Zee Remained

Mighty Dyke Effecting Memory Of Holland's Inland Sea

The Zuyder Zee has almost gone, and it has not been drained dry. What it is now the Ysmel Meer, and the mighty dyke and the reinforcing pumps are effecting the memory of the old inland sea of Holland.

Much has still to be done before the Zee is a polder to exploit for rivers that flowed into it, controlled by huge sluices, but already an area which five years ago was under water has been sufficiently cleared to grow crops and support two villages built on it.

All you have to do to convince yourself that women are prettier now is to look at an old picture of a woman with her hair wound in a knot.

The act, briefly, summoned to the colors all classes of 1918 and 1918.

Watching Mussolini in Ethiopia, the world may well give a thought to th's.

For what it means, as Birchall points out, is that Germany's male population is being wrought into a huge military machine; a war machine greater than anything ever possessed by the Kaiser.

Successively, as they reach years of usefulness, the millions of the Reich are to be catalogued and classified for such purposes as the state may determine. In addition to the building of barracks and munitions there will exist for Germany in the future another army of millions of men, on the outbreak of war or in any other emergency can become a military reality. It is the beginning of the creation of a nation in arms upon which Nazi ideology dwells so much.

Only seventeen years after the Armistice, is a devastating thing. Just recently we had France, the greatest military nation in the world, proclaiming that Germany now is superior to that of Germany; and meanwhile Germany goes on building a mighty air force, fashioning warships and submarines.

In Ethiopia are the legions of Italy. In the Far East there is the threat of a mighty Japanese empire carved out of North China. But these things, arresting as they are, and perilous, pale before what goes on to-day beyond the Rhine.

To Aid Working Man

New Zealand Government Makes Move To Reduce Mortgages

New Zealand's Labor government was sworn into office. Prime Minister Michael Savage stated that the first task would be to improve the lot of the unemployed. The next move would be to restore the wage levels prevailing in industry and the civil service before economy cuts were introduced by the National government in 1931.

The prime minister said he intended to get in touch with those who control the Dominion's banking system, including the reserve bank, in order to make available the country's real resources for national development.

"We shall have to find the resources," he declared. "We shall follow the old ideas of continuously borrowing abroad and adding to the public debt."

W. H. T. Armstrong, minister of labor, said the cabinet intended to increase the unemployment relief rates for both men and women, leaving assistation court to determine rates above the level.

Women Flyers

Every Bit As Capable As Men, Says R.C. Observer

Harold Wilson, of the Avro Club of British Columbia and chief pilot of Canada's leading instructors, differs with an opinion attributed to Kenneth Mais, Hollywood actor, who declared that women make poor aeroplane pilots.

"Maybe eastern girls are different but we have always found that, other things being equal, women who have the training for sport are every bit as capable as the men," Mr. Wilson said.

"It must be borne in mind, however, that the industry offers little future at present for lady pilots other than for their own satisfaction."

The instructor said women suffer because of poor judgment of distance and speed.

Zuyder Zee Remained

Mighty Dyke Effecting Memory Of Holland's Inland Sea

The Zuyder Zee has almost gone, and it has not been drained dry. What it is now the Ysmel Meer, and the mighty dyke and the reinforcing pumps are effecting the memory of the old inland sea of Holland.

Much has still to be done before the Zee is a polder to exploit for rivers that flowed into it, controlled by huge sluices, but already an area which five years ago was under water has been sufficiently cleared to grow crops and support two villages built on it.

All you have to do to convince yourself that women are prettier now is to look at an old picture of a woman with her hair wound in a knot.

SELECTED RECIPES

IMPERIAL CHOCOLATE CAKE

2 squares unsweetened chocolate
4 tablespoons butter
1½ cups sugar
2 eggs
1 cup flour
2 teaspoon Magic Baking Powder
1 teaspoon Magic Soda
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup sour milk or buttermilk
¼ teaspoon salt

Melt chocolate in double boiler. Add butter, sugar and half cup sour milk. Mix well, then beat in eggs one at a time. Add sifted flour, baking powder, soda and salt, alternately with remaining half cup of sour milk and vanilla. Beat well and bake in layer cake tins in moderate oven from 25 to 30 minutes.

Frosting

1½ cups sugar
¼ cup water
2 eggs (whites)
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 teaspoon lemon juice
¼ teaspoon salt

Boil sugar and water until it forms a soft ball in cold water, or until it spins a thread. Add slowly to beaten egg whites, and continue beating until it is of consistency to spread. Add flavoring and cover cake, decorating with grated chocolate and walnuts.

The Oldest Horse

Lived To Age Of Sixty Two According To Records

According to R. A. Brown, secretary of the National Horse Association, the oldest horse of which we have a reliable record is old Billy, who died in Cheshire 100 years ago at the age of 62. His skull is said to be preserved at Manchester University. Another famous veteran was Parsmatin, an Australian horse, who was 52 when he died in 1874. Tommy, a Welsh pony, made regular rounds of the villages with a fruit hawker until he died at 53. Among four-legged "old soldiers," a Crimean War pack-horse lived to 49. And Mick, who was foaled in 1868, and was a cab-horse in Hull for 35 years, was still alive a year or so ago.—London Answers.

Employment Increases

But Cost Of Relief Seems To Be Unchanged

Employment in Canada has reached the highest level since December, 1930, but relief costs have not moved correspondingly downward and there are still more than 1,000,000 Canadians in receipt of direct unemployment relief, according to an estimate of current trends released by the Canadian welfare council.

Extensive public works have contributed to the favorable employment trend in recent months, the welfare council asserts, while those in turn have stimulated activity in private business.

From the 1935 peak of 1,230,000 persons on direct relief last February, the number decreased to 1,100,000 estimated in the late autumn reports received by the council from relief departments and social agencies in the nine provinces. This compares with 1,150,000 estimated at this time last year, a drop of approximately 50,000

An attempted comparison of these figures must, however, take into account, the council said, the fact that some 90,000 persons on relief last year in the drouth areas of Saskatchewan have been removed from relief lists.

Consequently "it seems possible that there has been a more disturbing enlargement of the socially dependent in the urban and industrial centres within recent months than a first glance would indicate. This, together with mounting costs, suggests that the unemployment and unemployment relief problem has not lost but rather increased in seriousness in the past 12 months. The wider introduction of cash relief in many centres, without prior reorganization or adequate investigation and supervision services, appears to have added to the costs and the numbers on relief in certain areas."

Gift For Scouts

The silver-gilt push-button used by King George to light the Jubilee Park has been presented by His Majesty to Imperial Scout Headquarters. The stand bears the inscription: "Presented by King George V. to the Boy Scouts to commemorate the lighting of the bonfire in Hyde P on May 6th, 1935."

Coal Over-Estimated

Sir Montague Barlow, British coal expert and one-time Labor minister of the United Kingdom, who has been in Alberta, said the western province's coal resources had been overestimated, although "it isn't a problem that's going to affect anyone for the next 100 years."

SAYS CANADA IN DANGER OF LOSING GRAIN MARKETS

Toronto.—Sir Francis Floud, British high comm issioner to Canada, in an address to the Canadian Club and the University of Toronto, gave three reasons "why Canada is in serious danger of losing the British and European grain markets."

Following are the reasons cited:

1. The spread in price between Canad an wheat and Argentine wheat.

2. The growing demand in Great Britain for "tariff wheat" which are composed of 90 per cent. Argentine "rail" wheat and 10 per cent. Canadian hard wheat.

3. The falling population of the civilized countries of the world.

"The normal spread between Canad an and Argentine wheat has greatly increased," said Sir Francis. "In 1932 the spread was two and 9-16 pence, compared with the present spread of 10 pence."

He added that England purchased 16 per cent. of her wheat imports from Argentina in 1932, compared with 27 per cent. in 1933 and 1934.

"British millers," he added, "are not adopting a hostile attitude toward Canadian wheat, but they are simply 'booking' their supplies on the cheapest market."

The high premium on Canadian wheat is decreasing in Canada in the foreign market, sa'd Sir Francis.

"I am sorry to say this, gentlemen, but the outlook for Canada as an agricultural country is black and difficult, and until economists solve the present baffling international trade problems, the future for Canadian wheat is a very serious problem.

"In recent years the proportion of Canadian wheat taken by Britain has steadily declined, and as the situation now stands Canada's share of British wheat will be purchased by England."

Sir Franc s said that while the population of Great Britain, France, Italy and the United States showed a total increase of 120 000,000 in the past 30 years, it would show a decrease of 1,000,000 in the next 20 years. This decrease in population would result in a four per cent. reduct on in world food consumption in the next 10 years and a further five per cent. reduction from 1946 to 1956

"The bread consumption will drop even lower, said Sir Francis, "for where the standard of living is raised less bread is eaten."

Onts, the British comm issioner said, will be replaced by Canadian barley from Scotland in the future.

Sir Francis said apples, canned fruit, butter, cheese, eggs and bacon, would likely find an expanding market in Great Britain.

Interest For Farm Loans

Quest'on Of Reduction Considered At Conference In Ottawa

Ottawa.—General revision of grants to fall and wash lands, provision for in the report of the agricultural committee of the Dominion-provincial conference it was learned to-day, and general lower interest rates, the lowering of the five per cent. rate by the Canadian Farm Loan Board, have also been urged. Complaint was also made there was too much delay in making loans after the applications were received.

A committee on which each province will be represented will meet in Ottawa, probably early in the new year, to work out a new bas s of fair grants to avoid any overlapping

Suggestions will be made in remedy situations where gaps occur, and neither the Dominion nor the province concerned cover the field

Uniform Company Laws

Matter Will Come Up At Next Session Of Parliament

Ottawa Uniform company laws for all provinces will be drawn up by a committee of Dominion and provincial officials for presentation to the next session of parliament as a result of action taken by the Dominion-provincial conference committee on constitutional amendments

Under the chairmanship of Hon Ernest Lapointe minister of justice the committee adopted the following resolution

That the secretary of state convene a committee of appropriate officials of the Dominion and provinces to prepare a draft new act or amendments to the present act for the purpose of securing uniform laws dealing with companies throughout Canada

Immigration Policy Changed

Dominion Government Decides To Remove Limitation In Report

Montreal.—A step in the direction of letting down the bars against European immigration has been taken by the Dominion government, the Gazette says in a despatch from its Ottawa correspondent.

The paper continues: "In the past two or three years the Canadian Pacific Railway and the Canadian Nat'onal Railways have each been permitted to bring to Canada 50 families from central Europe who are financially equipped and prepared to go on Canadian farms.

Hon. T. A. Crerar, minister of immigration, after a discuss on with the transportation companies has, it is understood, decided to remove the limitation, but it is believed that this will not result in any flood of European farm immigrants, for the transportation companies have lat'nated that even with the barrier gone they will be able to bring more than 100 families each.

"While unemployment is prevalent throughout Canada, there is an extremely unlikely the government will facilitate the movement of Europeans to this country, and seek emigrants wherever available, but the present policy of confining immigration to families who have farming experience Europe who are fitted for agriculture will be continued until there is a marked improvement in industrial activity."

Amend B.N.A. Act

All Provinces Said To Be In Agreement For Change

Ottawa. All the provinces are said to be in agreement that new provisions should be made to amend Canada's constitution, the British North America Act. It was learned here. A conference of the Dominion-provincial conference is wrestling with the problem under the chairmanship of Hon. Ernest Lapointe, minister of justice.

It was stated semi-officially a great deal of unanimity had been reached by the conference and that "Quebec has gone a long way" in favor of changes, but was firm in its former position that any changes should be by conference unanimity or provincial rights.

Premier Duplessis suggestion is understood to be that on a definite list of questions, the act might be amended by the Dominion parliament when it had the sanction of any two-thirds of the provinces. On all other quest ons the unanimous consent of the provinces would be required

Will Receive Consideration

Civic Heads Think Ottawa Should Assume Cost Of Relief

Ottawa Civic heads representing the Dominion mayors' conference who came to Ottawa for the Dominion-provincial parley decided at an informal meeting to return to their respective cities.

Their decision followed individual interviews with Dominion and provincial members of the unemployment and financial committees who gave the assurance that the financial and other capabilities in the matter of relief would be given serious consideration.

It was understood the two Dominion-provincial conference committees considered there was no necessity for the mayoralty representatives to appear before them

The mayors offered their assistance to the two conference committees as a follow-up to the proposal they placed before Prime Minister King and provincial premiers to the effect that the federal government should assume the whole cost of relief

Cause Of Drouth

Recession Of Rocky Mountain Glaciers Given As Reason

Toronto.—A gradual recession of the Rocky Mounta n glaciers is responsible for drouth conditions in Western Canada, Dan McCowan, noted Banff, Alta., naturalist, said in an address before members of the Electric club.

Numerous forest fires in the vicinity of the glacier have caused a 24-hour melting of the ice instead of the usual six hours daily. If the melting continues for the next few years a great change will be noted in the flow of the Saskatchewan and other western streams.

In lieu of committees trying to decide what to do about the gradual melting of the rare magnificent glaciers, Mr. McCowan said, a concentrated effort should be made toward reforestration.

Kidnapper Suspects

Two Men Arrested In Illinois In Connection With Lobelt Affair

Ottawa, Ill.—A trap set by U.S. Justice department agents snapped shut on two alleged kidnappers of John S. Lobelt, wealthy Canad an lawyer, ending a 14-month hunt over most of North America.

The pair were nabbed after a Ryerson street home in Ottawa was raided. Their arrest was officially confirmed later by J. Edgar Hoover, head of the justice department's bureau of investigation in Washington.

NO NEW SCHEMES UNDER MARKETING ACT FOR PRESENT

Ottawa.—No new schemes will be considered under the Natural Products Marketing Act, and schemes already in operation will not be further expanded, it was announced to-day by Dominion government officials in charge of the administration of the act.

The announcement was made by Hon. James G. Gardiner, minister of agriculture. A sub-committee was appointed to prepare a resolution on farm credits and debt adjustments.

The Natural Products Marketing Act, passed in 1934, has been operating in practically every part of Canada and is now among the half dozen statutes referred to in the supreme court of Canada for decision as to their constitutional validity.

Mr. Gardiner announced plans to go slow until the supreme court of Canada decides whether the act is constitutional.

Some 22 schemes are in operation under the marketing act. These will continue in force, it was announced, but their activities will be undertaken until the validity of the act is decided.

Eight proposed schemes will be held up. These include livestock marketing schemes in Alberta Saskatchewan, Manitoba, Ontario and Prince Edward Island, poultry marketing in Saskatchewan, hemp marketing in Ontario, and red shingle domestic marketing in British Columbia.

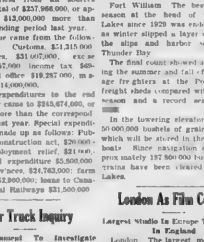
Motor Truck Inquiry

Ask Government To Investigate Problems Of This Industry

Ottawa. An investigation of the motor transit industry was urged on the Dominion-provincial conference by truck operators. The request was in the form of a memorandum.

The conference was asked to recommend to the Dominion and provincial governments that a fact-finding commission or board whose members were not connected with the operation of the industry be appointed with the motor transport industry the conditions under which it operates its proper functions its problems and its possibilities.

The resolution was approved by the Canadian Automobile Chamber of Commerce, the Canadian Industrial Traffic League highway transports the committee



Pierre Laval, Premier of France faced the Chamber of Deputies the other day with the knowledge that he had to thrash out of office. However the Deputies voted confidence in his ability to bring the nation out of the economic distress which it has suffered.

Big Increase In Revenues

Higher By $13,000,000 Than For Same Period Last Year

Ottawa.—Improvement in federal revenues is indicated by official returns up to the end of November, when the yield from all sources reached a total of $257,960,000, or approximately $13,000,000 more than the corresponding period last year.

The revenue came from the following sources: Customs, $71,315,000 excise duties, $31,607,000; excise taxes $72,657,000 income tax $49,700 000; post office $18,287 000, miscellaneous, $14,000,000.

Ordinary expenditures to the end of November came to $245,677,000, or $1,500,000 more than the corresponding period last year. Special expenditures were made up as follows: Public Works construction act, $20,000,000; unemployment relief, $21 000,000; capital expenditure $3,500,000 loan guarantees, $10,762,000; farm loan board, $2,900,000; loans to Canadian National Railways $31,500,000

ALBERTA CHAMPIONS TRIM LOCAL SENIORS

Vegreville Rangers demonstrated just why they are intermediate champions of Alberta and B. C. here on Monday night when they decorated the ice to the tune of 7-3 in a not too exciting exhibition game. The visitors had a decided edge but the locals in turn had a decidedly off night, and only for a few minutes left anything like their real stride. Several of the visitors goals would never have gotten past Powell ordinarily, while the forwards had difficulty in picking up passes and getting anything like a systematic attack.

Coach Jack Moss is grooming a kid line in Moss Jr., Heaton and Petasky and these boys surely show the effects of expert coaching. Moss is also bringing on several more Vegreville juniors and claims that in a year or two Vegreville will have some sparkling local products. His junior line scored four of the seven goals on Monday night.

Vermilion missed Manson Barr on defence. He had to retire with a badly cut lip caused by a flying puck in the first period. Late in the first period Moser collided with Ronnie Lindale and the Vegreville ace came up with blood streaming from a badly cut eye, and he in turn didn't reappear in the game.

Bert Williams handled the game in his usual efficient style. The game was an easy one to handle neither side laying on the hickory or applying the body in any extent.

AUBURNDALE

The sudden death from heart failure on Saturday, December 7th of Mr. Leslie Irving of Edmonton, son of Mr. A. Irving or Cunningham, was a shock to all the people here. Mr. and Mrs. A. Irving and Mr. James Irving went to Edmonton to attend the funeral. The neighborhood's deepest sympathies are extended to Mr. A. Irving and the rest of the family in their sad bereavement.

People who met the late Mr. Leslie Irving when he was visiting this district last summer, will remember how cheerful and optimistic he was about the then impending provincial election and the outlook of things generally. He agreed with us when we said we thought it best to vote the way the crowd voted. Now he too has joined the "Great Majority".

Mrs Velda Arthurs was operated on for appendicitis in the Vermilion hospital on December 9th She is on the way to recovery

Miss Molly Miskimmon spent last week end in Vermilion paying a visit to Miss Moses

The Autumn Leaf Dramatic Society held a meeting on December 6th in Autumn Leaf schoolhouse. Officers elected were: Mr. Lawrence Samuelson, president; Miss Frances Lilly, secretary, Miss Ellen Cleland and Mr. Lonnie Kilsen, lunch conveners Mr. Gordon Green had previously been elected vice-president, but as he has left the district for the winter, another will have to be elected in his place. The next meeting will be held on January 8th, when other officers will be chosen.

An Auburndale old-timer who resigned in Wainwright for a few months on his way to the old country for a couple of weeks was Mr. Eric Richardson, formerly of Auburndale, now of Theil River, Graham Island, B. C. This is the first time Eric has visited his district since he left in 1919 to clip up land under the Soldier Settlement Board on Graham Island B. C. He says wholly found the weather and roads bad in Alberta last week, but we hope they will be better on his return trip.

Be sure, everybody, to attend the Autumn Leaf Christmas concert on Friday's evening the 20th. A good program and plenty of refreshments are promised.

FATTENING CALVES TO MAKE BABY BEEF

At this season a great many calves are being put on feed, for competition in baby beef shows in the spring. Calves for feeding should be good representatives of their breed, low set and thick fleshed, with plenty of quality and constitutional vigor. For best results they should be put on feed when between five and six months old, generally before weaning, so that they will not lose their calf fat. They should be finished at nine months pooped.

The Dominion Experimental station, Lacombe recommends that for the first week or two days the calf should be fed a mixture of three parts by weight of oats to one of barley The proportion should be gradually changed until toward the end of the feeding period the calf is receiving three parts of barley to one of oats. As a variety in the ration is extremely valuable wheat may well be used to replace up to half the barley. All grain should be ground.

At first the grain ration should be limited to two pounds daily. This amount should be slowly increased until the calf is daily consuming from one to one and a quarter pounds to each grain pound of pounds the weight.

When first put on feed the calf should be allowed all the good quality mixed roughage it will clean up. However, as rapid fattening is dependent on heavy grain consumption the amount of roughage should be gradually decreased until, when on full feed, the calf receives only one lb. of roughage to two pounds of meal

If the roughage consists of mixed timothy hay ten per cent lin seed meal should be added to the grain ration, but if alfalfa or sweet clover hay is fed five per cent of oil cake meal will be sufficient.

To avoid the mineral deficiency diseases common to calves on hand feed a mixture of equal parts of salt and ground limestone or, for even better results equal parts of salt and mono calcium phosphate, should be added to the grain ration, two pounds to each hundred pounds of grain.

When it is not possible to have fresh water constantly available the calf should be watered at least twice daily.

Italy's Wheat Imports
A few years ago Italy was a very large importer of wheat in 1926, for instance, Canada alone exported to her 16 million bushels.
During the past few years Italy has imported but little wheat Italy's officials tell us this is because other countries are no longer willing to purchase Italian goods and products therefore Italy cannot secure funds with which to purchase Canadian and other grains
It is hoped that economic ments will soon return to the world and that goods, commodities and wheats will be exchanged once more between the nations on generous volume

WHEAT GROWERS ASK $2,750,000 ON 1930 CROP

Pool Presses Claims But Ottawa Hasn't Provided Funds

(From Edmonton Journal)

Alberta wheat pool members are pressing for payment of approximately $2,750,000 on the equalization of returns on the 1930 crop, it was learned Monday.

While the wheat pool has been using the justice of the members claim the necessary funds have not been provided by Ottawa, according to a communication received by John Fine, secretary of the Edmonton Chamber of Commerce from H. H. Purdy, Alberta pool manager.

When the distribution is made the lower initial payments to pool members in northern Alberta as the larger percentage of the 1930 crop consisted in the inferior grades delivered by farmers in this part of the province.

Considerable interest in the new crop damage insurance involved in northern Alberta this year this equalization on the 1930 pool would be a tremendous relief to many farmers throughout the province.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

A very enjoyable Christmas dinner was held in the assembly hall on Friday at noon. Everyone was present with the whole of the school in attendance. The hall was artistically decorated with streamers and the Haddard A Christmas tree generously donated by Mrs. P. Haddard.

The high school hockey team played the public school winning by a score of 5 to 3. Everyone had a very good game keeping while both teams played their games.

Exams are now drawing near and everyone is getting down to some hard work.

Miss Hamilton is away this week with illness and her classes are being looked after by Miss Lee.

Miss Lee has been appointed to the 1936 public school staff.

Johnny Barlow of Hazelwood is enrolled in the high school.

WORLD HAPPENINGS BRIEFLY TOLD

An ample supply of food for the United States during the current year was forecast by Secretary of Agriculture Wallace.

Peter Z Caverhill chief forester of British Columbia for the past 15 years and connected with forestry work in Canada since 1912 died suddenly at his home in Victoria.

A deputation of women suffragists from Ontario waited upon J H Thomas colonial secretary asking for equal suffrage for women in that island.

A large number of Italians, fearing complications in the country's Ethiopian campaign, are applying at Queensland N.S.W., for British citizenship in order to avoid military service

Dentist to use gas to ease the pain of his patients. Dr J M Neelands has celebrated his 97th birthday Dr. Neelands practised at Lansky, Ont., for 63 years retiring in 1932

Perhaps because of the prospective criers of a trans-Pacific air liner to South Seas an aviation club has been formed at Papeete, Tahiti, under official auspices. Tahiti and its attractions will come from France

Firing Squad Finishes Story

Last Chapter Written In Life Of Robert Roman

A Russian firing squad has written the last chapter to a sad story in the life of Robert

Roman, months ago Grandmother Parenova was working on a collective farm Feeling hungry she took some of the grain. Shortly police escaped down to the peasant woman arrested her and had her punished

Grandma Parenova explained that her stepson Peter, a young Communist of 12 had betrayed his grandmother to the police It was the boy who had led the officials to the home of his grandmother and informed them where to find the stolen grain

So incensed was Christina she sent young Peter to the cellar to get potatoes Creeping up behind him she brushed his head with a rock and buried his body last July Then she said he must have been drowned in the river But boy friends of Peter knowing him as a good swimmer said he could not have drowned Police got on the job finally searched Christina's home found the charred remains of Peter's body

Tried for killing her stepson who had betrayed his hungry grandmother, Christina was sentenced to death before a firing squad Grandmother Parenova, found guilty as an accomplice was sentenced to eight years in prison

So ends a chapter of life in the Soviet Window Daily Star

Architect Sees House Owner

Claimed Reputation Would Suffer Because Building Was Torn Down

Has a proprietor the right to tear his own house down?

That question was to be decided by the Seine Civic Tribunal in Paris as the result of a suit by an French architect because the man for whom he built a house tore it down eight days after it was finished

The architect's plea is that he has a moral right in his creation which permits him to protest against its destruction and that he has suffered actual damage because his reputation will be affected by the natural conclusion drawn that if his work was destroyed it must have contained serious faults

The proprietor's case is simple that after the house was built he was offered a larger sum for the property without encumbrance Therefore he razed the house

Saskatchewan Honey Production

Saskatchewan beekeepers harvested more than 1 684 000 pounds of honey this year an increase of 20 per cent over 1934 The large gain is by no means attributed to the increase in the number of bee keepers as well as in the number of colonies

The certainty of punishment even more than its severity is the prevention of crime.

Wires in Cattle Hides

Good Hides Degraded In Value By Wire Tendrils

Tanners have for some time been calling the attention of meat packers to the presence of pieces of wire found to be fastened in the skins of cattle. The accompanying cuts are from samples sent to The Industrial and Development Council of Canadian Meat Packers by tanners

It seemed almost incredible that the samples sent in should be anything more than a very rare condition That is, it appeared to be almost unbelievable that any numbers of people would insert pieces of wire into the skins of live animals for any reason or purpose whatsoever However, painstaking examination of the skins from lot after lot of cattle killed at packing plants leaves no doubt that the practice is followed to some extent Quite a number of pieces of wire in the skins have been found by the Council's inspectors

Burglars entered the home of Mrs Jas Hall, Ottawa, and stole a fur coat, a fur jacket and a fur muff. Mrs Hall's husband is a member of the Ottawa police force.

Mrs Ethel Wilson, Ottawa, has been awarded $1,000 damages for injuries received when she was struck by a motor car driven by Mrs Ethel Hall, wife of a member of the Ottawa police force.

Important Short Course At V.S.A.

Commences Monday, January 6

Plans are being made at the V.S.A. for a special short Course week beginning January 6th. This, no doubt, will be of interest to a great many in the community. It is planned to have the sessions run from 2 o'clock to 4 o'clock each afternoon, and the programme will be somewhat as follows:

Monday afternoon—Binder knotter troubles.

Tuesday afternoon — Special seed crop work.

Wednesday afternoon—Dairy and poultry work.

Thursday afternoon—Meat and Veterinary work.

Friday afternoon—Will be of special interest to beekeepers.

It is hoped to secure specialists for each one of these afternoons who will [illegible] on special sessions that will be [illegible] with white. Several of the University professors are being communicated with and while the above plans may be changed later to suit [illegible] men, yet it is hoped to have [illegible] with this special week.

We are endeavouring to make arrangements with the Dominion Government to put on the poultry week including demonstration and it is hoped that Mr. Sweetzer—Dairy Commissioner for the province will be on hand for the session. Both these [illegible] will be of interest to farm women. We expect also that Dr. Talbot, Provincial Veterinarian, will be [illegible] to deal with parasites in connection with farm animals.

The beekeepers will have special sessions for that week each morning [illegible] the week and the afternoons will be difficult as a market as suggested above. Mr. Hilliard Provincial Apiarist, will be on hand to assist with all sessions for beekeepers.

Flock keepers will be assisted by the local staff of the S. of A. Inquiries will be sent out later with regard to the instructions for the particular days, when this has been arranged. This notice is being sent out this week simply to bring the matter to the attention of all farmers and others in the district who may be interested so that they may plan on taking in this short Course. The boys and girls of V.S.A. will attend all afternoon sessions and the aim will at once be [illegible] and public sessions. It is likely that the short course will be held in the Livestock pavilion as that is the only room that will accommodate the numbers that are likely to attend. We hope however, that the sessions will be so largely attended that it will be necessary to hold all demonstrations in the gymnasium. Watch [illegible] notice W. J. Elliott, Principal.

HOCKEY ATTRACTION FOR THE HOLIDAYS

Lloydminster Pro-Lites Here on Monday Evening

A super hockey attraction has been arranged for Monday evening when the Lloydminster Pro-Lites play a return match at Vermilion. The series at present stands at one game each and one tie, on this encounter should provide some bang up hockey for the fans who have been hoping for just such a game as this will be. Turn out in hundreds and show the local talent that you are interested in sport in general and their efforts on behalf of the town in particular.

The Pro-Lites, who have not been travelling at the clip that Manager Bill Hoffman had in mind at the beginning of the season, have been further strengthened by obtaining a half hitting defence man, Jamesby, who last year played with the Kerrobert Tigers, interim-diate champions of Saskatchewan. A good game is in prospect and all we need is a crowd of five hundred fans to make things real interesting, nothing like a crowd to put the zip into a hockey game.

The Canadian Wheat Problem

In a recent article a suggestion was made that the time is ripe to make efforts to induce the consumer in Great Britain, and part'cularly in England, to demand a better quality of bread, in anticipation that the creation of an appetite for a quality loaf would naturally result in greater sales of Western Canadian hard spring wheat in Canada's best, though restricted, market.

The suggestion was based on evidence that this market is narrowing due to a growing taste for cheaper expensive and unsuitable substitutes for the staff of life throughout Great Britain generally, fort fied in England particularly, by an appetite for bread of a lower protein content than is contained in flour manufactured from the hard spring wheat for which the Western prairies is the natural habitat

Since that time further and more potent evidence has come to hand, which not only confirms the statements anent a disquieting trend in the Old Land whole, unless stemmed is bound to adversely affect the interests and welfare of the Western Canad an prairies but, if anything, tends to show that the situation is even more alarming than it might have appeared at first blush. In view of the great importance of this market, the life blood in fact, of Western Canada no apology is needed for again reverting to the subject in such short time

The confirmation of this highly undesirable trend from the viewpoint of Western Canadian citizens, rural and urban alike, condition existing in Great Britain and other European consumer countries comes from Sir Frank Fox, a British high commissioner to Canada, who, about the middle of last December sounded a warning note to the general effect that Canada is in serious danger of losing the British and European markets. He gave three principal reasons for his dire forebodings and they are as follows

1 The appreciable difference between Canadian and Argentine wheat

2 The growing demand in Great Britain for fancy breads which are compos d of 80 per cent. Argentine soft wheat and 10 per cent Canadian hard wheat

3 The falling population of the civilized countries of the world

In his comments before the Commerce Club of the University of Toronto, Sir Frank took issue with the last mentioned factor in which he pointed out that in recent years the proportion of Canadian wheat taken by Great Britain has been steadily growing while the price spread between Argentine and Canadian wheat has been correspondingly undergoing, to the detriment of the latter in a country which is noted for the policy of its industrial and commercial interests of buying in the cheapest markets

In support of his argument Sir Frank is quoted as saying "But the whole situation is an aggravation is both bleak and difficult, and until economists solve the present baffling international trade problems the future for Canadian wheat is a serious problem

Practically on the same date news despatches announced at least a temporary removal of one of these barriers to continued known in the British trade as regards wheat. The despatches coupled with the announcement that the Argentine government had fixed the price of its wheat at 90 cents a bushel, placing it on a parity with the better quality of Canadian wheat. As a result of a sudden demand for Canadian wheat and an immediate advance in price

While the situation is satisfactory while this situation lasts it should be pointed out that it may not last long and should not be permitted to divert attention from the more serious and long range aspects of the problem, namely the growing trend in our best market to use substitutes for bread, and the demand for fancy breads which would, with the price of wheat at its present act wheat and Canadian hard wheat more closely in balance it might well be argued that there is no better t me than the present to demonstrate to the British consumer that it is possible to produce the natural quality of fancy breads from Canadian wheat and to cultivate a demand for high quality along with devices for tickling the palate

In considering this phase of the problem, it should also be borne in mind that a short crop in the Argentine now may be followed 12 months hence by a bumper yield in that country and that the Argentine government action in pegging the price of its wheat at a fairly high level may be renounced at any time, even before another crop is ready for the market.

A further factor in the situation is the likelihood of substantial, perhaps heavy, wheat crops being reaped in Canada in the next few years, in which event this country will require expanding, instead of the recent contracting, demands for her wheat in the consumer countries. Authorities declare that the drought of last year is definitely broken, and with the grasshopper menace receding and a promise of a rust resistant wheat in commercial quantities within the next year or two, there is reasonable belief for anticipating that Western Canada will have more wheat to export than has been available in the past few years.

The only alternative to creating consumer demand are to cultivate new markets or to devote attention to production of commodities. Perhaps the solution of the problem is to be found in a combination of all

Scarcity Of Fur Animals

Bankshrdwan Reports Few Trapped Compared With Other Years

Fur-bearing animals such as the fox, mink, otter, coyote, muskrat and skunk are somewhat scarce in Saskatchewan this year compared to former years, officials of the game branch provincial government report

A few mink and otter have been trapped, and in the southern part of the province a drive has been on against skunks and weasels, but the numbers killed are not large

Coyotes are fairly plentiful in central and western sections of the province but no great numbers have been killed

Jack rabbits, a pest last year in several sections, remaining in open land driven and killing of as many as 1,000 a day, are scarcer this year There is an exceptionally large crop of snowshoe jack rabbits this year, with prices at 10 and 17 cents. Last year the prime rabbits brought about 10 cents

Skill With Jackknife Gives Cowboy Lots Of Work

Whittling has developed from a mere pastime into an art. To-day there are whittling prize contests and exhibits in which the skill of the fingers sculptors form interesting attractions. One of the jackknife sculptors whose carvings have attracted a great deal of attention is Herbert Anderson, a cowboy who once rode the range in Colorado During his spare time and at night around the campfire "Andy", as he was familiarly known in the countryside, would take out his jackknife and whittle out figures of the various characters around the camp Indians and tough characters were his specialty Later he gave up being a cowboy and established what he called a "trading post" where he spent all his time carving his strange wooden figures The ex-cowboy never took a lesson in his life but his miniatures are unusually true to life A jackknife and any hand of wood and a western masterpiece is the result.

Problem For Hungary

How To Bring Back Echo Which Has Been Lost

All the world loves an echo, and Hungary is mourning a lost love. The echo was lost heard at Lake Balaton, where tourists used to put it through its paces and listen with delight when it repeated, with additions, their slightest utterance. This was an industrious echo. Nothing seemed to tempt it while the supply of tourists lasted, and it would go on cheerfully all day long without a pause.

Then, as if weary of well-doing, it dwindled and died. The inhabitants of the region, disturbed by the loss of revenue, invited professors and scientists to say where it had gone, and what the possibilities were of bringing it back.

The answers are more elusive than an echo. A lost echo is hard to recover, but the scientists were not to be daunted. The professors suggested that the trees growing in the neighborhood had first blanketed the echo with leaves, and then, as they had stifled it. But a delicate problem is now set to those who would call the echo back. The trees might be cut down and the echo yet be had. Then the lake would lose both its echo and its trees.

Halifax Business And Professional Men Studying Social Credit

A number of Halifax business and professional men have organized a group for a study of the principles of Social Credit, according to Edward S. Dixon, manager of the Halifax tourist bureau.

He denied a report that a new political party for Nova Scotia was in the making. "That's ridiculous," he asserted. "We are not forming a party. We merely want to see what is in the Social Credit plan."

He added that the group, numbering about a dozen, had been formed in the suggestion and at a study club which had taken up such subjects as unemployment and health insurance. "We just want to find out what there is to the scheme," he explained.

Great Criminal Pathologist

Professor Sydney Smith One Of Best In World

Although not well known in England Professor Sydney Smith, one of Regius Professor of Forensic Medicine at Edinburgh University, is in Scottish medical circles regarded as one of the greatest criminal pathologists who ever lived, says the News of the World. He won a remarkable reputation as a criminologist in Egypt, where before (king up his present appointment in 1925, he was principal medico-legal expert to the Egyptian Government and Professor of Forensic Medicine in the University of Egypt. He came to be regarded as a veritable Sherlock Holmes there. His greatest claim to fame was that he was the player in bringing to book the murders of Sir Lee Stack, the late Sirdar of Egypt. His dramat'c reconstruction of the murder was practically the deciding piece of evidence at the trial in 1922. He held the court spellbound with his eloquence. He also stage by had the door of the murderers' house set on trestles before the magistrates' bench, while he demonstrated how two at least of the pistols used had been secreted in a panel of the door.

Woman In Russia Poses As Man And Marries Woman

A woman accused of posing as a man and "marrying" nine other women in a period of four years appeared to rob and abandon them was arrested at Kadievka, in the Don Basin, says a report from Moscow.

She is Yevy Savarykina and her system, authorities said, was to get her "bride" drunk on vodka on the wedding day and make off with her possessions while she remained in a stupor.

Everything went all right until the last of the nine remained conscious under the influence of the liquor and called the police. Yera was arrested before she could complete her getaway.

Police said the woman, between courtships and marriages, wore feminine clothing.

Pictures Taken From Skyscrapers Clearly Shows Curved Line

New visual proof that the world is round, shown in a stratosphere pictures mapped at almost 14 to ha shows the earth's surface, was displayed in Washington by the National Geographic Society.

Captain Albert Stevens of the United States army air corps, co-sponsor of the stratosphere flight of November 11, showed for the first time still and mot'on pictures taken from the balloon's record-making ceiling. Society officials declared these pictures and other scientific data obtained outrank in importance the setting of the altitude record.

The earth curvature pictures show a section of the horizon 200 miles long, more than 3½ degrees of a circle and about 1-100th of the total circumference of the earth Projected on a screen, it reveals clearly the curved line of the earth's surface.

To take this picture Captain Stevens' special camera a distance of 200 miles and penetrated the white haze of the distant horizon by the screening of all light except the penetrating infra-red rays. Taken approximately over Parmelee, S.D., it recorded more than 40,000 square miles of western South Dakota territory.

Army Ants In Malaya Have System Of Crossing

That many ants in Malaya operate with military precision and march in lines that seem interminable has been reported by Captain Rivers Rivers are no obstacles to them, he says. The main body of the army waits at the bank of the river while scouts reconnoitre and choose a bend where the current sweeps diagonally across the stream. The ants then form themselves into a ball the size of a coconut, which rolls over into the water, the passengers, the living ball arcon, it keeps rolling over and over, so that each ant receives only a momentary ducking. The instant the ball touches the other side it collapses, and the ants scramble ashore, reform their ranks and continue their march

PREMIER BALDWIN IS UPHELD AFTER A BITTER DEBATE

London.—The government was upheld by a large majority in the House of Commons after a 13-hour debate in which the unsuccessful France-British peace proposals were subjected to a vigorous attack and Prime Minister Baldwin admitted an error had been made in handling the situation.

A Labor motion of censure was defeated 367-165. An amendment to the motion, moved by Lord Winterton, Conservative, was carried 280 to 165. This amendment was then adopted as a substantive motion without division and the house adjourned.

Mr. Baldwin acknowledged he had erred in handling the situation arising when the terms of the Franco-British proposals for settlement of Ital-Ethiopian conflict became known.

"I am determined to see such a position shall not be possible again," he said, declaring "we are prepared collectively to fulfil our part in every way."

Sir Samuel Hoare, who resigned as foreign secretary because of the part he played in framing the Franco-British peace proposals, defended his action in a stirring 45-minute speech. He said it was not true that he had attacked upon Britain's but four of the collapse of the League of Nations and of a general war in Europe that led to the joint peace move.

"I say in all humility my conscience is clear," Sir Samuel said. "I say also

I sincerely believe that the course I took was the only one possible in the circumstances."

He left the house immediately after he had finished his speech, which was received with cheers. He appeared overcome with emotion.

Launching the Labor opposition attack upon the government, Clement Attlee, Labor, said he had left the right for Sir Samuel to resign, then it is right for the government to resign."

Other opposition speakers charged the government had "disgraced" the country and removed its effect in Geneva by proposing to commit "Italian aggression."

Mr. Baldwin told the house the peace plan was "absolutely and completely dead" and the government would make no attempt to resurrect it.

Lord Winterton's amendment to the motion of censure moved by Labor the House of Commons held any terms for settling the dispute must be acceptable to the League of Nations and promised to support the government in adhering to the foreign policy outlined in the league manifesto. (This called for support of the League of Nations and the principle of collective security).

Winston Churchill, one of the lords also endorsed the government's policy after a stormy debate marked by vigorous opposition attacks.

Not since the eve of the war has the common chamber held so large and deeply disturbed an assembly. The Prince of Wales occupied his customary seat in the peers' gallery, just above the clock.

Kidnapped Man Released

Cabbi Miles In Found By Motorist On Highway

Doylestown, Pa. — A bewildered, sickened youth, with no socks and only one shoe, identified by Police Chief James Welsh as the missing Caleb J. Milne 4th, was found by a motorist on a highway near Doylestown.

The grandson of a wealthy, retired Philadelphia manufacturer was found amid persistent reports that the family had paid $35,000 ransom to kidnappers.

The youthful actor and mystery writer was ill from exposure and hunger, police said. They stripped adhesive tape which locked his lips and his manacled "Caleb Milne." His wrists were bound to his knees when he was found.

Reports that the family had paid a ransom met with denial at the Milne house and dep rtment of justice, where it was said to break the silence they have maintained since the search began.

Meanwhile, the rambling estate on the outskirts of Philadelphia was brilliantly lighted until late in the night, indicating G-men in conference with members of the family.

These demonstrations resulted in an immediate protest by Japanese military authorities.

The political council of Chahar and Hopeh was finally installed after a delay of several days caused by hostile student direction. General Sung, Che-Yuan, governor of Hopeh, assumed the office of chairman of the council.

TWO FEDERAL BY-ELECTIONS TO BE HELD JAN. 6

Ottawa. — The constituency of Queen's, P.E. Island, has been opened to provide a seat for Finance Minister Charles Dunning, by the appointment of the member-elect, J. J. Larabee, to a position in the department of fisheries.

Prime Minister Mackenzie King announced that the by-election would be held Jan. 6. At the request of polling in the Assiniboia by-election where Hon. J. G. Gardiner, minister of agriculture, will be the government candidate.

An invitation came to Mr. Dunning several days ago from the Liberal executive of Queen's to run in the by-election, but he declined.

With Mr. Dunning representing Queen's and Mr. Gardiner the province except Alberta will have a representative in the cabinet. Only one federal candidate was elected in Alberta.

Mr. Larabee, contesting the dun, will be Queen's only Peter Bancroft in the Liberal interests on Oct 14 turned a substantial Conservative majority of 1,200 into a Liberal majority of 1,200 for Conservatives. W. Chester McLure and J. H. Myers, were also candidates.

Naval Conference

Expect Japanese Delegates Will Reject Great Britain's Plan

London, Great Britain's plan for a new naval agreement, it was understood will be rejected by the Japanese delegation to the international naval conference Other delegations were expected to express their opinion on the proposal

The British plan involves public declaration by each naval power of its building program for a period of about six years, and general discussion of eventual equality of fleets should be dropped at the present conference.

A recess in the sessions until Jan 5 instead of Jan. 2, was considered likely as the result of private talks among American and Italian delegates.

The department stated that Rodent wheat has won the championship at Chicago every year since 1928 except in 1931.

HOARE RESIGNS OVER COLLAPSE OF PEACE PLAN

London. While the Franco-British peace plan which he helped to frame was virtually abandoned at Geneva, Sir Samuel Hoare, foreign secretary, suddenly resigned as the latest victim of international developments in the terms of the plan were disclosed.

Sir Samuel's resignation, which was accepted by Prime Minister Baldwin, came 10 days after he drafted the plan secretly at Paris with Premier Laval.

The action of the foreign secretary, which rated a political sensation here, came on the eve of the big affairs debate in the house of commons. He had cut short a visit on his fisherterld to go back to London. Some many of his members hostile to defend his part in the Paris proposals, which opponents declared would reward Italy for her aggression.

No official explanation was offered for Sir Samuel's abrupt retirement from his political career, regarded as brilliant, but the African war clouds gathered.

Labor and Liberal ranks had fired shaft after shaft into the foreign secretary for the plan which would give Italy control of Ethiopia in exchange for the conquered territory. Only hesit f was indicted by the League of Nations as an aggressor The revolt had even extended into the ranks of Conservatives, who won the overwhelming victory in the last general election.

The government was accused of an abandonment in its hitherto determined stand in the Italo-Ethiopian crisis.

Informed quarters saw in the storm that the eventual result of the resignation of Sir Samuel might be Anthony Eden, generally would be the reconstruction of the government.

Discussions centered the out are around the Franco-British proposals and Sir Samuel's resignation dealt the government one of the most severe blows any administration has ever received so soon after an election.

The sudden resignation of Sir Samuel was the subject of comment in newspapers throughout the United Kingdom Varying views were expressed.

The fact that Sir Samuel Hoare conformed to the honorable tradition of British public life that the minister should always associated with an unpopular step should resign There will be general sympathy with Sir Samuel who offers for failing to present unfavorable proposals."

FEDERAL RELIEF GRANTS RAISED BY 75 PER CENT.

Ottawa.—In order that municipalities may be relieved of a large measure of the burden of direct relief costs, the monthly grants to aid to the provinces from the federal treasury have been subjected to a flat increase of 75 per cent., Prime Minister Mackenzie King announced.

Monthly payments have been made to the provinces since August, 1924, at the rate of $1,741,250 These have been increased to $3 065 687, effective for the months of December January, February and March. These takings will be prorated from the provinces that they will assist the municipalities as may be necessary, and that the money will be given to stand a test of need

The announcement came as no surprise to political circles in the capital following the recent conference of provincial premiers with Dominion leaders that such action should be released from the limit of direct relief. The arrangement was hurried through, the prime minister said, in order to relieve the need of municipalities before the holiday season.

"It is our intention that relief in the usual form will be given by the end, and that the municipalities have been called upon to make a budget for them as they no longer finance ally able to carry "

At the conference the provincial premiers asked that the flat further relief expenditures be borne by the Dominion on unemployment relief, with the government intends to assume.

While the announcement is appointed, Mackenzie King declared the undertake an investigation of relief administration in an effort to establish a basis for future contributions and to eliminate any abuses arising either from negligence on the part of officials or unscrupulousness on the part of those receiving relief.

This fair monthly arrangement would provide what the prime minister described as "a breathing space" while parliament has an opportunity to go into the question and decide upon future action.

It was his hope, Mr King said, that the government's policies in Canada would go a long way toward decreasing the necessity for unemployment relief by providing work. The new arrangement does not conflict with any other unemployment relief activities such as public works projects or the care of single unemployed and homeless men.

Siege Was Passive

Italians Invade B.C. Office Asking For Increased Relief

Cumberland, B.C. — Twenty-five Italians, demanding increased relief allowances, invaded the office of the British Columbia government agent here and remained several hours in a passive siege until induced to leave peaceably by officers of the provincial police. The office staff remained at work.

The men agreed to leave on condition a committee of their number would be granted a hearing later.

"Moose" Phillips Tells of His Observations In Alberta's Big Game Country

Vermilion's well-known hunter, J. W. "Moose" Phillips returned two weeks ago from spending three weeks hunting and observing game conditions in the country south of Niton and west of Edson. Moose says for a little shooting but chiefly for the outing, which gives him an opportunity to observe conditions in Alberta's big game country. He has been going to this particular section for the past two years and has been hunting in various places in Alberta for over thirty years. His observations therefore are well worth considering. They come from a hunter lover and one who has the interests of the big game at heart.

The forest reserve country known as the Niton district is popular for hunters due to its proximity to centres of population and its accessibility. In his three weeks there Moose got his quota of game and spent most of his time camping around and noting the climatic conditions etc. of the game. He claims that the big game here are growing the moose more harm than good by their protection. In his miles of tramping he came across large areas of moose runs and calves are reported by a hunter's knife. This was [illegible] to shoot cow moose or a calf under one year. The reason hunter when he shoots a lion or a bear to have just exactly what he is allowed by the clearing act. If he shoots a cow or a calf, he [illegible] is unintended and goes away [illegible] and he can no more [illegible] hunting he supposed to be [illegible] shoot anything. That [illegible] are readily told by the [illegible] that consequently he does [illegible] to carry any of the [illegible] in evidence with him. He prefers [illegible] those animals he [illegible] kills his but moose allowed [illegible] The law says that a hunter [illegible] not accountable [illegible] [illegible] would be advised [illegible] [illegible] shoot and the [illegible] moose would be shot. This is logical and a point well taken.

WOLVES BEGINNING TO INFEST COUNTRY

Other factors which are making inroads on the deer and moose are cougars and wolves. Ten years ago according to Moose there wasn't a wolf on the east slopes. Now they are [illegible] The wolves go in [illegible] moose and the cougars wreak havoc [illegible] the deer.

The way to overcome this would be a government bounty on the cougar and wolf. Speaking [illegible] Mr. Phillips travelled for days through a perfect big game country. Beside the Dog Head [illegible] not a sign of a moose or deer did [illegible] The country was overrun with wolves and the result was seen in the absence of any desirable kill.

ET-GLISH PHEASANTS SHOULD HAVE PICTURES POSTED

Moose claims that English pheasants are sometimes shot [illegible] people are unfamiliar with their appearance. He suggests that pictures of the birds be put up in all post offices and people asked to protect the birds.

Some people have the idea that English pheasants are a grain destroying bird but this is emphatically disproved by the hunter who has shot and by personal observations. The [illegible] summer consists of wild [illegible] and grasses. Every person [illegible] should be taken to see that they get a real start in this country.

Moose has been watching the rise and fall of game in Alberta for many years. He calls on all real hunters and sportsmen to take up these matters with the department at once. He is deeply interested in preserving our wild life and the sooner steps are taken along the lines indicated the better it will be for Alberta's game.

The Need of Santa

"If there were no God it would be necessary to invent him," said a well-known writer. There is no Santa Claus in our grown up world, but we have found we needed him as one of the most beloved characters in the world of childhood, which is peopled with legends of the child's own making. The enchanting belief in Santa and his reindeer, his peanuts and his pack filled with toys will never hurt a child. The cynical grown ups, who have too completely lost their belief in him and his kind, need your help.

NEIGHBORHOOD NARRATIVES

From the Neighborhood of the South East

Merry Christmas, everybody!

We extend best wishes to scores of theatre readers and friends, our kind and tolerant editorial staff, and our shadowy but highly esteemed fellow correspondents. This season brings out the best in humans and the biggest Xmas wish would be to possess opposite and preserve this wonderful spirit throughout the year.

We start off all our troubles and we ought to enjoyed a short holiday [illegible] spent in the company of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Roberts and family, at the Union district. Mr. Roberts was noted for his fund of stories of the logging and pioneer days, and we all have much entertainment [illegible] up with a most thoughtful [illegible] who is also an accomplished [illegible] can you wonder that we're in [illegible] with Christmas.

[illegible] study group held a card party at the home of Jas. Ross on the 18th. Winners were Mrs. J. Ross, Mrs. Doyle, consolations were awarded to Miss Audrey Doyle and Mr. Bob Wilson. A future evening was planned, the 20th being suggested [illegible] arrangements are not complete at the time of writing.

A series of card parties are also being held in the district, alternating at the homes of Mr. and Mrs Fred Land and Mr and Mrs. Cox. The next [illegible] be held at Cox's on Dec 20th.

The annual meeting of the Woodlands Glee Club was held last week. An extraordinary volume of business was [illegible] and [illegible] financial report given, showing a turnover of over $300.00, with a profit of around $60 to the club. Officers elected were as follows: Pres., Alex Ross; Vice-Pres., Artie Friedland, Sec.-Treas., Mrs. A. Friedland. The arrangements were made for the New Year's mummers parade, to be held at Woodside on Tuesday evening Dec 31st. Prizes to the extent of $4.00 will be awarded.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Chas. Friedland on Jan. 6th.

The Ladies of the U. F. W. A. decided to make a really grand gesture and fitted Xmas hampers of fancy groceries for all their members and ex-members, thereby spreading [illegible] welcome cheer among many homes.

The Talbot Club society held an annual meeting last week and declared dividends to purchasers. Absence 30% to Xmas shopping. Trustee board of directors are Mrs. C. Hobbis (Union), Mrs. Wm. Bird (Watson), Mr. E. Cox (Union), Mr. Jas. Brown (Woodside), Mr. Theo. Watt (Kechnee). Another general meeting is to be called in the new future to decide upon a manager, applications being received in the mean time.

We noted at Wandvale a number of recent patients of the Vermilion hospital, and are glad to see them fit and able to sit down to Xmas dinner. Discussion was interesting as they compared experiences, the worst to say case being the restricted diet.

Mlle. Evelyn de Breville has just enjoyed [illegible] to spend the holidays with M. and Mme. La Prance and family, of the Wainwright district, she conveys the greetings of the Neighborhood to those most pleasant friends.

Another Xmas traveller is Miss Joyce Phillips, who has lent her vivacious presence to the Neighborhood for the last six months. Miss Phillips returned to her home for Xmas, accompanied by Doug. Ross, who, we prophesy will make a model escort (subject for Miss Joyce).

The weather man has been overindulging in Xmas cheer apparently, and offers us all sorts, remaining affable least enough only to withhold blizzards and worse. Our fingers are crossed, though.

And now, Father Christmas, you have our full attention.

A Merry Christmas AND A Happy New Year to all our Friends and Customers

His Christmas Dress Suit

A Christmas Story

By Martha Banning Theuer.

Duncan Dee woke, grunted and relaxed once more into a morning nap somewhere in his mind were two ideas. One was of complete satisfaction after an enjoyable two days in New York. The second pricked at him unremittingly. Something he should remember, but couldn't. Oh . . . well! He sank gently back into full slumber.

At eleven o'clock, after breakfast in the house of his friends where he was staying, he became electrified. He had forgotten something. Something very important. A Christmas night dinner-dance that evening. He had been invited by Rosamond Tone, a girl he was quite mad about. How could he have forgotten? It seemed impossible. But Rosamond had telephoned him two evenings ago, exactly one minute before a hasty departure for New York. He had been delighted, chained to take her. Then, that long freezing ride . . . finding a place to stay which did not cost too much dressing, getting to a late party which was big and brisk, and went on and on until morning and breakfast. Then a few scant hours of sleep, another afternoon party outside the city, a sleet storm, and the sensible decision that he would not drive back in town for his evening clothes . . . but keep on going to the second informal engagement for the evening . . . a hundred and thirty miles in another direction, where he could stay all night.

So here he was at eleven the next morning, hundred and thirty miles from his evening clothes . . . and due in a few hours at a party forty ladies being present, Mrs. H. Stone, the president was in charge of the devotional exercises, business of the year was then closed and election of officers for next year resulted as follows:—

Duncan went to the dinner dance. He looked exceptionally happy and well groomed. Frank Nester was there. He also looked well groomed but far from happy. Rosamond in her unkind, had been cruel in giving Duncan to him.

Old Taurus was there, snorting and suspicious. Once he grabbed Duncan's elbow. "See here, young man, he growled "that coat of yours looks darned familiar and a little large. I ought to, by any chance, be one or mine?"

"Yes sir!" said Duncan boldly. Rosamond's father straight in the eye. That was the best way with old Taurus. My own is in New York I left it all the other things from my friends. I came anyway and Rosamond . . .

I thought so!" Taurus glared at him. "Well, it appears you have common sense and that you keep your wits about you. It should help you get ahead. Report to me tomorrow morning. We'll talk over that coat you're using I mentioned."

Oh sir . . . I'll tell Rosamond right away."

You'll do no such thing." Taurus roared.

But Duncan told her. Rosamond Rosamond said she had already arranged a sweet apartment and an old [illegible] In case you asked no more about it.

Duncan blessed her and stated he must be very careful not to spill anything on [illegible] father's coat . . . then kissed again.

PORK PRODUCTION COST ESTIMATED

How much does it cost to produce a two hundred pound marketable hog?

This question has been asked thousands of times during the past few years by farmers who want to know how much they may expect to gain by marketing their grain via the hog route.

The quality of the grain fed the hogs, and quantity as well, is dependent upon the methods of breeding and management all such a considerable influence on the cost of production. However, from extensive data secured at the Dominion Experimental Station, Lacombe, where a good deal of experimental work on practical feeding has been conducted, it would appear that the average grain requirements to produce a two hundred pound pig in Central Alberta is about a hundred pounds.

The Lacombe station recommends that the weaning pig be started off on a feed which consists of one part of oats and one part barley, or whea and oats, or oats and screenings. The ration for a young pig changed to one part oats or barley, one part shorts, one part skim milk, and a little oil meal. This is a fairly economical ration and if oil meal is not available tankage may be substituted.

Applying these proportions to the grain requirements of two hundred pounds of pork, the pig would require approximately 75 bushels of barley or 75 bushels of wheat, and 9 bushels of oats.

By multiplying these figures by the current market prices of the different grains and adding the necessary cost of pork, a fairly accurate approximate can be arrived at. Of course, many factors enter into the cost of production, such as the cost of labor, the cost of marketing, etc., but the cost of feed is the largest single item.

Christmas Trees

Million Homes Will Be Decorated For Festive Season

Christmas trees are now in season again, and Canada expects to ship nearly four million of them to the United States this year to help decorate the homes of American families and to spread Christmas cheer in the hearts of thousands. In addition, it is estimated that anywhere from 500,000 to 1 000,000 Canadian homes are adorning their trees for Yuletide Season with trees from Canadian woodlands. Last year the United States imported 3,681,430 Christmas trees from Canada at a cost of $373,286, and early reports of shipments of trees from Ontario, Quebec and New Brunswick indicate the supply will be considerably larger this year than ever before.

In Eastern Canada the favorite trees for Christmas are young firs or spruce, about ten feet in height. In British Columbia the young Douglas fir is the most popular. Cedar, hemlock, cypress and pine of tender growth are also used when the more favoured species are not readily available. The spicy aroma of the balsam fir, with its short, flat, lacquered leaves of dark green, which render it easy to decorate, make it particularly popular in the Province of Quebec.

The origin of the use of trees for decorative purposes at Christmas time is lost in antiquity. Some authority is believed to have been adopted from pagan ceremonies, but it is only in comparatively recent times that the Christmas tree has become popular in North America and the British Isles since the introduction of electricity and coloured electric lights for illumination the use of trees for decorative purposes has made the home placed on the veranda or front lawn has become more popular

Coastal City Expects To Be Host To Many Visitors

"A million visitors to Vancouver, B.C., next year for the city's 125th Golden Jubilee celebration."

This is one of the chief objectives of the Vancouver Golden Jubilee committee and it is going to be realized. Such is the confident conviction of Leader Manley, vice-chairman of the plans and attractions sub-committee.

"The celebration is going to give Vancouver a new place on the world's map, both literally and figuratively. It is going to develop a dynamic community spirit by calling all city life into activity.

"That will be done by staging of the unique and continuous 12-week program starting with Boxing Day 26 and ending with Armistice which will be the greatest ever held at the entire Pacific Mr Manley says

Twenty-five committees have been busy for weeks The result as a general plan for every week of the great celebration

New Surgical Aid

Physician Uses Zipper To Close Wound in Stomach

The zipper has joined the ranks of the surgical instruments. One of the fasteners has been attached to the incision in a cancer victim's stomach. It worked to open and close the wound for daily treatment of the tumor

The zipper arrangement, recently called into play, was confirmed by Dr Morris Fishbein, editor of the journal of the American Medical Association

Doctor Fishbein declined to disclose the name of the patient the hospital in which he is resting or the surgeon who hit on the zipper idea.

Jews in Germany

Further Restrictions Being Considered By The Government

German Jewish business men and industrialists face new restrictions in measures which will be considered by Chancellor Hitler and his cabinet.

The new measures would circumscribe the economic status of Jews in Germany as the laws decided upon at the Nuremberg Nazi congress circumscribed their civil position.

Among the measures to be considered are the following:

1. An order that Jewish stores prominently show a Hebrew inscription or a star of David.

2. A ban on Jewish stockholding in German firms.

3. An order that no Jew may own land or factories, or buildings constructed on German land.

4. A law forbidding Jews to reside in towns having a population of less than 20,000.

Alberta's Wheat Crop

Final Acreage Reduced Original Estimate By 2,000,000 Bushels

Alberta wheat crop has been reduced 2,000,000 bushels from the original estimate on account of frost damage. Yield for the province is estimated at 14 bushels per acre, an official announcement stated. This is about 22,000,000 bushels with grade No. 1 and 2 Northern, 21,000,000 grading 3 and 4 and 23,000,000 only 5, 6 or feed.

REVIEW

Golden text: The lovingkindness of the Lord is from everlasting to everlasting upon them that fear him, And his righteousness unto children's children. Psalm 103:17.

Devotional reading: Psalm 136.

This great picture of the Suffering Servant of Jehovah given in the 53rd chapter of Isaiah has nothing corresponding to it in Israel's history until Jesus the Christ lived and suffered and died. What is the picture? He was despised and rejected of men; doing on the night of the writing on He was wounded for our transgressions; what sorrows here! All we like sheep have gone astray; complete results from the travail of His soul, even when he was afflicted—what happened? By oppression and judgment he was taken away; how did those of his generation consider it all?

Over in Tibet the name of the only newspaper there is translated into our language as "The Mirror of the New Vicissitudes of Every Corner of This Universe." One issue contained an article which proposed to cure one of the most troublesome vicissitudes —unemployment—by having wheels abolished in the western world; then no unemployed could become "wild-cat runners!"

Jeremiah was called by God to be his agent in preaching against the "vicissitudes" of his day. He was set over the nations, to pluck up and to break down, to build and to destroy and to overthrow, but he was also to build and to plant, but not by any Tibetan method. How was he to perform this task? How was he persecuted? When the prophets declared him worthy of death, what did he say to them?

See to it that in your own immediate vicissitudes to your kith and kin, to your masters and servants and associates in business, that you bring the Christ encounter in the common ways of life—you cherish and practice the utmost fair play. Never let envy shrink from taking a mean, unfair advantage of another in any matter. Be fastidious that he gets his due. Never be content to live with his set there be no frontier to your good will.

These words are the admonitions of a preacher of righteousness to the men of his bodily kindred. What have his people to amend their ways, what to do? What have they to repent of?

What is our saying about experience being a dear school? Does one usually profit by the experience of another? What has the latter experience to profit by the experience of a predecessor? What was that predecessor's mistake, and how to avoid it? What were Belshazzar and his lords what is the remainder of this writer on the wall? Who interpreted the writing? Why? What was his fate? Who followed him on the throne of Babylon?

Will Study Brain

Soviet Institute Will Examine Brain Of Lenin

Twenty-five thousand microscopic slides of the brain of the late Nikolai Lenin, father of Communism, for study by the Soviet Brain Institute.

The institute, founded in 1927, has 180 adult, 300 child and 470 animal brains for study. It will itself be used for making a "brain atlas" to serve educat onal and scientific purposes.

Lenin died in January, 1924 His embalmed body is still preserved in a mausoleum in Red square, where it is on view

Soviet scientists are making a close study of the brains of unusual people and types, hoping to throw more light on behavior. It is customary for any Russian leader or thinker to will his brain to the institute.

Speed

Fast Driver Has Decided It Is Not Sensible

H V OB, in Florida Daily News says. "One of the big insurance companies is inviting people to make a 50-mile-an-hour test. I am tempted to accept the invitation I have done more than my share of fast driving. I have wrestled a motor open roaunty at 80 m p h and better but I've come to the conclusion that there is no sense in it. The money put in fuel, tires and mechanical wear is doubled at this speed. It is reasonable to suppose therefore, that the wear and tear on the driver is no less considerable I'm inclined to believe that 600 miles in seven hours will harden the arteries much more than the same distance in 10 hours."

FLEMING'S FOLLY

— BY —

LAWRENCE A. KEATING

SYNOPSIS

Here is an absorbing and exciting story of a fight against stubborn prejudice and a bitter personal feud by an ex-army—of a girl and a man battling ridicule, ostracism, hatred and treachery that would turn them against each other.

The story opens with Link Fleming addressing a meeting of Bonne County cattlemen, called together with the object of forming an Irrigation company.

Roper Kilgo, the boss of the Rawhide and nearby ranges, who seemed to approve the plan, but was really opposed to it, and Buster Bean, Kilgo's henchman, were present.

Kilgo knew he could defeat the plan by getting the support of Fleming, a clever, misty engineer, whom Kilgo knew would be called upon to give his expert opinion in favor of the scheme, to engage his earliest endeavors, and declare that irrigation in Bonne county—at least at Hamilton's plan was concerned, was only a newfangled scheme to get money

Link Fleming drew the weapon and handed it over, but first. Puzzled as to Doc's intent, he watched him twirl the Colt until he grasped its cold barrel

Suddenly Doc leaned toward Texas-ed. He swung out, but first there was a low thump that made Buster jerk. Then he relaxed, unconscious

Helen Hamilton clutched a hand to her throat But she stifled the cry that sought freedom

She was game

"Now we start Young lady, you sponge that wound Careful! But keep it open and clean. I got to see what I'm doing" I'm after that slug Might take a minute to find it Hotel to soak him like that but he ought to have stood the pain Nobody likes cold steel pokin around their stomach."

As he spoke he fished a sharp gleaming instrument from his kit dipped it in the whisky bottle, and bent over his patient Link thought, perhaps the sympathetic pain she felt.

Doc Slater tried again Then he grunted. "Here girl dig that out Put your two fingers so Wait now I'll get a little more room. Bring that girl here. Women are handy at this kind of thing. Need a man too Helper, you can hand me the instruments."

"Wh-what goin' to do, Doc?"

"Operate, of course! Think this fellow can digest lead? Hm," he muttered, shaking his head doubtfully "Don't know Bleedin' pretty hard Bad place, too."

Helen Hamilton was at Slater's side, her lips pressed firmly together, trying to force herself not to shudder at the death-like pallor of the face her brother had shot Doc looked at her and grunted

"You get grit enough. I reckon Don't be scared at lots of blood."

"Doc," Roper gulped while he kept his eyes averted from the wounded man. "I don't know if I'll be able to look on."

"Then you're liable to feel even'?" he exclaimed in panic

The physician gave a disgusted snort. "Here, somebody else Link! Hold this pan. Thanks. Gaines that's using your head for something useful. Only man that thought of hot water in the whole crowd! Now then Easy, Buster. . . Won't hurt much Ah, it's there, eh? Wonder if it went clear into ."

There was a moment of taut silence. Fleming's eyes met those of blue-grey eyes as with set jaw he answered in a cold, level tone.

"You've got this all wrong. Our correspondence started by accident. And I don't like insults. Is that plain?"

Buzz stepped back. Malevolence glittered its frosty warning as swiftly he noted the position of Buster Townsend, who stood waiting for his employer, then of Helen, Kilgo, and Link. A transformation seemed to take place inside the man. His hollow cheeks drained of blood and his

the girl over Dr. Slater's shiny bald pate. Her face was white as a sheet of paper, but when he nodded soothingly toward the door she shook her head.

Link himself by no means relished this part of thing. Buster was groaning and grasping in pain, fearful of the future. Two men out of five shots purpose that he had never been able to master. As for Buzz, the report of his own weapon had the effect of a severe shock. With brows knit, he stared from it, a wisp of smoke curling from the muzzle, to Buster. His face was pale

"It was her fault not Townsend. Doc But I reckon she's the game kind."

He whistled "Her brother" That nasty Stephen grabbed? Ought to make him watch it, that's what Anes oughta do" While he spoke he watched Buster carefully "I didn't got a drop o' ether or chloroform. Give me that gun of years, Link"

Fleming drew the weapon and handed it over, but first. Puzzled as to Doc's intent, he watched him twirl the Colt until he grasped its cold barrel

Dust Explosions

Research Work Has Resulted In Reduction Of Losses

Research work has resulted in a marked reduction in losses from dust explosions and resulting fire in the grain handling milling and elevator industry in both Canada and the United States," David J Price, chemical engineer of the United States Department of agriculture at Washington, told the Royal Canadian Institute at Toronto

Although considerable progress has been made, all causes of dust explosions are not known, Mr. Price said. In general the ignition of a relatively large mixture of dust and air results in a primary explosion which jars other dust loose from ledges and beams machinery parts and walls This dust suspended in air feeds the flames and brings about a secondary explosion of larger proportions

The importance of removing setiled or static" dust in an industrial plant is therefore a vital factor in dust explosion prevention and control he said. If there is no accumulated dust to feed the flame of the preliminary flash or fire, the secondary and more serious explosion does not follow

Dust explosions are not confined to grain handling or milling plants but are possible in most industrial plants and should be guarded against," the speaker declared

Little Helps For This Week

They that trust in the Lord shall be as Mount Zion which cannot be removed but abideth forever As the mountains are round about Jerusalem, so the Lord is round about his people from henceforth and forever Psalm 125 1-2

How on a rock they stand.
Who watch His eye and hold His guiding hand;
Not half so fixed among her massive hills
Rises the holy pile that Kedron's valley fills

That is the way to be immovable in the midst of troubles, as a rock in the midst of a tempestuous sea. When God is in the midst of a kingdom or city He makes it firm as Mount Zion, which cannot be removed. When He is in the midst of a soul, though calamities rising about it on all hands and roar like the billows of the sea, yet there is a constant calm within such a peace as the world cannot give nor take away What is it but not lodging God in the soul but keeping the soul in His mind, that makes men shake like leaves at every blast of danger?

France Has New Sport

Shooting Fish On Ocean Bed Has Become Craze

Saint Raphael France, reports that a fish-shooting season has opened on the bed of the ocean for the first time this year The sport is becoming a craze It is due to the invention of an underwater hunting outfit by Cyrille Peteur Each hunter wears a rubber mask containing a glass portihole This is connected with a bottle of compressed air, strapped to the shoulders, which makes breathing under water normal. A pneumatic gun completes the equipment. Heaps of edible and interesting specimens have been reported by hunters

PRACTICAL SHORT COURSE AT SCHOOL OF AGRICUL.

Suitable for Young and Old

Last week we sent out preliminary notice regarding the short course which is to be run on at the school of agriculture, Vermilion, beginning next week, January 6th. Each day will be devoted to a particular subject. The following gives the details as to the subjects and days on which each shall be given. In the main part of the course the time will be from 2 to 4:30 p.m. each day of the week except Saturday.

Monday, January 6th—
2:00 P.M.—"Work on the Farm" : D. A. Andrew, V.S.A.
3:15 P.M.—"Parasites on the Farm" Dr. Talbot, Dom. Veterinarian.

Tuesday, January 7th—
2:00 P.M.—"The Use of the Square and Cutting of Rafters" : W. B. Scarth, V.S.A.
3:15 P.M.—"Binder Knotter Troubles" : Prof. McIntosh-Smith, University of Alberta, Edmonton

Wednesday, January 8th—
2:00 P.M.—"Forage Crops in the Rotation" : A. M. Wilson, V.S.A.

3:15 P.M.—"Wax Blocking of Poultry" : Mr. Carnie, Poultry Commissioner

Friday, January 10th—
2:00 P.M.—"Demonstration in Honey Extraction," together with other practical phases of the bee business. Mr. Hilliard, Provincial Apiarist.

All farmers within reach of Vermilion are cordially invited to attend any and all of the above demonstrations and the women are particularly invited for Thursday and Friday afternoons. Those interested in home keeping are taking advantage of the short course to gather for the week in Vermilion. On Tuesday at 8 P.M. they meet with those attending each morning for practical discussions of her problems. Each evening special talks and moving pictures will be given on this subject.

Many farmers have asked us in the past for material of this nature and we put on the item. Here is the opportunity. From the reception given the notice we anticipate a large attendance. Many are waiting in asking if it would be possible to live in the district. With an interested attendance this year there are only some 16 beds available and these will be reserved for the first to apply and for same at the rate of $1.00 per day. Any others wishing to stay for the week can secure reasonable rates at the hotel.

Note for V.S.A. Students

There is a possibility that we may run on a special lecture course later in the term. It would be well for each boy to bring back a piece of harness that needs repairing and would appreciate if you'd let us have a bridle, for year X 104 set of Horse earb, and 1 lot 1st year pair of team

Purchase of Snow Plow by Board of Trade Is Deferred

Plan Is To Be Talked Over By Municipalities

Councillor Chas. W. Robinson occupied the chair at the regular Board of Trade meeting last Monday noon for the first time for considerable while, the members being pleased to see him back in his accustomed place. There were 24 members present.

A feature of the luncheon was the serving of buffalo meat secured from Elk Island Park. Contrary to what a number of the members expected, the meat proved tasty and tender.

Mr. Robinson reported that the canvass for the snow plow fund had been completed and an amount of nearly $200.00 raised. In view of the late hour of the season and the general idea that the municipalities should be given a chance to discuss the road clearing plan at their annual meetings, it was decided that the purchase of the snow plow be deferred until next season.

All contributions made for the above cause will be refunded.

Mr. Carman Long was appointed chairman for the meeting on Monday next. As a number of new topics for discussion are to be brought up a full turnout of members is requested.

ENJOYABLE SOCIAL FUNCTION HELD BY BOARD OF TRADE

A very enjoyable function was held by the Board of Trade on the evening of Tuesday when the members entertained their wives and sweethearts at a banquet in the Elk's hall. This was catered to by the Union ladies. Seventy-two sat down to the sumptuous repast, following the luncheon is by Canon Leversedge. After the dinner, Chairman Chas. W. Robinson proposed the toast to the King. Mr. G. L. Whitby in a short talk, establishing facts and attributions on the activities of the body, gave the toast to the Board of Trade. This was responded to by Mr. J. W. G. Hamilton, K.C., and Mrs. Hamilton in his talk relative to the Ladies of Trade in Vermilion. Quite a number of musical items were given during the evening. Mrs. Hockin with a vocal solo, Mrs. Lay, who was encored to an amusing item by Mrs. A. E. Kaiser. Following this the ladies sang, "For They are Jolly Good Fellows."

A social hour or two, and a sing song brought a very enjoyable evening to a close. The only thing unpleasurable was the motion to make it an annual affair was adopted unanimously.

NEARLY 100 CROWD ELKS HALL TO CELEBRATE NEW YEAR DANCE

Approximately 100 residents of the town and district of Vermilion, with a liberal sprinkling of visitors from neighboring localities crowded into the Elk's hall on New Year eve and danced the Old year out and 1936 in. The hall was decorated as never before as members had spent the better part of two days on the work and the result pins highly gratifying. Favors in the form of balloons, serpentines, horns, streamers and hats were liberally distributed, and these interspersed with excellent music by the Orioles and high spirits, made the occasion one of the greatest New Years frolics in the history of the town. The affair was held under the auspices of the local Elks and they are to be congratulated for the good time provided everyone.

Heading the list of distinguished visitors was the Hon. W. A. Fallow, Minister of Public Works, Railways and Telephone in the Provincial government. His Worship Mayor and Mrs. C. W. Robinson, Police Magistrate and Mrs. A. E. Kaiser and Mr. and Mrs. John A. M. Craig of Prince Albert, Sask.

WORLD HAPPENINGS BRIEFLY TOLD

A medical device for inducing artificial fevers was reported responsible for short-wave radio interference throughout North America and in some parts of Europe.

Air France, the French international flying company, announced it will open a regular weekly aircraft service between France and South America this month.

James T. Hawley, of St. John's, an engineering graduate of the Nova Scotia technical college at Halifax, was name-l 1935 Rhodes scholar for Newfoundland.

The city of Quetta, destroyed by earthquake last May will be rebuilt on the same site as far as possible the Indian government announced. The cost is estimated at $30,000,000

Official notification was mailed to all municipalities in Ontario advising that the provincial government will tax incomes from and after Jan. 1. The letter is signed by Waltare Mitchell Croft.

President Roosevelt announced he will confer with Premier Mackenzie King of Canada at a meet of 8,000,000 and upon them will be erected tens of thousands of house, all laid out according to the most modern system of town-planning, with the last word in recreational facilities.

The project will provide work for 3,000 men for the next 25 years, besides giving employment to thousands of other workers in the building supply lines in various parts of the country.—St. Thomas Times-Journal

Sacrificed His Job

Young Man Figured Other Applicant Could Do Better Job

The following article by Leonard Lyons, appeared in New York Post: Every except the Employment Department of radio and advertising offices, knew Spencer Hare. After a three-year- search for employment, Spencer Hare's got a job with a Radio Publicity Service. Many had applied, but only two survived the elimination; and of these two, Spencer was selected. The other applicant was a young man, too. He didn't know that he had lost out.

"I've been waiting two years to be married," the other man told Hare after he'd got this job. . . One—we're gonna to be a happy couple." Spencer phoned the man who would have been a new boss. "I don't want the job," he stated, "Just got a better offer. Give it to the other guy." It was a North Carolina—especially since the lady who was engaged for three years to Spencer Hare had written North the week before—became he couldn't find employment."

Expel Soviet Members

Joseph Stalin To Get Rid Of Ten Per Cent.

Joseph Stalin and other leaders of the Communist party of the Soviet Union have decided to expel another 10 per cent. of the party membership, it was announced at Moscow.

Trotsky, organ of the party, explained most of the members being expelled were formerly in the armies of the White Russians who fought the Bolsheviks in the civil war in 1920-22. Adherents of Admiral Kolchak, who set up a counter-revolutionary regime in central Siberia at that time, form an especially large proportion of the members affected by the expulsion order.

The new party cleansing has been under way over since the Kirov assassinat ion was made early this year, shortly after the assassination of Sergei Kirov. Stalin's right-hand man, that the party would be "purified" by membership card control.

Kirov was assassinated, not by a "Trotsky-ist," as was reported at the time, but by a young member of the Communist party This act was followed by the execution of more than 100 men who were held on various charges in Soviet prisons A new "party purge" then was ordered

Seed Testing

Many Saskatchewan farmers are sending samples of their seed grain to the Dominion Seed Branch at Saskatoon for testing Because of the large number of samples being received at the seed laboratory the results of a germination test should not be expected for at least a month after the samples have been mailed

Origin Of Term Canuck

Cural derives its name from quiral which in Arabic signifies the pod of the coral tree of Abyssinia. the seeds of which have from time immemorial been used in the east in weighing gold because they never vary in weight when they are dry.

Water drunk immediately after the eating of candy and other dry sugars is an aid to digest on, according to recent tests.

A Vast Building Scheme

Public Development Planned By Provincial English Towns

With the development of fast automobiles and paved highways and the inauguration of fast express trains between London and the coast, business men think nothing nowadays of making their homes 25 to 50 miles from the city and commuting to and fro every day, making the journey in about the same time as they used to do when they lived in suburban London and took an hour to reach their offices and warehouses.

Working on the theory that to 60 miles from London and is the centre of a cluster of small towns on the Channel. In recent years the populations of these delightful places have grown at a tremendous rate. Worthing alone adding 3,000 a year and within the last six months 1 000 new houses have been completed The result is these places have cooperated to embark upon one of the most ambitious schemes of public development ever devised. Contracts have been signed for the purchase of adjacent land at a cost of $78,000,000, and upon them will be erected tens of thousands of house, all laid out according to the most modern system of town-planning, with the last word in recreational facilities.

The project will provide work for 3,000 men for the next 25 years, besides giving employment to thousands of other workers in the building supply lines in various parts of the country.—St. Thomas Times-Journal

Overcoming Obstacles

Creating Nation-Wide Demand For New Product By Advertising

The English Channel was too wide for Napoleon to cross. All he could do was to stand on the French coast and look through a telescope at the white cliffs of Dover.

To cross the Channel was a three-hour journey by sailing-ship, with a good wind.

Then came the fast steamships that crossed in an hour.

To-day, the aeroplanes flash across in 10 or 12 minutes. The aeroplane pilots never speak of the "Channel." They call it the "Ditch."

So, there are many obstacles in the business world that have shrunk since efficiency became known.

It is now possible, for instance, to create a nation-wide demand for a new product in one day, through the use of advertising.—Efficiency Magazine

German Air Route

To Inaugurate Mail Service Via Azores And Bermuda

Latest to announce plans for North Atlantic air service is the transport service in 1936 is the German Lufthansa Company, which declared a regular service will be inaugurated via the Lisbon-Azores-Bermuda route.

Germany's bid for passenger travel will be made on the new Zeppelin LZ 129 and her sister, still under construction, the LZ 130 First trials of the LZ 129 will be held next month

Although the southern route, so planned for the Lufthansa mail planes, is 1,875 miles longer than that Ireland - Newfoundland route, the weather conditions are more favorable and it has the advantage of possessing natural landing points in the Azores and Bermuda.

Instead of using huge seaplanes, Lufthansa will rely on small and very swift planes, refueled at various points from vessels at anchor.

Milk Bars Popular

Milk bars have proved so successful in Scotland that several large firms in Glasgow, Edinburgh, and Aberdeen are planning to develop chains of bars. Hot and cold, all weather drinks are to be prepared

During Night Raid

Spies Suspected Of Seeking Plans Of New British Aeroplane

News of a daring night raid by suspected spies, seeking secret data on a new all-metal British aeroplane being built at Gravesend, stirred the country as an intensive manhunt was launched by Scotland Yard.

At dawn the night sentry of the Gravesend army airport, making his rounds, noted the doors of one of the hangars were open.

He entered the hangar and confronted a man of about 30. A furious fist fight followed, but it ended abruptly when another man, apparently an accomplice of the spy suspect, rushed up from behind and dealt the sentry a stunning blow with a club.

The sentry fell unconscious. When he regained his senses he gave an alarm and Scotland Yard and other police authorities immediately launched a search.

The suspected spies, it was believed, were seeking the plans of the new secret all-metal ship. The plans are kept elsewhere

Work Of The Lifeboats

Crews Have Saved 64,833 Lives Since Institution Started

Totals of 894 lives saved last year and 894 lives saved in 1935 up to the middle of December were among the figures given at the annual meeting in the city chambers of the Edinburgh, Leith, and Granton Branch of the Royal National Lifeboat Institution. From its beginning the crews of the institution have saved 64,833 lives from shipwreck. Edinburgh's contribution to the work during the past year, it was brought out, has been a very good one, with an increase of over £500 in subscriptions and donations. Three new motor lifeboats were added to the fleet in Scotland during the year.—Edinburgh Scotsman.

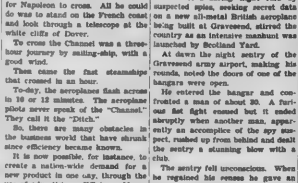
Dress Up In Crocheted Neckwear



Collars Such as These are Very Flattering

PATTERN 2126

Make one frock look like three with as many daintily crocheted collars, and a pair of lovely cuffs. The collar and cuff set, at top, requires just a bit of white or tinted net or georgette, set off by a border of crocheted medallions. Picture a second change using the lacy scarf which, done in cotton, employs the well-known knot stitch, with a pretty fan-like design for its two ends. Equally simple is the collar with perky bow and square sailor back in cotton it's what a tailored frock needs for that light, feminine touch.

In pattern 2126 you will find complete instructions for making the collars shown, an illustration of it, of the stitches needed; material requirements and color suggestions.

A MOTHER'S SONG

Golden text: My soul doth magnify the Lord. And my spirit hath rejoiced in God my Saviour. Luke 1:46, 47.

Lesson: Luke 1.

Devotional reading: Luke 1:11-17.

Explanations And Comments

The Magnificat, Luke 1:46-55. This song of Mary, the mother of Jesus, is called the Magnificat from the first word in the Latin version, meaning magnifies! Magnificat anima mea Dominum, My soul doth magnify the Lord.

"And Mary said": thus the poem begins. What follows is not so much addressed to Elizabeth nor to God, it is voices rather meditation upon the mercy and favor of God to Mary herself and then to all Israel. As is usually remarked, the verses form a perfect mosaic of Old Testament quotations. Noting the Hebrew parallelism in the first two lines—the same thought repeated in slightly different language.

"For he hath looked upon the low estate of his handmaid." Mary was in very humble circumstances.

"We may be sure she was purposeless, warm-hearted, great-souled, else the pure and perfect Pattern of our humanity had not been chosen intimately into her keeping. God does not choose his instruments at random: for his great tasks he has elect souls. He does not commit heaven sent carriers hands to do his finest work most delicate service." (J. M. E. Ross).

"Behold, from henceforth all generations shall call me blessed." Next week we shall hear Elisabeth say, "Blessed art thou among women, and blessed is the fruit of thy womb." Mary herself shall call herself "my soul." The mother of Jesus, though blessed above all women, was destined to become a sorrowful mother indeed. We cannot imagine the tragic sorrow which must have pierced her soul as she stood before the cross on Calvary, but can we any better imagine her joy as she realized that she had come to the world such a life and such a spirit as his was? It is not told us anywhere that this sorrowing mother ever complained of the lot that was hers to bear, or ever wished in change places with any woman in the world. Life's highest joys and also its bitterest come to us in strange and unexpected ways. Let us be saddened through relief from burdens and care.

SELECTED RECIPES

OAT COOKIES

Temperature: 375 degree F.
Time: 15 minutes.

½ cup shortening
½ cup sugar
½ cup "Crown Brand" Corn Syrup
2 eggs
1 cup oatmeal
1¼ cups bread flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1 cup small raisins
½ cup milk

Cream the shortening; gradually add sugar and "Crown Brand" Corn Syrup; beat well. Add unbeaten eggs, one at a time. Sift bread flour once or twice; add to mixture with the milk Sift the oatmeal with the salt, soda, baking powder, and cinnamon; stir in the raisins. Add to the first mixture alternately with the milk This should make a stiff dough. Drop by spoonfuls on a cookie sheet oiled with Mazola. Bake in a moderate oven. Nelson Eddy will make the under surface of all cookies crisp and "crunchy".

Improvement In Building

Canada Leads The World In Restoring Industry Gains In 1935

Canada led the world in improvement in the building industry during the first 10 months of 1935, as compared with the corresponding period of 1934, according to the monthly statistical bulletin of the League of Nations.

Canada's increase was 91 per cent. Next came Australia, with a 60 per cent increase, and the United States with an increase of 45 per cent. The United Kingdom's increase was 12 per cent.

The bulletin showed general improvement in other industries as well as building. Industrial activity in Canada increased nine per cent. over the previous period.

The leading increase was shown by Russia, 30 per cent Italy followed with 19 per cent. The United Kingdom figure was seven per cent.

Man Of His Word

A Scotsman from the remote Highlands paid his first visit to London during the Christmas holidays. Arriving at Euston the first words he heard were: "Taxi, sir?"

Donald shook his head.

After exploring London the Scot proceeded to Bristol Emerging from the station, he heard the familiar hail, "Taxi, sir?"

The Scot became annoyed

"No, thank you," he hawked. "I said 'No' in London, and I meant it. Now stop following me about."

Foot Quicker Than Eye

One Explanation Of Secret Of Hindu Firewalkers' Art

"The foot is quicker than the eye," was suggested as the secret of the Hindu firewalkers' art.

It may explain why Oriental "men of fable" can walk over red hot coals without burning their feet, Dr. S. Pinto Schwartz, of Rochester, N.Y., said in a letter to the Journal of the American Medical Association, Chicago. The letter referred to the exploit of a Hindu named Haldar Das who performed in London, Eng., and invited physicians to watch him. What surprised the physicians most was that a piece of court plaster put under the arch of Hindu Das's foot was not scorched.

To Doctor Schwartz this seemed "not necessarily remarkable."

He had studied the human gait for a number of years, he said, and records of 2,000 individuals showed the feet of the average person walking at normal gait bear the weight of the body for only .46 of a second between the time the toe and the heel touch the ground.

He said the sole of the foot bears the weight only .20 of a second and that there may be no heat injury at which the entire plantar surface (or sole) of the foot is bearing heat.

Doctor Schwartz said it was "reasonable to believe" the trained firewalker's foot touches the hot coals for the least time, "assuming the position of a toe-dancer or as when one is sprinting."

"It seems reasonably possible that the position and time interval in which the unprotected individual brought his feet in contact with the hot embers was not such as to produce serious injury to the latters.

"It should be remembered also that Kuda Bux was highly trained in this particular feat. His muscles were thoroughly suited to prevailing conditions."

A Money King

Wealthy Indian Prince To Celebrate Silver Jubilee

Crosses of all the world's money kings, the Nizam of Hyderabad expects to celebrate his silver jubilee next month.

As premier prince of India and according to the ancient credit on of the house, the nizam must feed the poor on festive occasions. So he has ordered that 7,000 ears and 10,000 sheep be slaughtered and roasted for the jubilee.

The nizam has 50 marble palaces, and one state carriage valued at a cooch of solid gold. But for private use he prefers a vehicle of 1927 vintage.

"He lives in almost spartan simplicity," ard Sir Akbar Hydari minister of finance. "His main mo ney-making for him, although he knows how to manage it well."

The Nizam's rules over 14,000 subjects, has an incomes estimated variously from $2,500,000 to $50,000,000 a year, on his underground vaults, in "Midas dungeons" deep below his palace, he reputedly has $250,000,000 in gold. This is stowed away—and an additional $2,000,000,000 worth of precious stones, mostly diamonds and rubies

Railway Employee Is Engined Awakens After Sleeping Four Years

Awakened from a four-year sleep, Victor Cleave of Folkestone, Engl, said he and his family would celebrate Christmas. "I'll kill something bloo.

Cleave, a railway employee, who was suffering from shell shock, began to doze over his meals in 1931

Then he fell asleep Doctors unable to rouse him, had to inject nourishment into his body

Waking recently, Cleave did not recognize his own children.

"I had no dreams, no thoughts, no feelings," he explained. "The four years have been no more than a blank in my life."

He has returned to his cottage home, after long confinement in a hospital

FLEMING'S FOLLY

— BY —

A few drops from a new bottle of whisky brought Dave slowly around. Sheriff Stephen stood with Deputy Hintz and the prisoner, his expression grim. Doc Bixler watched Townsend, who still lay unconscious. "Sheriff, here's the bullet. It was a Smith& shot at us with a large cane. Would have killed him sure, only it deflected from his belt buckle and used up some of the force. Got to have him here a couple of hours, then move him to a bedroom."

"There's one right handy on this floor, Doc," Gaines offered.

"All right. We'll go now. Move the whole lounge."

Eager hands grasped it and slowly wheeled the leather affair down a short corridor. Gaines led the way. "When everything was arranged to the doctor's satisfaction he shooed them from the room.

Link was slowly back to the lobby. Stephen beckoned to him with a lean forefinger and a nod. Helen Hamilton sat with her face covered by both hands, weeping softly. Stephen had the dazed look of a drunk suddenly sobered by the awful consequences of his folly.

"Mount that slug for you, eh Link?"

He hesitated. To admit this might mean a charge of attempted murder against young Hamilton. Hurriedly he sought some possible explanation, and shook his head. "Oh, I guess it was just an accident, Sheriff."

"No, it wasn't," Helen raised her face the hull thing myself from the sidewalk. Any fool could tell you were lyin' outside. Saw you and Dave and Townsend stepped in an' took the slug, trying to get Hamilton's gun. You got a gunnysack full of it, Link," the sheriff said not quite so harshly, "but I'll get Townsend's story as soon as he comes to. Get water, savvy? Doc, is the boy goin' to live?"

Bixler was replacing the instruments in his bag. "If he does it won't be Hamilton's fault. I'm goin' to camp right here all night and tend Buster."

The Boone County lawman grunted. While a part of Stephen's mind he started his prisoner out the door Helen looked up, started to rise to go to him, but was restrained by Roger Kilgo The next moment Stephen and Buzz were gone.

For a moment Link Fleming was not sure what he wanted to do. As he stood building a brown-paper cigarette with fingers that trembled slightly, eyes met those of the girl. Link walked slowly toward her, trying to summon some comforting thing to say.

It was Kilgo who spoke first. "You shouldn't have hated him, Link. I saw there'd be trouble right off Buzz, he wasn't feelin' right, an'—"

"He wasn't feeling right because he had too much liquor," Helen interposed with sorrow and accusation blended in her voice. "Who has he been drinking with? Who?" she insisted

"Well rechon him's Jackpot Mell

Her angry gesture stopped him. Kilgo stared down at his boots. "Gosh, I'm sheve sorry this happened. Any one know, it's lucky you got somebody you can depend on. He bein' kind of like your—I mean, since we got a sort of understandin', and I waited two years for yuh to come back, why I guess it's up to me to help you out now. Maybe we better start for the spread, eh?"

The girl drew away the hand he held. In her manner there was coldness unmistakable, freezing to anyone but Link Fleming. Kilgo, Jackpot Mell is one of your closest friends. You claim to be a friend to Buzz and me. You convinced Buzz that it would be foolhardy to go into any irrigation scheme, yet he wrote on last week that you were going to put our nine hundred acres. If it is wasteland, and you don't believe in irrigation, how is that?"

"I—I think you are responsible, some way, for this thing happening," she continued as Link stood by, unable to make steady. "It's very plain, Mr. Kilgo, that you have entirely too much influence over Buzz. You could have stopped him just now but you were silent. Or rather, you egged him on. Is that the way you do business?"

"Thank you," she summed up firmly. "It won't be necessary for you to see me home. Good-bye."

owner simply looked at her in amazement, his mouth opening and closing stupidly. Roger flushed as she ended, and his jaw set with a click. "So Fleming's been fillin' yuh with a pack o' lies about me gettin' Buzz drunk?"

"We haven't had time to discuss you or anyone else!" Link stated.

The other straightened aggressively. "Yes, but yuh been writin' love letters when yuh know damn well Helen and me are—"

She stepped between the storyteller and man. "There is no cause for accusing that, Mr. Kilgo. Please go!"

He waited a moment longer as if undecided whether to refuse. The glint in the man's small, close-set eyes fixed upon Fleming was ominous and vengeful. At last he turned his big bulk to start away, but paused.

"Fleming, you're the cause of all this. You never liked yuh, and you never liked yuh. That fool irrigation scheme is the crust'ed thing I've got against yuh. I offered to buy that nine hundred acres o' the Triple H just to help out, bein' as Buzz is hard up for cash. And another thing," he snapped angrily, "I don't care for interferin' with my private affairs, savvy?"

He left the door as if debating whether to amplify this. His manner was clear, however—that Link had come between him and Helen Hamilton. Finally, with a growl, Roger stamped to the lobby door and was gone out-

For the first time Fleming became aware that darkness was fast descending, and the storm outside increased into night. Far down the street but visible from where he stood at the corner window, a knot of curious citizens loitered outside the small adobe jail. They were discussing, no doubt, the incarceration of Buzz Hamilton.

Link went back to the bedroom and talked a moment in low tones to Dr. Sinter. The practitioner promised to give Buster Townsend every two hours a dose of aconite and leave Townsend stepped in an' took the slug, trying to get Hamilton's gun. Yuh got a gunnysack full of it, Link," the sheriff said not quite so harshly, "but I'll get Townsend's story as soon as he comes to. Get water, savvy? Doc, is the boy goin' to live?"

Buzz kept company with lately? Does he spend much time with—Roger Kilgo?"

Fleming moistened the edge of his cigarette paper and carefully shaped the smoke. "Course, Roper's about the most important cattleman around. When everything's done here, I reckon it's natural for Buzz to kind of snuck up the pearle o' wisdom Kilgo drops now an' again" cows and other important things."

The irony in his tone did not deceive Helen. The sudden impulse she touched his forearm. "Link, you—you think they'll do something to Buzz for this shooting? Like putting him in prison?"

In Former Days

Comment On Manners And Fashions Of Yesteryear

It may comfort the younger generation to know that scandalised comment on manners and fashions is not confined to the present. Grandmother had to put up with it, too.

An engaged girl in 1861 provoked an editorial in a Toronto newspaper, when she kissed her beau in public, and "kosseress in dress" was the subject of an editorial protest in 1886. It was shown by clippings in an old scrapbook covering the period 1000-1890, which were the subject of an informal talk by J. Alex. Edmison, Montreal lawyer, to a women's club.

So untrustworthy had men become in 1884—it appeared from an English clipping—that there was a movement on foot to allow women to be accountants.

Advertisements of the period indicated that the husband of 1885 was likely to come home to find his wife had bought him an "American steel" collar or collars and cuffs made of paper.

Methods Of Smugglers

Professional Is Far More Clever Than The Amateur

A passenger on the steamer Strath aird, who was interested at Melbourne, Australia, recently, says the Melbourne Argus, with destiable goods in the steamer and pockets of his overcoat was obviously an amateur at smuggling The professional smuggler is in a very different class from the amateur, who often smuggles a pair of stockings or a box of cigars just for fun. His methods, too, are elementary. Shoes with hollow heels and overcoat pockets are the favorite of the amateur. Even the trunk with a false bottom or sliding sides has become obsolete

For small contraband goods the professional smuggler sometimes makes use of hollow walking sticks or of umbrella-handles. Precious stones are sometimes hidden in that way. Harmless looking bulbs have been the hiding-place of cannonball sometimes shipments of cheap calico have been found to contain silks or laces in the middle of the bales.

In England not long ago the importation of wooden broomsticks in crates of vegetables was suspected until one day two Customs officers began to play single-sticks with two of the sticks. When they broke the cigars poured out of the hollow insides of the sticks. Even collins have carried contraband.

It is not so easy to smuggle large goods, and it would appear impossible to smuggle elephants when elephants are contraband. But the secret whilst elephants of Siam whose exportation is forbidden, were once the envy of neighboring potentates who were willing to pay high prices for them. Frequently white elephants painted to look ordinary elephants were smuggled out of Siam under the noses of the Royal Guards

Smuggling is an accepted occupation or calling but the professional smuggler is not a lickable fellow. He only desire to be left alone to follow his tasks the color of the chameleon. His ingenuity is inexhaustible and his courage unbounded. The methods employed are endless

A Happy New Year to all our readers.

WILDMERE WINGS

We wish the Editor and staff and all our readers, a happy and prosperous New Year, and thank the Editor and staff for the nice card sent us.

We also received a card from Mr. Lawson and wife of Kingston, Ont. telling us how much they enjoyed reading the "Winks". Mr. Lawson was our missionary student last year, and his wife grew up amongst us, and Miss F. Brown, who is now at St. Mary's, Ont., also sent us a nice card and tellme us how well she likes the Winks", so when one gets cards like these, it gives new courage to start afresh in the New Year, "Winks" will celebrate their third year in the Stand dard this week.

We must not forget to mention all the good concerts we attended, three in number, Wildmere had good we thot a splendid program, and a good breaking crowd, Triangle the next night also had a good concert, and a good crowd, Shandro also had a splendid night, but a good concert and a big crowd. The teachers, Miss Perkins Miss Gilbert and Miss Gibson are to be complimented on their hard work and patience, training the children seems found well laden trees for all the schools.

George Crothers left on Dec. 17th to spend Christmas with his aged mother and brother Tom at Watino (ing). It is George's first trip back east, since coming west in April 1908, so a good many changes will have taken place in that span of years.

Mr Gilbert Shane Thorncliffe, also left for The east on Thursday 19th to visit his mother and other relatives.

Miss Maslon Gibson is spending part of her holidays with her sister, Mrs. Les Reast of Les Park, Alberta.

Marjorie Cruthers is home over the Xmas holidays from the college, Mac hopes to blow it flue at college.

Eric Midill has been a town visitor for a week now, great to be a young man, eh!

Mr. and Mrs. J. Bathe and family spent Saturday at the isley home in Triangle, Mrs. Isley and Mildred are still in town, we wish Mr. Isley a speedy recovery from his sick bed in the local hospital.

Elsie Gilbehne is home over the Xmas holidays from Mrs. Kehoe's in town

There is to be a dance at Gladeon school on January 3rd and one at Tri angle on January 10th, so don't forget these dates folks

A jolly party was held at the home of Mr and Mrs. H Martin, Triangle on Thursday night, when about a dozen friends danced to the old-time music over the radio from Calgary Everyone enjoyed themselves, and a delish lunch brought the pleasant evening to a close.

Laurence Graham and Gordon Hall were Friday evening visitors at the Gilbert home in Base-ville.

Before this appears in print the Parr-Gilbert wedding at Basewood will have taken place. That is the date set for the big event, we wish to join in with their many friends in wishing the happy couple every happiness through their wedded life

Passion Time Heard—About a young man buying his lady friend a box of chocolates for Xmas, and then on the way home, he got hungry for the sweets and ate them

USE DISK WITH DISCRETION

One of the most common cultural implements found on prairie farms is the disk, or other similar one-design. Perhaps this is because the price of this implement is relatively low and the cost per acre when used on land is high. In most seasons this implement has been used with comparatively good success in preparing stubble land which had a strong growth from the previous year. Little trouble followed. It is now little thrown roots from the prairie and remained in the surface soil. As these disintegrated, and dry years intervened, the use of the disk in certain forms of dry farming ... served to promote soil drifting.

The disk has always been useful in breaking down any form of sod On heavier soils it is still used with fair success in preparing stubble for seeding when there is sufficient soil growth to prevent drifting. For preparing summer-fallow for seeding on heavy soils, a single disk is frequently used with good success when the soil is too moist to work a cultivator. The disk invites trouble when employed on any class of dry soil on the prairie when there is insufficient cover. On loams and sandy soils its efficient use is extremely limited for summer fallow cultivation, spring or fall work and preparing a seed bed. On the loam soil at the Manitou Experimental Station, Scott, Ita use is practically discontinued on large fields except after breaking out the first crop. The result from a disk are greatly governed by the condition of the implement

Many implement makers are known of where too wide use of the disk has caused serious soil drifting. A few years ago a farmer enquired about using a disk on loam summer-fallow before seeding and was warned against the procedure. He used a disk and all the crop blew from his neighbor ing cultivated fields resisted wind action. Another farmer who used a double disk for preparing land for 2 years had the loosened surface soil blown away each season

UNION NEWS

Well folks, here comes some news from Union. We are sure don't be much about it these days

December 20th was a big night for the Union children, as many house wheels the Santa sure had to make his reindeer travel in order to attend Robbie, Union and Woodvale all the same night but never mind, he managed it alright The Union children acted very well and not one mistake did they make. The Rundles family assisted in be very nice, we'll certainly have to call and see them when we go to Vermilion

The writer of these items hopes Edward gets his hankie untied before he gets to-night Santa was very generous to the kiddies and I hope they didn't eat too many sweets this visiting season as you know it is not very nice to have tummy ache and smelly ache, so be careful kiddies and grown up ones

We are sorry to hear that Miss Eunice Rankin will not be home for the holidays as she is attending Camrose Normal for examinations.

The Bluebird Juniors held their last meeting at A Friedland's, they are having a dance at Woodvale school on January 10th, Harold's Joy-masters will play Remember the last dance at Union what a good time we all had So remember the 10th Every body come to the dance at Woodvale school on January 10th, Harold's Joy-masters will play Remember the last dance at Union what a good time we all had So remember the 10th Every

DEATHS

ISLAND HILL

For Men Only—"How did you get Christmas over"? is a common-place remark heard these days, so we will relate to you of two experiences amongst our acquaintances. First: A young married man in the late hours of St. Stephens Day who had been "celebrating" with some other convivial souls, reached his home in a condition far from sober. Fortunately there was no one to witness his arrival as his wife was spending Xmas with her people. The reveller somehow managed to let himself in and make his way to his own room where he tumbled off to sleep, to awake with a much clearer head but with an uneasy feeling that he was going to be late for business. His watch had stopped and he decided to make a run for it. Reaching his place of business the manager eyed him sternly and breathlessly the reveller apologized. "I'm sorry I'm an hour late" he gasped "An hour late" his senior said "Say, Where the dickens were you yesterday"?

The second is of a far different type of gentleman who, a few days after Christmas, called in see a doctor. He complained that he was feeling far from well and confessed he was very much upset at his thought that he might die. The doctor after giving him a careful examination smiled in sympathy and put his stethoscope aside. "How much do you smoke" he asked. "I don't smoke at all" was the reply "Have you been using ... drink ing more than usual during Christmas" "I am a life-long teetotaller" "At what time have you been going to bed recently?" the doctor queried. "It is years since I was up later than ten" came the answer, and as the doctor frowned the other waxed wroth.

"You are puzzled by my case doctor?" he suggested. "Not by your case Mr. Muttonhead, Mr. Fathead and Mr" and Mrs. Tollstrap Lie down for

Morality And Democracy

A Toronto newspaper editor, addressing a club in that city recently made an urgent plea for a return to what he termed the "Old System of Morality" basing his plea on the declaration that if democracy and its keystones, freedom of the press, freedom of thought and freedom of action are to survive, revers on its former standards of morality is essential.

The editorial writer asserted that "democracy never was in greater danger than it is to-day, even though it may not be threatened by emperors or tyrants, except those of our own creation. The threat is the ultimate moral and physical collapse of democracy's constituent parts."

While perhaps none of the illustrations used by this editor were somewhat overdrawn, nevertheless the premises on which he based his argument are sound and the warning and its accompanying plea for rehabilitation of some of the virtues which dominated family life and were regarded as an essential in the conduct of trade and commerce in the days of our parents and grandparents are worthy of consideration and should be heeded.

The pendulum of morality and conduct has swung through a wide arc since those days when it was regarded a sin to read a newspaper on the Sabbath day when children were unreverently taught and expected to reverence their elders and when those elders themselves were largely motivated by simple but inspired rules in the conduct of their homes their farms or their business and in their relations with their neighbors.

Perhaps the pendulum has swung too far in the direction of lack of restraint and elimination of self-governance, for it is a sine qua non that self governance is a necessity before one can govern others with success or inspire respect. Self-denying of moral standards of the individual is bound to have an adverse effect on the life of the community and the nation and eventually to determine the commercial and rational welfare

Few perhaps are prepared to argue that we should return to the prohibitions and restrictions of the mid-Victorian era in their entirety but there is reasonable ground for argument that reversion to some of the virtues which characterized the actions of that period would not be amiss and would tend to strengthen a weakening democracy.

Who would deny for instance that a more extensive practice of thrift, limit rein, reverence for authority, for law and order and simple pleasures, would tend in the direction of building up a vigorous, self-reliant nation, or that a nation of individuals, thus morally equipped, is best able to hold its own in the conflicts for supremacy and in the battle for mastership?

[illegible] virtues in the individual in determining the national advancement and well are as true to-day as they were in the days of the Romans in the century immediately preceding the birth of Christ. During that period the Roman Empire reached the zenith of its brilliant career. It was the era of the most outstanding intellectual achievements, orators, law makers, commanders and statesmen, yet it is a period in which the simple virtues dominated the upbringing of the youth and the lives of the people.

Testimony to that effect is afforded in a bulletin recently published by one of the grain companies in which the following quotations are found:

"The education of the Roman boys and girls of the period was designed to fit them for farm life. Girls were taught to manage a home, to spin and weave, boys to plow, sow, reap, and to manage the business affairs of the farm. and, as well to know how to conduct the various offices of state, including the very highest for farmers above all others, were chosen to fill these stated positions."

The character of the young people was moulded so as to develop a respect for parental authority and for law and order. They were taught to be modest in speech directed in behaviour, and as well to be thrifty and self-reliant

The practice of these simple and fundamental virtues does not necessarily involve abandonment of the fruits of scientific achievement which have so bountifully enriched present day life, but it does mean that we will take advantage of them as we can afford them without mortgaging the future to the hilt.

There are evidences of a desire on the part of our governments to return to the sound policy of balancing their budgets, in other words to revert to the "pay as you go" plan. Their success in achieving this laudable ambition will largely be determined by the attitude of the people which have placed these governments in authority, and the attitude of the people will be governed by their own views and practices in their private and business affairs.

The fact that this tendency on the part of our governments exists is a healthy sign, for governments are supposed to have their ear to the ground and to know what the people want.

Maybe the pendulum has already started to swing back

Reconstruction Policy

Parliament To Be Asked To Endorse Proposal

Parliament will be asked at the coming session to endorse a proposal for a widely-embracing national reconstruction policy, including housing homes, slum clearance, land and settlement and rehabilitation. Loans under the scheme would be made available at low interest rates while the creation of greater opportunity for the youth of Canada would be a major objective.

Sponsor of the proposal will be Thomas L. Church (Conservative, Broadview), who will ask approval of a resolution in the following terms:

1. That in the opinion of this House Canada should immediately adopt a comprehensive national housing, building reconstruction, slum clearance, land settlement and rehabilitation policy adapted to the circumstances and requirements of the various provinces and municipalities as one of its main features a national policy for youth in relation to education and industry and employment so as to get people off the dole and back to remunerative employment.

2. And further, this house is also of the opinion that as any such national reconstruction policy a lower rate structure for basic carriage and insurance bodies is an immediate necessity. Such a reconstruction policy to also embrace provision for industrial workers in urban and suburban areas from forfeiture on the same principle as farmers and fishermen are afforded by existing legislation.

Quakes Are Annoying

Northern Ontario Settlers Are Now Becoming Jittery

This business of earthquake shocks up along the Temiskaming and Northern Ontario railway has guess for just about the thrill and novelty stage. If they don't soon stop, say harassed settlers, the government will have to do something about it.

The folks up around Diver station, 30 miles north of North Bay, are the latest complainers. Their spokesman is Emma, who may be regarded as the official spokesman for settlers in the Diver area.

Settler Emma snowshoed two miles from his cabin to the nearest telephone line and let it be known the least the federal authorities can do is send an invest gation. After all there must be some cause for these rattlings and shakings

Mr. Emma said tremors have been felt "every once since last May, and the big quake of Nov 1, with its epicentre near Diver, left its trail of re-current jumpings and quivers

"They last from a few seconds to more than a minute, and have come at the rate of 12 or 20 in a single day," said Mr Emma. "I think the ground in which my cabin is built must be hollow, for the cabin seems to lift right up in the air when the quakes come And from the sound of the rumbling I believe the ground on each side is hollow too."

Economic Council

Premier Of Nova Scotia Appoints Members Of The Personnel

Representatives of Nova Scotia's mining, lumbering, fishing, agricultural and manufacturing industries were named along with education and labor authorities to a newly-created economic council by Premier Angus L. Macdonald.

Nine prominent Nova Scotians, headed by Dr. A. Stanley MacKenzie, former president of Dalhousie University, who will be chairman of the commission, had assured the premier they were "quite ready to render their assistance in every possible way."

The council was instituted on the recommendation of the Jones commission which investigated the economic ills of this province a year ago and reported "very strongly" that the first need is the establishment of an economic council."

The following were named as members of the council:

Dr. A. S. MacKenzie a noted Canadian educationist, former president of Dalhousie University and senior member of the national research council of Canada, chairman;

Dr. A. B. Balcom, former dean of economics, Acadia University, Wolfville - representing educat on;

F. W. Gray, assistant general manager of the Dominion Steel and Coal Corporation, associated with the Nova Scotia steel and coal industry in various executive capacities since 1909 representing mining;

C. O. Hawkins of Milford Station, Kings county, prominent Nova Scotia farmer;

Neil McAulay, president of the plant council of the Sydney steel plant—representing labor;

H. L. Stewart, consultant, associate professor of geology at St. Francis Xavier University, Antigonish, who has had wide practical experience as a geological expert since 1906 when he graduated from George Washington University;

F. W. Wigmore, president of Halifax Fisheries and established that exporting firm in 1914 after he had had practical experience as a fisherman—representing fishing;

Frank Stanfield, Truro, president of Stanfield's Limited representing manufacturing;

F. Waldo Walsh, director of marketing for the Nova Scotia department of agriculture — representing agriculture.

The council will probably meet early in the new year. One of its first duties will be to appoint a secretary-manager and the appointments are effective immediately.

New Engine For Plane

Famous Freighter Will Take To Air Again Soon

One of Canada's largest planes the famous Junkers JU-52 freighter brought to this country in 1932 by Canadian Airways, will take to the airways again soon and prairie residents will get their first chance to see it.

The huge ship, built to carry loads of freight and with a cabin so large it has room for a small and novelty stage without bending his head, only made a few flights in northern Manitoba before it became a white elephant of the air." The motor gave out and the Canadian aeronautics branch's refusal to license the ship even if repairs could be made was all big enough for such a huge plane.

But the British air ministry just recently released one of its famous 900-horsepower Rolls Royce air motors and Canadian Airways purchased it. One-third greater in power than the original motor, the Rolls Royce will be fitted to the Junkers and the plane again put in service. Present plans are to fly it over the prairies in taste before taking it north again for the heavy freighting work there.

World's Oldest Man

Have Just Died Within Short Time Of Each Other

The world's oldest man have just died almost at the same time. At Kala Kunan, near Belgrade, Jugo Slavia, a man named Trajko Sedlovitch has died at the age of 131 He had lived there for 90 years, and enjoyed good health almost to the end of his life. His wife who survives him, is still upright and sturdy. All the remnants of the tribe around are mourning for the old man, for he was an excellent story-teller and a mine of historical reminiscence Besides this, they regret that his one ambition to ride in a motor car before he died was unfulfilled Meanwhile the oldest man in Durban Natal has died at the age of 106 He was Krusmchhood, an Indian market gardener He came to Durban from India in 1874.

Identification Cards

Use Throughout Canada is Recommended By Montreal Citizen

Use of identification cards for citizens throughout Canada, was recommended by Brig.-Gen. E. de Bassi, president of Montreal unemployed relief commission.

Such a scheme, he told members of the City Improvement League, would aid greatly in such problems as registering unemployed, preventing impersonation at polling booths and would also serve in the nature of a prospect within the country.

Chemical Discovery Important

Chemical Prevents Ice Forming On Aeroplane Wings

A chemical method of preventing the formation of ice on aeroplane wings has been discovered by research engineers of the Royal Air Force, it was announced by Sir Philip Sassoon, parliamentary under-secretary to the air ministry.

It is generally believed the loss of the Belgian Sabena liner December 10 near Tatsfield, Kent, which took 11 persons to their death, was caused by the accumulation of ice on the plane's wings.

Sir Philip said the new discovery is being carefully developed and is expected to make for greater safety in all kinds of flying weather.

New Dwellings Needed

Many Homes Needed In Canada To House Low Wage Earners

The board of control at Ottawa had under consideration a report from a sub-committee of the National Construction Council of Canada saying at least 2,006 new dwellings are needed to house low-wage earners and relief tenants.

The report said at least 576 existing unoccupied dwelling units might be demolished to make room for new and more satisfactory houses

It added rehabilitation of 1,349 houses should be launched and that 5,625 families are occupying 3,529 dwellings, causing serious overcrowding.

ITALY SAID TO BE INCREASING HER NAVAL STRENGTH

Rome.—In a move interpreted in some quarters as designed to prepare for possible "events" should an oil embargo be imposed against her, Italy was reported to be strengthening her navy.

Reliable sources said it was understood about 13,000 naval specialists had been recalled for service. Most of them were said to have served formerly in the gun or powder rooms of Italian ships.

Some quarters believed the move might also have resulted from British diplomatic steps to assure support from Mediterranean powers for the British navy, should it be attacked in the course of sanctions imposition.

Premier Mussolini will reject any new proposal for peace in Ethiopia based on the Hoare-Laval plan or the ideas of the League of Nations committee of five, the officially-inspired newspaper Giornale D'Italian predicted.

Announcing that Italy's demands in Ethiopia were greater "and will remain greater" than any offer yet made by the powers, the newspaper charged self-styled "friends" had regarded existing treaties concerning Ethiopia as "the traditional scrap of paper."

The house of commons speech by Sir Samuel recently "clearly showed the inconsistency of the Anglo-French peace plan," the newspaper declared, asserting that the Italo-Franco-British treaty of 1906 and the Anglo-Italian treaty of 1925, both registered with the League of Nations, granted Italy her present rights in Ethiopia than did the Hoare-Laval proposal.

Fatal Plane Crash

Kenneth Neale Killed in Accident Near Eastend

Eastend, Sask.—A plane, which he had built himself, carried Kenneth G. Neale, 26-year-old Tompkins machine shop employee, to death in a field near the farm home of R. O. Beugin, some 10 miles south of here, as he circled for a landing. It was believed a wing had dropped off the machine.

The plane, as it struck the ground, burst into flames, but Mr. Beugston and Allan Primrose, 25-year-old local man, managed to get the body out of the machine. Neale, when the two men reached the plane, was dead.

Beugston and Primrose managed to escape unaided as they carried the body from the burning machine.

Neale, whose family lives at Bluffton Hall, post office 30 miles south of here, had flown from Tompkins to the home of his parents to spend Christmas with them. It was the first long flight he had made with the plane, which he had built in the past three years in spare time. He had made other flights, however, in rented machines.

Day after Christmas Neale was going to drop in at the Beugston home for dinner on his way back to Tompkins. He was circling a field near the residence when his machine crashed and burst into flames.

Fatal Gun Accident

George F. Chipman Of Winnipeg Is Accidentally Shot

Winnipeg.—George F. Chipman 54 managing director of the Country Guide was shot to death accidentally in waging a shooting expedition on a farm at Charlewood, Man. 10 miles west of here

With Alwyn Smith, an employee on his farm, Mr. Chipman was shooting rabbits that had been attacking his trees and another part of his farm where he conducted many plant experiments. The shooting foray was one of many he had undertaken to rid his property of the pests.

Going through bush, he stumbled and fell. His shotgun discharged and the bullet entered his head, death almost instantaneous. The body was removed to Winnipeg and it is not expected that an inquest will be held.

A journalist for 25 years, active in farm organizations and a breeder of plants and fruits with an international reputation, Mr. Chipman was one of the most prominent men in farm activities in Western Canada.

Ordered To Take Rest

Zurich.—Sir Samuel Hoare, former British foreign secretary, and Lady Maud Hoare arrived here by aeroplane from London. Sir Samuel has been ordered to take a rest by his physicians and will remain in Switzerland until his health is restored.

Escaped From Burning Plane

Pilot Made Safe Landing And Rescued Unconscious Passenger

Kenora, Ont.—How an aeroplane caught fire 1,500 feet in the air, an unconscious passenger being dragged to safety after the pilot had desperately "side-slipped" to a landing on a small frozen lake, was told here.

Pilot Charles Robinson took off from Red Lake, 120 miles north of here, with Gus Johnson, a miner, as a passenger. Over a small unidentified lake, smoke entered the passenger cabin and Johnson attracted the attention of Robinson, who immediately began to sideslip the plane to safety.

As the machine was going down, flames burst through into the cabin and Johnson pushed his club bag containing his clothes into the hole made by the flames. Then the bag caught fire and Johnson was overcome by smoke.

Robinson made a hurried landing and, opening the door of the cabin, found his passenger unconscious. He dragged the helpless man to safety. Meanwhile, the plane was burning rapidly and was totally destroyed within a short time. Both men made their way here.

CANADA'S WHEAT SUPPLY ON HAND IS STILL HEAVY

Winnipeg. — The Canadian wheat board estimated the amount of Canadian wheat available for export as at Dec. 14, at 280,378,708 bushels.

In a survey of the general wheat situation, the board pointed out heavy exports of wheat each week from now until the end of the crop year would be necessary to reduce the carryover of July 31 materially.

The carryover of old crop wheat at July 31 was 215,000,000 bushels which, combined with the new crop of the whole Dominion, makes a total of 488,000,000 bushels.

Against this figure, 111,000,000 bushels was deducted in the wheat board's survey for home requirements, leaving, as at July 31, an exportable surplus of 378,000,000 bushels.

From August 1 to December 14 the export of Canadian wheat and flour including sales to the United States was 98,287 bushels, leaving at the latter date, 280,373,703 bushels on hand.

Shipment of 4,000,000 bushels weekly in the last 32 weeks of the crop year would reduce this total by 128,000,000 bushels and would leave a carryover of 162,373,703 bushels on Aug. 1, 1936.

Russia Increases Navy

Gives Warning To Germany And Japan Through The Press

Moscow.—The Soviet union, in a thinly-veiled warning to Germany and Japan, announced through the press that its submarine and destroyer fleets have been precisely quadrupled during the last four years.

A statement printed in the government newspaper Izvestia, said in addition that the constguard fleet had been increased 1,100 per cent., but gave no figures bearing on the actual strength of any naval unit.

The statement, broadcast by the news agency Tass, was regarded as Russia's answer to the recent agreement between Germany and Britain to limit their naval strength in the Pacific and Baltic and appeared to foreign observers to be particularly significant, coming, as it did, on the heels of the alleged threat by Japan and Manchoukuo to invade outer Mongolia.

London.—The Soviet Union and the Baltic states, it was learned on reliable authority, have asked Great Britain to define its attitude toward possible control of the Baltic sea by Germany.

Reports of the enquiry from the U.S.S.R. and neighboring northern states spread among delegates to the naval conference here, where the pact is believed to have been taken in relation to the parley now adjourned until next month.

State Controlled Mines

Far-Reaching Project Hailed With Delight By British Miners

London.—A government project to permit the state purchase of coal mining royalties is being hailed tribunals by Socialists.

The measure is calculated by its proponents to free miners from the yoke of private ownership which has restricted them to an average wage of $11 a week.

Sir Thomas Inskip, attorney-general, announced the government plans to buy out the owners of mining royalties.

It means the purchase of these royalties by the state and thereafter their control by the state," he told the House of Commons.

"It will involve a change of ownership and direction from 4,000 private owners to single public ownership controlled by the state in the interest of the community."

The purchase of "This is Socialism" This means the nationalization of England!" swelled from the Socialist benches in parliament when Sir Thomas made the announcement

But whatever it means politically, it is a stunning blow for a number of peers of the realm whose great hereditary fortunes are founded on mine royalties.

To Develop Tar Sands

Alberta Government Likely To Go Ahead With Plans

Calgary Development of northern Alberta tar sands and contiguous resources, as planned by the provincial government, would undoubtedly go ahead, Hon. C. C. Ross, provincial minister of mines, stated in an interview here

As soon as a definite statement could be made, the government would make one, he added.

Railway Competition

Would Enact Uniform Legislation Governing Operation Of Trucks

Ottawa Railways Minister Howe said he thought a royal commission would not be appointed by the Dominion government to investigate the question of competition by trucks and buses. He has been considering the proposal some time.

His department was endeavoring to have the various provincial governments enact uniform legislation governing the operation of buses and trucks to meet the problem of their competition with Canadian railways

Loan Not For Public

Banks Will Purchase $40,000,000 Issue Offered By Canada

Ottawa.—Finance Minister Dunning filed with the securities and exchange commission of the United States government a registration statement in connection with the issue and sale in the United States of $40,000,000 Dominion of Canada two year, three-year notes. It was proposed to make the issue to a group of American and Canadian banks headed by the Chase National Bank of New York.

No public offering is to be made at this time as the government is advised the banks were purchasing the notes solely for investment for their own account. The notes will be sold at a price to the government of 99.75, to yield approximately 2.09 per cent.

The issue is being made to refinance short term borrowings made in New York September 1 and December 1 in connection with the prior redemption of $23,740,000 Grand Trunk Railway Company of Canada 20-year seven per cent. bonds due October 1, 1930, due October 1, 1940, and $23,779,000 Canadian North Railway Company 20-year seven per cent. bonds dated December 1, 1920, due December 1, 1940.

The saving in interest as a result of the redemption of the seven per cent. bonds will amount to over $2,000,000.

Fatal Shooting

Ukrainian Farmer Shot Dead By Neighbor Over Land Dispute

Winnipeg.—Peter Kowalchuk, 50-year-old Ukrainian farmer, was shot to death on his farm at Rossburn, Man., 200 miles west of here, by Nicholas Kowalchuk, a neighbor, following a dispute over land, it was learned here.

Nicholas Kowalchuk, who is 30 years old, was arrested by Provincial Police and charged with murder. He will appear in court at Shoal Lake, Man., on January 6.

Peter Kowalchuk was shot twice in the head with a rifle. He died instantly.

Seven League Boots

Fritz Hansen's Footgear Brings Happiness To Children

Winnipeg Fritz Hansen's boots provided 375 unfortunate children with a merry Christmas

Fritz wore the boots when he raced 75 yards for the final Winnipeg touchdown when the Manitobans defeated Hamilton Tigers 18-13 to win the Dominion rugby football championship

Then Fritz autographed the boots and presented them to the Winnipeg Tribune annual toy shop fund. The Tribune put them up for auction and the highest bid of $125 came from John T. Bray, of Winnipeg.

And when Fritz learned 375 children would be made happy he had a merrier Christmas too.

No Dum-Dum Bullets

Ethiopian Government Denies Report Spread By Italy

Geneva.—The Ethiopian government formally accused Italy of spreading reports concerning use of dum-dum bullets by Ethiopians to justify "future Italian outrages."

"The imperial Ethiopian government denies in the most categorical fashion falsehoods spread by the Italian press concerning use of dum-dum bullets," a statement sent to the League of Nations asserted. "It considers the report fabricated to justify future Italian outrages.

"Ethiopia manufactures no arms or ammunition. They are all brought in from outside and are subjected to rigorous inspection before they reach here."

The Disease Christmas

Glass Window Separates Parents From Quintuplets

Callander, Ont.—Mr and Mrs. Oliva Dionne said "Joyeux Noel" to their quintuplet daughters by waving at them and talking through the glass window panes of their nursery at Dafoe hospital.

While the quintuplets were hostesses to their five elder brothers and sisters and their parents at a Christmas party, the quintuplets were not allowed to have the family in their nursery because of the possibility that cold germs might be brought in.

The elder brothers and sisters and Mr. and Mrs. Dionne had dinner at the hospital but confined their greetings to the quintuplets to gestures and expressions the babies could hardly hear with a glass wall between them.

For all but the quintuplets there was "turkey and all the fixin's," but the sisters, Annette, Cecile, Emilie, Marie and Yvonne stuck to their regular diet, with a special Christmas dessert of jelly topped with whipped cream.

Event of the day was the excursion of Santa Claus away from the nursery for parts unknown. At a moment when both nurses happened to be away, Cecile managed to open the door leading out to the corridor of the Dafoe hospital and was all set to explore the world beyond when she was overtaken.

More Tourist Traffic

October Showed 187,078 More Than Same Month Last Year

Ottawa. — Tourist traffic during October recorded a substantial increase over the corresponding month last year, according to a report issued by the department of trade and commerce

Visitors admitted to Canada during October numbered 1,152,643, an increase of 137,078 over Oct. 1934.

In the seven months ended Oct. 31 tourists totalled 11,609,820 compared with 10,362,180 in the corresponding period last year.

KING GEORGE DELIVERS SPECIAL EMPIRE MESSAGE

London.—In a Christmas message to the empire, the king voiced his warm appreciation of the "spontaneous offerings of loyalty and may I say of love" which the celebration of his silver jubilee had evoked.

Speaking from Sandringham House in Norfolk, His Majesty said he had noted, in addition to respect for the throne, "warm and generous appreciation of the man himself who, may God help him, has been placed upon it."

He spoke for five minutes in a clear firm voice which was broadcast throughout the many cities and the overseas of the empire

Listeners in London noticed with great satisfaction His Majesty's voice was strong He spoke slowly at once

It was evident he was deeply moved when he spoke of the throne and of the man who had been placed upon it

MUNICIPAL ELECTIONS AGAIN PRIMARY TOPIC

Four Councillors, Three School Trustees To Be Elected

NOMINATION DAY FEB. 3rd; ELECTIONS MONDAY, 10th

An interesting election is in the offing this year as there are no less than four vacancies on the town council to be filled on the school board besides a number of openings on the town board of governors. The last mentioned is to be filled by the late Chas. W. Robinson elected to the council last year, has been promoted to the position of secretary leaving his place open as a returning candidate. Councillor Ed. Davies and W. Waldenberger are up for another year to sit, while these whose terms are expiring are Melvin Hill, George Wright and George Webb. Although the latter has only served one year he was elected to complete the remainder of the term of Wm Davey who had resigned after completing a year's duty as a town father.

Three Vacancies on School Board

The terms of three school trustees also run out, these being those of Ed Bier of R. P. Cooper who is not offering for re-election, Dr. J. J. Kisel and Ed. Lund.

Continuing members of the board are Frank M. Baker and Thos. Watts.

SEVEN YEARS' AGONY ENDED BY SASKASAL

First Bottle Brought Relief from Painful Rheumatism

Read this letter: "I had rheumatism for seven years and never left me night or day, pains something awful. I tried everything I could get, but nothing did me any good till I got Saskasal. I had not started to take it a week till I was a lot better, and am getting better all the time and have not finished the first bottle. I can go to bed and don't have any pain like I had before I took Saskasal. I will sure recommend it to anyone that has rheumatism."

Canada's First Railroad

Centenary Will Be Celebrated In July Of This Year

Canada is shortly to celebrate yet another centenary, that of the beginning of the first railroad in the Dominion. It covered 16 miles and bore the dignified title of the Champlain St. Lawrence Railroad. A charter for the construction of the line was granted in 1832, and the work begun three years later. Horses provided by Lord Gosport on July 21st, 1836, the line provided portage between the river ports of Laprairie on the St. Lawrence, and St. Johns on the Richelieu. The rails were of wood with a thin band of iron spiked on top of it. first the cars were drawn by horses, but in 1837 the owners brought an engine which they called "Kitten"—and an engine-driver from England, and a speed of 20 miles an hour was achieved. Later, further railroad construction was undertaken, and now the Dominion has one of the most extensive railway systems in the world. —Empire Review London.

New Canard White Star Liner

"Queen Mary" Has Novel Illumination Never Before Seen On Any Vessel

The Cunard White Star liner "Queen Mary" will be the greatest "bright ship" ship to take the seas, and will possess several illuminating schemes which have never before been incorporated in any vessel afloat.

At night the elaborate flood-lighting will transform the liner into a palace of splendor, leaving a brilliant golden trail behind her as she glides restfully across the dark seas.

But one of the principal features is the extensive use of glass throughout the ship. Natural lighting is the keynote of the passenger accommodation lounges and dining-rooms The promenade deck is almost encased in glass which will stand any weather.

In the hull alone 2,500 square feet of glass has been used for the portholes, while thousands of additional square feet, aggregating hundreds of tons, are included in the staterooms and public rooms.

But there are several objects behind the idea of using so much glass. In addition to providing greater comfort for passengers and avoiding the too much artificial light there are certain hygienic considerations, and a saving of window-cleaners will be kept busy washing and polishing the thousands of panes of glass. The Queen Mary, in fact, is a windowcleaners' paradise

All the first-class staterooms which are on the main deck are fitted with huge glass sliding windows. In the main lounge there are 33 windows, each 12 feet high and 5 feet wide. The children's playroom has five windows 12 feet high

A novel system has been used in the Verandah restaurant. The ornate window-sills are actually electric radiators which maintain an even temperature.

On one side of the restaurant is a beautifully designed balustrade illuminated by color-changing coloured lights hidden underneath.

The shopping centre is almost entirely constructed of glass. The outstanding feature is the frontage of 15 feet while many of the walls give the effect of a gigantic sheet of glass, so ingenuously have the big panes been fitted together.

SELECTED RECIPES

PLAIN DOUGHNUTS

2½ tablespoons butter
1 cup sugar
3 eggs
3½ cups bread flour (about)
4 teaspoons Magic Baking Powder
1 teaspoon nutmeg
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon cinnamon
½ cup milk

Cream together butter and one half sugar. Beat remaining sugar with eggs very light and combine mixtures. Sift together 3 cups bread flour, baking powder, salt and spices and add to first mixture alternately with the milk, and enough flour to roll out to ¼-inch thickness cut and fry in fat at 375 degrees F. to a light brown. They should come to the top quickly. Turn once only. Drain on brown paper and roll in sugar.

To Test Fat—Put pan on fire and when smoke rises drop in a small piece of dough If it rises quickly to the top, fat is ready.

No One Saw Eclipse

Last One For 1925 Visible Only At South Pole

Santa kept one Christmas treat for himself, the year's last eclipse of the sun.

It was visible in no inhabited part of the world and even Mr Claus had to scan the sky from the ice fields of the South Pole.

For a few fleeting seconds the Antarctic was shadowed by the weird twilight that was produced by a thin blazing circlet The eclipse lasted but a minute and 33 seconds from the time the moon began blotting out the sun's light until Old Sol shone full again. Dr Philip Fox director of the Adler planetarium, Chicago, said.

It was the seventh eclipse of 1925 —the maximum number possible in any year. It ended a series of heavy-only phenomena which will not be seen again for 180 years

Otherwise Peaceful

I wanted to listen to Christmas carols on the radio," Anthony Bolier, 81, of Chicago, explained to the judge "I like on—peace on earth and that sort of thing But my wife wanted to listen to dance music. So I hit her." He paid a $100 fine.

Royal Bank Presents Strong Annual Statement

Deposits Up $51,000,000 — Marked Improvement Evident Last Year Continues

The Annual Statement of The Royal Bank of Canada reflects a very substantial growth during the year Assets have crossed the eight hundred million dollar mark, being actually $819,000,000. Deposits over an increase slightly greater than the rather remarkable increase shown in the previous year.

Assets have increased during the year by over $42,000,000 That the growth of total assets is somewhat less than the increase in deposits is apparently accounted for by the fact that the special loan of $9,000,000 under the Finance Act, current at November 30, 1924, has been repaid.

Strong Liquid Position

In these days of easy money, no great emphasis is placed by the banks on liquidity but actually immediately realizable assets are 56½ of total liabilities to the public Investments in Dominion and Provincial securities call for $81,716,849, which is in line with recent trends Call money in Canada but in the United States and Great Britain it will be found that there is a return in as strong position as they are at present in most commercial demands as these develop

Deposits Largely Increased

Deposits registered a growth of $51,000 000 during the year to $668,512. A decrease in interest-bearing deposits is noted. It is understood that this does not indicate a reduction in savings deposits in Canada, which have actually increased substantially, but is accounted for by the discontinuance of the payment of interest on a large deposit which one bank's deposits outside of Canada. It is no doubt a reflection of growth as proved business throughout the country that the Royal Deposits over during the past two years has been no less than 17%.

Commercial Loans Up

Commercial loans show a moderate increase of $2,038,863, which is not encouraging when it is taken into consideration that general experience has as yet indicated that demand for new loans has more than offset liquidation of short paper recorded in the depression. Call Loans in Canada has increased by $2,598,023 and Call Loans abroad are down $10,680,196 As is well known, the yield on call loans in London and New York is about at the vanishing point.

Profit and Loss Account

Profits for the year amounting to $4,340,522 show a slight decrease but were sufficient to provide for $2,800,000 in dividends. $200,000 for transfer to Bank Premises account and $900 to be applied to the Officers' Pension Fund and $1,067,772 for Dominion and Provincial Government taxes, leaving a surplus of $102,750 to be added to Profit and Loss Account, which now stands at $1,608,554.

The Annual General Meeting of the Shareholders will be held at the Head Office of the bank in Montreal on Thursday, January 9th at 11 a.m., when the report for the year ended 30-11-25. Pessants Order Gas Masks

Arabs Near Jerusalem Not Taking Any Chances On War

Eighty Arab peasants from two villages outside Jerusalem have placed orders for British gas-masks with a local agent. Each mask will cost $30

The example was started by a peasant of Beit Safafa a few miles from Jerusalem He bought a mask and told the agent that, if war came, it might serve the turn of his three wives and eight children If Allah decreed there should be no war, the hideous mask would be put on the wall, he said, and no hostile his neighbors to envy and admiration.

How one Jewish circle one mask among your family of eleven?" asked the merchant.

"By the will of Allah," he answered, "it shall be divided so that all have a chance of wearing it."

Golden text: Mine eyes have seen thy salvation. Which thou hast prepared before the face of all peoples. Luke 2:30, 31.

Lesson: Luke 2.

Devotional reading: Isaiah 49:6-13.

Explanations And Comments

The Birth of Jesus and the Story of the Shepherds. Luke 2:1-20. The story of the birth of Jesus as related by Matthew is the striking contrast with that of Luke. Matthew depicts Jesus as a king and at his birth the reigning Herod trembles on his throne, and the magi are there offering regal gifts. Luke represents Jesus as the ideal Man, and his story of the birth is full of human interest. It describes two obscure peasants journeying from their northern home in Nazareth to Bethlehem, and, there excluded from the inn, placing in a manger their newborn Babe, while the first to visit them are humble shepherds from the neighboring plain. Human interests, however, are not merely earthly interests. the story is vocal with heavenly melodies and interwoven with messages of divine meaning. (Dummelow) R. Orthan).

The Expectant Simeon, Luke 2:25, 26. Nothing is known about Simeon save what Luke says here. He was righteous and devout (literally, God-fearing) and was looking for the consolation of Israel, a phrase commonly used to describe for the messianic age. Christ was to come after a time of great distress, therefore he was expected to be a Comforter. The Consoler. It was revealed to Simeon by the Holy Spirit that he should not see the Lord's Christ.

Simeon's Words to Mary, Luke 2: 28-35. No wonder the Babe's father (Joseph Adam) makes off to father (to Jesus) and mother marveled at Simeon's words. Simeon blessed them and said unto Mary, Behold this child is set for the falling and the raising of many in Israel; and for a sign that is spoke against." This Child shall divide Israel into two opposite camps," the One Volume Commentary explains. "Some will reject his claims. To such, he will be a stone of stumbling and a rock of offense (Isa. 8:14). Lac. has an angel of their spiritual ruin. Others will accept his claims. Such he will raise through their faith to a high spiritual life, which may rightly be called a resurrection (rising again) from spiritual death." (Commentary). Compare Jn 3:19-24, 9 39-41.

War Graves

International Joint Committee To Deal With Administrative Matters

Agreement to set up an international joint committee to deal with administrative questions relating to war graves was signed in Berlin on behalf of Canada by Sir Eric Phipps, British ambassador to Germany. Announcement of the agreement was made simultaneously in the United Kingdom, Germany, Canada, Australia, New Zealand, South Africa, India, Newfoundland and France.

At a conference held last October in Berlin, attended by British, Canadian and German representatives, it was unanimously decided to recommend establishment of the above agreement of the governments of the above-named countries. Duties of the commission would be to attend to the care of German war graves in British cemeteries in France, and of British war graves in Germany.

As agreement, like any purpose, suggested at the conference, has now been completed, approved by all governments concerned, and the committee will be appointed at once

Constitution of the new committee will be as follows: Two members of the Anglo-French and other committees which have given the Imperial War Graves commission general cooperation and assistance in their work since the war

Canada's National Game

Hockey Is Now Spreading To Countries All Around The World

Hockey, Canada's chief contribution to the world of sport, is taking hold in sporting circles of countries all around the globe. In former years hockey was confined to areas where Jack Frost was depended upon to provide ice, but with the advance made in refrigeration engineering in recent years, people are rapidly understanding its boundaries irrespective of climate. It is already well established in the United States and Switzerland and last year made an appearance in China and Japan. Plans are now under way to build an artificial ice rink in Johannesburg, South Africa, in connection with the Empire Exhibition to be held in that city from September 15 to 30 and to January 15, 1927. While the rink is only planned for the duration of the exhibition, there is every enthusiast in Johannesburg taking it over and organizing teams from among the fairly large Canadian colony in the Transvaal metropolis. While Canadian players compose a large part of the rosters of teams in Switzerland, China and Japan the game is the form of a cross on every tablet.

Demand and Get "ASPIRIN"

FLEMING'S FOLLY

— BY —

Fleming's face was illumined momentarily as he lighted his cigarette. "I guess you're sakin' for plain truth. Stephen may send Buzz away for awhile if he can. He's not keepin' shootin's especially in town. Sort of anxious to make an example of everyone that does it. I'm in the almighty good law officer and he figures to keep trouble down by actin' kind of harsh like. But I'm sure there ain't about it if I can, but Amos goes his own way Nobody can talk him out of anything. I'm sure thinking that not even Kilgo could swerve the

The girl noted, her slender fingers held worriedly to her lips. "Perhaps," she mourned softly, "it will do Buzz good. Oh, I'm sure it will. He's in a weak Bunn is easily led, and I just have a feeling he has come under the influence of some bad man. I'm sure, someone very strong-minded. It seems a terrible thing to say, and I don't want my brother put in prison." A shudder escaped her lips. "But—well, perhaps punishment, a small amount of it, will make a new man of Buzz."

"That's what might happen, and I sure wish it would. I'll do anything I can for you and Buzz, regardless of Helen. I mean his helpin' with the Triple H."

"Thank you." Then thoughtfully: "I shall be in charge of the ranch, shan't I? I suppose I can do anything necessary to improve it or keep it up."

About to mount his horse, Fleming paused. He squinted inquiringly at the lowering girl standing a few feet away, her face partly visible, partly in shadow. "What do you mean?"

"Why, Buzz and I own nine hundred acres out in the draw, don't we? Unclean, barren land. Right next your seventeen hundred acres. How much do you suppose it would cost to dig irrigation ditches all through it, and build a concrete dam backing up Silver Creek into a sort of lake?"

With a low exclamation he dropped his reins and stepped nearer, to peer startledly down at her. "Do you mean you'd go against the advice of the only man who really knows irrigation around here—Turney? And the advice of your own brother? And your—well, Kilgo?"

Helen tossed her head "I don't know. How much do you think it would cost?"

"Offhand I'd say fifteen thousand dollars."

The girl placed a hand at her bosom. "I have the first thousand right here, Link. If the others don't want fill come in, we could form a partnership, couldn't we? Now don't you think you'd better go home?"

As he rode up to the morrel on his own ranch, Fleming still was immersed in thought of the plucky girl's offer. But he frowned as he reflected that she could not realize the weight of public sentiment against them. Buyboxes, ever eager to wag their tongues in speculation, would hint that the Star Loop owner had "talked Helen into it." Embarrassingly, he unsaddled his buckskin and turned the animal into the corral. With saddle and bridle in his arms he started toward the ranch house. Was, everyone would be dead set against it. There would be plenty that Link had put the proposal before against her will, free prediction of bankruptcy and ruin. . . . He paused suddenly. The saddle fell from his grasp and his hand sought the holstered sixgun at his side.

"Don't get tough, Link—it's me, Roper." A short, thick figure detached itself from the shadow of a low stoop and Kilgo stepped into a pool of faint moonlight, grinning. He extended a little tan hand. "Don't be went on easily. "Didn't mean to scare yuh, Link."

"I see." Surprise at the unexpectedness of the visit was masked in his next words. "Why sure, Roper. Let's get inside and have a light."

He picked up his saddle again and carried it to the stoop. Leading the way into his four-room clapboard ranch house, he struck a match and lighted on a centre table of the living room. "Make yourself at home," he invited his guest.

Kilgo appeared to have something on his mind. He stood fingering his cartridge belt, his eyes on the floor. He would have drawn and stain his boat with vengeful speed. But there was something about the quiet cowpuncher's manner that checked him. "Specially when I'm gittin' at it, I don't care to have you mix in my personal affairs, Fleming."

There was a truculent edge to his tone that the rancher did not miss. He placed his hat on the table and rested a thigh over its corner. Swinging his leg idly, he examined his guest. Kilgo was unarmed, unless a belt-gun was under his sheepskin coat. It was a plain warning, a command that he had just issued, and it rubbed Fleming the wrong way.

"Seems almost like this engagement business is one-sided," he said, quietly. "Now, however, I haven't any intention arguin' the matrimony question. By the way, Helen and I may go into partnership."

He started. "What do yuh mean?"

"Why, when folks go into business together, that's called a partnership. That seventeen hundred acres you let me win in a crooked poker game ought to be back needs water. It's going to be worth a hundred dollars per acre, and maybe more, after it's been irrigated. Helen's going to be in charge of the Triple H now, and she has some advanced ideas than Buzz. We're thinkin' of pooling our resources to put on an irrigation project of our own, seeing you and the others don't believe in good old-fashioned water."

The effect of this announcement was startling. Kilgo's jaw went slack and his eyes rounded in wonder. A hundred dollars per acre! Seeing the barrel-like chest, finally to burst from his lips with rage.

"Damn you!" he roared. "Yuh'll never do it!" Suddenly lifting one pudgy hand, he snatched off his sinister colored sunglasses.

Weapon Is Found

Sheriff Finds Gun Used In Murder Of Mrs. Hall

Sheriff Lee Simpson of Somerset county, Pa., found the gun with which Mrs. Eleanor Mellon Hall was murdered, in the home of Mrs. Hall's brother, Richard Mellon, at Ligonier, Pa., where it had been hidden by Edward H. Hall, husband of the murdered woman, who is charged with the crime.

The gun was found in a bureau drawer in the room occupied by Hall when he visited the Mellon home. Hall is in jail awaiting trial.

The sharp crack of a rifle was followed instantly by tinkling glass. Hall Impulse forever unexplained had made Fleming jerk from his seat on the table edge as Roper grabbed his hat. Perhaps he thought the visitor mean to whip out his six-gun —Link could not tell afterward. But the next moment the mass of ironey hair on his head flicked sharply. The bullet's speed sent a light breeze along his temple and instinctively he ducked. With a low thud the slug buried itself in the far wall.

"Don't move!"

Brittle with stern tensity, Fleming stared down the barrel of a big forty-five. "Don't make another signal, understand? Get over there—against that window. If anybody's going to get shot by your shrunk assassin, it isn't going to be me!"

He was safe from windows, himself. "Assassin? What's he talkin' about? Yuh mean to say—"

"Grabin' your hat was a signal Some gent was to light the lamp in here. He tried to murder me. That's what I'm talking about, Roper!"

Kilgo stood there, round, red face dulled. If it had not been that Link was covering him, watching his every movement, the cowpuncher would have drawn and stain his boat with vengeful speed. But there was something about the rancher's manner that checked him. Helen Hamilton when she came. I mean, it kind of looks like he'd come to get me, and spilt it, and after an uncertain twitching of his thick shoulders the man sighed and forced resentment from his face.

"I—uh—goldarn it, Link, you're all wrong; Say, I wouldn't fix up to murder nobody, man! What the devil—" He waved his hands as if unable to express himself in words. "Chance to get after the guy. I'll prove to yuh I didn't—"

The door burst open and Waco Byrne, one of the Star Loop hands stepped in gripping a stagun in each brawny fist. "Heard shootin', Boss, and I run. What happened?"

"Someone tried to get me, but he missed Waco, you take two or three of the boys and go after him. He shot from the south window. He must have hid behind the tool shed. That gent can't be far off yet. Grab him!"

Waco turned and with the puncher hurried to comply. Fleming turned his visitor with sharp suspicion. Finally, satisfied it was not a ruse, he holstered his gun. "Thanks for your offer to hunt that dry gulcher down, Kilgo. I guess my men can do the job all right. I'm in a hurry to go?"

As if mustering his courage, Roper shuffled forward. "Aw, look here, Link, I'm—I'm sorry as a hell! I'll help you run down the—the—"

We say this because, before the discovery of "Aspirin," most so-called "pain" remedies were advised against by physicians as being bad for the stomach; or, often, for the heart. The discovery of "Aspirin" largely changed medical practice.

Countless thousands of people who have taken "Aspirin" say it is sure and without ill effect, have proved that the medical findings about its safety were correct.

Remember this: "Aspirin" is sold under the proper name and guaranteed for the relief of headache and all common pains . . . a real boon for the average person to take regularly.

"Aspirin" Tablets are made in Canada. "Aspirin" is the registered trade-mark of the Bayer Company, Limited. Always look for the Bayer in the form of a cross on every tablet.

4 to 5 TIMES MORE QUICKLY DIGESTED THAN COD LIVER OIL

Science has discovered why Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil is so much more beneficial than plain Cod Liver Oil. Ag'ricol oils are hard to digest; they must be emulsified in the stomach. We emulsify the oil in our laboratories before it is ready for almost immediate digestion and assimilation.

Believed To Have Been Written By Robert Bruce In 1372

The last 600 years have seen many momentous events in the history of the world and the average person to-day would feel a sense of awe were he to receive a letter that he knew had been written by a man who lived in the 13th century; yet the believe written words of Robert Bruce pretender to the throne of Scotland in 1286, are to be seen on a sheet of paper pasted to the back of a shingle bearing an armorial crest, owned by Alexander D. Fullarton of Williamsburg, New Brunswick

The orange, which is the armorial insignia of the clan of Fullarton, and was presented, so far as can be made out from the faded writing, for services rendered by the clan in battle was presented in the year 1372 A.D. by Robert Bruce, at that time recognized in Scotland as the head of the clan are on the front of the shingle to which they were apparently affixed when presented, and are still very clear.

The written account which accompanies the shingle and is much faded, it being hard for a reader to-day to follow the letters, is on the reverse part of the message is nearly lost. It is obvious however, from that which is left that Robert Bruce is pardoning one "reginald fullarton" (the writing are not capitalized, following the custom of the times for his deeds in battle, though it is very clear whether the fighting was done in a war or in one of the clan feuds which were frequent at that time. The date 1272 is clear, and the writing, supposed to be that of the famed Bruce, appears to be legible in every detail. He tried to murder me. That's what I'm talking about, Roper!"

A ring of silver, lined with gold, was also presented at the time of the presentation of the shingle. It is also in the possession of Mr. Fullarton, and is about four inches high and perfectly plain save for the arms of the family which are engraved on front.

National Scholarships

Federal Government To Be Asked To Endow Research

A measure to introduce national scholarships for brilliant students who otherwise would be unable to attend university because of lack of funds will be introduced in the House of Commons during the session, F. Corrigan of Ottawa told the Ontario Secondary School Teachers' Federation

Mr Corrigan asked for the support of the federation, explaining that more than 80 per cent. of Canadian university students were in debt when the one per cent. of scholars who attend university. Of the 90 per cent left behind, he said, at least 50 per cent could be helped with national scholarships.

"It is a matter of extreme urgency for the national well-being that we mobilize the brains of the country and turn them to the service of the nation," Mr Corrigan asserted.

He proposed that these national scholarships valued at $1,000 annually with free tuition, awarded by the Dominion government. National scholars would be chosen because of mental and intellectual gifts and character not of environment Mr Corrigan said he'd get it obtained the support of 25 universities for the scheme

Everyone Will Take Chance

Dieticians Say Only Heavy Worker Should Eat Plum Pudding

The glorious, steaming plum pudding, tall-ender of every traditional Christmas dinner, stands convicted as nutritionally incorrect and hereby for anyone whose task is lighter than ditch-digging in this work-a-day world

The judges were Mrs. E. B. Rutter, professor of Household Science at the University of Saskatchewan, Saskatoon, for many years, and Dr. J. B. Brown, specialist in children's ailments.

It was Dr. Brown who made the reference to ditch-digging. After condemning plum pudding as "really a terrible pudding," a plateful of which was a meal in itself, the specialist admitted the meal should depend upon t" s size of the eater.

"For a laboring man, digging ditches, there would be no harm in a meal of turkey, plum pudding, nuts and candy. The man who can afford these things is the man who should not eat them, and those who cannot afford them are those who should," he said.

Professor Rutter declared the plum pudding far too heavy a dish to follow the turkey. When nuts, raisins and candy were added, he said, the meal became "really terrible" from a scientific nutritional point of view."

"Of course one cannot apply the dictates of nutrition to a traditional menu," Mrs. Rutter admitted. "Perhaps it is all right once a year, but it would be far better to follow the roast turkey with a light frozen dessert and have the pudding the next day with a little cold turkey."

"Of course there are plum puddings and plum puddings," Mrs Rutter went on. The tenderer ones may replace some of the suet by grated raw carrots and potatoes. The pudding need not be so highly spiced. Such puddings are far better for children

Animals Going Modern

Hawks Derived On Motorists To Kill Gophers Free Rides

Hawks are not bothering to hull gophers any more. The automobile is doing it for them, Dan McCowan, famed naturalist, said

Years ago they used to float lazily over the prairies, waiting to pounce on an unwary gopher. Now they perch on roadside telephone poles, waiting for speeding automobiles to play the part of executioner.

It was just an example, Dan said, of how animals are going modern. Similarly he said, coyotes and foxes are to be found on fence posts, waiting also, for the automobiles that daily slaughter several. Instead of gophers on the Banff-Calgary highway.

Dan couldn't say why gophers never learned They continued to play around the highways and apparently unable to profit by the fate of an automobile, were slaughtered in hundreds.

Similar evidence was to be found along the railways, he said. There on a found kernels of grain dropped by hurtling grain trains. Other animals followed them among them the squirrel

The squirrel found, however, there were no trees nearby that offered protection from hawks However they soon overcame that They contained their foraging to the vicinity of telephone poles When a hawk appeared the squirrel scampered up the pole A score of wise persons that a lady there she didn't know how to spell it! asked me how and I

Little Helps For This Week

Remember not the sins of my youth, nor my transgressions. According to thy mercy remember thou me, for Thy goodness' sake O Lord Psalm 25 7.

When on my aching burdened heart
My sins lie heavily;
My pardon speak, new peace impart,
In love remember me
We need to know that our sins are forgiven, and the only way we can know this is to feel that we have the peace of God, that we are so able to trust in the divine compassion and infinite tenderness of our Father we are able to go to Him whenever we commit sin and say at once to Him 'Father I have sinned, forgive me.' To know we are forgiven is the only necessary to look at our Father's love until it sinks into our heart, to open our soul to Him till He shall pour His love into it, to wait on Him until we find peace, till the weight of responsibility ceases to be an oppressive burden to us, till we can feel that our sins, great as they are, cannot keep us away from our Heavenly Father.

Two Of The Sun And Two Of The Moon In 1926

Four eclipses, two of the sun and two of the moon, are due in 1926, but only one of them will be visible in Canada, that only in the northwestern section of the Dominion

Early in January there was a total eclipse of the moon, the beginning of it was visible in northwestern Canada. On June 18 there will be a total eclipse of the sun; July 4 a partial eclipse of the moon; Dec. 14 an eclipse of the sun, none of the three being visible to Canadians

Disease and Death

Technologists, engineers and scientists have said more than once recently that research work in the laboratories and workshops of the world have brought such a rich harvest in discoveries that the fruits of their work have far outstripped man's ability to turn them to immediate use in enrichment of the human life. That it is said is largely due to the lack of sufficient purchasing power.

This general premise is undoubtedly correct. Discoveries in the scientific world during the past decade have been overwhelming in number, some of which are of interest only to a few, but many of the least interesting and important have a direct bearing on the welfare of humanity.

Not only is there no apparent terminal, but the more the scientist and research worker reveals the more is he amazed that he knows very little, that so far the surface has been barely scratched, and that the realms yet to discover and conquer are almost illimitable. The finite knowledge of the present points far into the infinite with inexhaustible treasures yet to find.

Why, it is true in all fields of scientific discovery in no sphere is it more true than in the realm of medical science. Medical science and surgical skill have made tremendous and important advances in the past few years, but while much has been learned while many valuable methods of preventing suffering and eradicating disease have been discovered and pressed into service by the assistance of suffering and prolonged loss of life, yet how almost enough has been achieved? How much more will be learned, and to what a greater degree will it be accomplished in the next few years, no human mind can tell, but one thing is being recorded with ever increasing emphasis is not neglected: it is not progressing.

Until quite recently scientists in the medical and surgical fields have been chiefly concerned with perfecting technique in applying known methods of prevention and cure of disease with preventive and curative devices and practices, with the search for cures for the most prevalent killers such as heart disease and cancer and with the development of palliatives for pain.

In all these fields remarkable work has been done as is easily demonstrable in the case of tuberculosis. The progress that has been made in dealing with the disease and other causes of loss of life in maternity and in the protection of children in the first few months of life even since the Great War has resulted in increasing the span of life expectancy, though to date, this is principally due to the savings that have been made in infant mortality.

However, it appears that we may be upon the threshold of further discoveries that will benefit mankind in the later years of life's span. A vigorous drive is being made by science against the diseases which are taking heavy toll in middle life and old age, and more especially is the hunt for an antidote to that great and painful scourge cancer, in full cry.

While still in the experimental stages, recent has brought hope that a specific cure for cancer has been uncovered. It has been demonstrated that at least this new remedy has robbed the disease of some of its attendant pain and there are hopes that it may turn out to be the long-sought cure. It should be pointed out, however, lest disappointment ensue, that the efficacy of sound as a definite cure remains to be proven.

Experimentation with cancer in man is confined to a two year period and eminent practitioners declare that another three years must elapse before its success or failure can be pronounced.

While the object of all this work is to prolong the span of human life, medical science is not satisfied with such great achievements as research has already yielded, but is looking further ahead, even to the extent of endeavoring to lift the veil which surrounds the mysteries of life and death.

Experiments along this line have yielded extraordinary results. Dr Alexis Carrel of the Rockefeller Institute, for example, has kept a chicken's heart alive apart from the body for 24 years and this scientist recently predicted the possibility of mampering human life and starting it again for several centuries later. Such experiments open up a vista of fascinating possibilities but this same authority, while confident of great advances in the future expresses his firm conviction that "there is no hope of ever conquering senescence and death," though admitting the possibility of supressing disease entirely in the future.

In other words man may conquer disease, but he will not be given dominion over natural decay and eventual death in the opinion of this noted savant.

Trans-Atlantic Air Service

1936 To Inaugurate Biggest Advance In History Of Flying

The Santa Maria will take wing this year,

Trans-Atlantic transport service by airplane will be in the making in the next summer flight of an air-liner across the ocean over which Christopher Columbus sailed his flagship almost 450 years ago.

With the projected voyage will come fresh international issues for America as the world's air routes become trade routes

This year, say air transport companies, will be the biggest in the history of flying since the Wright brothers lifted their kite-like, sparker-coil contraption off the sands at Kitty Hawk in 1901

A 23-ton flying boat of Pan-American airways will cast off over the Atlantic under the impetus of four roaring motors to plot the course of the future trans-Atlantic air voyager

American airplanes in the transport field already are prepared in lighter airmail and passenger service.

The routes are not the problem. It is competition. United States aviation on the Atlantic meets the challenge of those nations which will be the first to reap the harvest when the service gets underway.

The United States does not "subsidize" its air lines, but rather its commercial air fleets. In place of that American industry and business has been afforded a "commercial nationalization."

The one trans-ocean air transport service of the United States (Pan-American Airways) is financed jointly by wide-spread American industrial and business interests.

The huge boats were built behind locked doors. The secrets of their construction have not been divulged. Blueprints which were turned town on trading of patents with other nations' air lines, trans-Atlantic fleets will be of necessity the result of co-operative effort. Otherwise peaks of entry would be barred.

Pan-American Airways will start about mid-year, inauguration of airmail service is likely before 1936 opens, and carrying of passengers soon will follow aviation leaders predict

Was Remarkable Figure

Venezuela's Late President Will Be Hard To Replace

The most powerful Dictator in South America is dead. With the passing of Juan Vicente Gomez, President of Venezuela, there vanishes from the scene one of the most remarkable figures of contemporary politics. Born a rattleman, he joined Cipriano Castro in a revolution which was successful and which put the latter-bowed little Castro in the presidential chair. Gomez was content to remain his chief aide, but he commanded the army and he was in reality the power behind the throne. When Castro went away on leave of absence in 1908 he signed his own dismissal for Gomez warned him not to return, pretending to be much concerned about rumors of plots against Castro's life!

Ever since then Gomez has ruled Venezuela with an iron hand, smashing ruthlessly any attempt against his power, giving the country a settled policy, building up its finances—Venezuela is the only nation in the world without a nickel of external debt and making things attractive for foreign capital which has British investments in the country increased from $45,500,000 to $131,869,000 in the four-year period prior to dissension, and in 1933 the value of her exports was five times that of her imports.

The masterful dictator distilled crowds, and seldom went to the capital of Caracas, preferring to live a lonely and secluded life on his country estate. Many Venezuelans have never seen him. He kept his secret service to the ground 24 hours a day and he knew everything that was going on. He gave his country a long period of peace, but of course he made hosts of enemies, for his methods were simple but drastic. Those he could catch he shot, those who could escape from the country remained in exile. But in losing Gomez Venezuela has lost a man who will be extremely difficult to replace.—Montreal Star.

Canned Blood

Weird Discovery Listed As Major Accomplishment In 1935

The wonderful discovery of the year "canned" blood—was listed by professional authority as medicine's foremost accomplishment of 1935.

A process of taking blood from the bodies of the dead and preserving it to save other lives through transfusions was placed first in a "year book of items" compiled for the Associated Press by Dr. Morris Fishbein, editor of the Journal of the American Medical Association.

Business doctors and chemists observed first rank for developing the "canning" method and using it successfully in more than 1,000 cases, the editor said.

Snow Traps Golden Eagle

Unable To Rise From Ground After Diving For Rabbit

A giant golden eagle was killed near Priddis, Alta., when it was unable to take off in soft snow after swooping on a rabbit. Clegg Thompson, of Calgary, shot the bird as it thrashed around in the drifts. The eagle's wing spread of seven feet, two inches.

In preparation for a take-off, the eagle must spread the air sufficiently for the wings to clear the ground. The deep, soft snow prevented the preliminary jump and each succeeding effort found the bird helpless in the bird's predicament.

Honey Export Heavy

Saskatchewan Shipped Seven Tons To Britain Last Year

Production of honey in Saskatchewan during the past year showed an increase of 39 per cent. over 1934 according to figures from the department of agriculture The total yield was 1,954,000 pounds. The large increase was due to the increased number of bee keepers and to the increased number of bee colonies. Export of Saskatchewan honey to Great Britain this year amounted to seven tons.

In imitation of the American magazine Esquire, an English publisher has launched one called Men Only. As far as picking punk names is concerned, it looks like a dead heat.

Workmen Excavating For Olympic Village Find Many Relics

Ancient settlement believed to date back 4,000 years, have been brought to light by workmen excavating ground at Dodenhoff, Germany, for the Olympic village destined to house the athletes during the forthcoming international games.

Five tombs, a number of crude pickaxes, and a quantity of earthenware were found. The relics were believed to have been left by a tribe, which during the westward migration of Indo-German peoples, settled for a brief period in the spot.

ITALY IS CALLING MORE VOLUNTEERS FOR AIR SERVICE

Rome.—Italy called for 3,700 volunteers for her air service in what Fascists said was the greatest aerial enlistment in history."

The air ministry asked for 1,500 pilots and 4,300 base experts.

Italy has officially expressed regret, for the bombardment of a Swedish Red Cross unit, but warned Sweden against "tendentious versions of the incident," it was disclosed.

New and undetected "secret-ratic weapons" may be pressed into Italy's fight against Ethiopia, a reliable source said.

Italy has a vast quantity of these weapons, which thus far she has been reluctant to use, the informant said. But Ethiopian war practices may make it necessary to bring the new instrument into play, he added.

A violent Fascist campaign from the air, some observers predicted, might come as "punishment" for the alleged inhumane acts of Ethiopian warriors of Italian flyers.
